COPPER MINERS ARE EAGER TO GO TO WORK

Apply for Old Jobs in Advance of Vote on Strike.

Calumet, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Copper mine strikers are overwhelming the offices of all the operating mining companies with applications for their old jobs in the mines, because of the announcement yesterday that they will be given an opportunity Sunday to vote on the question of calling off the strike. More than 200 applications were received this morning by the Ahmeek Mining company.

In a fight at Ahmeek last night between a striker and an officer of the Ahmeek local of the Western Federation of Miners, the latter was stabbed, but his wound is not serious. The fight resulted from abuse heaped by the strikers on the local officers for not permitting them to vote weeks ago on the proposition to end the strike. The men feel that now many of them will be unable to get their jobs back. Scores are preparing to leave the district as soon as strike dividends cease.

CLEARING HOUSE FOR PURE FOOD DATA

Federal and State Governments Will Work Together, Is Plan.

Washington, April 11.—A clearing house for pure food and drug information collected by the Federal and state governments has been established in the deparement of agriculture. Announcement was made today of the temporary appointment of Dr. J. S. Abbott, formerly of the Texas food commission, as head of the new department. As soon as Dr. Abbott takes a civil service examination his appointment is expected to be made permanent.

The new work has been taken up in fulfillment of a suggestion made last November by Dr. Alsburg, chief of the bureau of chemistry, at a conference here of state food and drug commissioners, during which it was brought out that there was much duplication work by the states and the Federal government in taking tests and other drug and food work. Lack of conformity in enforcement of pure food and drug laws has caused the Federal government much trouble.

Dr. Abbott is a graudate of Chicago university, was formerly connected with the Southwestern university medical college, and was a chemist on the referee board of the Texas Cottonseed Crushers' association. He already has taken up his work here.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

West End Merchants and Residents:

The firm of Cameron-Johnson-Horgan is spending thousands of dollars to bring trade from all parts of the East end, Woodland, Lakeside, Superior, the range towns and every section surrounding Duluth, and it's up to you, Mr. Merchant, to get your share of the money these people have to spend. Make your windows attractive, offer bargains in merchandise, do a little more advertising yourselves. Remember, we have spent $10,000 to put the West end on the map, and we ask the assistance of every merchant, the West End Commercial club and every citizen who is vitally interested in the future progress of this portion of the city.

Right here we would suggest a movement to clean the streets thoroughly and improve the appearance all along the line from Fifth avenue west on past the Point of Rocks, clear through to the end of the business section at least. There are some unsightly scenes along the car line which can be improved with a little effort on the part of individuals who own or rent the property.

We have a big campaign of advertising on at this time, and everybody, especially the merchants, in the western part of the city should be benefited. Come, now, spruce up and show us a live business district and a clean thoroughfare.

FREE USE OF CONCRETE

How more than 150,000 barrels of cement was used in the construction of buildings at the Duluth steel plant is related in an article which appears in the current week's issue of the Iron Trade Review. The article deals with the extensive use of concrete in the construction of the plant. The article is illustrated and in part says:

"Considerable interest has been drawn to the extensive use of concrete in the construction of the plant of the Minnesota Steel company at Duluth, Minn., now rapidly nearing completion. Although iron and steel have been used generously throughout this plant, concrete has found a place not only for blast furnace, open-hearth furnace and building foundations, but for floors, walls and partitions, chimneys, sewers and numerous other places where brick, tile and wood might have been used.

"The blast furnace foundation shows to seme degree the manner and extent to which concrete has been placed. The steel columns and frame, which support the furnace walls, rest on a four-foot layer of brick, which is in turn supported by a monolithic concrete slab twelve feet thick. On either side of the coitractor's temporary shanty, are the concrete-walled granulating pits for molten slag. These will be roofed and spanned by a crane runway to permit loading cars located at ground level on tracks between pits. Immediately above the arches will be the cinder runway, supported partly on a cantilever shelf.

Open-Hearth Foundations.

"The adaptability of concrete is especially well illustrated in the construction of foundations and walls of the open-hearth furnaces, and foundation walls to support the regenerators. The arches form the foundations of the furnaces, and between these and the piers are the foundation walls to carry the furnace regenerator chamber. These rest on a concrete mat two feet thick and extending from the piers to the arches. The large quantity of concrete involved in pouring this mat was mixed in a central mixing plant and shipped to the work in six-yard side-dump cars.

"The buildings are of steel frame construction, with curtain walls of two-piece concrete blocks. These blocks were designed by the Minnesota Steel company, and are so constructed that a continuous air passage is left in the wall.

"A central mixing plant has been used in connection with all the concrete work. This plant is provided by the Universal Portland Cement company and other subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation. The main building of this plant, which is 60x140 feet, is equipped with six hydraulic machines."

The dividend is at the rate of 3.875 per cent. Thirty-five per cent of the amount of the claims had previously been paid. WIND STARTS TRUCK; CHILDREN INJURED.

Chicago, April 11.—Two children were probably fatally injured here when they were struck by an automobile truck which was driven down a west side street by the wind yesterday. The machine had been left standing unattended in front of a warehouse. A forty-six mile gale, which had been blowing off the lake nearly all day, started the truck in motion. It gathered speed, struck and snapped off a mail box pillar and then knocked down the two children, Joseph and Michael Kotner, 3 and 5 years old. Joseph's skull was fractured and Michael suffered internal injuries. The motor truck brought up against a brick wall.

Signs were blown down, windows broken and traffic impeded by the high wind.

CITY COUNCIL WILL BE BUSY

Hearing on Wheelage Tax Will Be Held Monday Morning.

Subway Matter and Damage Claim Will Also Be Discussed.

The city council is scheduled for a busy Monday.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the commissioners will meet with a delegation of wholesalers to consider revising the wheelage tax schedule. A number of them have complained that unjust inequalities exist, particularly to the motor trucks, which they claim are charged too much.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a hearing will be held upon the Smithville subway. The city officials favor a route under the tracks at Gogebic street, believing that it would be more feasible and less expensive to the city. The West Duluth Commercial club recently passed a resolution stating that the crossing should be built where the present road intersects the Northern Pacific right-of-way.

Will Discuss Subway.

"We wish all members of the West Duluth Commercial club who are interested to attend the meeting," said Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, this morning. "We also extend a cordial invitation to any others who are interested to be present. Our desire is to thrash the situation out thoroughly in order that the best interests of the city may be served.

At 3 o'clock the council is scheduled for its regular weekly meeting. The application of M. R. Timlin for a renewal of his saloon license at 306 Central avenue will be considered. Commissioner Hicken, head of the safety division, has announced that he will recommend that the renewal be denied. Timlin has engaged Attorney A. E. McManus to appear for him.

Therese Mills has filed notice of a claim for $2,000 damages for injuries sustained March 10 by falling on the sidewalk between Third and Fourth streets on Fifteenth avenue east. She alleges that the city was negligent in that the walk was covered with ice. She asserts that her leg was broken and that she was otherwise hurt. This will be presented and referred to the legal department.

Want Alley Condemned.

A petition will be filed asking that an alley be condemned between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues east in block 37, Endion division. The city attorney recently rendered an opinion that an alley could not be opened halfway through the block and a petition asking for the alley through the whole block was secured. This will be opposed by several of the property owners in the block who have not signed the petition.

Joseph Koziarek has filed an application asking that his saloon license be transferred from 110 First avenue west to 419 West Michigan street. The council recently refused to renew A. Matel's license at the latter location.

ENDS LIFE BY HANGING

Body of Watchman of Steamer Gratwick Is Discovered.

Carl Theil, 30 years old, shipkeeper on the steamer W. H. Gratwick, committed suicide probably Thursday by hanging himself with a rope tied to one of the beams in the dunnage room of the boat. His body was found at noon today by Fred Clemens, steward on the ship.

Theil has been employed all winter as caretaker of the boat, which has been tied up at the Consolidated elevator dock. During the summer he was employed as wheelsman on the boat.

The motive for the suicide is not known. He was last seen by any of his friends on Wednesday and then appeared to be in the best of spirits.

Theil is supposed to have two sisters, one of whom resides at Ashtabula and the other at Conneaut, Ohio. The coroner was notified of the finding of the body.

HOLSTEIN COWS VS. GUERNSEYS

New Gentlemen Farmers "Insurgents" on the Cattle Question.

There is promise of some very keen rivalry in the raising of registered and graded stock among the "gentlemen farmers" or agriculturists, as J. H. Hearding distinguishes them from farmers.

Heretofore the Guernsey breed of cattle has had practically a monopoly of attention in this part of the country, but now the Holstein breed is to have an inning. The only exception has been that John Uno Sebenius has had mostly Jersey stock on his farm together with a few Holsteins, but others who have been raising thoroughbred cattle have been turning their attention entirely to Guernseys.

Now come Henry Bridgeman and Capt. James Sullivan. Mr. Bridgeman has 160 acres of land near the city and Capt. Sullivan has a farm at Wrenshall. The former will put in fifty head of registered and graded Holsteins on his farm and Capt. Sullivan will start with ten head. It is hoped by these agriculturists to prove that the Holstein is just as good a breed for this part of the country as can be obtained.

ASK CO-OPERATION TO CHECK DISEASE

Contagious conditions in Duluth could be bettered if all citizens co-operated more fully with the health department, according to the monthly bulletin.

It is said that in numerous instances families endeavor to conceal contagious diseases, which lessens the chances of the patients for an early recovery and needlessly exposes others.

Th bulletin asserts that contagious disease conditions here are generally better than in many other parts of the country. Commenting upon the subject, the bulletin continues:

"As favorable as the local situation is it could be better if all our citizens co-operated with the health department as they should. Many apparently wilfully, and a few entirely ignorantly, have concealed cases. Some families went so far as to dismiss the physician who first suggested that the child seemed to be 'coming down' with scarlet fever. Then they would try to do without a physician or would endeavor to persuade the next doctor summoned to call it something else. In all these instances the first doctor on the case promptly notified the health department of his suspicions and a department physician went to investigate."

STORK OUTSTRIPS THE GRIM REAPER

The stork easily outstripped the grim reaper in Duluth last month. The health department records show that 188 births were reported, as against 95 deaths. Twenty of the latter were under 1 year of age. The child welfare nurse assisted at the arrival of six embryo citizens and made 184 calls during March.

DECLARES CLAIM IS OUTLAWED

Is a cause of action which accrued to Gust Larson, aged 24, five years ago when he was injured in a roundhouse at Iron Mountain, Mich., now barred by the Federal statute of limitations which operates in cases brought within the Federal employer's liability act?

This question has been submitted to Judge W. A. Cant of the district court. The point was raised this morning when arguments were heard on a demurrer interposed by Thomas S. Wood, attorney for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, to the complaint filed against the corporation by Andrew Nelson, attorney for Larson.

Attorney Wood contended that under the Federal law, Larson, who was employed in interstate commerce should have brought action against the company within two years after it had happened, otherwise it was barred.

Larson is suing for $12,200 damages, in September 1909 while descending from an engine cab he injured his right knee and foot. He blames the injury to the fact that the engine on which he was working was not equipped with the usual hand hold. He was working at night and did not see his danger. Larson was employed as an engine hostler.

Adam Stenz, a prominent business man, who was watching the fire, fell from his bicycle and broke his neck, dying instantly.

IRRIGATION WORKERS DISCUSS CAREY ACT

Committee Considers Proposal By the Federal Government.

Denver, Colo., April 11.—The irrigation conference was delayed in convening today awaiting the outcome of the deliberations of the committee appointed to submit recommendations relative to the Carey act projects.

Assistant Secretary A. A. Jones of the interior department last night offered to the conference the proposal of the department of the interior for financing Carey act projects. It provides for government loans to settlers at low interest bonds, secured by liens on the irrigated land and with the interest guaranteed by the reclamation fund, now amounting to $100,000,000.

Mr. Jones told the delegates that a proposal for patenting the land inside Carey act projects to the state was hopeless, and that to secure a direct appropriation from congress was equally hopeless.

After some discussion on Mr. Jones' suggestion, a proposition presented by the Carey act committee was referred back to the committee for further consideration.

WAR VETERAN LOST.

The police have been asked to aid in a search which is being made for P. L. Morse, 70 years old, a retired Civil war veteran, who left his home at Aitkin, Minn., for this city last Tuesday.

Nothing has been heard of him since, and as he is said to have had a considerable sum of money on his person, his relatives fear that he has met with foul play. They state that he came here to visit the United States land office relative to a homestead, but inquiry there developed that he had not gone to that office.

Morse is described at being six feet tall, with dark eyes, dark complexion and white hair. He was dressed in a blue suit with a uniform vest with brass buttons, a soft shirt and a brown overcoat. He had a saber scar on his right leg and right little finger.

BRINGS SUIT FOR INSURANCE

Mrs. McAlpine Begins Three Actions for Total of $89,000.

Mystery of Lumberman's Death Is Cause of Legal Battle.

Mrs. Sarah McAlpine, widow of the late John McAlpine, whose death by shooting several months ago caused a profound sensation in this part of the state, today filed suit in district court against three accident insurance companies to recover amounts aggregating $89,000.

The Fidelity & Casualty company of New York is defendant in an action to recover on a $50,000 policy; the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of Los Angeles, Cal., is being sued for $15,000, and the London Guaranty & Accident company, Ltd., is asked to pay $24,000.

The complaints in the various actions were served on State Insurance Commissioner J. O. A. Preus on Tuesday morning last and were filed today with the clerk of the district court.

It will be remembered that Mr. McAlpine, who was a wealthy lumberman, was shot at an early hour on the morning of Aug. 15 last in the basement of his East end home. Whether he was shot by burglars, as many are of the opinion, or committed suicide, or accidentally shot himself, is a mystery which has not yet been unraveled. A grand jury which investigated his death reported that it was of the opinion that he was murdered by unknown persons.

The complaints on file in the insurance company cases state that Mr. McAlpine came to his death "as a direct result of a bodily injury through external violent or accidental means."

Mrs. McAlpine Ill.

Attorney A E. McManus, who represents Mrs. McAlpine in the actions, when asked about the suits today said: "Mrs. McAlpine has been in very poor health for the last three months, during which time she has been in no condition to properly attend to her business affairs, and the commencement and adjudication of these actions will be a complete answer to the recent misleading, defamatory and self-serving stories, which have been circulated in many channels and which, it is believed, have had their origin with those friendly to the insurance companies. These stories have been diligently circulated in Duluth as well as elsewhere for the very evident purpose of creating if possible, public sentiment in favor of those companies to the end that they may avoid payment of the claims."

The New York Life Insurance company, through its agent, John Cogan, paid its policy on the life of John P. Alpine last December. The policy was for $50,000. The total insurance on Mr. McAlpine's life amounted to $185,000.

ARRIVES IN DULUTH LOOKING FOR BRIDE

Manager Abrahamson says six women have already entered the contest, and many letters have been received from other women saying that they would reveal their identity Monday night. Each applicant must make a speech from the stage during the contest, so that the audience may decide upon the bride by popular vote. The contest will continue all next week.

INDORSE STRIKE OF PAINTERS' UNION

Socialists and the Trades Assembly Adopt Resolutions.

The strike now being waged by the painters, paperhangers and interior decorators' union was indorsed last evening by the Duluth Trades Assembly and the Socialist party. A set of resolutions, supporting the contentions of the strikers, were unanimously adopted by each organization.

The strikers held two long sessions today, one in the forenoon and the other this afternoon. The strikers were not ready to make a statement when The Herald went to press.

The matter of striking workmen taking up job work beginning Monday was discussed at the afternoon meeting. Some of the strikers were reported to be at work in the downtown district this morning, but the union would make no report further than was made yesterday.

CLEAN HOUSE EVERY DAY

Old Plan of "Annual Cleaning Day" Is Passing, for Which Health Department Is Thankful.

Every day should be housecleaning day, according to the monthly bulletin of the health department.

The officials state that fortunately the time is passing when housewives generally have an annual spring cleaning day or week, but that in too many instances this is still done.

They admit that there is excuse for allowing rubbish to accumulate outdoors during the winter season, and that a general cleaning week may be necessary to remove the season's collection of ashes and other rubbish. Thus far the city has not decided upon any cleaning week, it being still too early, but this will probably be announced within a month or six weeks.

In discussing housecleaning, the bulletin says:

"The season of the year for the 'annual housecleaning' approaches. Fortunately the old custom of turning the whole house inside out once in a whole year for a single cleaning is passing. Nowadays the aim of the careful and exacting housewife is to make every day 'housecleaning day.' Dust, dirt and all other 'insanitary filth is disposed of daily and is not allowed to accumulate until a 'housecleaning day' becomes a necessity.

"The more universal understanding of present day sanitation and more suitable furnishings make the daily house cleaning practicable. Rugs which are readily shaken, few draperies to catch dust, mission furniture which can be wiped easily and many other simplicities which the good taste of the housewife should dictate, contribute not only to cleanliness and sanitation but to solid home comfort. This modern equipment is rapidly displacing, as it should, the old dust-laden carpet, the elaborately finished but cob-webbed hangings and the much designed furniture which to be adequately cleaned would require a camels hair brush. Yet today in our calls about the city we encounter too many samples of insanitary furnishings and to many examples of houses left for an annual clean up day. All of this goes to show that many of our present day citizens have not as yet been educated from the old insanitary customs of their grandparents' day. The gospel of health and sanitation has a hard time entering many homes, but happily this type of home is becoming fewer each day.

"Outside the house, in the yard, the alley and the street there may be a reason for allowing the filth of the winter months to collect. In these places litter may be strewn by some careless individual who is lacking in both self and civic pride and later frozen in or covered with snow. However, within the house there is no excuse for allowing filth to accumulate, although 'clean-up' week is essential and excusable in order to obtain a cleanly, sightly and healthful civic environment 'home cleaning day' should be regarded as away behind the times."

FIRE IN OIL STOREHOUSE

Fire almost totally destroyed the contents of a storage shed at the rear of 218 East Superior street, owned by J. F. Gordon, at noon today. The contents, consisting of oils, varnishes, paints and wall paper, were valued at $1,000, covered by $240 insurance. The highly inflammable material burned fiercely for a time, but did not spread to adjoining buildings. The blaze attracted a large crowd. The cause was unknown. On Tuesday after the department was at the scene another person turned in another alarm for the same place, calling out much additional apparatus.

THE KOZY THEATER REOPENS THIS EVENING

The Kozy theater at 419 East Fourth street which suffered a slight loss by fire several weeks ago will reopen this evening. Manager Carey has had his play house entirely remodeled throughout with new decorations and fixtures. One of the few features which he has installed is the new ventilating system which will afford pure air at all times. One of the new innovations that is bound to become popular among the other show houses in the city is the new rule, that after 8:30 children under 17 years of age will not be given admission. It is the intention of the management by establishing this rule to comply with the city ordinance which states that all children under 17 should not be out after 9:30. By refusing to sell the youngsters tickets after 8:30 it will give them sufficient time to see the show and arrive home in a seasonable time.

CREAMERY FOR MEADOWLANDS

D. & I. R. Land Department Furnishes Fund for Buying Cows.

Short Course Will Begin Next Monday; Ditch Bids Asked.

The farmers of Meadowlands met yesterday and completed plans for the organization of a farmers' co-operative creamery, to be known as the Meadowlands Co-operative creamery. They voted to organize with $2,500 capital, the majority of which will shortly be paid. They have already contracted for the purchase of machinery which was used by the Two Harbors Co-operative creamery before its disorganization. The creamery building will be erected in the near future and machinery installed and will be ready for busines by early fall.

The officers of the organization are as follows: President, A. L. Speece; vice president, Dan Anderson; secretary, Henry Kruger, Sr.; treasurer, Axel Hanson.

The Duluth & Iron Range land department will furnish a revolving fund to the patrons of this creamery to the extent of $5,000 for the purchase of cows. The cows will be furnished to the patrons at cost and the money at 6 per cent, the cows to be paid for out of the creamery checks in monthly installments.

A short time ago an effort was made by a few dissatisfied residents of Meadowlands consolidated school district to change the same to a common school district, the argument being that it would cost less as such. A special election was held April 4, at which the proposed change was defeated by a large majority, the vote being 29 to 43 in favor of the consolidated plan.

Short Course.

Bids on County Ditch No. 2 are at present being solicited and it is hoped to get the work started on this ditch in a very short time. This ditch will drain all of that portion of Meadowlands lying between the St. Louis and Whiteface rivers to the north line of sections 14, 15 and 16, township 53, range 19. This will necessitate the building of about twenty-four miles of dredged ditch, which will bound many sections on all sides. The people at Meadowlands are to be congratulated for their foresight and determination to make this district second to none in the county.

The Meadowlands farmers' short course will begin Monday morning, April 13, and continue until Friday evening, April 17. A very elaborate program has been arranged and some of the best speakers of the Minnesota extension force as well as the local agricultural experts will assist in rendering it. The course covers a wide variety of subjects, mainly along the lines of dairying and poultry raising. The farmers of the locality are taking much interest and the domestic science department of the school is preparing to furnish high-class meals at low cost.

HEARS APPLICATION FOR AN INJUNCTION.

Judge Bert Fesler in district court this afternoon is conducting a hearing on the application of the Yale company of this city for a temporary injunction directed against Harry Silverman which will forbid him from further continuing to engage in a dry cleaning business in this city. The Yale company claims that Silverman, who was recently discharged from its service, violated an agreement made at the time that he entered the company's employ, that he would not, after leaving their service, engage in a similar business for himself until after a period of five years had elapsed. The court is expected to announce its decision on the temporary injunction this afternoon.

MEN WILL NOT LET LAW BE IGNORED

Will Not Waive Rights During Test of Ohio Statute.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11.—The decision of the bituminous coal operators in Ohio at their meeting in Columbus yesterday to test the constitutionality of the anti-screen law in that state, called forth the statement at headquarters of the United Mine Workers today that under no circumstances would the miners agree to waive the operation of the law pending the court proceedings.

William Green, secretary of the mine workers' organization, said that at the state convention of the Ohio miners, which will precede the joint conference, a mine run wage scale, in accordance with the new law, would be drawn up for submission to the operators, and only on this basis would the miners consent to negotiate.

This is the biggest road proposition yet started, and means the permanence of a natural highway similar to the preservation of the Santa Fe trail in the South.

SHORT COURSE FOR ADOLPH FARMERS

Average Attendance at Three-Day Institute Was Nearly Eighty.

K. D. Van Wagenen, county agricultural agent, has returned from Adolph, where he conducted a three-day farmers' institute at the Adolph school this week. The short course as put on by the county agent started Tuesday afternoon and continued through Thursday night.

On Tuesday, the speakers were A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the North Central experimental farm at Grand Rapids, and A. B. Hostetter, district supervisor of the county agricultural agents. M. J. Thompson of the Northeastern Minnesota experimental station and N. E. Chapman of the extension division of the university were the speakers Wednesday. Mr. Chapman organized a boys' and girls' club, the purpose of which was to stimulate interest in potato-growing and poultry raising.

Fred Ward, superintendent of the joint county and city work farm and former county agricultural agent, and W. A. Dickenson, agricultural superintendent of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company gave addresses on Thursday afternoon and evening.

The attendance for the six sessions averaged between seventy-five and eighty persons at each session. The meeting at Adolph is the third of a series of short courses which are being given by the county agent.

PLANT WILL BE ENLARGED

American Carbolite Company Will Make Big Improvements Immediately.

New Building and Equipment Provided—Remodeling Old Parts.

Improvements that will cost between $50,000 and $60,000 and enlarge the capacity of the plant by two-thirds its present capacity are being made at the American Carbolite plant at Central avenue and Redruth street. A new structural steel fire proof building, new transformers, remodeling of the shape and size of the furnaces and numerous other improvements are included in the work.

The new building is being constructed of steel and iron and will have corrugated roof and sides. It will be used for cooling of the product as well the crushing and screening of the manufactured article. The National Iron works has the contract for putting up the steel frame while the Duluth Corrugating & Roofing company has the contract for furnishing the roofing and siding. The latter company has also a contract for furnishing roofing for several other buildings of the plant.

The new transformers will receive the 12,600 voltage from the Great Northern Power company and reduce this to the proper voltage required for heating of the material in the furnaces. The General Electric company has the contract for furnishing these.

One of the largest buildings now used for storage of raw material will be cut in two. This will be done in order that better facilities for handling the material may be had.

The work is expected to be completed early this summer. The enlarged plant will give employment to more men and will also require a large amount of additional material. Much of the raw material is purchased in this city.

MILLER WILL ADDRESS CLUB

Commercial Organization Arranging for Annual Banquet This Month.

The banquet committee of the West Duluth Commercial club will hold a business meeting this evening to push plans for the annual banquet to be held at Dormedy's hall on April 30. It is probable that the full program may be decided on tonight.

Andrew Myles, chairman of the committee said last night that he had assurances that Congressman Miller would be here for the banquet. He announced that the congressman intended giving an address on conditions in the Philippines and that the address would be illustrated with a number of stereoption views. These scenes he said had never been shown in this community and would prove one of the most interesting features of the banquet.

Thomas Olafson, chairman of the ticket committee said that already over 150 reservations of seats had been made and that he expected that before the end of next week the full quota of 300 tickets would be disposed of. The limit placed on tickets to the affair is 300.

WANT PERMISSION TO BRIDGE RIVER

That Is Only Remaining Bar to Fond du Lac Project.

The city commission was requested to adopt resolutions and forward them to congress indorsing the plan to allow the spanning of St. Louis river with a road bridge. The request was made at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club and Mayor Prince promised that the subject would be taken up at the meeting of the commission Monday.

The new bridge will be erected as the connecting link on the state highway between Carlton county and Duluth. The right-of-way for the road has been secured through Chambers' grove at Fond du Lac and the small strip of Wisconsin territory into Carlton county. An appropriation for the construction of the bridge has been made and the only obstacle to its construction is the permit from the war department to cross the river.

The new highway will mean a great deal to the western end of the city as well as to the entire city of Duluth. It will enable farmers living in Carlton county as well as from parts of Wisconsin to enter Duluth through its western suburbs.

An agitation for communication with this district to enable farmers from Wrenshall to get into the city was started about eight years ago. Since then several attempts have been made to have the highway constructed.

PUBLIC BATHS IN WEST DULUTH

Quarters for Women May Be Provided at Bathing Beach.

Public baths for both sexes may be a reality in West Duluth this summer. Arrangements will be made to have them at the foot of Sixty-third avenue, where for the last three years Lieut. C. R. Wilcox has been instrumental in maintaining baths exclusively for boys.

The plans, if carried out, will include the building of larger dressing rooms and a fence to divide off the beach so that one side will be for the boys and the other for girls. Henry Cleveland, superintendent of parks and playgrounds, said last night that such plans were being made and would in all probability be realized this year.

While this bathing place will probably serve only temporary purposes or until such time as the ownership of the condemned strip from Fairmont park to the bay front is decided, it will be made as comfortable as possible. A woman attendant will likely be provided for the girls' section, while an officer will have charge of the boys' side.

TO BEAUTIFY WEST DULUTH

Seven Streets Will Be Uniformly Improved With Trees.

The West Duluth Commercial club took action last evening promoting the planting of trees along the principal thoroughfares in West Duluth. Mayor W. I. Prince and Harry Cleveland, superintendent of city parks, gave talks on the subject and promised hearty co-operation with any movement which would tend to beautify this end of the city.

Arrangements were made and a committee appointed to interview property owners along Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixty-third avenues, and along Sixth street with a view to having a uniform planting of the trees along these streets. Orders for trees or shrubbery can be left with the matron of the comfort station on Ramsey street, and these will be filled, the trees planted and supplied with a guard, at the actual cost to the city. Mr. Cleveland said that the trees, work of planting them and placing the guard would amount to about $1.50.

Soft maple, Carolina poplar, box elders and ash, he said could be supplied at about this cost. Red oak and some other varieties would cost a little more. He advocated one kind of a tree for a street, but said that no one should consider the removal of a present tree in order to plant a different variety to conform with the majority.

Mayor said that in round figures the park property of the city was valued at about $1,600,000. He spoke at length on the value of tree planting to the property as well as the community. He advocated a war on weeds and asked the co-operation of the residents in destroying the weeds before they went to seed.

Fifty-ninth avenue was spoken of as a thoroughfare most adaptable for parking. This street is 100 feet wide, and it was suggested that the center of this be parked, leaving a roadway twenty or twenty-four feet wide on each side. "The park department will take care of the center if you will do the rest" is what Mr. Cleveland announced.

The members of the club appointed to interview the property owners relative to getting them started planting trees systematically are as follows: Central avenue, N. F. Nelson; Fifty-sixth, Dr. I. T. Burnside, A. Hendricksen, W. B. Getchell; Fifty-seventh, H. H. Phelps, W. A. Pond, A. G. Macaulay, L. A. Barnes and Sam Fredericksen; Fifty-eighth avenue, W. B. Getchell, Andrew Myles, David Sang and E. J. Zauft; Fifty-ninth avenue, C. M. Brooks, W. B. Getchell, Frank E. Watson, J. O. Johnson and John Wennberg; Sixty-third avenue, Charles Kaup, John Wennberg and A. H. Donald; Sixth street, P. H. Martin and W. M. Evered.

TO GIVE SCHOOL A GYMNASIUM

Director Colman Wants That Provision for New Duluth.

If C. F. Colman, school board director, can bring it about, the proposed New Duluth school building will be equipped with a gymnasium and its required appurtenances and arranged so that it may be used as a social center clubroom as well. The matter will be brought to the attention of the school board at its regular monthly meeting which will take place on the evening of May 1. The school will contain eight or ten rooms and will be arranged so that it may be expanded into a twelve or sixteen-room school.

Mr. Colman will insist upon the gymnasium idea, being impressed with the success of the E. R. Cobb school at Woodland, where the pupils have shown much improvement because of the gymnastic features. The plan would be to permit the use of the apparatus to only those pupils whose markings attain a certain standard. That puts zest into the study, it is found.

Talks on Gardening.

Talks on gardening will be featured at an open meeting of the social center at the Irving school on Thursday evening. A. H. Crasweller will speak on "Landscape Gardening" and C. E. Roe will talk on "Backyard Gardening."

P. H. Martin, president of the West Duluth Commercial club, will talk on what the club proposes to do in the matter of promoting gardening in this end of the city. It is expected that at a meeting of the club soon prizes will be offered for gardening. Last summer the club donated $25 for this purpose.

Railroads

STILL CONFERRING.

Northern Pacific and Employes' Committee Still Discuss Wage Question.

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—The number of representatives for the Northern Pacific trainmen in their wage conference with the road officials in St. Paul has been reduced from 40 to 10. The reduction was made necessary on account of the great expense.

The conference has been in session in St. Paul since January and still is holding daily meetings.

The outcome of the conference is still a matter of doubt. Rail officials are inclined to think that no settlement will be reached until after the Chicago conference between the Association of Western railways and enginemen closes.

SOUTH SHORE IS VALUING PROPERTY.

Marquette, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The South Shore railroad has entered upon its part of the big task of making a physical valuation of its property. MAY CARRY PLAYERS INSTEAD OF FARMING.

Chicago, April 11.—The rule by which major league teams send to the minors all but twenty-five of their players on or before May 15, may be abandoned, according to dispatches received here today from Columbus, Ohio.

Manager Hank O'Day of the Chicago Nationals is reported to have outlined a new rule by which the majors may each carry under contract as many players as they see fit and thus leave no loophole for the Federals to obtain the services of promising recruits farmed out to the minors.

It is said that a majority of the American and National league officials favor the contemplated change in the rules.

The meeting was attended by a delegation of the order from the Twin Cities. C. D. SeCheverell of Superior was toastmaster. Short talks were given by William Burgess, W. T. White of Minneapolis, W. B. Rittenhouse, A. W. Lindgren and others.

The "Sons of Jove" is the largest order in the country composed entirely of men engaged in the electrical business. The membership now exceeds 15,000.

NINETY DAYS EXCEEDS LIMIT

Municipal Court Has No Power to Try Many Misdemeanor Cases.

Judge Holds Ninety Days May Be More Than Three Months.

Because ninety days and three months are not synonomous terms within the meaning of the law, municipal and justice courts of the state are without jurisdiction to try misdemeanor cases in which the maximum sentence prescribed by law is ninety days, according to a decision handed down in district court by Judge W. A. Cant today. The question was raised two weeks ago in habeas corpus proceedings brought to test the validity of a committment from the West Duluth branch of the municipal court following a conviction under the "short weight" statute.

Judge Cant holds that the "short weight" statute as well as a number of others are not properly within the jurisdiction of the municipal court as the law now reads and that it will be necessary for the next legislature to cure the matter by passing legislation which makes the offenses properly triable in the courts where they are intended to be tried. As Judge Cant interprets the law, such petty offenses must be tried under an indictment in the district court.

The case at bar was one brought on habeas corpus proceedings by Oscar Peterson, a West Duluth grocer, who was arrested on March 16 last and convicted in the West Duluth branch of the municipal court. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $20 or serve ten days in jail. For the purpose of testing the validity of the conviction, under the law, the fine was not paid and Peterson surrendered himself to the custody of the sheriff. The writ of habeas corpus was directed against the sheriff.

In his memorandum attached to an order filed today discharging Peterson from custody on the grounds that the municipal court had no jurisdiction to convict him under a law which provides a ninety-day offense, Judge Cant said in part:

Statute Valid.

"The statute here involved is valid in every way. This cannot be questioned. Prosecutions under the statute may be successfully made and the penalty therein provided may be imposed. The only question is whether such prosecutions may be had and such penalties imposed in the municipal court, or whether the maximum penalty is such that prosecutions must be carried on in the district court.

"We cannot change the legislation; we can only construe the law. Under the constitution the municipal court may impose a maximum penalty of three months in the county jail. The statute in question provides a maximum penalty of ninety days imprisonment. As to all sentences imposed in the month of February, except in leap years, this punishment is beyond the jurisdiction of the municipal court.

"The fact that maximum punishment is but one day in excess of the jurisdiction of the municipal court instead of two or three days, is not important. The jurisdiction cannot, of course, be saved by imposing a sentence which is within the jurisdiction of the court. Upon such reasoning as that the municipal court might try charges involving the gravest crimes.

"If the maximum punishment takes it out of the jurisdiction of a particular court at certain times only, does entire loss of jurisdiction necessarily follow? May a court have jurisdiction of a particular charge during one part of the year and not at another? It is very probable that no such uncertainty or changeableness can be countenanced and that under such circumstances and in such cases the court is without jurisdiction at any time.

"Our statute says a month means a calendar month. Calendar months differ in length. In this state, in both civil and criminal matters, a month may mean 28, 29, 30 or 31 days; and we can hardly say that, with us, the expression ninety days and three months mean the same. It is seldom that a three months' period is equivalent to ninety days. It is never so except in combinations including the month of February. With us, three months may mean 89, 30, 91 or 92 days, and the contract rights and the rights of those who have been imprisoned under criminal charges are governed thereby."

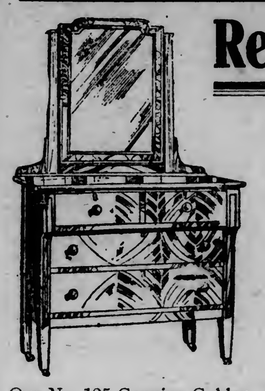
In conclusion the court in its memorandum says: "It is unsatisfactory that the law here in question, and others as well, prescribe the ninety-day penalty. When it is intended to give jurisdiction to the municipal courts, the acts should follow the Constitution and prescribe a maximum imprisonment of three months and not ninety days? So far as I am able to see, relief can be had only through evasion or legislation. The courts should attempt neither. The whole matter and all the statutes involved may, if necessary, be cured by a single short cut act of the legislature."

$11,000 INJURY VERDICT STANDS

Motion for New Trial in Case of George Arveson Denied.

Judge Cant has refused to disturb the $11,000 verdict which was returned Dec. 22, 1913, against the Boston Coal Dock & Wharf company in favor of George Arveson for injuries which left him a life-long cripple. In district court this morning he filed an order denying a motion for a new trial or for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, which had been urged by the attorneys for the company.

While Arveson was employed as a laborer on the Boston dock on May 29, 1912, and engaged at the work of oiling the hoisting apparatus at a time when it was not in action, fellow workers negligently and carelessly started the machinery. The result was that he was crushed between the different parts of the superstructure. The accident resulted in a fracture of his leg in two places, a permanent shortening of his right lower limb and internal injuries which have totally incapacitated him.



The serious character of the injury, the long period of suffering, the age of the plaintiff, the loss of earnings up to the time of the trial and his impaired earning capacity are elements which the court took in consideration in determining not to reduce the verdict or otherwise disturb it.

MANY IDLE MEN IN CITY

Number Lodged By Police Breaks All Previous Records.

Laborers Are Being Shipped Out to Various Work Centers.

Duluth has more idle men at present than for several years past, according to various city officials.

The police station last night sheltered 142 lodgers, which breaks previous records. Thursday night the number was 129 and every day for a week more than 100 men have slept upon the benches in the lodgers' room on the Michigan street floor.

The police state that some of these men have some money and are willing to pay for a "flop," but that the lodging houses and stopping places which they can afford are so packed that it is impossible for them to obtain accommodations. At the Bethel more than 100 men have nightly been sleeping on the floor, and similar conditions exist in other hostelries of the cheaper class.

The men have been flocking to the city by dozens and scores in the last two weeks. Many of them have come from the East, expecting to get jobs with the opening of navigation, or with extraggings of the railroads. Others have come in from the woods.

In the last week a great many of them have been shipped out. Fifty were sent over the Missabe to work for the road, and sixty were shipped to camps on the Alger line. Still others have gone to take other work in various sections of this part of the state.

The police state that the men have been very orderly nd have caused little trouble. They have not been doing any excessive drinking, but this is explained in part by the fact that many of them are without funds or are so low that they refuse to part with any of their hoard for liquor.

It is expected that many of them will get jobs within a short time, either through the opening of navigation, the opening of the mines, the starting of railroad gangs, the beginning of city contracting, local building operations or other lines.

DISORDERS HALT MINERS' MEETING.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 11.—Members of the United Mine Workers who came here yesterday from points in the Pittsburg district to question their officers concerning the wage scale negotiations, at noon today abandoned efforts to hold a meeting. The hotel at which the meeting was held was the scene of much disorder, and it was necessary for the management to summon police reserves to quiet the "insurgent" and "administrative" forces endeavoring to control.

Easter

(John 11: 23-26)

Jesus said unto her, Thy brother shall rise again.

Martha said unto Him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day.

Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die.

A PARTY SPLIT.

Persons more concerned with party prosperity and the prosperity of party rings than with the national welfare recently were very gleeful. When the vote was taken in the house on the canal tolls bill, nineteen per cent of the Democrats voted against the president's program.

"Hurrah!" the Republican partisans exclaimed. "A split at last! Just what we have been praying for!"

But just then somebody pointed out that of the hundred and eighteen Republicans who voted on the bill, twenty-five, or twenty-one per cent, voted with the president and the majority of the Democrats.

Whereupon the talk of a split in the Democratic party promptly ceased. A split participated in by nineteen per cent of one party is small cause for jubilation in a party that at the same time had a split of twenty-one per cent.

The Bull Moosers can talk "split" with better grace, for their split amounted to only a little more than ten per cent.

Moreover, the Democrats who sheered off from the main body went wrong, and the Republican majority and the Bull Moose majority went wrong with them. Not only wrong but, which is worse, at odds with the public sentiment of the nation.

If Mexico doesn't hurry up and decide one way or the other, she will have to give up some of her hold on the public to the baseball season.

PLANT FLOWERS.

Everybody with a back yard has the choice between letting it lie in waste and desolation—or worse if it is made a dumping ground—and turning it into a garden spot.

And nearly everybody in Duluth during the last few years has chosen the latter alternative.

Having a garden is wise and wholesome because it is a pleasure, because it is profitable, because you get from it vegetables far fresher and sweeter than you can buy, because the exercise of working in it is the most healthful thing possible, and because the interest of planting things and nursing them to flower and fruit adds new zest to life.

But don't let it go at vegetables only. Have flowers. Have shrubs. Have berry bushes and fruit trees. Have climbing vines for your porches. Be an intensive horticulturist, and let no fertile foot go idle.

You can't grow everything here, but you can grow a wide variety of beautiful things; and some of them seem to grow more beautifully here than they do almost anywhere.

And, your flower beds determined upon, choose for planting in them the flowers that do well here. Don't try subtropical plants, because you will fail. Find out, from your neighbor with experience or from The Herald's Homecroft Corner (which is yours), what will do well here, and grow those things.

You can have roses; but grow only those that have been proved here. You can have a wide variety of climbing things—but don't try anything until you know it will grow here. You can have any or all of a large list of annuals and perennials. You can grow for cut flowers, or for the decoration of your grounds, or both. Some things you have to start in the house; others you can get results from by planting outdoors in May and June. You can go to as much trouble as you wish, or as little. You can have as wide a variety as you can handle, or you can confine your operations to a few varieties—which is better on the start.

But have a garden, anyway—just vegetables if that is all you want, though a yard without flowers is a sorry looking spot. A complete yard—and that is a part of the home just as much as the space within the four walls of your house—will have shrubbery, trees, vines, annual and perennial flower borders, beds for bulbs, a vegetable garden, a quantity of bush fruits and a few apple trees. The poorest home can have some of these, and it needs no rich man's income to have all of them.

Plant flowers. Have color and fragrance outdoors and in. Make the boundaries of your real home the four sides of your lot—not merely the four walls of your house. You can do it, and you will find pleasure and satisfaction in it.

How many league leaders are you prepared to keep track of this season?

A HISTORIC PICTURE.

The Minneapolis Tribune—which by its loyal and devoted service to the high and holy cause of the Smith-Eberhart organization has won for itself the fame of being the "News Tribune of Minneapolis"—prints a three-column photograph that will, we doubt not, go down in history along with "Washington Crossing the Delaware," "Lincoln Signing the Emancipation Proclamation," and "Roosevelt Dividing the Republican Party."

It is no less a picture than that of "Governor Eberhart Signing Renomination Filing Papers," to quote the caption that appears over it.

In the center of the picture, seated, a pen in his hand and a look of grim determination and expectant regard of the photographer on his face, is Governor Eberhart—just back from a hurried trip to Kalamazoo.

On the right of the picture, peering cannily and speculatively at the camera lens, is Mr. Authier, the governor's private secretary and worthy successor to a long and illustrious line of occupants of that office from Tams Bixby down—or up—to Frank Day.

The atmosphere of the picture is weighty. It is fraught with the somber reflection of the hopes and fears of a great people and of all the mighty and far-reaching and epochal things that hang precariously upon the fortunes of the signer of the augustly significant document to which his pen is about to be applied. It is a solemn and an awe-inspiring spectacle—especially to those gifted with imagination to realize how the fate of Minnesota hangs in the balance of the political exigencies of which this historic episode is a part.

And yet, for all its sublime significance and perfection, the awed observer, pausing in rapt contemplation before this picture that means so much, feels that there is something lacking. "Where," he asks himself anxiously, "where is Ed Smith?" He searches the picture anew, but in vain. And yet, he finds comfort. Where the governor's elbow rests on the table, with the splendiferous colonel near it, the picture is dim and vague. Moreover, only the top of the table is shown—we cannot look under it. The admirer takes hope from his imagination. The unrevealed possibilities back of the governor's elbow and beneath the table are ample. Undoubtedly the governor's suitcase is there, too, even though it is unseen.

It is a great picture of a great event. The state is indebted to the Tribune for publishing it. It should be treasured sacredly, that our children's children may take from it the inspiration of this time of giants in public life.

Some time some foresighted inventor will turn out a rubber hat for Easter wear, and then take it easy the rest of his life.

HOME-OWNING ON THE WANE.

The census bureau has just put out a report on the ownership of homes in this country.

It shows a marked falling off in the number of homes owned by their occupants, and a sharper falling off in the number of homes owned without incumbrance.

More renters and more mortgages, fewer home-owners and fewer homes clear of debt—this is the story of the census. It is not a reassuring story.

And what is true of all homes is also true, in an even more marked degree, of farm homes—which is worse still.

The home-owner is a better citizen than the renter. He has a greater interest in the government. He is a larger stockholder in the public interest. A nation or a community of home-owners will be a safer, steadier, more contented and more cheerful nation or community than one of renters.

These propositions are axiomatic. When the census discloses, then, that home-owning is in a decline, it is a subject that deserves serious study. Why is it so? Does it mean that opportunity for independence is lessening in America? Does it mean that the instinct for home life is waning? In either case, it is a very grave condition that is indicated—one that ought to be changed. To change it, the cause must be found. Why is there less home-owning today than there was ten years ago, and still less than there was twenty years ago?

There can be no doubting the facts. In 1890 the percentage of owned homes was 47.8. In 1900 it was 46.1. In 1910 it was but 45.8. In the same time the proportion of rented homes increased from 52.2 to 53.9 in 1900 and to 54.2 in 1910.

In 1890 the percentage of owned homes unencumbered was 72. In 1900 this proportion had dropped to 68.7, and in 1910 to 67.2. The percentage of mortgaged homes has grown from 28 to 32.8.

The same story is told of farm homes. In 1890 the farm homes owned by their occupants were 65.9 per cent of the total; in 1910 they were but 62.8. The proportion of rented farm homes had grown from 34.1 per cent to 37.2 per cent. The percentage of homes owned free had dropped from 71.8 to 67.7, and the proportion of mortgaged farm homes had climbed from 28.2 to 32.3.

Why?

A nation that is losing home-owners is losing something of the highest value and importance, and it is a loss that goes deeply into the heart of social conditions.

Why is America losing home-owners and gaining renters? Why are its home-owners increasingly unable to struggle out from under the mortgage?

Prof. Taft is 'way down in Georgia again. Is there to be an attempt to revive the "Billy Possum"?

MISREPRESENTATION.

The local Eberhart organ is attacking Mr. Lee, who has been presumptuous enough to oppose Eberhart for renomination, on the ground that in his "key-note" speech he "dodged the temperance issue." It says:

> There is not a word nor a line in the Lee platform nor in his speech for county option. He attacks the brewers, but this gently.

In The Herald's report of Mr. Lee's Owatonna speech—the morning paper, being a "complete newspaper," did not publish any report of it at all—we find these words:

> I believe in county option, and that the people of any governmental unit should have the legal machinery provided for the expression of their will upon the liquor question.
> I believe in reducing the power of the brewery in politics and curbing the sinister influence of the liquor traffic.

We wonder, does the local Smith-Eberhart organ conceive that success is to be won by a policy of fawning abjectly upon the state machine with its brewery underpinning and of absolute and total misrepresentation of those who have the courage to attack it?

And when it comes to evading the temperance issue, why should the Eberhart press not examine the Eberhart platform, and then write again about evasion of the liquor question?

Uncle Sam saved two hundred thousand dollars in the last few months just by using a lighter make of lock on the mail bags. No wonder the railroads are yelling for a new deal in rates for carrying mails.

IS "BOSS" A LIBEL?

Is it a libel in law to call a man a "boss?"

William Barnes, Jr., the Republican leader of New York, is going to let us know about that, for he has brought a suit the outcome of which will determine the question.

It's an interesting point. The charge of being a boss is pretty freely handled, and there is danger that it will be misused. It is a pretty heavy and damaging epithetical brick, and it ought to be used with proper discretion. This not only because to call a man a boss who is not a boss is unjust, but because we don't want to cheapen the term; we want to keep it for those who deserve it, and who will topple from their places of power when we hurl it at them.

There ought not to be much difficulty about determining the question. Clearly the term is libelous if it is unfairly bestowed. To call a man a boss who is not a boss is infinitely worse than to call a man a thief who is honest.

Mr. Barnes, in his complaint against a temperance worker who called him a boss, has furnished a very fair definition of the term. It follows, and anybody reading it ought to conclude that the misuse of the term is very properly libelous:

> Here used as an odious and opprobrious epithet in common use by those whose cry is "Down with the bosses," meaning thereby those who, through their influence and position in recognized political parties, dominate and control nominations made by such parties, or appointments to office, and through such domination and control in procuring nominations and appointments, improperly, immorally and illegally influence or attempt to influence the representatives of such parties in public office to perform acts in violation of their oath of office and against the general welfare, and to surrender and subordinate their own will to those of such "bosses;" one who dispenses places, rewards the loyal, punishes the mutinous, concocts schemes and negotiates treaties; a political leader who compels public officers to do as he wants.

One thing only that definition lacks—the disclosure of the fact that the boss induces his creatures to betray the public interest for the benefit of private special interests which pay the boss liberally for the use of his power. The offense is treachery to the public interest—treason. So it ought to be libelous to apply the term to one who does not do these things.

Yet in common use, the term has another meaning. Any successful party leader is likely to be called a "boss" by his enemies—indeed, sure to be.

For instance, a very wholesome movement is being led by such men as J. F. Jacobson and Gunnar B. Bjornson against the misrule of the Eberhart-Smith Republican machine in Minnesota. Whether the movement is to prevail or fail will not be known until the primary election in June. If it prevails, beyond doubt we shall presently hear the Eberhart-Smith cohorts speaking of "Boss" Jacobson and "Boss" Bjornson. Indeed, they are hinting at it now.

It is this light and unfitting use of the term that weakens it unduly. It should not be weakened, but should be kept to hurl at real bosses, who use corruptly gained power to betray the public interests. If the courts hold it to be libelous, and its misuse a basis for damages, thereafter it will be used with more care.

Bishop Greer says Sing Sing is a college of crime. And he might have added that the world isn't half so quick to remember the degree of A. B. as it is that of X.C(onvict).

A PUBLIC SERVICE.

The Y. M. C. A. has brought Dr. Charles E. Barker to Duluth for a "health week" of speaking and discussion. Dr. Barker, who is from Washington, was ex-President Taft's physical advisor, and he is exceptionally well qualified to discuss the subjects he will treat during the week beginning tomorrow.

In bringing Dr. Barker here and arranging this "health week" the Y. M. C. A. is performing a real public service of high value. The program for the week, which has been published in the local columns, is admirably arranged to extract from the week's activities the maximum of good.

Personal and social hygiene, though of the highest importance, are taught all too little, and the resulting neglect is the parent of a formidable horde of evils. It is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance at these meetings throughout the city.

Recent elections show that the capitals and penitentiary cities of the various states all voted "wet." How can congress overlook such a chance as that for another investigation?

THE "ABNORMAL CLASSES."

We have received a copy of a bill introduced in congress to create a "bureau for the study of the abnormal classes." We are asked to support this measure.

It will do no harm, if its scope is not misapprehended. It probably will do some good. The government has neglected human well-being too much. It gives more heed to the health of hogs than of humans.

But if this plan is based on the belief that the criminal and pauper "classes" are abnormal, then it is wrong and we are against it.

That idea is pretty thoroughly exploded. Nobody can study crime and pauperism without realizing that the criminal and the pauper, on the average, are "even as you and I" except for environments and lack of opportunity.

Lombroso was chiefly responsible for the notion that crime is a physical condition, and that criminals form a type. Lombroso is no longer an authority. His ideas may have been comforting enough to those who like to acquit social and economic conditions of any blame; but they are no longer widely shared.

Study of crime and pauperism, to be useful, must include a study of the causes of crime and pauperism—of the social deprivation, the evil environments, the lack of training and opportunity, that cultivate the evil in men's natures and stifle the good.

Study of the abnormal in human nature is profitable, too; but it is far from profitable if it is based on any such absurd conception as Lombroso's. If it served to spread the belief that either crime or pauperism is due to abnormal physical or mental types, and not to social neglect, it would be positively harmful.

In the average state penitentiary comparatively few abnormal beings will be found. Most of the inmates are just folks, like the rest of us. Their unhappy lot may be due to ignorance, to dissipation, to folly of one kind or another, or to the fact that they have never been taught anything better than crime; but in very few cases will it be found due to anything abnormal in their physical or mental condition.

Having seen that game in London, King George may be pardoned if he casts longing looks toward this country 'long about this time o' year.

Once more the Socialists have been beaten by a coalition of all the non-Socialists in Milwaukee. At least, they can claim to have solidified the voting sentiment in that city.

THERE IS NO DEATH

There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown
They shine forevermore.

There is no death. The dust we tread
Shall change beneath the summer showers
To golden grain or mellow fruit
Or rainbow-tinted flowers.

The granite rocks disorganize
To feed the hungry moss they bear;
The forest leaves drink daily life
From out the viewless air.

There is no death; the leaves may fall,
The flowers may fade and pass away—
They only wait through wintry hours
The coming of the May.

There is no death! An angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread;
He bears our best loved things away,
And then we call them "dead."

He leaves our hearts all desolate—
He plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers;
Transplanting into bliss, they now
Adorn immortal bowers.

The bird-like voice, whose joyous tones
Made glad this scene of sin and strife,
Sings now in everlasting song,
Amid the tree of life.

And where he sees a smile so bright,
Of hearts too pure for taint and vice,
He bears it to that world of light,
To dwell in Paradise.

Born into that undying life,
They leave us but to come again;
With joy we welcome them—the same
Except in sin and pain.

And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread;
For all the boundless Universe
Is life—there are no dead.

—Edward Bulwer Lytton.

A Catalogue Gardener

From the Indianapolis News.

While the wife of the amateur gardener was getting dinner, he sat in the big chair by the fire, with his numerous and handsome catalogues piled about him. When she called him to dinner he chose three of the largest and handsomest and took them to the dining room. He carved the steak, but he forgot the potatoes, and put his tea cup down on the bread plate. He began to eat with one hand and his mouth, but the other hand and his eyes and his mind were busy with the catalogues. Then his wife spoke:

"If you do not put those books on the floor and eat your dinner I shall burn every catalogue and every order list in the house. My sewing room has been turned into a seed hatchery, my living room is cluttered with catalogues and more coming in on every mail. The dresser drawers are full of clippings and orders and crazy garden plans. There are warpy, wabbly trellises on the floor of the front porch and there are buckets of paint and flower boxes in the laundry. The attic is full of boxes for more seed hatching and the back yard is ruined. Wherever there is not a hole there is a pile of dirt, and there is no place to hang the clothes. The only rooms in the house where I can get away from your gardening are the kitchen and the dining room and I will not have catalogues for dinner every evening."

Obediently the amateur gardener dropped the catalogues to the floor, and gloomily he began to eat. Almost immediately, however, his countenance lightened and he drew a paper from his pocket.

"It is a sweet pea list," he explained. "Would you like to see it?"

"A sweet pea list!" She was scornful. "That is the sixth sweet pea list you have made out. The first one was before Christmas. I shall not care if I never see a sweet pea. Eat your dinner."

He ate—temporarily. Then he began to draw on the table cloth with his spoon, and she watched him push dishes around and line up the silver until he tipped over his glass of water and gave his imaginary garden a premature sprinkling. She restored order to the table and they laughed.

"I was just wondering about those roses," he began, and she surrendered. It was the only thing to do. The mild insanity of the outside gardener can be worked off by digging and weeding. There is no hope for the insanity—not mild—of the catalogue gardener.

A Prayer

From "Doom": O Lord! I acknowledge thy existence—also the existence of a whole lot of things, more or less godly, and which I can overcome only by the help of my own backbone. I fully realize that on every hand are invisible forces that seek my destruction, and that, if I am to come through unscathed, I must fight every inch of the way.

Give me strength to lightly bear my burden of living, and to smile until my burden becomes a joy, for verily this is the secret of all earthly gladness.

Teach me that sixty minutes make an hour, sixteen ounces one pound and one hundred cents one dollar.

Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, and without a gun under my pillow, and unhaunted by the faces of those to whom I might have brought pain.

Grant, I beseech thee, that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and, in the doing thereof may I not stick the gaff where it does not belong.

Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money.

Blind me to the faults of the other fellow—but reveal to me mine own.

Guide me so that each night when I look across the dinner table at the wife, who has been to me a blessing, I will have nothing to conceal.

Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and to lose myself in their play.

And then—

When there come the smell of flowers—and the tread of soft steps—and the crunching of the hearse's wheel in the gravel out in front of my place—make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—

"Here lies a man!"

I met their line. Of Scripture scenes I mused;
The morning manna, see, each day it falls!
Of those that wait not one shall be refused—
So swift sweet charity when hunger calls.
But, as I looked, in me woke secret dread:
Why lack these bread?

And fain I was to pass that drooping line
Where morning manna to their hands descends;
So many curious wants were mine,
And where my least begins their utmost ends!
"So many, many foolish wants," I said—
"And they want bread?"

Who, then, did touch me with rebuking touch?
That spindling child with littler child in arms;
That injured workman who for cross bore crutch,
That grandma scarred by eighty winters' harms!
Who was it spake: "Be ashes on thy head,
That these want bread!"

(I would have paused.) What was it smote my ears
With tones that rose above the clanging street;
"How many moist their crust with drink of tears
While thou in ease of delicates dost eat!
The miracle of loaves hast thou not read?
Yet these want bread!"

I could not pass that drooped and waiting line
Until my vow I made, free bread to sing—
To cry aloud, "The miracle divine
A new fulfillment in the world shall bring."
With bread of life how shall our souls be fed
If these want bread?

Rhode Island's Fame.

Harper's Magazine: It was a geography lesson and the teacher had been asking what some of the different states were noted for. Looking at one of the little girls, she asked:

"Tell me, Florence, what Rhode Island is celebrated for?"

For a moment the child was silent, then an inspiration apparently came to her.

"Rhode Island," replied the little girl, "is celebrated for being the only one of the United States that is the smallest."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Power of an Endless Life.

Two pre-eminent holy days there are in the circling Christian year, Christmas and Easter. If the first with its jollity and gifts is beloved of children the second has a peculiar place in the hearts of those who have ceased to be children, who have met both the maturer joys and the sorrows of life and whose journey is steadily on toward the sunset. Granted that Easter holds no great inspirations for the sensualist, for the evil liver, for the mentally or spiritually inert, it will ever be for the man of earnest life and clear thought a high festival of light and gladness.

The hope that glows in myriad human hearts at this season springs from the conviction that there is something in these human lives of ours that shall survive that ultimate earthly experience we call death. It is a confidence that men have always held. You cannot eradicate it any more than you can the primal instincts of hunger and thirst. The scholar Sayce tells us that "Food and drink were offered to the Babylonian dead as they were to the Egyptian, and the objects the dead man had loved during his lifetime were deposited in his grave. His seal was attached to his wrist, his spear or staff was laid at his side, and at times even dates or fish or poultry were buried in the darkness of the tomb. The child had his favorite toys to play with, the woman her necklace of beads. The water jar was there filled with the pure water for which the dead thirsted."

It is no new thing, this hunger for immortality and this confident expectation of it. We of the twentieth century simply share the conviction of men in all lands and in all ages that death does not end all. Tennyson's words in "In Memoriam" are a universal human confession:

Thou wilt not leave us in the dust
Thou madest man he knows not why,
He thinks he was not made to die;
And Thou has made him; Thou are just.

In the conviction is a boundless power. We begin to live well when we live as immortals. A new dignity comes upon man when he thinks of himself as a forever creature. We can make the best of disappointment, stand failure with braver heart and be comforted in sorrow in the thought of a nobler realm of experience beyond this present.

Half the sorrow of life comes from the sense of pitiable incompletion. The worker finds the tool scarce fitted to his hand when he must drop it. The author lays down the pen forever with his greater thoughts unuttered. Auspicious friendships are severed; happy homes are broken in upon; love is constantly defeated in its objects; splendid purposes are thwarted. At times the world may easily appear as a chaos untouched by rhyme or reason. Naught but faith in an intelligent and benevolent Creator who has fashioned man as one "not made to die" but for a vast and an eternal career will give us courage in the face of every problem.

The songs and the flowers of Easter summon us anew to the realization of a transcendent fact. We are heirs of immortality. Who with that heritage is willing to live wholly for the gain or pleasure of the moment? Who will rest satisfied with present victories or be unwarrantably cast down over temporary defeats? Let the old Grammarian in Browning's noble poem teach us:

Others mistrust and say, "But time escapes; Live now or never."
He said, "What's time? Leave now for dogs and apes.
Man has forever."

WHEN JERRY CRUNCHER RODE TO WAR

By SAVOYARD

Washington, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In my time, now more than one-third of a century in this town, I have read a heap of rot in American newspapers, and I am frank to confess that I have contributed more than my fair share of it—miles and miles of it; but for downright and inane, idiotic and oafish damphoolery, yallerer than an orange, commend me to the following "special" to the Washington Post a few days ago, alleged to be from Laredo, Tex.:

"Armed to the teeth, grim-visaged and determined that for once American manhood should not truckle to Mexican trickery and deceit, a troop of Texas Rangers, led by Capt. J. J. Saunders, made a daredevil dash across the international border into Mexico late last night, disinterred the body of Clemente Vergara, the Texas ranchman whose fate for weeks had been the subject of insistent inquiry and conflicting answer, and then galloped back again with the mutilated corpse to Texas soil. * * *

"The invasion was so swift in its execution, so dramatic in its details, that the officers here have not yet had time to realize the meaning and extent of it all. It was as meteoric as the onrush of a Cossack horde, and the intrepid leader announced the result with the snappy terseness of Caesar's 'Came, saw, conquered.'

"Veterans who once touched shoulders with the men who made the republic of Mexico a civil and geographical reality feel now that the heroes who defended the Alamo have bequeathed their dauntless spirit to the Rangers, booted and spurred, who rode over the border with their carbines as their warrants and their six-shooters as their passports."

Now I assert and will maintain that that is an insult to every atom of all the mankind of Texas. It is hyperbole run coward and it makes a lion of Sir Andrew Aguecheek. All Texas should rise in revolt and curse the reflection thus stigmatized on Texas honor and Texas valor.

* * *

Har'kee! When I was a boy in Kentucky I saw Frank Terry's Texas Rangers, and from any company of that magnificent command could have been picked valor and prowess more than Jason's crew. They never charged a graveyard—certainly not a bivouac of the peaceful dead.

Frank Terry fell early in the war like Sidney and like Bayard—in a skirmish. Had he lived till the surrender in 1865 I have not a doubt that today Frank Terry's heroism would match in history that of Forrest or Morgan or Stuart. I am proud that he gave added glory to Texas, for he was Kentucky born.

He was a brother of that much misunderstood and more maligned man, Dave Terry of California, and no child of the South who contemplates his career but must revert to the lines:

"O, for a blast of that dread horn
On Fontarabian echoes borne,
That to King Charles did come,
When Roland brave, and Oliveer
And every Paladin and peer
On Roscesvalles died!"

And then the unspeakable contumely that the children of these charged a graveyard "armed to the teeth!"

* * *

In the annals of war from Joshua to Marlborough, from Caesar to Lee, the history of arms does not supply a feat surpassing that of Wahl's Texas brigade at Vicksburg, after which they met and "promoted" E. W. Pettus of Alabama to "Texan," for he was with 'em and as brave as the bravest. At Vicksburg those Texans were as steady as Cromwell's Ironsides; they had the sedate courage of the Spanish veterans who "fought from rise to set of sun" under Farnese; they had that delirious dash and matchless elan of the "Light Brigade" that charged with Cardigan at Ballaklava. Nay, they made reincarnate the story of the Alamo!

But they never invaded a graveyard. They respected the mighty lines of a Kentucky poet—one of themselves who wore the gray:

"On Fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead."

When death touches us, grim monster that he is, he lays the king's scepter beside the shepherd's crook and the earth above the dead makes every man a hero and every woman a goddess.

And here comes the Washington Post to proclaim that Texas Rangers are turned Jerry Crunchers! O, for one moment of Ben McCullough! O, for a glance from Capt. Ferrell of Terry's regiment! And he speaks of Julius Caesar and cites the desperate defense of the Alamo! Ye gods!

Listen to this transcendent rot: "Veterans who touched shoulders with the men who made the republic of Mexico a civil and geographical reality feel now that the heroes who defended the Alamo have bequeathed their dauntless spirit to the rangers, booted and spurred, who rode over the border with their carbines as their warrants and their six-shooters as their passports." Whooppee! Do it again! "Say, Cousin George, tell that snake talc once more!"

* * *

What's that about "carbines and pistols"? Rot—mattocks were their "warrants" and spades were their "passports." Who the devil would attack a graveyard with a shotgun, or a derringer? Now the Washington Post owes it to candor, to decency, to manhood, to honor, to make the correction and substitute "mattocks" for carbines and "spades" for six-shooters. Of course, it is bound to do that.

But Texas is provided for. It seems that they did not go to the graveyard after all.

And Jerry Cruncher gave his pledge, "and never no more will I interfere with Mrs. Cruncher's flopping, never no more.

"And let my words be took down and took to Mrs. Cruncher through yourself—that wot my opinions respectin' flopping has undergone a change, and wot I only hopes with all my heart as Mrs. Cruncher may be a-flopping at the present time."

It seems from the next day's Washington Post that Mrs. Cruncher had been a-floppin' and somewhat effectually.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS AS VOTING PLACES

Better Than Barber Shops and Pool Rooms and Cost Less—Many Cities Already Using Schools.

By Edward J. Ward, Adviser on Civic and Social Center Development, University of Wisconsin.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau)

The first physical step in straightening out our political derangement is the use of each public schoolhouse as the polling place of its district.

That a good start has been made is evident in the fact that more than 500 schoolhouses throughout the country have already been put to this appropriate use. Seventy school buildings are serving as polling places in Chicago this spring. New York, with 620 public schools and 564 other public buildings, still votes in 413 barber shops as well as many pool rooms, bakeries, undertaking establishments and small stores. Although a bill failed at the recent session of the legislature, the people of New York are still struggling for a law which will permit the use of schools as voting centers.

This movement must succeed. Experience and reason make it clear that the public school is pre-eminently the place in which the people should voice their will in their own affairs.

It is economical. To use existing public buildings obviates the needless expense of renting private places, or purchasing, transporting, setting up, outfitting with means of warmth and light, taking down, retransporting and storing special booths for voting. This expense tends to increase with the growing frequency of elections.

It is worthy. The ballot box or voting machine is the instrument of society's self-determination, to attain which mankind has sacrificed and struggled. Hope of orderly progress for the race centers chiefly in the intelligent use of the ballot. The instrument of the ballot should have the most nobly significant housing the community can give. The public school building affords that housing.

It is appropriate. Elections are, first and finally, examinations of public intelligence. The common educational buildings are the natural places for the periodic testings of the common intelligence.

It is convenient. The public schoolhouses are so distributed as to be easily reached by all the children of each district. The distance children go each day, adults may readily go to vote.

It is permanent. The storing of the voting apparatus in a cellar, loft or shed excepting at election times suggests an intermittent and occasional democracy, as though the people were in authority for only a day or two each year. The continuing presence of the voting instrument, permanently installed in the community building, proclaims the continuing responsibility of citizens.

It is educative. In Milwaukee the question whether the public schoolhouses should be used as the polling places was referred to the school principals. Their vote was unanimously in favor of it; the reason being that this use of the school buildings would be a positive aid in the most important part of the children's training. The central object of the public school is development of the capacity for citizenship. The practical difficulty is to visualize the business of democracy. The operation of voting is the supreme civic expression which, if the children can see it, makes for them a point of contact and departure from which they may go on to the understanding of the processes of government as reality.

It is simplifying. Making the public schoolhouses the polling places implies making the voting precincts and the school districts identical. This does away with the confusion that arises from having two differing units of neighborhood, a confdsion in part responsible for our failure to appreciate the neighborhood, the gronp hnit of society next in importance to the family. This permanent identification of voting precinct and public school district reduces the possibility of gerrymandering. This use of the schoolhouse as voting center removes one practical reason for the failure of citizens to vote. Not infrequently citizens fail to vote at primaries and even at elections because they do not know the location of their polling places. Everybody knows the location of the public schoolhouse in his district.

It is unifying. Not all the citizens in every public school district send their children to the public school. There are parochial or private schools. But there is no parochial or private ballot box, and when this all-uniting instrument is permanently established in this neighborhood house, it makes plain the fact that with the adult civic uses of this public building the distinctions that cause the separate schooling of the children have nothing to do.

It promotes better citizenship. The polling registers are the active membership lists of the district voting bodies. The establishment of the voting equipment in public buildings capable of being used as citizens' common counsel chambers, is the constructive first step toward the self-organization of the voting body into a deliberative body. This will substitute clarified common sense for muddy partisanship at the source of government.

It is proved feasible and altogether satisfactory. Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, Worcester, Madison and other cities and innumerable smaller towns have begun the use of schoolhouses as polling places. The universal experience accords with the statement of Supt. Greeson of Grand Rapids, where the public school buildings have been used as voting centers for the past ten years: "If, instead of saving a considerable amount of money at each election, it were to cost more to use the public school houses as polling places, it would still be the sensible thing to do."

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

Canadian Plutocracy.

HISTORY OF CANADIAN WEALTH. By Gustavus Myers. Chicago: Charles H. Kerr & Company. $1.50.

In this work the gradual development of Canada's natural resources is interestingly covered, from its inception as a French colony in 1540 up to the present.

The rapid concentration of capital is commented upon, it being estimated by the author that less than fifty men control $4,000,000,000, or more than one-third of Canada's material wealth in railways, banks, factories, mines, land and other properties. It is claimed that this monopolizing of wealth by a few persons has been going on for many years. In that connection several chapters are devoted to a history of the various railroad characters, in which it is claimed that numbers of the leading members of parliament were interested. During a period extending over sixty-five years over 140 separate and privately owned railways were chartered and constructed at different times, nearly all of which have since passed under the control of the three main transportation systems, the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Northern.

The remarkable railroad development that has come about in Canada is attested in the fact that there are now over 26,000 miles of lines in the country with a capital of $1,600,000,000. The government has aided promoters in this remarkable campaign of railroad building through the granting of vast gifts of land, cash and guaranties. These aggregated up to last year, according to the official records, 50,052,055 acres of land, $244,000,000 in cash subventions and $245,000,000 in guarantees of bonds.

It is claimed by the author that perhaps nowhere else in the world can so found so intensive a degree of close organization as among the banking interests in Canada. Twenty-six of these institutions have 2,888 branches, the Royal bank alone having 338 and the Bank of Commerce 367.

Industrial mergers have come about in Canada in a relatively greater degree than in the United States of late years. It is shown in this work that from January, 1899, to January, 1913, there were fifty-six industrial mergers which absorbed 248 individual companies. The total capitalization of 206 of these individual companies was about $167,000,000, but with the merging into fifty-six concerns, this was increased to $456,938,266.

The amount of British capital placed in Canada is computed at over $2,000,000. Of the $500,000,000 of American capital active in Canada, $180,000,000 is represented in 30 factories.

A sketch of the Hudson Bay company takes up several interesting chapters in the work. The influence it exercised in the fur trade for generations is shown in the fact that under its charter granted by King Charles II in 1670, it exercised a monopoly and claimed landed protectorship over an area extending from the Red river to the Rocky mountains. Up to 1857 it had paid in dividends to its British shareholders £2,000,000. As the result of an agitation and investigation by the Canadian parliament, the company surrendered its trade monopoly in 1869 for a payment of $1,500,000, but it was allowed to retain one-twentieth of all its lands and an area of 50,000 acres surrounding its trading posts. The value of these vast areas is shown in the statement that between 1893 and 1912, the company sold 1,953,967 acres of land for which it received $15,627,944. It still owned then 4,032,860 acres which it was selling on a basis of $19.20 per acre.

Lord Strathcona, whose death occurred recently, began his career with the Hudson's Bay company in 1838, at the age of 16 years. By 1856 he rose to the post of chief executive officer of the company in North America with head office at Montreal. He later took an active part in the organization of the Canadian Pacific Railroad company, and he was largely interested in the Bank of Montreal. He was associated with James J. Hill in some of his early enterprises.

Just Boy.

PENROD. By Booth Tarkington, author of "The Gentleman From Indiana," "Monsieur Beaucaire," etc. Garden City, N. Y.: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.25 net.

Have you ever been a boy? Have you ever had a boy for son, brother or friend? Then you are admirably constituted to enjoy this book. It's hero is Penrod Schofield, a boy—just a healthy, human, American boy with all the mischief and contrariety and humanity that goes with the splendid job of being a boy.

It is an exquisite thing—exquisite in its humor and in its knowledge of the heart of a boy. Booth Tarkington never has done finer or more finished work.

There are thirty-one chapters—really thirty-one stories—and it is too difficult a task to choose the best. It is impossible, too, to attempt to crowd the atmosphere of the book into the brief compass of a review. It is at once as funny a thing and as sweet a thing as anybody ever did. You should read it by all means.

A Right Conscience Does Wrong.

This tale by an English author of considerable popularity is exceedingly clever. It is a delight to watch the skill with which the author works out her characters. But what an amazing conceit it is based on, and what a task the creator sets herself to make it palatable and appealing to sympathy! It is nothing less than a love story with a heroine twelve years older than the hero!

Wilfred Wyvern was caught up out of a busy, useful life as a London journalist to fill an unexpected earldom, falling to him from a distant relative. His occupations and environments had been what the daughters of the dead earl call "middle class," but he falls very readily into the new ones. There isn't a great deal of politics in the story, but there is, as there frequently is in the English fiction of the day, a pathetic sketch of the privileged classes sitting indignantly and rather forlornly while the rising tide of democracy laves their chilled feet and threatens their most cherished institutions.

There is a good deal of clever debate over theological, philosophical and polished subtleties, mostly between Wyvern and Lady Esther, the 40-year-old heroine—Wyvern is 28. But mainly we are concerned with the fact that Wyvern and Lady Esther fall in love with each other. Lady Esther is plain and rather dull, though her not striking exterior more or less effectually disguises a character of real beauty and appeal. She has a Puritan conscience that teaches her that it is a pleasure to wear hair shirts and peas in her shoes, and it is donning a metaphorical hair shirt when she puts in Wyvern's way a very beautiful and very selfish and very brainless doll whom Wyvern promptly falls in love with and marries. Later, it develops that My Lady's Conscience has driven them into a very desperate mess, because Wyvern falls in love with her again when he discovers—somewhat belatedly for a young man of his intelligence—that his marriage to the beauty was a great mistake. It is an absorbing and at times very irritating story.

The "Flying U" Again.

FLYING U RANCH. By B. M. Bower, author of "Chip of the Flying U," etc. New York: The G. W. Dillingham company. $1.25 net.

Although B. M. Bower has written numerous stories of the West and the life of the cowboy, but two of these will ever remain as really typical and as the best works of his able author. "Flying U Ranch" is easily the best book she has written since "Chip of the Flying U."

The well known characters of Chip, Pink, Andy Green, Irish, Slim, Weary, Big Medicine, the Countess, the Little Doctor and the Kid, who appeared for the first time in "Flying U. Ranch," are again vibrant with the quietly humorous and human touch that make Miss Bower's works so successful. Miguel Rapponi is a newcomer, and although he arouses general derision at first, soon becomes "one of the boys."

The Old Man is injured in an accident in Chicago and Weary is left in charge of the ranch. Things go along smoothly until Dunk Whittaker, a disreputable character, decides to get square with the Old Man and buys the ranch next to the Flying U. He gives the boys considerable trouble, but at last they reach the end of their endurance. How Happy Jack was fired upon from ambush and how fear of the law suddenly frightened Whittaker, causing him to sell his ranch and quickly leave the country, are told in the characteristic style of the author.

TWO AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS FOR THE REPUBLIC OF PANAMA

Panama, April 11.—It is understood that Henry Pettier of the department of agriculture at Washington, who has arrived on the isthmus to classify the native woods of Panama, will soon undertake the organization of two agricultural schools in the republic. The Panama authorities requested Mr. Pettier's services for the collection of native woods. They will be a part of the Panama national exhibition which will be opened next year.

The Third battalion of the Tenth Infantry, stationed at Camp Otis, has just completed a forced march through the jungle from Chorrera, in the province of Coole. The distance covered, twenty-seven miles, was made in one day. It was found that the main trail has been well cleared by the Panama government. About 75 per cent of the battalion is composed of recruits, who thus made their first practice march.

Pedro Miguel, where the canal locks of that name are located, is to be one of the model permanent towns of the isthmus. The canal government has been busy there for several months in the hope of having the place completed in time for the opening of the canal next year. Macadam streets and concrete sidewalks are being laid, and many new houses are being built for the operating force of the locks. A large playground for children and tennis and baseball grounds also are well under way. In front of the Young Men's Christian association building is to be the plaza, which will be one of the beauty spots of the town.

The dredge Gamboa, the largest dipper dredge ever built, has arrived on the isthmus and is being assembled for work. It is the intention of the canal authorities to have the dredge begin the widening of the channel in Culebra cut in front of the Cucaracha and Culebra slides at an early date. The dipper of this new dredge has a capacity of fifteen cubic yards. Another dredge of the same type and capacity, the Paraiso, is expected to arrive soon.

The dredge Corozal, which was to have been at work before this in deepening the channel through Culebra cut, has been drydocked in the east upper chamber of Gatun locks, just above the five submarines in the same chamber. An explosion in an oil tank did considerable damage to several bulkheads and hull of the big dredge. In order to drydock her in the same lock chamber the submarines were lashed fast to the bottom of the lock, which was then filled.

NEW LIFEBOAT MAY BE ADOPTED BY VESSELS ON GREAT LAKES

CAPT. OLE BRUDE AND HIS LIFEBOAT.

Loss of life in marine disasters on the high seas and inland lakes will, it is claimed, be a thing of the past, if Capt. Ole Brude's life-boat, with which he and three companions sailed across the Atlantic ocean in the fall and winter of 1904-5, is generally made a part of the equipment of all lake vessels and trans-Atlantic liners. Capt. Brude is in Duluth showing a model of his life-boat Uraed to local vessel men.

A few weeks ago Capt. Brude went before a number of prominent ship builders and owners in Cleveland with his model and he has been given the assurance that the life-boat would soon be made a part of the equipment of many lake vessels. Even governments in Europe look with favor on the little vessel and Capt. Brude is now looking forward to the time when all ocean liners will be equipped with the Brude boat.

With the record already made by the Brude life-boat and its wonderful trip across the Atlantic, although the vessel is but eighteen feet long, there is no doubt but that should all vessels be equipped with Brude life-boats, each of which is declared to be capable of carrying thirty persons, loss of life in wrecks would be greatly reduced. The Titanic might have gone down but no lives would have been lost as a result, if the steamer had been equipped with a sufficient number of Brude vessels.

Capt. Brude first came to America in 1887 in company with his parents. His father is still living and is now operating a farm at Bear River, Minn., about 120 miles from Duluth. It is here that Capt. Brude plans to go and spend his old age, but he first wants to make his life-boat an established success.

In 1890 Capt. Brude returned to Norway and sailed vessels in Europe and across the Atlantic for many years. He invented the Brude life-boat in 1903 and he built the 18-foot vessel during that year and the early part of 1904 at Aalesund, Norway. He had planned to exhibit the boat at the St. Louis world's fair, but he was delayed in completing the boat.

Has Perilous Voyage.

On Aug. 7, 1904, Capt. Brude and three companions, Ivar Thoreson, Lars Mattson and Carl Johanson, set sail from Aalesund for the United States. The little life boat was completely equipped with supplies and the journey across the high sea began. For five months the little craft met all kinds of weather, going through one of the worst storm periods of the year on the Atlantic, and on Jan. 7, 1905, the boat landed on the United States shore at Gloucester, Mass.

Is Small Vessel.

Capt. Brude is 33 years old and unmarried. He is enthusiastic over his invention and shows the small model with great pride. The model is exactly like the original Uraed, the word itself meaning "fearless." The Uraed is built of steel plates and is shaped like an egg, as can be seen by the accompanying photograph of the model. The Uraed is eighteen feet long and 8 feet wide at the center. The boat is provided with an easily manageable sliding keel, which prevents the vessel from drifting or rolling. On the top there is a railing and a look-out tower from where the helmsman has an open view through four glazed port holes. The boat is provided with double bottom, which is divided into four water tight compartments, to which there is access through manholes. The compartments are intended for the storing of provisions, water and other supplies. The boat, according to a recent government inspection, can easily accommodate thirty persons. The boat is provided with a single sail, which can be raised or lowered from the inside of the vessel.

An interesting feature about the Uraed is that in case a passenger liner is about to sink and there is no time to lower the life boats, all that is necessary is to cut the ropes and wait for the liner to sink.

The Uraed will go into the water and rise again in a few minutes. It is absolutely water tight. The passengers on the liner could live in the life boat for weeks, providing there were enough provisions.

CROSSING THE DESERT OF THE DULL SEASON OF SPORT ON THE GOSSIP CARAVAN

Harlem Tommy Murphy Will Have Chance to Fight Crown After Years of Battling; General News of the Here and There of the Ols Sport Domain.

BY BRUCE.

ON the seventeenth day of this vernal month Willie Ritchie and Harlem Tommy Murphy, flat owner and persistent coin collector, will meet before Jimmy Coffroth's club in a battle that will be for the title that Ritchie won from Adolph Wolgast upon the afternoon of Nov. 28, 1912, at Daly City, which is just out of Frisco.

This Murphy person was born April 13, 1885 at Harlem, N. Y., but the fact that he was born at Harlem should not be held against him. In 1903 the man who has sunk his subsequent earnings in flats and suburban property, started professional boxing. Subtracting three from fourteen shows that the Harlemite has been in the ring for eleven long and industrious years.

Looking down the long line of pugilistic meetings that have been crowded into the record of Thomas Quincy Murphy, one is struck with the fact that though harnessed to boxing endeavor during the years when champions have come and ceased, this prominent-jawed prominent citizen of Harlem has never received a crack at the championship.

The Murphy one has fought Wolgast, McFarland, Cross and hosts of others—but he has never met a champion in a championship contest. Murphy has won a decision over Wolgast—after Wolgast lost the title. Murphy persistently sought a meeting with Battling Nelson—and was as persistently refused.

Kismet, that golden-guided hand of fate, has been somehow unkind to Murphy. A veteran as fighting years are crowded upon a man, the Harlem one gets his chance at the title—if fate does not intervene—at the fag end of a career that has included in its eventful record passages at arms with every conceivable lightweight in the world—but the one holding the title.

Large Bill Is Optimistic.

WILLIAM BILL BRENNAN is of the opinion that the Federal league will be a glorious success. How do you know he thinks so? Because he wrote words to us to that effect, the words being inscribed on the new letter heads of President Gilmore of the league. Yes, we know, but you have not answered our question—how do you know that Bill really thinks that? We grasp your sardonic insinuation.

You mean that being the chief of staff of the Federal league umpires entails optimistic words from the open countenance of Will. But the best answer to your question as to how William thinks along the lines of Federal league direction, is the fact that he signed a contract with the league. Money is the arch enemy of romance and all beautiful talk. Bill Brennan signed with the Federals because he needed the money, and because he believed the league is going to prove successful.

Aside from that Brennan also stated that from what he had seen of some of the teams in the Southland, the Federals are going to furnish a surprise to some of the fans of the country. One thing is certain, more certain than some of the other details of the controversy regarding the Feds—and that is we have not very long to wait.

Heavy Business On Hand.

SEVERAL members of the International Boxing association of the universe met the other day and declared Percy Jones the flyweight champion of the world. After drinking some lemonade, the members of the boxing union adjourned. In the bold and unyielding face of this cumulative evidence to the contrary, who is the pessimistic person who will stand forth and declare that boxing is a brutal sport?

Maybe It Is the Climate.

IN New York, flanking the eastern extremity of our country and generally acknowledged to be the last word in sizable cities, the fans roar their heads off when the team does not win the world's championship.

The palliating fact, the glorious fact, one might better say, that the team has won three pennants in a row, tempers not the vitriolic temper of the fans. The world's championship was lost and lo and behold bedlam asserted itself.

St. Louis is in the southern portion of our country and is flanked by the muddy Missouri and several large and flourishing breweries. Perhaps those who do not consume the beer consume parboiled sections of the river. We are merely striving to invent excuses for the lethargy of the fans.

All the fans of St. Louis are asking of the St. Louis Americans is to finish ahead of the Yankees. Wait just a minute—the Yankees finished in seventh place.

One must conclude that it is the enervating effect of the climate—or it is that the brewery and parboiled water have the bugs in a sort of coma. In a town where the team is only exhorted to finish in seventh place, it is being quite unfair to the imagination to ask it to conjure up the wild eyed being that generally sits in the bleachers of most cities.

As the Traveler Says.

DMcCLARAN, a stranger in our midst, was housed at Houston with the White Sox, and bringing to our midst the sentiments expressed by the members of that squad, declared that it is quite early for Connie Mack to figure upon the gonfalon. Optimism caused old Isaac Newton to hang around under that apple tree while all the pests in the village were calling him names and regular guys were earning spending money. But look what Isaac was rewarded with in the end. One of these days a pennant may fall for Mr. Comiskey.

Maybe They Need Some Coin.

A HALF column advertisement in one of the Buffalo papers tells of the stock selling offer of the officers of the Federal league baseball club.

The offer says $50,000 of the preferred stock of the club will be sold in shares of $10 each, and that as a bonus for buying each subscriber will be given in the lovely and angelic shape of a bonus one-half of that amount in common stock. Only ten per cent of the amount subscribed for has to be paid upon signing the application. The remainder can be paid in very easy payments.

In our experience we have not as yet encountered a baseball magnate who was desirous of enriching the public. The little thought comes trooping—do the Federal officials of Buffalo need the money?

Some Constitution, Michael.

NEWS from the front conveys the information that Mike Donlin is listed as one of the possible comebacks of the 1914 season. Mr. Donlin started baseball years and years agone. He has also started innumerable rough house battles. He has been on the stage and attempted to be funny, which is wearing on the constitution—when the audience refuses to laugh. He has also been in jail—which is also wearing on the constitution. If, therefore, after all these years of strife and grief, Mr. Donlin can come back and take his place as one of the who's who, there is nothing remaining except to doff the bonnets and hail the Michael one as a man possessing a wonderful constitution, if not talented histrionic powers.

NOVICE MEET IS HELD AT "U"

But Five Events Are Pulled Off Because of Bad Weather.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The university novice meet was held last Saturday afternoon on Northrop field, but on account of the extreme cold only five events were run off.

There were a number of men out for each event, and Coach Frank has promised to hold the other events on April 24. The outdoor track is still very soft from the snows and consequently slow time was made in the races. The time for the 100-yard dash was 11 seconds flat, which is considered very good for the present condition of the track and men. The meet brought out many hitherto unknown promising candidates for the varsity team.

T. Irving Madigan of the seven-man team represented Minnesota in the wrestling championship of the Amateur Athletic union's national tournament. He defeated the former A. A. U. lightweight champion in the semi-final round and annexed the lightweight title in the final match. His victory in the semi-finals over the former champion of the lightweight division came after a little over six minutes of tussle. His final match was won from H. H. Jenkin of the Pittsburg Athletic club.

WHEELER WEEDING OUT WEAK ONES.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eddie Wheeler, manager of the Grand Forks baseball team, is getting early results in the training camp at Davenport, Iowa, as he has released several players. These include Catchers Albright and Peacock; Pitcher Collins, First Baseman Jones and Third Baseman Baer.

Wheeler says he is well satisfied with the progress the team has made to date, and he is confident that the club will be a speedy one.

SPRING SERIES GAMES SCHEDULED FOR DOOKS

White Sox Will Play at Fort Wayne, Oskosh, Madison and Appleton; Winnipeg Is Depended Upon to Bear Financial Burden of the League.

On April 16 the members of the White Sox clan, who are conditioning at Cleveland, will leave for Fort Wayne, Ind., where the first practice game of the 1914 season will be held.

Four games will be played with the Central leaguers and then the Sox will journey to Madison for a four-game series with the strong Wisconsin-Illinois team. From April 25 until May 4 the Dook and his band of touring ball players will alternate between Oshkosh and Appleton. The series with these two teams will end the training season of the Sox.

As is the case generally this spring, and last spring and several previous springs, the weather over the country has been bad and the members of the white-hosed brigade are getting their share of it.

It was raining and then snowing at Cleveland when the eloquent epistle of Dook O'Brien was penned to President Harry A. Blume. Written on the glowing letter head of the Diamond cafe, the former sanctum of Bill Bradley, parts of the epistle shone forth in pure optimism.

Outside of the rampage of the weather, things are looking lovely with the Dook. The men of Cleveland look good to the prophetic eye of the Dook—but it is early yet, remember that.

Schenk, a pitcher; Papes, a shortstop, and Phillips, an outfielder, are the men especially mentioned in the letter of the I. O. These players look like comers this early in the season, if the glowing accounts of the leader of the Sox are truthful and to the point.

Should Be in Shape.

With some fifteen games on the program of the spring training trip the Sox should be in good shape to start the season on May 6 with the pennant-winning Winona team at the city beautiful in the southern and untaxed portion of our state.

Samuel Sycamore Meniece is a man of undoubted industry these cold and piercing days. Yesterday your correspondent inquired as to the intentions of Mr. Meniece, relating to the ancient custom of the baseball diamond.

Scratching his head, Mr. Meniece replied that the great question as to whether he would play or not has not been decided. Some time around the first of the week the hitting hero of several seasons past will decide as to whether he will be with us again.

Searching the dry dates of the schedule, it might be casually noticed that the brunt of the financial returns from the Northern league during the season to be is expected to flow from the gate of the Winnipeg team.

A vast number of games, comparatively speaking, have been scheduled for the Winnipeg grounds, this on the theory that inasmuch as the Peg drew more attendance than any three of the other cities of the circuit during the 1913 gallop, that it is simply a matter of business to schedule as many games as possible on the Canadian frontier.

Also working on this same general theory, but in reverse order, there will not be a large lot of games scheduled for Grand Forks, Winona or Fargo-Moorehead, in comparison, you understand, with the prolonged summer stands that will be played in the metropolis of the Burmeister circuit.

One Real Live One.

Sure enough, so much so that there is not the least grounds for dispute, is the fact that Winnipeg is the one real live one of this league.

Like those old pictures of Atlas holding up the pink world upon his brown and brawny shoulders, which have been printed in innumerable editions of school geographies, one can imagine Winnipeg, with baseball shoulders bared, supporting the burden of the Northern league.

It was the late P. T. Barnum who proceeded upon the more or less simple theory of giving the people what they wanted. The magnates of the Northern league have borrowed somewhat of the philosophy of the late P. T. and are this season going to give the fans of Winnipeg what they have showed an undoubted liking for in the past—lots of baseball.

As these words proceed to press, let us state here the hope that in the face of the heavy returns at the gate that Winnipeg is given some real baseball this season.

Mismanagement has been the little old man of the sea that has clung tenaciously to the teams up that way. Can one imagine the splendid attendance that would go hand in hand with a first class team at the Peg? No one can't; one can only conjure up a seething mass fighting to get into the park.

Minor league baseball is a problem in most of the cities of the Northern league. This season Winnipeg is going to be asked to take a large part in solving the financial problem connected with baseball in the smaller cities—hence the heavy home schedule of the Maroons.

Perhaps the majority of the fans have given the schedule the once over, but simply for the sake of refreshing the memory of the fans and fanesses, it might be stated here that the first home game of the local season will come on May 18 and Superior will be the team opposed by us.

VETERAN PITCHER TO BE WITH WHITE SOX

HENRY CLAY BLANCKE.

HARVARD HAS SPEED.

Varsity Eight Surprises Coaches With Its Good Showing.

Cambridge, Mass., April 11.—Harvard varsity eight surprised the coaches by its speed yesterday. Rowing with the wind, the oarsmen covered the Henley distance—one mile and 500 yards—in six minutes, 53 seconds. This time is said to be but four seconds slower than the best performance of last year's crew near the end of the season.

ANOTHER CLOSE RACE IN THE ASSOCIATION EXPECTED

Louisville Team Is Favorite for Pennant Honors Among Majority of Critics Around the Circuit.

Chicago, April 11.—A race event closer than that which furnished excitement in its 1913 season is predicted by critics for the American association's pennant chase this year. Milwaukee's championship team is only one of the leaders which will have hard fighting to stay out in front of clubs made ambitious either through the addition of new strength or through new leadership. President Chivington declares that the league will play faster ball this year than ever before in its history and that its campaign of 1914 will show that there is little difference in class between the American association and the major leagues.

"Judging from the showing made by teams in our Eastern circuit against major leaguers in exhibition games this spring, the American association will play faster ball than ever before," said President Chivington. "In connection with these exhibition games, it must be remembered that our teams do not begin practice until after the major leagues do, and are not therefore in the same advanced physical condition.

"The Louisville team is the favorite for pennant honors among the majority of critics around the American association circuit. The Colonels have been strengthened and have had the advantage of a long training season in Florida. It would not be surprising if Louisville took the lead at the start."

The Minneapolis Team.

Bad weather hampered the Minneapolis players during their training season. The club's pitchers are Patterson, Mogridge, Fiene, Goldring, Turner, Schmirler, Lake and Ira Hoag, the latter last year with the Kansas City Federals. Its catchers are Smith and Rondeau, the latter recently of Detroit.

Since the close of the 1913 season Minneapolis has lost several players, including Frank Owens, who was drafted by Washington and later jumped to the Federals, and James and Frank Delahanty, who were unconditionally released. It is also probable that the Cantillons will be without the services of Pitcher Fred Olmstead, who, it is said, could not come to terms with the local management. To stop the gaps the Millers have signed several recruits, whose ability has not been proven. The most promising new men are Flagg, Andreson, Manes and Turner. The team is expected to line up as follows: Mogridge, pitcher; Smith, catcher, Hunter, first base; Williams, second base; Tannehill, third base; Altizer, shortstop; Rossman, left field; Clymer, centerfield; Killifer, rightfield.

The Brewers.

Milwaukee's champions will begin the present season with practically the same lineup that captured the pennant last year, though a number of recruits will be tried out by Manager Harry Clark.

Shortstop Blackburne, one of the most valuable players on last year's team was sold to the Chicago Americans near the close of last season and Centerfielder Gilbert and Catcher Marshall have severed their connection.

"Jap" Barbeau, of last year's Kansas City team, takes the place of Blackburne at short; Oscar Felsch supplants Gilbert in center and Marshall's position is sought by three new catchers.

The makeup of players at the beginning of the season contains no fewer than fourteen pitchers, including Slapnicka, Hovlik, Cutting, Young, Brown, Powell and Dougherty; four catchers, two first basemen, two second basemen, one at third, four shortstops and six outfielders.

The Louisville Lineup.

The Louisville team of 1914 is considered by the management and by Louisville fans as one of the strongest that has ever represented this city, of the eight new men, Johnny Dodge, third baseman, purchased from the Cincinnati "Reds," and Second Baseman McLarry, drafted from Topeka, are expected to strengthen the infield, and E. W. Baker, former Colonel pitcher who was suspended in 1911 and recently reinstated, is looked upon as a valuable acquisition. Ingerton, who was out of the game most of last year owing to a broken leg, will occupy right garden this season.

Toney and Loudermilk, last year's chief support on the mound, are in good condition as are Northrup, P. Clemons, Woodburn and Ellis of the 1913 twirling staff. Everett, drafted from Fargo, N. D., and Blackwood, an Arkansas "find," are among the new pitchers. Other new men include Clothier, drafted from Winnipeg and O'Rourke, purchased from Venice, Cal., infielders, and Harry O'Donnell, a semi-professional catcher from Philadelphia.

The probable lineup and batting order of the team that will oppose Columbus in the opening game, April 14, follows: Stansbury, lf; Ruemiller, ss; Osborn, cf; Severoid or V. Clemons, c; Ingerton, rf; Weinberg, 1b; Dodge, 3b; McLarry, 2b; Loudermilk, p.

The Blues.

With a strong outfield, a good pitching staff, an ordinary infield, and an indifferent catching department, Kansas City makes its bow for the 1914 season, William Armour, formerly with Toledo, is the new manager.

Although John Savage, secretary, made a world-wide trip early in the winter and signed every member of the club, the Federal league lured away Frank Laporte, star infielder, and clothed him in an Indianapolis uniform. Laporte cost Owner Tebeau $3,600. He was purchased from the Washington Americans and his absence in the line up is a blow to the local club.

Bowney or Wortman, a recruit, probably will play at the "far corner." Pfeffer, a young infielder, purchased from the Philadelphia Americans, will be at short.

The Blues' outfield looks to be one of the best in the league, offensively and defensively, with Compton, Mattick and John Titus.

The pitching staff seems strong, with "Cy" Morgan, the former Philadelphia American star, Lew Richie, Covington, Allison, Lange Reagan, who was with Wichita last year, and Willis, a recruit from Quincy, Ill. Daniels, who was with the Blues last year, is the only left hander.

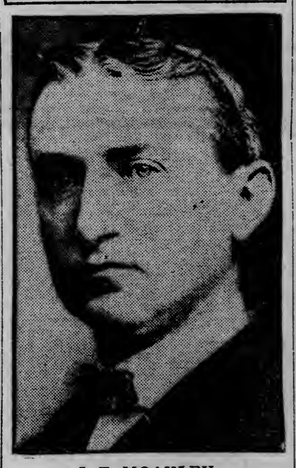
Moore and Geibel are catchers with little experience and it may be necessary to call upon Heine Peitz, the veteran and coach, for relief duty behind the bat.

The probable lineup for the opening game: Pfeffer, ss; Rath, 2b; mattick, cf; Titus, lf; Compton, rf; Wortman, 3b; Brief, 1b; Geibel, c; Morgan, p.

The Senators.

Critics say Columbus is not as strong as it was last year though Manager "Bill" Hinchman predicts it will be a strong contender for the pennant.

The loss of George Perring, last season's third baseman, who jumped to the Federals, caused one weak spot in Hinchman's lineup which has not yet been definitely filled. Either John Daly or Pete Johns, both on the Columbus club's payroll last season, are expected to start at third.



Ray Miller, who carried off batting honors of the Senators last season, will play first base, while Elmer Benson and George Gerber, also on last year's team, are expected to play second base and shortstop, respectively. Syd Smith, for the third season, is expected to do the bulk of the work behind the plate.

Indications are that the outfield will be composed of Jimmy Jones in right and Kemper Shelton in center, while Hinchman will play left field unless some of the recruits show unexpected form.

Jack Ferry, formerly of the Pittsburg Pirates, is looked upon by Manager Hinchman as one of the mainstays of the pitching staff. Eayrs, another pitcher, a lefthander, secured from the Pirates, also is counted upon.

Among the recruits that Manager Hinchman is watching with interest

MAKES FINE RECORD WITH CORNELL'S SQUAD

J. F. MOAKLEY.

The veteran track trainer, John F. Moakley, is given credit for the winning of the intercollegiate cross-country title by Cornell. Cornell has held this title for thirteen of the last fifteen years. The Ithacans lost the title last year and the victory this year was a remarkable piece of preparation and training by Moakley. The most remarkable feature of the recent victory is the fact that not a man on last year's squad finished in the points. Every man was new to the game this fall and has been developed by Moakley. Altogether Cornell has the best lot of runners she has had in recent years.

SPORTING EVENTS OF THE WEEK AS SEEN BY THE HERALD CARTOONIST

are Pitcher Shenberg, secured from the Virginia league, and Pitcher Green, formerly in the United States army. Dixie Davis, another pitcher, who after twirling a no-hit game in mid-season last year, failed to show good form, is said to be an uncertain quantity this season.

The Cleveland Bunch.

With a new manager and a largely reconstructed team the Cleveland American association team—last year's Toledo team—hopes this year to play a more important part in the league race than it did in 1913. Its success is important, because on its probably depends the cordial reception of minor league ball by fans that have been accustomed to major league ball only.

James T. Sheckard, the old Brooklyn and Chicago star, will manage the team, while playing in the outfield.

The team's greatest weakness appears to be behind the bat. Rex Devogt, last year's first string catcher, probably will do the most of the work this year, and will be assisted by George Yantz, who was purchased from New Orleans. Sheckard may get one of the Cleveland American league team's recruit catchers.

In the box Sheckard will have George and Baskette of last year's team; and a number of new men, some of them having had brief tryouts last year, and others being recruits from the faster minor leagues. Among these will be Swindell, Brenton, Beyer, Beahner, Crum and Frost. John C. Lush, the old National leaguer, more recently with the Toronto Internationals, is with the team.

The infield is thought to be stronger than last year. Paulette, last year with Mobile, and at one time a New York Giant recruit, probably will play first, Gardner will be at second, Stump at short and Gates, a bench warmer with Cleveland last year, at third.

Sheckard has himself, Jay Kirke and Casey Jones, veterans, and Southworth and Hillyard, recruits, to play the outfield.

It is a heavy hitting team.

The probable roster: Catchers, Devogt and Yantz; pitchers, George, Baskette, Lush, Swindell, Brenton, Penn, Dashner and Frost; first base, Paulette; second base, Gardner; shortstop, Stump; third base, Bates; utility infielders, Hudnall, Stoll; outfielders, Sheckard, Kirke and Jones; utility outfielders, Southword and Hillyard.

The Indianapolis Team.

Indianapolis, which finished a poor last in the 1913 pennant race, contains few new faces, but supporters of the team have hopes of it finishing well up in the first division this year. These hopes are due to the new ownership and management.

Jack Hendricks, who formerly managed the Denver Western league team, and J. C. McGill, president of the club, seemingly have injected a new spirit into the players and inspired the fans. The men, in the practice season, appeared to work together as a team better than they did last year in midseason.

"Nig" Cole, an outfielder, and Pitcher Gaskill are the only two really new faces in the lineup, but Manager Hendricks has been scouting around the camps of the major league clubs, expecting to pick off a few likely looking recruits.

The probable lineup at the start of the season will be: Reilley, Cole and Niles, outfield; Metz, first base; Crandall, second base; Galloway, third base, Kelleher, shortstop; Livingston, Van and McCarty, catchers and Willis, Merz, Laroy, Schardt, Burk, Harrington and Gaskill, pitchers.

St. Paul's Forecast.

St. Paul's chances depend in a measure upon how Pitcher Ralph Works rounds into form. If his arm, which caused him some trouble during training, recovers its normal strength, Manager Friel hopes for a first division berth. The team probably will line up as follows at the start: Bailey, left field; Hinchman, second base; Hemphill, center field; Johnson, third base; McCormick, right field; Autrey, first base; McNally, shortstop; James, catcher; Kerger, pitcher.

THE COLLEGE BASEBALL PLAYER

Holds Prominent Place in Spring Sporting Program; Record Closely Followed By Professional Scouts; First Intercollegiate Regatta of the Year.

New York, April 11.—During the next three months the college baseball player will hold a prominent position in the spring sporting program. His record will be followed closely by university alumni and with even closer scrutiny by the professional scout, for major league club managers are fully aware that occasionally a star may be plucked from the 'varsity diamond. Players of the caliber of Eddie Collins and Christy Mathewson are found but infrequently. There always exists, however, the possibility of securing players who, if not capable of major league speed at the ourset of their professional careers, can quickly be coached and trained to the point where they are a decided acquisition to a big circuit club.

Under professional coaching the standard of play in college baseball has risen rapidly duirng the past few years. Veteran big leaguers have aided the natural player by advice and instruction. Little hints on how to bat; take the ball for a quick throw and other points of technique in the game quickly bring players with natural qualifications within the range of major league possibilities. All those connected with the professional game today realize that the college baseball team offers one of the best recruiting grounds at the disposal of the big league magnates. Billy Evans, the American league umpire, a college graduate and close observer of every angle of baseball said recently in discussing this phase of the game:

"The college ball player has become a big factor in the major leagues. Ten years ago a collegian was a rarity in a big league line-up. A few years ago major league scouts, in search of promising material, gave the college games very little consideration. At a big game last summer between two strong college teams, exactly twelve major league scouts were in attendance. Quite a testimonial to the value placed on the college player, by the men whose duty it is to pick up future big league stars.

"Connie Mack is the pioneer in the exploiting of the college player. The resourceful leader of the world's champions saw the worth of the college player, long before any other major league manager looked on the 'varsity athlete seriously. I once asked Mack why he was always so anxious to look over the promising college players. His reply was brief, but characteristic of the famous leader of the Athletics: 'I like players who can think. Four years of study certainly ought to improve a fellow's intelligence. If it hasn't, it doesn't take me very long to discover the fact. Another reason why I favor the collegian, is because he comes to me free from any other style of play. It is much easier to get players accustomed to your way of thinking, who have never been drilled in any other system. Another point in favor of the collegian is that he knows pretty well the best rules for keeping in condition. I have no use for players who fail to keep in shape. He also has been taught the real value of discipline by his professor in the classroom and his coach on the ball field."

Regatta at Oakland.

The first intercollegiate crew regatta of the year is rowed today on the Oakland estuary, California, with the varsity and freshmen eights of Washington, Stanford and California competing. In addition to the usual interest which centers about this race for the intercollegiate rowing title of the Pacific coast there is the added probability that the winning eight will cross the continent to measure watermanship and endurance at Poughkeepsie, against the leading Eastern college crews in the race for the intercollegiate championship of the nation. During the past two years the Stanford university and University of Washington have sent crews to the Hudson, representing the Far West, just as Wisconsin has for many seasons been the sole entry from the Middle West.

In 1912 the Stanford crew which won the triangular regatta on the Oakland estuary, rowing the three miles in 16 minutes 10 seconds, finished a poor last at Poughkeepsie. Last season Washington's eight won the Pacific coast regatta in 17 minutes 44 seconds, and on the Hudson finished third, less than two shell lengths behind Syracuse, the winning crew. There were many spectators present who held the opinion that had the Seattle crew spurted earlier in the race Washington would have won instead is due to this excellent showing that Eastern rowing enthusiasts look to Washington to win today's race and of lapping Cornell's shell with Syracuse leading the Ithaca oarsmen. It return to the Hudson course for another try for national honors.

Coach Hiram Conibear, however, states that his crew is not equal in either weight, form or stroke ability to the 1912 combination and for that reason he is rather doubtful of the outcome of the race. He said recently:

"We are not expecting a walkaway in the race. I consider our chances are only fair for winning. Many people will think that, after the showing of last year's varsity, we ought to win from Stanford and California by at least half a mile. But I do not have the material this season that I had last and with this year's crew I will be tickled to death if we pull over the finishing line with open water between us and the second crew."

Athletic Fraternity Growing.

The new athletic fraternity, Sigma Delta Psi, membership in which is to be won by ability to attain satisfactory marks in a list of specified athletic events, is making rapid growth in popularity and membership in Eastern college circles. Started in the Middle West about a year ago the plan and objects of the fraternity have gained adherents in all parts of the country. The tests are designed to strike a balance between the events most common to American university athletics. The list was framed by the athletic directors at leading American universities, the idea spreading from Indiana university, but receiving prompt response and considerable development in the East. One of the rules of membership is that a college letter won in any sport shall count for the test in that sport. That is, membership on the college football team will abolish the need of competition in the football test. The requirements for membership in the full or regular grade include twelve all-around athletic tests, as follows:

One hundred-yard dash, 11 3-5 seconds; 120-yard hurdles, 20 seconds; running high jump, 5 feet; running broad jump, 18 feet; putting 16-pound shot, 30 feet; pole vault, 8 feet 6 inches; throwing baseball, 250 feet; punting football, 120 feet; three-mile run, 18 minutes, 30 seconds; ten-mile walk, 2 hours 30 minutes; 100-yard swim, and tumbling tests not yet specified.

There will also be a junior grade in membership, admission to which will be through slightly modified tests, as follows: 100-yard run, 12 seconds; 120-yard hurdles, 20 seconds; running high jump, 4 feet 6 inches; running broad jump, 15 feet; putting 16-pound shot, 25 feet; pole vault, 8 feet; throwing baseball, 200 feet; punting football, 90 feet; three-mile run, 20 minutes; ten-mile walk, 3 hours; swim, 50 yards.

The Palmer Stadium's Results.

Dean McClenahan, chairman of the faculty board of athletic control at Princeton, believes that the recent gift of the Palmer stadium paves the way for a complete and modern athletic and sport equipment at the New Jersey university. He said in discussing the outlook:

"One of the most gratifying features of the splendid gift is the fact that it is to be used to obtain an increase of the revenues of the university. This increase will enable the work of the university to be done even more efficiently. This increase will be in the form of a rental to be paid by the Athletic association to the university.

"The additional revenue from games will in time permit the Athletic association to increase its athletic equipment in the form of a baseball grandstand, a greatly needed baseball cage, hockey rink, and so on, unless some other generous alumus or friend meets these needs before the Athletic association can do so itself. It is honed also that in time the stadium will permit us to lower the price of admission for undergraduates to all of our athletic events."

THE FRAILEST PLAYER ONE OF THE GREATEST

Pittsburg, Pa., April 11. — William Keeler is a direct contradiction of the somewhat general assumption that brawn and muscle are necessary qualities in the making of a successful ball player. He is a puny individual of very slight build, and therefore frail looking. Nevertheless, he twice led the National league in batting, in 1897 and 1898, and in the seven years he spent in the American league he was once second in batting honors and once third.

He was never a "slugger" and never figured among the heavy hitters of any team he belonged to. Singles were his specialty, and he made enough of them, aided by his fleetness of foot, to give him high rank among the best batters in the game. He is the originator of the expression, "hit where they ain't."

This observation was in answer to a question as to what made a successful hitter. As a fielder, first as a third baseman and then as an outfielder, he took rank with the highest. For nineteen years he played in the major leagues, twelve with the National league and seven with the American league.

Born in Brooklyn.

Keeler was born in Brooklyn on March 3, 1872, and played on local and other teams as an amateur and "semi-professional" from a tot up. In 1892 he was with the Plainfield, N. J., team, an independent organization, which played one game a week.

Herman Doerscher, the noted umpire, was then manager of the Binghamton team of the Eastern league. Happening to be around New York in the early part of June, he watched a game in which Keeler played, and so impressed was he with the youngster's work that, although he had gone to see a player named Brennan perform, he forgot all about Brennan and thought only of the little left-handed batter.

He approached Keeler after the game and asked him what his pay was. Keeler replied that he was getting $2 a game, and when Doerscher offered him $90 a month and added him $25 in advance, Billy accepted with much alacrity and then began his real professional career.

He played third base for Binghamton, supplanting John Irwin, and also was seen at second base and shortstop, and sometimes took a turn in the pitcher's box. There were two seasons in 1892 in the Eastern league, and Binghamton won the second half and the championship.

Signs With the Giants.

Keeler's fine work attracted the attention of major league magnates, and Louisville, through its president, Dr. T. Hunt Stucky, offered $1,500 for his services, but the offer was turned down. Later Pat Powers, manager of the New York Giants, secured him for $800 and paid him $1,600 a year.

Billy played his first major league game on Sept. 30, 1892, taking the place of Jim Knowles at third base, who had succeeded Denny Lyons at that corner. He played steadily until the close of the season, taking part in fourteen games, one game short of getting an official record.

In 1893 the New York club, of which John M. Ward had become manager, secured George Davis from Cleveland in trade for Buck Ewing. Davis, one of the best infielders in the game, took charge of third base, and this left no room for Keeler, who was used in three games in center field, subbing for Harry Lyons; two games at short, subbing for Bill Fuller, and one game at second base, subbing for Ward.

Near the end of July Keeler's services were sold to the Broklyn club, of which team Dave Fultz was the manager, for the same amount New York paid to Binghamton for him, $800. At Brooklyn he was also unable to secure a permanent berth, although he subbed for George Schoch a third base and for Foutz at left field. In August he was loaned to the Binghamton team, for which he played fifteen games at third base, finishing the season in the Eastern league. The Binghamton team was then managed by Charles M. ("Pop") Smith, the veteran second baseman, and finished fifth in the race for the Eastern league championship.

In 1894 Keller was traded by Brooklyn to Baltimore along with Dan Brouthers, for Billy Shindle and George Treadway. It was now that Keller began his really brilliant career. He took Treadway's place in right field for Baltimore, and for sixteen years afterwards was one of the star outfielders, and never played any other position. He was with Baltimore five years, with Brooklyn four years and with the New York American league team seven years.

The Baltimore team in 1894, when Keeler joined it, was managed by Ed Hanlon, and won the National league championship three years in succession, in 1894, 1895 and 1896. The Oriole outfield then consisted of Joe Kelley in left field; Walter (Steve) Brodie in center, and Billy Keeler in right, all cast-offs.

Kelley was thrown off by Pittsburg, Brodie by Boston and St. Louis, and Keeler by New York and Brooklyn. In fact, almost the whole Baltimore championship outfit, from the manager to the shortstop, was made up of cast-offs. Hanlon, the manager, was cast off by Pittsburg, and Hugh Jennings, the shortstop, by Louisville.

In 1899, Keeler, along with Manager Hanlon and the pick of the Oriole team, went to Brooklyn, which then won the championship in that year and in 1900. In 1903 the team was raided by the American league and Keeler went over to the American league team of New York, together with the cream of the Brooklyn players. He remained with the Highlanders until the close of the season of 1909, when he was let go, his baseball days apparently being over.

In 1910 he was engaged by McGraw to teach the Giants to hit "where they ain't," and occasionally acted as pinch hitter. In 1911 he joined the Rochester team, for which he played thirty-eight games in right field. In 1912 the Brooklyn club took a fancy to the little hero and put his name on the salary list, and it was the last time his name was connected with baseball of the higher class.

BOTH SIDES SATISFIED

Organized Baseball and Federal Official Claim Victory By Decision.

Philadelphia Attorneys Say They Can Sue Federals for Damage.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 11.—Expressing no surprise over the decision of Judge Sessions in the Killifer case at Grand Rapids and contending that the contracts that are now in vogue differ materially from the one upon which Judge Session made a ruling, August Herrmann, chairman of the national baseball commission issued this statement:

"In response to a request for an expression of views relating to the scope and text of the Killifer decision I will say that I have seen only an outline of the decision and am of the opinion that it sustains the methods under which national agreement baseball is conducted. Judge Sessions holds that the 1914 contracts to the ball players are in form valid and binding on both parties.'

"The court, in severely scoring the player for violating his obligations to the Philadelphia club condemns the parties who tempted him to be disloyal.

"It is true that the reserve clause in the players' 1913 contract is declared invalid because it is uncertain and indefinite and uncertain with respect to salary conditions for his proposed employment and therefore lacking in the essential elements of the contract.

"This ruling is not in the nature of a surprise to my associates and myself for the reason that the defects pointed out by Judge Sessions have been remedied in our 1914 contract.

"It is quite natural that the judge's comment 'that he who comes into a court of equity must come with clean hands,' should be pleasing to organized baseball, because it serves a notice on all parties that a disregard of the moral or contractural obligations of a player to his club will not be permitted. The court goes so far as to hold that the offer of a longer term of employment and a larger salary is a wilful wrong to the club to which the player owes his allegiance, when done for the purpose of having the player violate his contract."

St. Louis, April 11.—President Johnson of the American league, Chairman Herrmann of the national baseball commission and an array of lawyers will confer with President Hedges of the St. Louis Americans here Sunday as to what action organized baseball shall take in regard to the action of Pitcher Earl Hamilton in jumping his contract with the St. Louis Americans to play with the Kansas City Federals.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11.—Whether further proceedings would be instituted against William Killifer, whom the Federal court at Grand Rapids, Mich., yesterday refused to enjoin from playing with a baseball team other than the Chicago Federals, Edward E. Gates, general counsel for the Federal league, could not say last night. Mr. Gates said he had not had opportunity to consult his associates. Gates issued a statement saying:

"From the reports that I have received of the decision in the Killifer case, Judge Sessions of the United States district court held that the reserve clause of the 1913 contract of the Philadelphia club is unenforcible and that the contract is void for lack of mutuality on account of the ten days' clause therein contained.

"He further held that the Killifer contract with the Chicago Federal club was valid, for which Killifer could be made to respond in damages—but that we were not entitled to the extraordinary equitable remedy of a temporary injunction upon the motion pending litigation, upon the grounds that we had knowledge of a mere moral obligation existing between Killifer and the Philadelphia club. This is the only point upon which the court did not sustain us. We maintained that the complainant could not be said to have come into a court of equity with unclean hands merely because it had knowledge of a moral obligation existing, not between the Chicago club and Killifer, but between Killifer and the Philadelphia club; but the court held otherwise on this one point. In that particular it may be said to be a close question upon which even courts may differ.

"I regard this as a victory for the Federal league, in that it sustains our contention in regard to the reserve clause, and that the 1913 contract of organized baseball is not enforcible because of lack of mutuality on account of the ten days' release clause."

Philadelphia, April 11.—George Wharton Pepper and Samuel M. Clement, Jr., counsel for the Philadelphia National league club, made the following statement in regard to the Killifer decision:

"We naturally feel much gratified with the decision because the contention of the Philadelphia club is sustained in every particular. It was our contention before the court that the reserve clause in 1913 contracts created a legal relationship between the player and the club which no third person lawfully could disturb.

"We conceded that if a player violated the reserve clause the club could not compel him to perform; but we insisted that until the club and the player had agreed to disagree our friends of the Federal lague must keep hands off. Not content with their interference between the club and Killifer, they went so far as to ask the court to help them to make their interference effective.

"This audacity the court now has stormly rebuked. 'Their conduct,' says Judge Sessions, 'is not only open to criticism and censure but is tainted with unfairness and injustice if not with actionable fraud.'

"Having come into equity with unclean hands, the chancellor now has turned them out of doors. This leaves the whole situation in a most satisfactory condition from our point of view. 'It will be perceived that the same conduct that disentitles the Federal league to equitable relief also gives the Philadelphia club the double right to sue for damages for past injury and to seek protection by injunction from any future interference with its business."

COURT FINDING STIRS THE BASEBALL WORLD

United States Judge Declares Reserve Clause Is Invalid.

Bulwark of Organized Baseball Removed By Decision in Killifer Case.

Court Finds in Favor of Nationals as to Players' Status.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 11.—The old reserve clause in the contracts of organized baseball players was held to be invalid and unenforceable in a decision handed down yesterday by Federal Judge Clarence W. Sessions, denying the application of the Chicago Federal league club for an injunction to restrain Catcher William Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia National league club.

Contracts of such nature were held by Judge Sessions to be "lacking in the necessary qualities of definiteness, certainty and mutuality."

"A contract exists," says the decision, "but, if broken by either party the other is remedyless because the courts are helpless to enforce its performance or to reward damages for its breach."

Judge Sessions denied the application because he said the plaintiff knew Killifer was under a moral if not legal obligation to play with the Philadelphia club, when it induced him to repudiate his obligation by offering him a longer term of employment and much larger compensation.

"In so doing a wilful wrong was done the Philadelphia club which was none the less grievous and harmful because the injured party could not obtain legal redress."

The conduct of both Killifer and the Federal league club was "tainted with unfairness and injustice if not actionable fraud," in the opinion of Judge Sessions.

After asking the question "Are the plaintiffs in court with clean hands?" the court answers it with the negative ruling that "the motion for an injunction must be denied, * * * not because there are any equities in Killifer's favor which excuse or exempt him from the performance of his engagements, and not because the merits of the controversy are with the Philadelphia club, but solely because the actions and conduct of the plaintiffs * * * do not square with one of the vital and fundamental principles of equity."

Chicago, April 11.—Judge Sessions' statement regarding the reserve rule makes legal the claim of the Federal league on practically every one of the 200 ball players on its roster, according to officials of the league here. Except Earl Hamilton, the pitcher who "jumped" a St. Louis American contract to join the Federals, and one or two others, eleven of the players now in the Feedral organization were held to their former league affiliations only by the reserve rule.

The Federal league contended that the reserve rule was illegal and declared it was within its rights when it signed players of organized baseball whose old contracts had expired.

Regarding the ruling that the Federals came into court lacking "clean hands," the league's representatives here declared that organized baseball which took away five men who had signed Federal contracts, would have trouble showing "clean hands" in court.

President Gilmore, besides saying that the verdict indicated a victory for the Federals, and that they possibly would appeal the case, declined to talk much about it. News of the decision was received by him just as he left for New York.

ORIGIN OF FAMOUS RESERVE CLAUSE IN 1880.

The reserve clause, the bulwark of organized professional baseball, came into being in 1880, when the old National league adopted a by-law which retained a player's services indefinitely for a club with which he signed a contract. This reserve clause was suggested by A. G. Mills, who afterwards was first chairman of the national board. In 1882 when an alliance was formed by the National league, American association and Northwestern league the reserve clause was continued as one of the rules.

It was decided later that the contract was illegal because it gave the player no rights under contract. It was then — about 1890—that the "ten-day notice" was inserted upon legal advice. This made it necessary for a club owner to give a player ten days' notice of release. This release then ended the contract between the manager and player.

The reserve clause was thought necessary to protect ball clubs, prevent contract "jumping" and subsequent competitive bidding. Under the present ruling of the court, the clause is not valid.

OUTSIDE TEAMS MAY JOIN LEAGUE

Russell Barkell, chairman of the organization committee of the local branch of the National Amateur Baseball association, has sent out word to Cloquet, Proctor, Moose Lake and many others of the surrounding towns, requesting the team managers to join the local organization and compete with the Woodlands and several other of the Duluth semi-professional teams for the A class championship of this part of the state.

When the by-laws of the national association arrive there will be immediate action upon the part of the committee members, according to the announcement today of Chairman Barkell.

It is planned to get the local branch of the league organized as speedily as possible and get as many of the local teams as possible under the banner of the league.

NATIONAL BOWLING CONGRESS.

Begins Seventh Annual Tournament at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 11.—The Maneto team of Philadelphia, with a score of 2790, headed the list of five-men teams at the opening last night of the seventh annual tournament of the national bowling congress. West Philadelphia was second in the five-men squads with the Casino Colts rolling third.

One hundred and fourteen five-men teams, 304 two-men teams and 612 individuals, representing cities throughout the East, several Western cities and Canada, are entered in the tournament which will continue until April 29.

The two men teams and individuals are expected to start on the championship rounds today.

Revised scores of the five-men team event placed the Electra of Montreal with a total score of 2761 in second place, while Wilmot was third with 2585, Camden with 2572, Presto, New York, 2419, and Pirates, Philadelphia, 2405, also took places among the leaders.

WILL FARM SOME.

Mike Cantillon Has Some Players to Spare Northern.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 11.—The Minneapolis American association team which has been training here since March 17, broke camp yesterday.

The first team will play the Topeka Western league club at Topeka Saturday and Sunday and the second team will have to play the Lincoln Western league club at Lincoln on the same days. A majority of both squads then will proceed to Kansas City for the opening of the association season Tuesday and the others will go to Minneapolis, to be farmed out by Manager Cantillon to Northern league clubs.

Federal League Games.

Baltimore, Md., April 11.—Yesterday's score: Baltimore Federals, 20; Johns Hopkins, 2.

Two Hurt in Runaway.

Langdon, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—When their team ran away, Mrs. C. M. Johnson was thrown out and seriously shaken up, and her daughter had a shoulder dislocated. The team, driven by a young son of Mrs. Johnson, became frightened and spon afterwards the pole ran into the ground and the rig was upset, throwing the occupants into the air.

WANTS THE ALASKAN COAST MADE SAFE

Secretary Redfield Asks Congress for Money for the Work.

Washington, April 11.—An appeal to congress to recognize the imperative need of surveys, lighthouse and fog signal establishments and of the removal of the deadly Pinnacle rocks along the Alaskan coast before the government railroad in Alaska is built and shipping increased, is made by Secretary Redfield in a letter to several Western senators and representatives.

Writing in reply to an inquiry as to the department's plans, the secretary outlined the long program contemplated under the numerous appropriations for the Pacific coast asked in various pending measures.

Instancing the recent loss of the steamer State of California in Gambia bay, Alaska, carrying down thirty-two passengers, Mr. Redfield declared his belief that there was a wholly needless loss of life arising from such disasters.

"The department is willing so to act," he said, "as to stop them, but it cannot do it for lack of funds and equipment."

The department has asked for fog stations at Cape St. Elias and Kellett bluff and for six new vessels for the coast and geodetic survey to cost in all $525,000. New boats for the fishery service costing $100,000 will be sought.

OLD BOND CASE AGAIN RENEWED.

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—The tale of an Ozark county struggle to escape payment for the indiscretions of pioneers had an echo in petitions filed in the office of the United States district clerk's office here yesterday.

On promise of promoters that they would give the county a railroad, St. Clair county gave the promoters a bond issue forty years ago. The promoters sold the bonds to innocent purchasers. St. Clair county never got the railroad. St. Clair county, too, never has reimbursed the bondholders. To do so now, with accumulated interest, would be equivalent to handing over the county.

The bond buyers sued and were given judgments, which never have been paid. If a judgment is not renewed before ten years expires, it is outlawed, so every ninth year, for forty years, holders of the bonds have sought renewal of judgment from the Federal court. This being the ninth year of the latest renewal the petitions filed yesterday seek another lease.

DIES ON WAY TO SEE NEW HOME.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 11.—While driving from his home at Shields, Pa., to Coraopolis Heights to inspect a mansion he expected to occupy next month, Joseph Judson Brooks, general counsel of the Pennsylvania company operating the lines west of Pittsburg, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday.

AVERY TRUCK IS BIG MONEY SAVER

Has Severe Workout in Handling 40-Foot Cedar Poles.

There probably never was a three-ton truck that has had a more severe work-out than the three-ton Avery truck purchased from the Avery company last May and now owned and operated by the Otter Tail Power company of Fergus Falls, Minn., being used in the construction of a high tension electric line running from Fergus Falls seventy miles south to Ortonville.

In the construction of this line it was necessary to distribute 1,500 forty-foot cedar poles a distance of sixty miles. How to do this quickly yet economically was the question. At first thought the steam traction engine was considered, but the idea was finally given up, as the steam engine was too slow and cumbersome. They finally purchased an Avery three-ton truck equipped with cast steel rim wheels and wood plug tires and a two-wheel trailer, thinking this would be the most practical outfit, which soon proved to be the case.

The two-wheel trailer has an eighteen-foot coupling reach which couples directly with the truck rear axle. The reach is fastened to the trailer axle by means of a flexible coupling that allows the trailer axle to be guided with heavy cross chains attached to the rear axle of the truck, enabling the truck driver to follow any wagon road and make the turns that are found at the section lines. The trailer guides equally well backwards, which was very necessary in getting up to a flat car or up to a pile of poles, for loading.

The front end of the poles are held in place on the truck by means of a heavy swivel bolster and stakes which allow the poles to adjust themselves with the trailer without putting any undue strain on the truck platform. The base of the bolster is fastened to the truck platform by means of two hook bolts, which make it possible to take off and replace with the side boards in a very short time.

The bolster on the truck is six feet wide between stakes. The trailer bolster is the same width and has three and one-half-foot stakes. It is supported by means of a fifth wheel twenty-two inches in diameter. The top of the trailer bolster from the ground is sixty-two inches. This height was necessary to keep the logs practically level above ground.

In testing out the truck, thirteen to seventeen forty-foot poles were hauled at each load the first day, some of the loads being up a 20 per cent grade.

Vernon A. Wright, the engineer in charge of the power line, says that with eight teams of horses they could not distribute ten poles each or a total of eighty poles per day, and this was done at a cost of 50 cents per pole or $40 per day. At times they have hauled with the truck twenty-two forty-foot poles in one load or a total of 15,000 pounds. The average number of poles they distribute in one day is seventy-eight, at a cost of 20 cents per pole. This gives them a net saving of $23.40 per day.

The truck not only distributes its load along the highways, but also by means of a nigger-head attachment on the front end of the crank shaft, it loads and unloads itself and also places the poles in their upright positions.

Fords in Washington.

One United States Senator and ten congressmen own and drive Fords in Washington, D. C., according to a report sent us by the Washington agents of the Ford company, Miller Brothers' Automobile and Supply house. Besides these distinguished citizens there are many other notables at the national capital who are Ford owners.

Two Ford cars are at the disposal of members of the senate. The United States congressional library uses a Ford for delivery purposes. Two Fords are used by the quartermaster general of the United States army. The commandant of the United States Soldiers home has a Ford. William F. Gude, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, owns a Ford, as does also the Hon. John W. Yerkes, ex-commissioner of internal revenue. The government of the District of Columbia owns and operates five Fords.

Following is the list of legislators and other important government officials whose Fords are daily seen on Washington's streets: Senator F. McL. Simmonds of North Carolina; Congressman Joseph Howell of Utah, Congressman Perl D. Decker of Missouri, Congressman George E. Gorman of Illinois, Congressman John A. Maguire of Nebraska, Congressman W. J. Sinnot of Oregon, Congressman Henry George of New York, Congressman Ben C. Humphries of Mississippi, Congressmen Roy O. Woodruff of Michigan, Congressman J. H. Small of North Carolina, Congressman Philip P. Campbell of Kansas, Hon. James I. Blakeslee, fourth assistant postmaster general, Hon. William H. Osborn, commissioner of internal revenue, Hon. John Barrett, director general Pan-American union, Hon. Frederick L. Siddons, commissioner of District of Columbia, Hon. Bradford Knapp, United States department of agriculture. OF INTEREST TO OWNERS

There is no mystery concealed under the hood of a car, there is nothing that should be kept secret from the owner. In fact the progressive manufacturer is very much gratified when his customer shows a desire to learn, because the well-informed is usually the satisfied owner. But the difficulty arises after the control of the car has been mastered and a slight knowledge acquired of the care and attention that the car should receive. Instructive literature accompanies the car; magneto timing is studied and that the carburetor sometimes needs adjusting is learned. Enthusiasm prevails and the temptation to "tinker" usually becomes too great; a delicate adjusting screw is turned or a wire is disconnected and then—trouble begins. Nearly all manufacturers caution the owner against "tinkering."

* * *

The idea that there is no particular care necessary for the successful operation of a car, aside from filling the tanks and radiator is erroneous. There is no more carefully designed mechanism in existence, and as is usually the case with all complicated machines, careful inspection and attention to details will prolong its life and insure successful operation to an immeasurable degree.

* * *

The manufacturer is always ready to advise and help you. His reputation is in your hands and don't be too much inclined to blame the car when the first little trouble arises. Each machine has peculiarities of its own and no matter how experienced you may be in the operation of motor cars in general, it is essential that the manufacturer's instructions be carefully read and followed.

* * *

Treat your car as you would an expensive watch. A lot of trouble may be avoided by having an expert examine the car about once every two months. There are many little wrongs that may quickly develop into big wrongs if not discovered and checked.

* * *

* * *

Don't over-prime the motor in cold weather as gasoline evaporates slowly at a low temperature.

* * *

It is a great advantage with respect to power and economy to protect the lower half of the radiator during the winter months.

* * *

A piece of rag or waste wet with hot water and held around the carburetor or intake manifold will help to start the motor in cold weather. Hot water poured into the radiator is even better.

* * *

The automobilist who uses dry cells for starting will find that a greater number are required during the winter months to furnish the same strength current. This is due to the fact that cold renders dry cells less efficient.

* * *

Treat your car well, lubricate it regularly. The result will be efficient service at minimum up-keep.

BIG OMAHA SHIPMENT.

Thirty-Two Carloads of Cartercars Go to the West.

Saturday, April 4, a Grand Trunk engine puffed its way out of the Pontiac, Mich., station, pulling in its wake a train consisting of thirty-two cars containing 102 gearless transmission Cartercars. This trainload was shipped to the Cartercar Nebraska company of Omaha.

This enormous order is by far the largest single shipment the Cartercar company has ever made into the great and growing West. W. E. Foshier, president of the Cartercar Nebraska company, could not wait for the entire order in one train so had three carloads shipped ahead of time.

The record Mr. Foshier has made selling Cartercars has given him the reputation of being one of the largest and most successful automobile dealers in the country.

Many big men in the industry admit that it is one of the largest orders that will go into the West this year. The fact that it comes at a time when the business of the country is recovering from a depression makes it all the greater achievement for the Cartercar company.

"We have always been able to place all the Cartercars we could spare for the Western territory," said H. R. Radford, vice president and general manager of the Cartercar company, in speaking of his latest triumph, "but at this time we are unusually proud of Omaha shipment.

"It is easy to see how this early shipment argues well for the 1914 business of the gearless transmission Cartercar for many other makers are just now getting in full swing again and here we are sending away the largest shipment in our entire history."

"I have never had any trouble convincing Westerners of the many advantages of the gearless tranmission Cartercar," said Foshier the man who ordered the thirty-two carload order. "It isn't hard to sell a man when he sees the work Cartercars are doing on the 50 per cent incline and hills in Nebraska and other places in the West. All we have got to do to sell him is to get him to take a ride in a Cartercar—the rest is easy.

"I have handled the Cartercar several years, but I think that the 1914 models are easily the most appealing cars on wheels. They have all the known values of Cartercar construction and several other new features, which make them easily the leaders of their class."

BELIEVES IN SLOGANS.

"First in the Field" Sounds Good, Says Haynes Man.

M. W. Turner, distributer in this territory for the Haynes, America's first car, was very enthusiastic when seen at his showrooms, 218 East First street over the slogan which the pioneer auto manufacturers of Kokomo, Ind., have recently adopted.

"Let me tell you," said Mr. Turner. "As a slogan, 'first in the field—ahead of the times always' sound good, and how many manufacturers are there that can live up to it? Only one that I know of, and that is the Haynes company.

"It is known the world over that Elwood Haynes, president of the Haynes Automobile company, invented and built the first gasoline self-propelled vehicle in the years 1893-94, and the original of which has been for many years on exhibition at our national museum, the Smithsonian institution, Washington, D. C.

"It is also an acknowledged fact that Elwood Haynes has either been the originator or among the first to adopt every important improvement on the automobile, since he built the 'horseless carriage' back in '93. The long list of 'firsts' which he has to his credit, is evidence enough of his leadership in automobile construction.

"Elwood Haynes was ahead of the times twenty-one years ago when he turned his dream of building a self-propelled vehicle into a reality—and he is ahead of the times today when he adopts the electric gear shifting mechanism, the greatest refinement in automobile construction in recent years. This device entirely elliminates the hand shift lever, and permits the driver to shift gears by electricity, silently, skillfully and without physical effort.

"As I say, a slogan sound good, but it is necessary to live up to it, and the Haynes company has certainly merited the one just adopted, 'first in the field—ahead of the times always.'"

OPEN NEW AGENCY.

Cycle Car Company Will Conduct Big Sales Campaign.

The Dayton Cyclecar Sales company has established a Minnesota agency at 792 East Seventh street, St. Paul, according to a circular received by the automobile editor of The Herald. The agency will conduct a sales campaign throughout Minnesota and should the returns prove justifiable, a similar campaign will be instituted in North and South Dakota and Montana.

The Cyclecar is the latest in automobiles and from reports in the East is proving a popular car. It has a four-cylinder motor, which is able to generate 18-horse power. The car has but one seat, although newer models are much larger, and the little machine has a total weight of but 700 pounds.

SELF-STARTERS BOOM THE ENCLOSED CARS.

"The winter of 1913-14 was notable in the automobile industry for the greatly increased interest in closed gasoline cars," says J. T. Peacha, Jr., manager of the Interstate Auto company, local agent for the Kissel Kar. "This I attribute to the perfection of the electric self-starter.

"The gasoline car is the only thing practicable for general driving under all sorts of weather and road conditions, but its ability to 'get through' was for years handicapped by inconveniences of operation. This has all been changed by the advent of the self-starter, the perfection of the lighting system and the many little refinements of construction that do away with former annoyances and complications.

"What most people look for is a family car, one that will serve Mr. Man and his Mrs. equally well, one able to meet every requirement of both town runabout and cross-country travel.

"To the power and sturdiness of the gasoline car has been added quiet, smoothness and comfort, besides ease of control and adjustment. The great strides of the closed gasoline car during the past winter promises to be even more pronounced next winter, for year around motoring has become indispensable and the gasoline car at last satisfactorily meets the demand in all respects."

FLATT TAKES LOCAL CARTERCAR AGENCY.

W. G. Flatt of Minneapolis has taken the local agency for the Cartercar and will make his headquarters in the future at 123 First avenue west. Mr. Flatt has obtained several late models and is showing them to prospective buyers. He was in the automobile business in Minneapolis before coming here and is very well known among local agents.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

In order to have more efficient messenger service on the battlefield, Gen. Francisco Villa, the Mexican rebel leader, has adopted motorcycles for the use of his army messengers. Villa realizes that quick messenger service often decides a battle and has determined to leave nothing undone to make this service the best possible. He says that with the four motorcycles now in use, he is able to keep in closer touch with the various divisions of his army than ever before. Then, too, the motorcycle is not so easily brought down on the battlefield as is a horse.

Most every country has equipped its army with the two-wheeler, but Mexico is the first to be able to make practical use of it and test its efficiency in actual battle.

Since March 1 the Seattle, Wash., postoffice has been operating one of the most complete systems for quick delivery of parcel post packages of any city in the Union. The secret of this efficient service is a flying motorcycle squadron. Almost as quickly as a package is dropped in the postoffice, one of the members of this squadron is chugging away with the package to its destination. This service is of especial advantage to local merchants, who are required to deliver packages to distant parts of the city. The goods can be mailed at the postoffice and will be delivered to the customer much quicker than would be possible by the merchant's own delivery system.

The Indianapolis Humane society has found a new use for the motorcycle. In that city many uses have already been found for the two-wheeler—in the police department, in the telegraph offices, in parcel post delivery, in telephone service of all kinds. But the humane society has gone a step further and converted the motorcycle into an ambulance. The society has heretofore been equipped with a large ambulance, but now for smaller animals the lighter, swifter conveyance will be used.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

"From the alluring pleasure car to the sturdy truck is a far cry," says J. T. Peacha, Jr., of the Interstate Auto company, local agent for the Kissel-Kar. "No suggestion of aestheticism about the truck, but rather 'brass tacks.' Here you talk figures, purely cold mathematics which prove the truck a vital factor in many a prosperous business. The truck subject is quite inexhaustible and motor haulage is destined to soon crowd out the horse through its superior ground-covering capacity, ability for constant service and dependability in all climates. Kissel Kar trucks are being used in something like 200 lines of business, from which an idea may be gained of the enormous scope of the truck subject."

A striking feature of the 1914 motor shows was an almost entire absence of "freaks." Manufacturers seemingly have found by bitter experience that it is better to go on improving existing designs, which have done well in the past, than to risk failure by adopting untried inventions.

This applies to the chassis as a whole, and not to details, as there are many new ideas in chassis this year, but nothing that actually affects the design as a whole. In the general chassis design, the tendency is not to lengthen the stroke of the motor, and apparently the limit in stroke-bore ratios has been reached.

Joe Tinker, the new manager of the Chicago Federal league team, and Hans Wagner of the Pittsburg club were the first ball players in the country to turn to Case cars and they have spread the Case enthusiasm all over the country.

For the past three years, in fact ever since the Case company has marketed pleasure cars, the famous shortstop of the four-time pennant winning Chicago Cub ball club has been a Case owner and this spring Joe will place his order for another Case 40.

Hans Wagner is also partial to the Case 40 and has had one for the past two years. Bob Beacher of the Cincinnati club, Frank Chance, manager of the New York Highlanders, Pitcher Hendrix and eighteen other players of diamond fame are today piloting Case cars.

The most recent purchase of a Case car on the part of a major leaguer was made at St. Louis, where Branch Rickey, the new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, has placed an order for a Case 40. Rickey was formerly a member of the New York Highlanders.

H. A. Bonnell has been elected secretary of the Manufacturers & Dealers Motor underwriters, with headquarters at 80 Maiden Lane, New York city, the organization recently formed by a number of large automobile manufacturers and others prominent in the automobile industry to handle all kinds of automobile insurance.

One of the principal objects of the organization is to enable dealers to cover automobiles by insurance as soon as car sales are made, thus securing benefits not obtainable in the past.

Mr. Bonnell has been actively identified with the automobile industry for a number of years as treasurer of the American Automobile association, manager of the automobile board of trade and assistant general manager of the national automobile chamber of commerce, relinquishing his position with the latter to assume his duties with the new organization.

President George A. Kissel of the Kissel Motor Car company has returned from a trip embracing the Pacific coast and Texas.

Mr. Kissel reports a satisfactory business outlook and is enthusiastic over the new building of the Pacific KisselKar branch in San Francisco, a very modern and complete structure. It is three stories high and occupies about 50,000 square feet of floor space including garage and mechanical departments.

In Oakland also a fine new building has been erected for this company.

The first 1914 Oakland "big six" was first shown at the New York Automobile show. It was seen by Robert Edeson, the actor, who insisted upon purchasing it upon the spot. The car, which has a long wheelbase, is painted green, and Mrs. Edeson at once christened it the "Long Green," a name by which it now is known. Mrs. Edeson has a striking green costume, the exact shade of the car, and says that when the "Long Green" glides by "every true Irishman salutes it." As a direct result of his purchase, Mr. Edeson entered into negotiations with the Bowman company for the Oakland agency at Sag Harbor, L. I. He is building a $30,000 garage and will maintain a service station for Oakland cars.

Wichita, Kan., is the first city to officially adopt the cycle car for police work. Chicago tried hard for the honor, but the enterprising little Kansas city beat her to it. C. M. Tucker, Wichita, is the first police officer to use a cycle in his daily duties. He experiences no difficulty in overhauling high-powered automobile offenders and his first arrest in his speedy little imp cycle car was signalized by the publication of a cartoon in a Wichita paper, showing him making the first cycle car arrest in the United States.

The Hoosier Motor club has presented a sign design to the board of park commissioners and has offered to place the signs at all dangerous crossings where park drives cross car tracks. The sign bears the inscription, in large letters: "Drive Slow. Danger. Lookout for Cars." The board will probably accept the offer of the motor club to furnish the signs at their meeting Friday.

Trucks to haul to market, to fetch back fertilizer from the city, to cut the hours of travel in half, to make farm labor more contented,—why not? C. C. Smith, manager of the 700-acre Stewart farm at Marshall, Mich., has made the experiment and knows what he is talking about. He has put into operation three Reo two-ton trucks, and thereby displaced fifteen horses. He has found that by so doing, among other important considerations, he has cut almost fifteen hours of labor daily from the tasks of his farmhands, in the mere item of caring for the animals—to say nothing of the saving of time on the road. In short, the computation shows that the savings in wages more than pay for the fuel for his three Reos.

The L. S. Donaldson department store of Minneapolis has further "Kisselized" its delivery system by ordering a unique Kissel Kar motor wagon to be used exclusively for fresh flowers. The addition of this vehicle to Donaldson's fleet gives the store a total of eleven Kissel Kars in service.

The Choice of 1000 Men A Month

In one month men paid over $2,000,000 for Chalmers Master "Sixes." They had all the world's "Sixes" to choose from. They chose the Chalmers.

But first they made the Master "Six" prove itself. It proved its worth to them in deeds—not words. And they were convinced. For they couldn't doubt what their eyes saw—what their sense perceived.

This "Six" Opened Their Eyes.

Until the Chalmers Master "Six" appeared last year, buyers had thought of all "Sixes" as heavy cars, extravagant of fuel and tires; costly to buy and expensive to keep.

But the Master "Six" was a revelation. Here was a car of six cylinders at a moderate price; with a motor so silent and smooth running that friction and wear might be forgotten. A car which cost little to buy and little to keep.

No "Four" Has Such Smoothness

Its Master Motor has six cylinders of small bore and long stroke. It fairly floats up the hills on high gear. It can reach twenty-five miles an hour in ten seconds from a standstill; it can creep at two miles an hour through the crowd and at the touch of the throttle be off like a greyhound. Such flexibility of power is possible only among "Sixes," and rare even there.

Motorists have learned that vibration means discomfort for the passengers, increased fuel bills, and the very life of the car cut short.

And vibration in a "four" can't be cured by a makeshift. The only escape from it is in a six-cylinder motor where the flow of power is continuous.

A Non-Stallable Motor.

One swing of a switch at the outset and the electric starter spins the Master "Six" engine enough to start it. But it does more. If some unusual demand upon the engine should cause it to falter, the starter automatically keeps it running until it picks up again.

There's no chance of being stranded in a throng or on a dangerous crossing. This starter makes the motor non-stallable. In simplicity and dependability the Chalmers-Entz system is without parallel.

The Test That Tells the Tale

The true measure of value—and the only one—is performance. What will the car do in service—that's the question. We answer it with the Chalmers Road Test.

Make this test—it is more than just a ride. Compare the luxurious smoothness of the Chalmers "Sixes" with any cars you know. Then ask yourself if any other car offers equal value at the prices.

HAYNES

Motorists Who Drove Haynes Cars in the Early Days Still Drive the Haynes

Twenty-one years ago, Elwood Haynes built the "horseless carriage"—the little machine that gave birth to the American automobile industry. Ever since then, Haynes cars have been built, year in, year out, without interruption.

And during these twenty-one years, Haynes owners have been demonstrating in "road races," "reliability runs," in "hill climbs" of every description, under all conditions, in this country and abroad with themselves the only "competitors," that the is a good car, and that given ordinary care and attention, the Haynes remains a good car, a mighty good car—indefinitely.

That's why these owners, after years of service, again purchase a Haynes. That's why such a large percentage of the Haynes annual production is sold every season to owners of old Haynes cars. That's why you should investigate the Haynes before you buy any car.

Elwood Haynes was ahead of the times when he built the first Haynes, back in '93. He is ahead of the times now in adopting the greatest automobile refinement in recent years — the Vulcan Electric Gear Shift. This device eliminates the hand-shift lever entirely, and so simplifies the control of the Haynes that anyone may readily drive it. With it, the Haynes is electrically controlled throughout, inasmuch as gear-shifting, starting, lighting and ignition are accomplished by electricity.

ONE TUB OF BUTTER SHY

So New York Central Road Starts Lawsuit in Fergus Falls.

Shipment From Minnesota Town Did Not Reach Consignee Complete.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 11.—The New York Central Railway company has begun an action in the United States court here against the Farmers' Co-operative Creamery company of Wendell.

The complaint alleges that the creamery company shipped eighteen tubs of butter to the Rittenhouse company of New York and eighteen tubs to Saxton & Co., New York, and that, owing to a mistake, one of the companies received nineteen tubs and the other only seventeen.

Had to Pay Shortage.

It claims that the company receiving the nineteen tubs paid the creamery for the extra one, but that the company that was short put in a claim against the railway and compelled it to pay the value of the butter, which was $22, and that the creamery company, although collecting from the other company, declines to reimburse the railway company. It asks for the $22 that it paid for the butter and $300 additional to defray the costs of the suit.

PREPARATIONS TO SEED ARE DELAYED

Unseasonable Weather Deterrent to North Dakota Farm Work.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.) — Unseasonable weather conditions during the past five or six days have resulted in delaying preparations for seeding operations.

Thawing weather, such as is usually experienced at this season of the year, has been absent, and the result is that the soil is still frozen too deep to be plowed.

Much Fall Plowing.

The fact that the state has an unusually large amount of land already plowed, the result of favorable conditions last year, alleviates the present situation, and does away with any fear as to a late spring.

Crop conditions are regarded as generally satisfactory. Sloughs are well filled with water in most of the state, while all the snow is gone. In the southwestern district recent heavy snows which have melted have put the soil in good condition.

Ruptured for Fifteen Years, Now Can Climb Phone Poles

George Higgins Tells How Wonderful Schuiling Rupture Lock Cured Long Standing Ruptures.

George H. Higgins, superintendent of construction for the Citizens' Telephone company of Grand Rapids, Mich., suffered from ruptures for fifteen years. No truss could give him relief. Often he was forced to go to bed. To work was torture.

One day he put on a Schuiling Rupture Lock.

He was himself again at once.

He found he could even climb a telephone pole with any of the "boys" if he wanted to.

He was convinced. A year later Mr. Higgins, certain that the benefits were permanent and that he was really cured, wrote a letter telling of his experience. He said:

"For fifteen years I went around as best I could with two ruptures, at times so painful that I was forced to take to my bed. Had tried for relief many times with worthless trusses, but all turned out the same, no good for me.

"I was advised to try a Schuiling Rupture Lock by a friend, who claimed he was cured, which I did, and in one year I was completely cured on both sides, health restored, feeling strong and active as a man of twenty.

MADE HIM YOUNG AGAIN.

"Now, being sixty-five years of age, can climb a telephone with any of the boys if I want to.

"I hope others may be benefited as myself."

Mr. Higgins' cure was remarkable, but not remarkable in the history of the Schuiling Rupture Lock. Hundreds have received just such benefits.

Mr. Higgins knows he is cured.

Any rupture sufferer interested can write to Mr. Higgins at No. 1431 Robinson Road, Grand Rapids, Mich., and he will answer all questions. He knows.

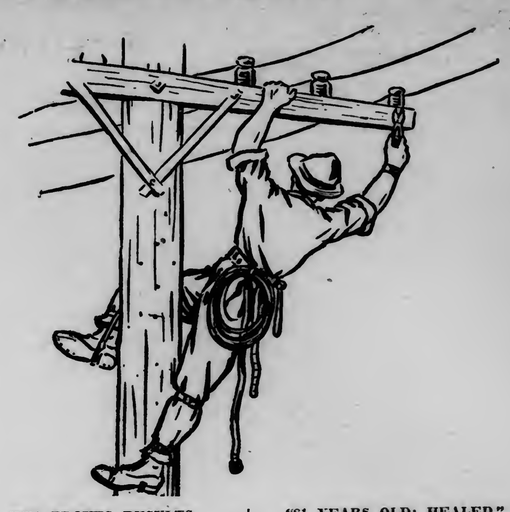
The experience of Mr. Higgins is proof positive of the safety and effectiveness of the Schuiling Rupture Lock.

When such an active man, with a case of such long standing, gets relief as Mr. Higgins did, any rupture sufferer, man, woman or child, can be sure that the Schuiling Rupture Lock will give satisfaction under any demands that may be put upon it.

MOST IMPORTANT OF INVENTIONS.

The Schuiling Rupture Lock is the most important invention since the treatment of rupture began.

Rupture sufferers have been robbed for years by men who make trusses, worthless devices made only to "sell." The Schuiling Rupture Lock is made to use.



You have doubtless been disappointed and discouraged by the rosy promises and seductive statements of all kinds of rupture quacks. You perhaps have tried many trusses and torturing devices that gave no satisfaction. Meanwhile, the handicap of rupture remained.

It has been a burden on your life and your work that you have been unable to throw off.

But this announcement brings you honest assurance that you can get real relief.

The Schuiling Rupture Lock will cure rupture.

You can put on the Schuiling Rupture Lock and throw your truss away forever.

USE PROVES RESULTS.

The Schuiling Rupture Lock has been tested and proven by results that have stood for years. Results are proven by hundreds of cases. People in all kinds of occupations, from "desk jobs" to the hazardous labors of the frontiers, declare it has relieved and cured them.

You can get the Schuiling Rupture Lock on thirty days' free trial. In that time we know that it will prove itself to you. You assume no risk whatever—and we have so much confidence in it that we know we are taking no risk at all. You will certainly want it. You will know at once that you cannot afford to be without it.

It does not matter what has failed before. The Schuiling Rupture Lock is a wonderful invention that eliminates the possibility of danger. It will save the rupture sufferer from dangerous operations; it will cure rupture. It brings the ruptured parts together with a firm but gentle pressure, under just the right conditions for nature to complete the cure.

COMFORTABLE TO WEAR.

The Schuiling Rupture Lock is simple in construction and comfortable to wear. It avoids acute pressure on the pubic bone, hips or spine. It has no insanitary leg bands, elastics, springs or steel stays and metal bands. The lock is free in its action, yet absolutely sure and safe.

Our book on rupture explains in detail all the wonderful features of this remarkable invention. This book will be sent free by the next mail, on your request.

Read here what some of the many who have used the Schuiling Rupture Lock write about it:

"81 YEARS OLD; HEALED."

John Schinnerer of Columbus, Ind., said:

"I was fitted with the Schuiling Rupture Lock four months ago, and now find that the ruptured openings are entirely healed up. I am 81 years old, and never expected a cure at my age."

"WORE IT 8 MONTHS; CURED."

Edward E. Dickerson, Prescott and S. Division St., Grand Rapids, Mich., writes:

"I had been ruptured for years—had worn all kinds of trusses and appliances, but all to no avail until your lock was tried. It held my rupture as nothing before had done. Wore it eight months and was completely cured."

WOMAN ESCAPES KNIFE.

Mrs. Catherine Sottong of Brooksville, Ind., writes:

"I had been a rupture sufferer for a long time and it was getting so bad that I could not drag myself around the house any more. It was as large as two fists; I was all bent over with pain; never could get anything to keep it up. My doctor and lots of other physicians said that I must have an operation to do me any good, but I was afraid put it off, hoping that I might some day find some kind of an article that would help me; now I am glad that I waited, for at last I heard of the Schuiling Rupture Lock. I ordered one to try, and, sure enough, it held my rupture right from the very first, and now I am cured and only wore it five months."

The Schuiling Rupture Lock is the thing for you.

TRIED TO GET BETTER HEALTH AND FAILED

BECAUSE OF WRONG METHODS

In the face of failure with strong drugs and a strong appeal to her to submit to an operation if she wanted to live, she felt that there was a better way for her to get well, than to take a half chance on the operating table. This is what Mrs. T. S. Butterfeld of 1924 West Michigan street said when she came to consult the Electro Medical Doctors. After she began to use Natural Methods she experienced relief at once and two weeks later she wrote the following testimonial:

"Duluth, March 20:—I thank you Doctors for the good work you have done for me, after having used drugs for years and steadily getting worse. The doctors said that only an operation would save me from death. Now compare that with your simple, painless treatment, without any risk to life whatever. Only two weeks and all my excruciating pain is gone. I hope that other people who suffer like I did will read this and investigate your treatment." (Signed) Mrs. T. S. Butterfield, 1924 West Michigan St.

Natural Methods cure large abdominal tumor. Lady from Michigan writes the following:

"Electro Medical Doctors, Duluth, Minn.—Dear Sirs: I write to tell you that the tumor has entirely disappeared and I feel no symptoms of its presence." She writes further: "I had an injury to my eye recently and a Milwaukee Specialist tells me I must have an operation to prevent blindness. Can you save me once more from an operation?"

Natural Methods Cure Tuberculosis of Neck Glands.

Mrs. Mary Lustin of Eveleth had the above disease when she consulted us, with a deep hole eaten into the sternum (breast bone). Within reasonable time the wound is completely healed and the swelling reduced. She writes: "I am feeling fine and get stronger right along."

Lyceum

"Peg O' My Heart," J. Hartley Manners' comedy of youth, in which Laurette Taylor is now scoring the greatest triumph and longest run of consecutive performances the American stage has ever known, will be the attraction at the Lyceum tonight and tomorrow matinee and night.

Oliver Morosco has chosen Florence Martin, the dainty little English actress, to portray the leading part, which lends itself charmingly to her personality.

The story deals with a young uncultivated Irish girl, who, by the caprice of a rich uncle's will, is left to be educated by her aristocratic relatives n England. She offends them violently by her lack of manners, and they dislike having her in their home; but they have suffered certain financial reverses, which makes it necessary for them to avail themselves of the monthly stipend allotted to them by the dead man's will for bringing up the niece. A great deal of amusement is afforded by the comic contrast between the naivete of Peg and the artificiality of her relatives.

But for all her crudity, the young Irish girl is at heart a better person than the rest of the family. She proves this one night when she prevents her cousin from eloping with a married man, and then, when the household is aroused, shields the girl by thrusting hereelf into an embarrassing situation. Ultimately the Irish lass is married to a charming gentleman, with a title to his name whom she has known familiarly as Jerry, who has been captivated by her sweetness and natural simplicity.

The production is a fine one and the supporting cast includes Isabel Vernon, Colin Campbell, Maude Allen, Fred L. Tilden, Nella Horan, Pell Trenton, Reginald Carrington, John Lyon, etc.

"Little Women" dramatized! It just had to be. Tempestuous Jo, beautiful Amy, gentle Meg, pathetic Beth, the loved companions of years to those who have lived with Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Women," will all come into exquisite life Monday on the stage of the Lyceum theater, in Marian de Forest's dramatization of this famous book. No one need fear being disappointed at seeing the characters visualized, for they simply "are" the ones known and cherished so long. With all the principal incidents of the book collected into a coherent and interesting story, the dramatization is said to be perfectly satisfying and complete.

The first three acts are laid in the home of the March family in Concord. The sitting room with its books in every conceivable corner, its Christmas roses, its old chairs, is the room all have longed to enter as they turned the pages of the book. One is said to feel the beautiful optimism of the book even in the saddest moments of the play when hearts are wrung by the knowledge that in the other room Beth, dear little Beth, is dying, with broken hearted Jo by her side. For as we know that, we can hear Meg singing a lullaby to her little twins, heralding the coming into the family of two souls to replace the one that is gone, and outside the window we can hear Beth's robin trilling, and before Beth's door kneel Amy and Laurie, and Laurie is saying: "Listen, the message from the other side." At last, too, when Marmee tells her girls how glad she is in her happiness, a robin's note again brings Beth into the loving circle, even though her pure spirit is in the Heavens above.

The girls' proposals are shown in the play, even to Jo's love-making with the professor. And when Jo sells her hair is pictured, too, and one of the famous play rehearsals in which Joe appears in a costume and a pair of boots borrowed "from a lady who had a friend who knew an actor," and Marmee going to Father March in Washington, and the gathering of the family, at last, in dear Plumfield orchard.

The company assembled by William A. Brady for this production of "Little Women" is said to be one of the most competent and perfectly balanced seen here in a long time. In the cast are Jane Marbury, Marta Oatman, Madeline King, Ida St. Leon, Henrietta McDannel, Lillian Dixon, Helen Beaumont, Robert Fischer, Marshall Birmingham, Donald Gallaher, Selmar Romaine and Frank McEntee.

The "Little Women" engagement begins with Easter Monday matinee, and will continue for three nights, with daily matinee and close with a special afternoon performance on Thursday. There will be no performance Thursday night as the company leaves for Calumet directly after the matinee.

Maeterlinck's fantasy, "The Blue Bird," will be at the Lyceum soon for three days. The piece comes direct from its two years' solid success in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other seaboard centers. "The Blue Bird "begins with a transformation scene in which a humble woodcutters' home on the hills of Normandy becomes enchanted when little Tyltyl and his sister, Mytyl, are given the magic diamond hat. The lamp ascends into the ceiling, and from the old oak clock dance forth the "Hours," "Light," in moon-colored robe of silver gauze, appears out of the darkness, and with her are "Dog," in red dress-coat, the trusty friend of man, and "Cat," a marvelous "Puss-in-Boots," and "Milk," "Bread," "Sugar," Water" and "Fire." The fairies dance in the twilight, and they all set forth, led by kindly "Light," to find the blue bird for a little girl next door, who is ill, for the bird is a symbol of love and happiness. Despite the plotting of the animals, who fear they will lose their souls if the blue bird is caught, they reach the "Land of Memory." From this shadowy realm they are whirled away in the darkness to the dread "Kingdom of the Past." Tyltyl again turns the magic diamond, and the white graves open; but instead of shapes an efflorescence, frail and timid, rises up like steam. Out of the mist the graveyard changes into a garden of flowers. Next the voyagers visit the "Kingdom of the Future," which is the abode of the children who are yet to be born. Again the magic diamond is turned and they are in the "Palace of Night"—a place of ghosts, terrors and evils. There, too, sits "Night," black and beautiful, spangled with stars and streaming illuminancies and with red poppies nodding in her raven hair. The magic door opens and several hundred blue birds are flying about a tall splashing fountain. Tyltyl and Mytyl each catch one, but when they come out the birds are dead! On the search continues through the wonderful "Vale of Happiness," where all the joys come to life, thence back to the woodcutter's cabin. And there the children are astonished and delighted to find that their little pigeon has been a blue bird all the time and that happiness is discovered in their own home.

A new drop curtain is now being painted and will be hung for the opening, which is to be announced later. This drop curtain was turned over to the artist for painting last week and will require eight weeks for its completion. Orpheum

The Orpheum Road Show will be the attraction for Easter week at the Duluth theater, and this interesting group of vaudeville acts which has packed theaters over the circuit will undoubtedly prove as popular with the Orpheum patrons in this city. The Road Show consists of specially selected acts and is sent over the circuit under the direction of Martin Beck, managing director of the circuit. This bill has become noted as almost the final word in vaudeville entertainment, and each year the Road Show is eagerly anticipated by the various theaters of the circuit. The first performance at the Duluth theater will be given the afternoon of Easter Sunday and the performance will be repeated each afternoon and evening for the week.

An absolutely unique feature will be the headline attraction, Romeo, the Great, billed as the most intelligent of chimpanzees, having that honor. Romeo is accompanied by Prof. Albert Drowiskey, who is considered one of the world's most proficient animal tutors. The chimpanzee is said to be the most remarkable since "Charles the First" amazed vaudeville patrons a few years ago. "Romeo, the Great," acts as though he thought, and many scientists are sure that his acts are the result of real thought, such as a human being indulges in, rather than the instinct that guides the acts of all other animals. Romeo eats like a man, dresses and undresses himself, sleeps in a bed, meets people and remembers them. He, however, does not act pleased to meet everybody. He discriminates. His acts are, in fact, identical with those of many human beings, his one limitation seeming that speech in man's tongue is denied him. The chimpanzee and his fascinating resemblance to the human animal always proves immensely interesting, and when there is added to this native resemblance the patient and wonderful training, such as Prof. Drowiskey has given Romeo, the simian and his performance prove irresistible.

Claude and Fannie Usher, who have been seen before at the local theater, are a part of the Road Show and they will be seen in a sketch entitled "The Straight Path." Miss Usher will be remembered as the delightful kiddie with her pet "Spare-ribs." She will be seen again in the role of a child, and the sketch is a pleasing combination of humor and the ever popular heart interest. The story tells of a youth just entering the business world, where entanglements that threaten his ruin close about him. The neglect of his little sister that follows her illness and her efforts to bring him back to the straight path form the story, and the whole combines into a most delightful little sketch.

Another act that is sure to be popular will be presented by Bert Fitzgibbon, the original daffydill. This is the sort of thing that, if one enjoys it, is the sort of thing one enjoys very much. "Eccentric," "irregular," "erratic," "uncommon" and "whimsical" are a few of the adjectives that have been applied to the original daffydill. His appearance here is sure to delight many vaudeville lovers.

Stelling and Revell, who make up a part of the Road Show, are English comedians and acrobats whose act has given much pleasure over the circuit, and their humor combined with acrobatic skill makes their act one that pleases the average vaudeville attendant.

Song hits from "The Campus" will be given by Walter De Leon and "Muggins" Davies, who were recently starred in "The Campus." Youth, beauty and charm combined make this song and dance team an especially popular one. Their songs are clever, abounding in the comic spirit, and a proposal song has won particular favor.

Sharp and Turek, the chocolate dandies, present the type of colored beau and belle who are able to gratify the barbaric taste for color and beauteous raiment which characterizes the colored people. The Southern specialty presented by Mr. Sharp and Miss Turek consists of a number of songs with a neat dancing accompaniment. The soft shoe and step dancing feature their act.

Valveno and La More present a European novelty, and these eccentric comedians provide a vaudeville act that comprises skill and humor and variety.

The numbers of the Orpheum concert orchestra and the Hearst-Selig Pictorial Review of happenings everywhere will complete the bill of the week's entertainment. This will be the first appearance in Duluth of Mr. Beck's road show, and seats are already being engaged far in advance for the week's performances.

"ROMEO THE GREAT"
At the Orpheum Next Week.

AT EMPRESS

The Empress management announces for the first four days of next week commencing with a Sunday matinee, a musical show, "The Parisian Revue."

This attraction is a cabaret show. There are many song numbers, dances of great variety, besides instrumental numbers. The opening of the show takes place in front of the footlights, every member of the company of twenty-five people being in some part of the audience. The college trio is one of the big features of the show.

The songs of the production are "Miss You Most of the Time," "In the Cabaret," "Take Me to That Cabaret," "Wine, Wine, Wine," "Absinthe Frappe," "My Hidden Treasure," "Chri-bi-Chri," "Don't Blame It on Broadway," "You Won My Heart," "Isle D'Amour," "Dancing Around" and others. Then there is toe dancing by Daisy Dean, said by many to be the prettiest girl in tabloid. "The Dance of the Rose" will be given by C. H. Murphy and Daisy Dean. There will also be a specialty by the two tots, Mae Weston and Babe La Porte, a Spanish fantasy by Daisy Dean and Sam Weil, burlesque opera by Lou Shean and Sam Weil, singing, dancing and instrumental numbers by the college trio, and the comedy numbers by Lou Shean, Jack Hub, the College Trio and Sam Weil.

The play is laid in that famous cafe, Maxim's. Brilliant electrical effects and beautiful settings make this setting show off to great advantage.

For the last half of next week the Empress management will offer its patrons a program of vaudeville. The headline act will be Mrs. Happy Harrison's circus. Mrs. Happy Harrison introduces her famous mule, Dynamite, who is the smallest bucking mule in the world.

Probably the smallest comedian in the world is Little Lord Roberts, who will be seen on this bill of vaudeville. Lord Roberts is said to have appeared before all the rulers of Europe and has received medals from many of rulers for his wonderful ability.

Cal Stewart is noted for his stories.

Mack and Sheftelles will offer a singing and talking act of pleasant surprises. Mr. Mack will sing by request many of Chauncey Olcott's old songs.

A feature film in two parts will be included in the program.

AT THE REX

In Chapter xii of "Our Mutual Girl," at the Rex, the pretty Margaret is given a new name. "Margaret the Envied," for all the girls from New York to Los Angeles envy Margaret the pretty clothes and good times. The big white way opens up its wonders to Margaret in chapter twelve, which will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Brewster's Millions" as played 1,800 times on Broadway, will be played the last half of the week. The entire Gaiety company of San Francisco was used in the production of "Brewster's Millions." The well known actress, Marie Dressler, and the hundred odd members of the "Candy Shop" company are in the cast.

For the ship scenes, the million dollar yacht, belonging to Mr. Spreckles, the sugar king of the Pacific coast, was used, and a $10,000 auto demolished. An intimate view of Sherry's ballroom, the most luxurious in America, furnishes a fine background for one of the stirring scenes. "Brewster's Millions" will appeal to all classes of picture fans: It will be seen

At the Orpheum Next Week.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Rex.

"The Perils of Pauline" will again weave their spell over Rex patrons in the second instalment to be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. And the perils certainly grow more and more real. In this second instalment Owen sneaks into old Mr. Marvin's study and writes something to Pauline to which he signs the dead man's name, but neither Pauline nor Harry will know—that is one of the mysteries, "What Did Owen Write?" is going to be the question that gets the money for the lucky guessers attending the Rex Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The New York American alone received twenty sacks of answers in one day to last week's question "What Did the Mummy Say?" A special force of clerks has been hired by the paper to handle the extra mail and a special messenger service to make trips to the postoffice, was found necessary.

Those who like a play out of the ordinary and away from the usual, will be pleased with Allan Dawn's story of "The Lamb, the Woman, the Wolf." The Wolf, a husky mountaineer, is cocksure of himself and entirely devoid of the finer instincts that make humans lovable. The woman captivated by his masculine force of character cannot see the love and worship in the lamb's eyes—for he cannot speak being in duty bound to care for his family. This film will be at the Rex Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Douglas Fairbanks will return to vaudeville in May. He will be seen in a new sketch by Alice Leal Pollock, entitled "All at Sea."

* * *

What a difference a change of profession may make in a man was recently proved in the case of "Doc" Cook. The redoubtable explorer of the Northern seas, who is now doing vaudeville stunts, lodged a strong complaint with the management of McVicker's, Chicago, where he was playing, because the atmosphere of his dressing room was too frigid for him.

* * *

Emma Goldman has expressed a desire to appear in the two-a-days.

* * *

The Alice Lloyd vaudeville road show has closed its season.

* * *

Alma Krueger, who was Robert B. Mantell's leading lady until recently, has joined E. H. Sothern for appearance in his new production, "Charlamagne," which he will put on at Chicago. Miss Krueger was the second leading woman with Mantell this season. The third, Ruth Blackburn, who was seen in Cincinnati two weeks ago, is said to be one of the leading society women of San Francisco. Her husband, J. A. Scott, Jr., is one of the directors of the Panama-Pacific exposition.

* * *

It seems to have been a false alarm that claimed that Ann Swinburne had been chosen to fill Christie MacDonald's place in "Sweethearts" when the latter leaves for a European trip the middle of this month. It is now stated that it will be Nellie McCoy, sister of Bessie, to whom will fall that honor.

* * *

Ziegfeld's "Follies" has closed its Southern tour. Frank Tinney, one of the leading funmakers with the organization, sails for Europe on the fifteenth of this month for a ten weeks' engagement.

* * *

"Milestones" and "Madam President" have finished their respective seasons.

* * *

George Broadhurst will enter the producing field again. He announces that he will put on a new drama from his own pen next season.

* * *

The premiere of "Cordelia Blossom," the new play by George Randolph Chester and his wife, Lillian Chester, will take place Saturday at the Broad Street theater, Philadelphia.

* * *

The big Winter Garden show, "The Pleasure Seekers," has closed its season owing to bad business. The demise took place at Philadelphia, and the appearance at Boston which had been planned was given up.

* * *

The new Wilbur, in Boston, a Schubert house, will be opened on Easter Monday by Doris Keane in "Romance."

* * *

Augustus E. Thomas has renamed his new play which he had called "The Squealer." It will henceforth be known as "The Force."

* * *

Olive Wyndham has been engaged by Selwyn & Co. for the leading woman's role in "The Under Dog," to be produced shortly at the Comedy theater in Chicago.

* * *

Tomorrow night will witness the initial production of "Auction Pinochle," which Oliver Morosco is staging in Los Angeles.

* * *

Five companies organized by Oliver Morosco to play the great comedy success, "Peg O' My Heart," in which Laurette Taylor is playing her second year in New York city, are nearing the end of the first season of road companies in this unprecedented hit. In many instances they have made new records for the theaters visited and the demand is so insistent for return engagements that Mr. Morosco will have five companies under his management to cover the territory again next year.

* * *

Jack Lait, author of "Help Wanted," has written a new one which he calls "Thumbs Down," and which will be produced by Morosco in Los Angeles next September. The play is said to be a satire on reform.

* * *

A second company will be organized to present "A Pair of Sixes." It will open in Chicago, probably at the Cort. Frank McIntyre and Harry Kolker are spoken of for the leading roles.

* * *

George Evans and his troupe of merry-makers last night closed what is claimed to be the most successful season which the "honey boy" ever experienced.

* * *

Janet Beecher has again put herself under the managerial wings of David Belasco after an absence therefrom of two seasons. Under the arrangement she is to appear in a new comedy either this spring or early next fall.

* * *

James K. Hackett has sailed for Europe to pose for a moving picture production of "Monsieur Beaucaire," which is to be put on at Paris. When he returns he will immediately begin preparations for his production of "Othello."

* * *

Charles Frohman has secured the English rights of production of "Jerry," the play which Miss Burke is appearing in at the present time. Phyllis Neilson-Terry is to play the title role over the water.

* * *

A new comedy in preparation is "Happiness," by J. Hartley Manners which will more than likely be utilized as the successor of "Peg O' My Heart," when Laurette Taylor can possibly induce the theater-goers of America to permit her to lay this one-act play second in the bill of these condensed stories which Miss Taylor is now presenting at the Cort theater at special Friday matinee performances.

* * *

"The Shepherd King," the late Wright Lorimer's Biblical vehicle, is to be revived with William Farnum in the title role. It is intended to run the play for four weeks, beginning May 4, at the Garden theater, New York, for the benefit of the United Catholic Works of Manhattan.

* * *

Louise Dresser will be succeeded by Pearl Sindelar in the leading role of "Potash and Perlmutter."

* * *

Rumors of the future bookings at the Cort theater, New York, are definitely set at rest by the announcement of Selwyn & Co., that their production of "Under Cover" is to come into that house next September. This would seem to indicate the continued prosperity of the theater, which has housed "Peg 'O My Heart" for an uninterrupted run of two years. "Under Cover" is now in its fifteenth week at the Plymouth, in Boston, where it promises to remain for several months to come. William Courtenay will head the cast, which is to present the play at the Cort and the company will include among others: Lily Cahill, Lucille Watson, Lola Fisher, De Witt Jennings, Wilfred Draycott, Jay Wilson and Ralph Morgan. Another company of "Under Cover," headed by H. B. Warner, will open about the same time at Cohan's Grand Opera house in Chicago.

* * *

John Philip Sousa, recently elected a members of the Lambs' club, will head the minstrel parade of stars with his own band when the lambs cut on their all-star gambol on May 22. Mr. Sousa will appear with his entire band in all the cities to be visited.

* * *

A dispatch from London says: "Bessie Clifford is the biggest kind of a success with the "Cone Inside" revue.

* * *

H. H. Frazee announced yesterday that he had placed Frank McIntyre under a long-term contract for the company which is to play "A Pair of Sixes" in Chicago. The engagement there is scheduled for the Cort theater, beginning Aug. 9. Mr. McIntyre will interpret the role now being played in the Longacre theater cast by Hale Hamilton, and will have a week of preliminary performances in the New Powers theater in Grand Rapids, Mich., beginning Aug. 2.

IS A REAL "PEG O' MY HEART"

Morosco's New Star Lived the Life She Is Acting.

Theater Magazine: When Oliver Morosco, the manager of "Peg o' My Heart," made it known through the newspapers recently that he was in search of a talented, ambitious young girl whom he would make his protegee and develop into a star, his offices were literally besieged. Girls came in droves from every point of the compass—no less than 400 of them in all! Four hundred young girls—most of them pretty, some with talent, and form them all the manager, with a practiced eye, picked out a little 19-year-old, winsome slip of a girl, with great, wondering, Irish eyes, coal black hair, a mouth like the bud of a Killarney rose, and a wistful little pointed chin. He knew at once that he had picked a winner. Her name was Peggy O'Neil.

The qualifications Mr. Morosco had insisted upon were youth, good looks, intelligence, ambition, together with a moderate amount of talent. Previous stage success was unnecessary. With these, the girl chosen was to place herself entirely under the training of Morosco, with the promise to follow implicitly any course of study that he might set down. The "apprenticeship" was to last three years, at the end of which she would find herself a full fledged star! No wonder there were as many as 400 applicants, lured from every part of the big town! With Morosco it was the working out of a pet theory—namely, that he could train any young girl of moderate ability to be a star.

A Peg in Real Life.

Since Peggy O'Neil had already appeared on the stage in musical comedy, and had played one or two small parts in stock, the maker of stars decided to try her at the head of a new "Peg o' My Heart" company which was then being organized to go on tour. Little did he know, however, that he was choosing for the chief role of that delightful comedy not only a clever little actress, but a real Peg, whose short life, in which happiness and misery had been rapidly chasing each other, was an absolute embodiment of Mr. Manners's fictional character.

For that matter, neither did Peggy O'Neil. She knew Peggy O'Neil's life, but at that particular time she did not know Peg o' My Hearts. When she read the play and gathered the situation at its first rehearsal, she laughed again. When they asked why the play girl had moved her so completely, she replied, "Because Peg is real, that's all."

"So someone has been telling you that? Imposing on your youthful credulity?" Stage Manager Grey was quite angry.

"Not at all," said Peggy O'Neil, simply. "I myself am Peg."

Then she told them her story.

The Story Tells Her Life.

Her father, she said, was a splendid type of Irishman, who, like Peg o' My Heart's, could do anything in the world but make money. Her mother had been a lovely English girl, who had shocked her semi-aristocratic family by running away and marrying her fine young Irishman. But they snapped their fingers and laughed at Grim Care, and a year later Baby Peg was born at Kildare. Shortly afterward the little family came to America and made their home in Buffalo, where Peg's father was employed by the New York Central railroad as constructing engineer and electrician. All went well until one day when the father went to work and never returned. He was on a construction train that had keeled over to the bottom of a 30-foot embankment.

Bet a Home On An Election.

After the funeral it was found that he had bet their house upon the last presidential election and his candidate didn't win! When little Peg was 13, her mother, who had been struggling to make a living for the two, quietly closed her eyes and passed away.

There was nothing else for Peg to do but go to her aunt's, who tried to be good to her in her snobbish, condescending way, and to remodel her after the fashion they thought was proper and correct. But Peg was Irish. She stole away one day on her way to high school and went to San Francisco as a dancer with a musical show. Last year she turned for a living to dressmaking, and opened a tiny shop on West Forty-eighth street. Today there is a "To Let" sign in the little shop, while the proprietress is receiving the ovations of audiences all over the country.

Such has been the life of this real little Peg o' My Heart, which for her has only just begun.

Good Bill at Happy Hour.

Two strong feature photoplays with two acts of vaudeville go to make up a strong Easter bill at the Happy Hour theater for this evening and tomorrow. "A Leak in the Foreign Office" is the title of one of the two-reel productions which will hold the attention of the audience throughout, due to the thrilling scenes enacted in the story. This film is taken from the story of the same name that as recently appeared in the Blue Book magazine, and deals with an adventure in our diplomatic service. The other production, "North of 53," is a gripping tale of the North woods, full of many interesting and exciting scenes. The vaudeville numbers, Fearnee and Wynne, in a singing, dancing and whistling act; and Smith and Garry, in a singing and dancing number, are up to the usual standard, and have pleased large crowds at this popular playhouse since opening their engagement Thursday.

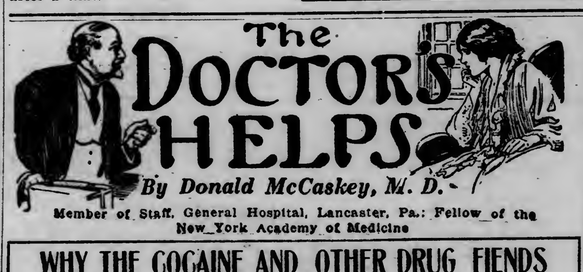
WEARS ONLY A SMILE; DRAWS POLICE EDICT

MLLE. DORMY.

Mlle. Dormy of the Renaissance theater, Paris, proved last month to be lacking in the true sense of artistic proportion. She appeared in the play "Aphrodite" clad only in a glad smile; and so modestly did she assume this frank part that with the fall of the curtain the audience applauded her art with great enthusiasm. Then Mlle. Dormy made the mistake of her life. She stepped before the curtain just as she had appeared in the scene a minute before.

Whereupon the audience hissed and booed. Mlle. Dormy's nudity was all right in the stage picture; but it shocked the nice sense of propriety of the Parisians when she stepped before the curtain. A result of the agitation of this topic has been an order from the prefect of police that all music halls must cease exhibiting unclad females on their stages. The prefect holds that an unclad woman may be necessary to the preservation of the artistic verities in a play but that on the music hall stage she is unnecessary and therefore most improper. Similar orders have been issued by other prefects and have become dead letters after a time.

SPANISH SOPRANO CREATES TWO LIGHT OPERA ROLES THIS SEASON



LUCREZIA BORI IN "L'AMORE MEDICO."

Lucrezia Bori, the young Spanish soprano who joined the Metropolitan Opera company last season, has had the honor of creating the chief role in two of the season's novelties at the opera house. They were "L'Amore dei Tre Re," which was given some months ago, and "L'Amore Medico," which had its first presentation this week. Mme. Bori was a comparatively unimportant member of the opera company in her first season here but she has grown steadily and she seems likely to prove one of the most valuable members of the company.

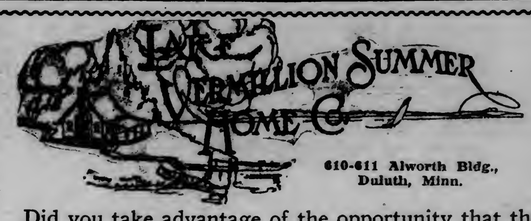
WHY THE COCAINE AND OTHER DRUG FIENDS LIKE THEIR DOPE.

It is an utterly false idea that the cocaine, heroin and morphine drug fiends are transplanted into the seventh heaven of bliss when they take a "shot" of their dope. The real truth of the matter is that the actual cause for dope taking is the attempt to drive away the blues. Any such sensation as PLEASURE is a misnomer for the dope fiend. The sensation he gets is in reality a negative one. He sniffs his cocaine or heroin, or injects himself with morphine, in the fruitless effort to drive away his bad feelings. Temporarily, of course, the stimulant or narcotic action of the drug is felt, but when the effect has worn away, the last state of the drug fiend is better than the first.

Somehow there has always existed in the minds of men and women a desire to do something purely for the sake of novelty and excitement. Everybody is more or less curious to experience for himself "new sensations," and there has grown up an exaggerated idea regarding the new sensational effect produced by the drugs which enslave the user. Of course, every one who starts to sniff cocaine, or heroin, or uses the hypo for morphine, is quite satisfied in their own mind that they possess the strong will power to stop the habit at any time.



There is a sort of magnetic attraction about the idea, to an uninitiated "dope" user, that a drug habitue derives an intense pleasure from his indulgence. When, therefore, a user of the drug entices a friend to experience a new sensation, the drug fiend's companion may likewise feel lonesome and decide to drive dull care away. The curiosity is often a much more compelling force than the human quality of absolute safety. Furthermore, the facility with which drugs can be obtained—particularly the narcotic drugs—make the habit easy to start. When once started, there are 999 out of every 1,000 starters who make one grand and rapid slide to the utter destruction of their good health. The world can talk about alcoholism and the treatment of drug addictions until everybody gets blue in the face from intensity and excitement. But, right here at the very beginning, it is necessary to realize that no drug habitue will ever get the "new sensation" except those of ill health and perverted hallucinations. The man or woman who deliberately takes drugs to drown his or her sorrows is a coward. He is a quitter and a weakling. He lacks red blood and is lazy. Don't load yourself with medicine. It doesn't matter if they do not belong to the narcotic group of drugs. If you want to win good health, don't be a dope fiend. In 999 instances out of every 1,000 you are still equipped to struggle and fight life's daily battles.

Don't swallow a lot of drugs and expect that your surrender to them is going to do your work for you. You can no more win out in health and happiness by continually drugging than can the cocaine or heroin or morphine user win out who makes the awful mistake of imagining they are taking the easiest way. To you who are ill, begin right in today's conquest. Exercise your faculties to the best of your ability. Keep away from drugging.

ALCOHOLISM AND DISEASE.

A very vivid instance of the effect of the alcohol habit in bringing about disease has been instanced by Dr. Alexander Lambert, of the Bellevue hospital, New York. Doctor Lambert investigated the personal records of 259 patients addicted to a diseased degree through the use of alcohol. Four patients out of the 259 began to use liquors before they were six years old. Thirteen patients began between the ages of 6 and 12 years. Sixty of the patients began between 12 and 16 years. The largest number of the group began the use of liquor between 16 and 21 years, numbering 102 out of the entire 259 patients personally investigated, whose diseases were directly traceable to alcohol. Seventy-two began the use of liquor between the ages of 21 and 30, whereas only eight of the patients began the use of liquor after they were 30 years old.

Reduced on a basis of percentages, 7 per cent began the use before 12 years; 30 per cent before 16 years, and 63 per cent before 21 years of age. In view of the present rapidly growing study and discussion of the drink problem, Dr. Lambert's study clearly reveals that alcoholism is distinctly a problem of early youth. It has often been said that the man of 40 "must either be a fool or his own physician," and from Dr. Lambert's study, it is quite evident that the man who does not begin the use of alcoholic drink until he arrives at the age of 40 is not going to be a menace to his community as an alcoholic habitue.

Varicose Veins Cured
CONFINED TO HIS HOME FOR WEEKS

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits brought on Varicose veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up. My family physician told me an operation was the only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several doctors, but soon found out that all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He told me to go to the Progressive Medical Doctors at No. 1 West Superior street. He had been cured himself by them and he knew they were square, and knew men's diseases better than other doctors. They applied their Nature Method and at first my progress was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."—H. H.

EVELETH "DOCTOR" GETS IN TROUBLE

Gives Concoction to Patient That Demands Real Physician's Aid.

Eveleth, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ether, alcohol, Jamaica ginger and furniture polish proved to be too strong a mixture when administered to Steve Zozulka of this city, hence Louis Sapko occupies a cell at the city hall awaiting hearing on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

Zozulka was suffering from stomach trouble and was being treated by a physician. Sapko heard of the case and offered his services. He threw away the medicine prescribed by the physician and left some in its place.

Three days later he called and found the patient no better. "You need something stronger," said the "doctor," "be sure and take plenty of this," and he prepared the mixture of which the polish known as "bartenders' friend" is said to have been an ingredient.

Medicine Takes Effect.

Results were immediate. The medicine "hit the spot," and Zozulka gladly paid over $15 as a fee for the medicine and the mystic treatment which went with it.

The healer had hardly left when the medicine began to have a different effect. Gas formed in the patient's stomach and he was soon in agony. A physician was hastily summoned and a stomach pump used to relieve the sufferer.

Luke Zozulka, a brother of the patient, succeeded in recovering $6.50 of the fee and swore out a warrant. The warrant was served on Sapko as he sat at a table in his home with three bottles of whisky lined up in front of him.

SPARTA MAN IS DENIED DIVORCE

Virginia, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The claim that his wife was an inebriate and he should be entitled to a divorce did not help Anton Erjovec who sought legal separation from Angela Erjovec. The plea availed the plaintiff nothing at the hands of Judge Martin Hughes who filed in district court today an order denying the divorce.

The husband contended his wife was given too much to drink for them to get along happily. Judge Hughes remarks in his ruling that the evidence discloses that the woman worked as barmaid in the plaintiff's saloon at Sparta, and that if she acquired the drinking habit the plaintiff must have contributed towards it and the court did not consider he could raise that point as he did not come into court with what is known in legal parlance as "clean hands."

FARM THEMES ARE TO BE DISCUSSED

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. A. D. Wilson of the extension division of the University of Minnesota will attend a farmers' institute which is to be held here on Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18. Other speakers will be George B. Aiton, former high school inspector, Miss Rowe of Crookston, Dr. A. V. Storm of the extension division of the state university, W. J. Corwin of the local schools, A. J. McGuire of the state farm, O. J. Niles, F. M. Sisler, W. M. West and other well known and successful local farmers.

Farmers' Club Conference.

During the first day there will be a conference of the representatives of the farmers' clubs of the county. There are a number of live farmers' clubs in the vicinity of Grand Rapids, and several of them are doing some splendid work for their communities, and an exchange of views and opinions and experiences by members of these clubs will not only be interesting, but most profitable as well to all the farmers.

Supt. Wilson will speak on Friday and Miss Rowe Saturday. Miss Rowe's talks will be along domestic science lines and of special interest to the farmers' ladies.

EAGER TO WORK.

Health Regained By Right Food.

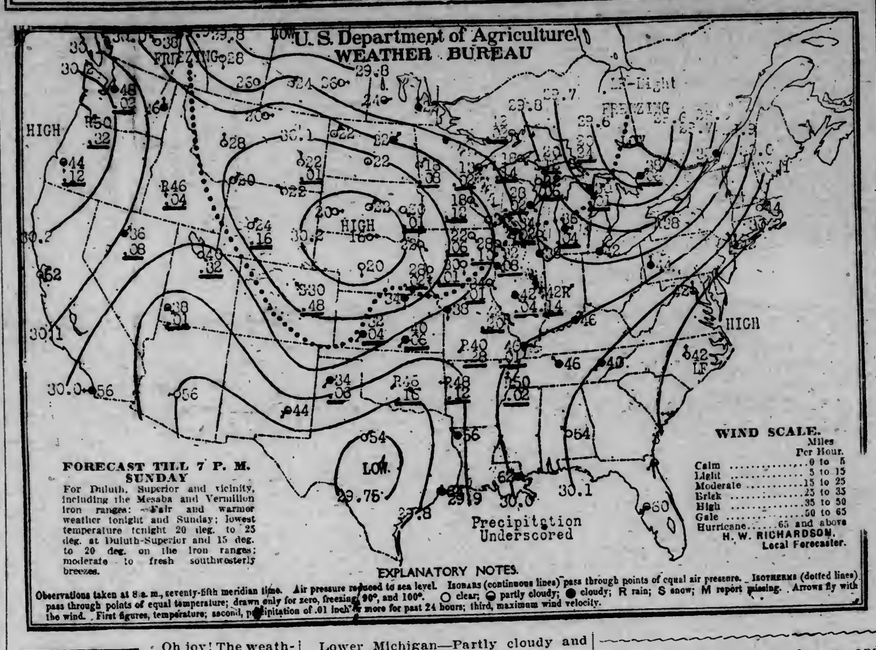
The average healthy man or woman is usually eager to be busy at some useful task or employment.

But let dyspepsia or indigestion get hold of one, and all endeavor becomes a burden.

"A year ago, after recovering from an operation," writes a Mich. lady, "my stomach and nerves began to give me much trouble.

"At times my appetite was voracious, but when indulged, indigestion followed. Other times I had no appetite whatever. The food I took did not nourish me and I grew weaker than ever.

"I lost interest in everything and wanted to be alone. I had always had good nerves, but now the merest trifle would upset me and bring on a violent headache. Walking across the room was an effort and prescribed exercise was out of the question.



"I had seen Grape-Nuts advertised, but did not believe what I read, at the time. At last, when it seemed as if I were literally starving, I began to eat Grape-Nuts.

"I had not been able to work for a year, but now after two months on Grape-Nuts I am eager to be at work again. My stomach gives me no trouble now, my nerves are steady as ever, and interest in life and ambition have come back with the return to health."

On Little Boy's Face and Neck. Painful and Disfiguring. Would Crack Open, Bleed and Itch. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Earl, Neb.—"Eczema broke out on my little boy's face and neck and was very painful at times and disfiguring. It was worse in winter. It was in scaly dry patches on his face and neck which would crack open and bleed. It itched and was very unsightly. It hurt the worst in the day time when in the open air and wind.

"I used several remedies but he got no relief until a friend told me of her little boy who was afflicted as mine and Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured him. I purchased a box of Cuticura Soap and Ointment from our druggist. I washed his face well with the Cuticura Soap then put the Cuticura Ointment on right off. In two months he was entirely cured." (Signed) Mrs. Daisy Bailey, Oct. 23, 1913.

In selecting a toilet soap why not procure one possessing delicate emollient properties sufficient to allay minor irritations, remove redness and roughness, prevent pore-clogging, soften and soothe sensitive conditions, and promote skin and scalp health generally? Such a soap combined with the purest of saponaceous ingredients and most fragrant and refreshing of flower odors, is Cuticura Soap. Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

The weather man has promised "fair and warmer" weather for Easter Sunday. If the snow flurry of yesterday evening had kept up, new spring hats with their bright flowers and jaunty feathers would have looked decidedly out of place. Now that warmer weather is promised every woman who has a new Easter outfit may enjoy a peaceful night's rest.

After the quiet of Lent society will resume its activities next week. Three dances will be given Easter Monday night and throughout the week there will be various affairs ranging from very informal gatherings to formal functions. The Easter tea at the Unitarian church and the Birthday tea at St. Peter's Episcopal church will start the post-Lenten church affairs. The wedding of Miss Marie Hibbing and Dr. Hermann M. Koller and the reception following the ceremony will be events of interest in Duluth society.

The chief musical event will be the Apollo club concert Tuesday evening.

JACOB RIIS WILL LECTURE AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH APRIL 21

JACOB A. RIIS, the Danish-American, philanthropist, author and lecturer, will speak in Duluth April 21 at the First Methodist church. This will be Mr. Riis' second visit to Duluth. His appearance this month is under the auspices of the Duluth branch of the Women's Collegiate association and the Affiliated College clubs. He will talk on "My Neighbor."

Jacob Riis and his work in bringing about better conditions in the East side of New York are well known to the American people, and his books are read with great interest by the people of his adopted country. He is the author of "How the Other Half Lives," "A Ten Years' War," "Out of Mulberry Street," "The Making of an American," the last the story of his own life, and several other well-known books. His life and work in America received wide publicity through his friendship with Theodore Roosevelt. They planned together many reforms and made many investigations during the time that Roosevelt was police commissioner of New York. Jacob Riis was for many years police reporter for the New York Sun, and it was in this capacity that he became familiar with conditions in the famous Mulberry street, and it was there that he came into touch with his life work.

The proceeds of the lecture will go toward a scholarship fund which has been started by the Duluth branch of the Women's Collegiate association. The loan scholarship will be established for next year, and it is planned

THEIR FAMILY IS GROWING

Directors of Children's Home Have Nearly 100 Little Ones to Care for—Some of New Problems.

There have not been fewer than eighty-three children at the Children's home any day during the last month and some days there have been as many as eighty-eight children.

With the regular pay roll of fourteen persons this made a family of more than 100, which included the matron, head trained nurse, night nurse, four attendants, seamstress, cook, laundress, hall girl, waitress, engineer, night fireman and a special trained nurse. When it is remembered most of these children have to be washed, dressed, fed and kept clean the proposition grows. To meet the increased demands the house committee ordered this last month ten dozen cups, ten dozen sauce dishes, ten dozen small bowls, eight vegetable dishes, two dozen knives, two dozen forks, three dozen tea spoons, six vegetable spoons and six high chairs.

The directors of the Children's Home society met yesterday and gave their united vote of sincere thanks to all who so generously gave their time and talent in the students' vaudeville of the Matinee Musicale for the benefit of the Children's home, and to the large and responsive audience. Very special and earnest appreciation and gratitude is tendered to Mrs. Stephen H. Jones who managed the affair and personally paid the expenses of the production that she might present to the Children's Home in the names of her little sons, Stephen and Robert, the sum total of $650, collected largely through her personal efforts and management.

The expense last year of maintaining the Children's Home and property was $13,255.99 or an average of $1,104.67 a month. The family is larger this year and keeps the board of directors constantly busy providing ways and means.

The proposition of Miss Grace E. Gerrish to give an entertainment for the benefit of the Children's Home was unanimously voted down, although highly recommended by some other cities. Miss Gerrish proposed to give her musical comedy, "Campus Mouser," with a cast of 200 from local talent, and thought her management could make $5,000, of which she required for her service 33 1-3 per cent or a straight contract of $1,000 before starting the affair.

The policy of the present board, announced at the beginning of the fiscal year, is to ask the support of the public only for the Children's Home without division of proceeds. When entertainments become necessary the local talent graciously donates its services and experience has proved there are equally talented local managers for entertainments. This policy will be adhered to because strongly advised by philanthropic persons who give great help to the Children's Home.

DULUTH WOMAN IS DIRECTOR OF CHORUS OF MALE VOICES

The chorus is under the direction of Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten, who has arranged an excellent program for the occasion. Mrs. Flaaten will be the only woman in the chorus.

The proceeds of the concert will be used to help defray the expenses of the Nordron chorus which will go to Norway in June.

The Nordron and the Normanna choruses will go to Chicago first, where they, with Mrs. Flaaten, will appear on the program of the Saengerfest. They will sing Arthur Custance's arrangement of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes."

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Women Are Able to Compete With Men.

"Competition between men and women is an impossibility—an absurdity," said Dr. Hugh Cabot the other evening speaking before the nurses' club of Boston. Dr. Cabot is also an associate publisher of a large daily newspaper and is quoted frequently on account of his views.

That certain functions belong to men and others to women goes without saying. Such things were settled in the beginning probably. If not, then in some remote age of which we know very little.

These matters will probably remain always as they are, as far as men and women are concerned, and I don't know that anyone would have them different. I, for one, wouldn't change places with the most envied man in existence, and I don't believe that any woman would, for all that some are supposed to aspire to masculinity.

However it may be about competition between the sexes being an impossibility, we have had what many people would call a fair imitation of this bugaboo of the twentieth century. Women have been competing creditably with men in certain pursuits and occupations formerly counted man's alone. In some capacities, admittedly not the most important, men have had to retire and either seek other lines or else be content to fill the occasional post.

I do not believe that many women are keen for any of the divine rights of men. More and more of them, however, are becoming deeply interested in securing a fuller share of human rights for themselves on a fairer basis. Women have no desire to become men, but they would like to be considered of equal consequence with them in the sphere ordained for them. And when you think it over, why shouldn't they?

SAYS SUFFRAGE WILL COME

Speaker Urges W. C. T. U. Members Not to Be Among Those Who Are Retarding Movement.

DECLARING that women's suffrage is sure to come despite the opposition of the liquor interests, gamblers and other forces of evil, Dr. Mary McCoy gave an address on this subject yesterday at a meeting of the Central W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. Alfred Gillon, 19 South Forty-fourth avenue east. The speaker commented upon the important reforms accomplished in states where women had been given the ballot and said equal suffrage was sure to come in Minnesota as well as in other states.

Dr. McCoy took issue with those who maintain that women's suffrage is an enemy to the home life and said that if women were given the ballot that home, municipal and national life would be bettered. She spoke in part as follows:

Expanding Home Idea.

"Woman suffrage means the expansion of the home idea, so as to make our larger home, the community, more home-like, cleaner, healthier, a safer and more virtuous place in which to rear boys and girls. The fierce antagonism of the enemies of the home to woman suffrage ought to convince one of its solid benefits.

"Woman suffrage surely will come. Let us, women of Minnesota, be ready for it. Let us get busy and prepare ourselves to be actual citizens. The weal or woe of this nation will depend upon its women when they come to vote, so now, you women who have had the sheltered home life, ahead, must take up the work for your daughters. Saying that you do not care to vote does not relieve you of responsibility toward the conditions that exist.

"It is your duty to teach all the women to take up the work for a cleaner and better government. How can you so stultify your sense of honor that you can sit and wait for men to do for the women of this country what you should long ago have been doing for them yourselves.

The Dishonored.

"How can you sit idly by, stirring not a hand, knowing that 200,000 women each year fill dishonored graves and that 200,000 young women from among the daughters of this country must be recruited to fill their places?

"For your own sake, for the sake of your children, I beg of you to come and help. We need your help, the women and children all over this land need it, need just the help that you will be able to give when you get the ballot, when you get the right to vote.

"It is no longer a question of two or three, for already four millions women have the right of suffrage, and millions more are rapidly approaching enfranchisement. It is in no one's power to stop this world-wide movement, it is only in one's power to decide whether one will join the procession now or postpone acting till it is disgracefully late and come creeping along at the rear, after every wise, brave, progressive person has passed ahead."

AID FOR YOUNG MUSICIANS

Music League of America Plans to Extend Substantial Help to Struggling Young Artists.

TALENTED young musical artists, who have fought courageously but without success for chances to earn livings, will have a friend.

Most of them do not as yet know it. Most of their elders, who are nearly ready to give up the fight that has long gone against them, do not know, either, that they too have a friend.

But these earnest music folk whose talents are well above the ordinary and who have used them rightly, as they should have been used, may inhale the breath of hope. An organization such as has never before been known, called the Music League of America, has just come into being, and its chief purpose is to give those who truly deserve them opportunities to demonstrate their fitness to serve the public in professional capacities and to be commensurately paid therefor.

This organization is so new that it has not had time to select its full board of directors, but the officers chosen are men and women of affairs whose names are known throughout the land. Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer is president; Mrs. Willard D. Straight holds the post of first vice president; Mrs. Otto H. Kahn is serving as second vice president; Mrs. Linzee Glagden is third vice president and Messrs. Dave Hennen Morris and Alvin Krech are respectively, secretary and treasurer.

These public spirited citizens, and their associates in the enterprise, are members of influential families. They are not only active socially, but are prominent in large and important musical undertakings.

Practical Help.

Recognizing the need of bettering conditions of worthy musical artists, the officers and directors of the Music League of America are preparing to provide assistance of substantial sort. This assistance is not to consist merely of kind words, of well wishes, of pats on the back. It is to take definite form in shape of securing engagements for those that deserve them, and of providing efficient musical artists' to organizations and others seeking their services.

The chief cause that has prevented the average efficient instrumentalists and singers from obtaining the amount of work deserved has been the lack of knowledge as to how to reach those desiring their services, and a lack of knowledge possessed by these latter persons as to how to reach those musicians having the quality of service demanded.

Aggressive and shrewd instrumentalists and singers, with sufficient capital to pay for exploitation, have in the main secured what was denied their less fortunate and often more capable colleagues. As a consequence, mediocrity has too frequently been given the preference over superiority.

And, as further consequence, many music communities lacking the opportunities for fullest investigation have become skeptical when contracting for the appearances of executive musicians whose artistic abilities are not matters of common knowledge.

While the underlying aim of the Music League of America is in a measure philanthropic, it is not intended to be charitable. It will assist singers and instrumentalists of a certain talent and skill who possess industry, health and character, to help themselves and their art without destroying the individual spirit of independence.

Save in instances where the capacity of a musician shall be generally admitted, none will be accepted as a candidate for engagements until he or she has been passed on by a judging committee of impartial experts. Nor will influence be permitted to advance a musician who cannot conform to one of the four artistic standards of classification decided upon as imperative, or be permitted to retard the interests of a musician whose capability is evident.

Arrangements are already well under way to provide opportunities for public appearances for the efficient singers and instrumentalists indorsed by the league. They have progressed so well, in fact, that orders for the services of such professionals have been received amounting to several thousand dollars.

Women's Clubs Help.

Among the organizations that will consent to engage Music League of America musicians are women's musical clubs, of which this country has thousands; clubs composed of men and women not exclusively devoted to music; orchestras and choral societies that are numerous in almost every state; independent managers of musical enterprise residing in cities and towns of various population; schools and colleges and citizens who have need of expert musical assistance in the entertainment of guests at functions given from time to time.

Further, the league will undertake to make its influence in music in the United States and Canada one of broad and general improvement.

It will strive to eliminate sensationalism in music.

It will endeavor to implant in those places where it seems imperative a real art appreciation.

Aiming to cultivate the highest art standards, the league will offer every possible encouragement where it is deserved, but it will also endeavor to dissuade those of limited talents from attempting what is seemingly beyond their capacities.

INVITED TO VIRGINIA.

Mrs. Spiegel Asked to Give Lecture on Maeterlinck There.

SO GREAT is the interest in the study of the modern drama that Mrs. R. Spiegel of this city has been invited by the Woman's Study Club of Virginia to repeat the talk on Maeterlinck that she gave at the drama tea of the Twentieth Century club at the Glass Block tea rooms last winter.

As there were several speakers at the rooms, Mrs. Spiegel was limited to a brief resume of the work of the Belgian dramatist. She has enlarged her talk to the compass of a lecture, which she will present to the members of the Virginia culb on Monday, April 20, at a reception to be given especially for this occasion. This club invited Mrs. Spiegel several weeks ago, but circumstances prevented her accepting the invitation. The coming engagement of "The Blue Bird" at the Lyceum has renewed interest in Maeterlinck, so the club has again asked Mrs. Spiegel to give her lecture as they wished to hear it before seeing the play.

This interest in modern drama in Duluth was originated by the work on this subject which the drama class of the Twentieth Century club has been studying for the last three years. This comprised the reading and discussion of contemporary plays of European countries as well as those of America. Added to this was the interpretation of plays by different Duluth dramatic readers.

Mrs. J. C. H. Engel, as chairman of the literature department of the Twentieth Century club, originated this work. It has grown so satisfactorily that it has been decided to organize the work as a separate class as it is felt that it could be furthered more efficiently as a special study.

WILL GIVE READING AT Y. M. C. A. VESPERS

Daniels, Mrs. Swaney Nelson, Mrs. L. W. Linder and Mrs. K. A. Lundin. The leader will be Mrs. E. Gustavson. Mrs. Bellin will be the hostess.

Miss Edith Shearer entertained the members yesterday afternoon at the Milton O. Smith home on Minnesota Point. Each girl was given two sheets of different colored tissue paper, wire and pins from which to make an Easter hat. The club will begin work very soon on a play they will present.

High School Club.

THE executive committee of the new club of high school girls met at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday morning. Many interesting events have been planned, among them being picnics and a mothers' and daughters' banquet. The club will make children's clothing to be distributed by the city visiting nurse. There are now forty-two members in the club.

EASTER DAY TO BE FAIR AND WARMER.

Easter will be fair and warmer. The dire prediction of nor'easter possibilities for the day when everything that is fair is supposed to be garbed in the new things of spring has been annulled and now Mr. Richardson, after strenuous struggle with the elements, promises that tomorrow will be fair and warmer.

So the Easter parade will come off as it should and on schedule.

The result will be that the churches tomorrow morning will be full to overflowing with gorgeous gowns and hilarious hats.

If the weather man is not again mistaken the day will be ideal for the parade.

CRIPPLED GIRL REFUSED.

State Hospital Rejects Grace Dillon, a Paralytic.

Grace Dillon, a 5-year-old crippled girl of this city, has been refused treatment at the state hospital for crippled and deformed children at St. Paul, where she was taken this week by Rudolph Shogran, assistant clerk of the poor commission. Admission was denied the girl after an examination by surgeons at the hospital who pronounced the child to be suffering from paralysis. Only deformities consisting of crooked or misshapen legs or arms are treated at the hospital. Shogran brought the girl back to Duluth.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Barbara Pecor of Duluth Elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

University Senate Abolishes Rigid Entrance Requirements for Students.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 400 university seniors made their first appearance in caps and gowns Tuesday in a parade which started at Folwell hall and ended in the chapel at the library building. The occasion for the display was the annual cap and gown day. On arrival at chapel, Thomas Quigley presented the class to the university and President Vincent responded. Nineteen young women and three young men were elected to the Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary academy fraternity. Barbara Pecor was the only Duluthian to be elected to this society, which stands for the highest scholastic attainment. The election of eight engineering seniors to Tau Beta Pi and four seniors to Delta Sigma Rho, an honor given for public speaking, was also announced. President Vincent, in his speech, emphasized the importance of the tradition of cap and gown day, linking them, as it does, with the oldest traditions of the academic world.

Fred G. Tyron, a senior academic, was awarded first prize in the Billsbury oratorical contest, which carries with it a prize of $100 and the right to represent the university at the Northwestern oratorical contest at Madison in May. Tyron spoke of the First Minnesota regiment at the battle of Gettysburg. The prize of $50 for second place was awarded to Carl W. Painter, also of Minneapolis. Edwin T. Dahlberg won third place and a prize of $25. Three others took part in the contest; Harold Boquist, Alfred Overn and Joseph Gilman.

Among the many honors tendered Dean Downey in his closing year, the most recent is the naming of the next fall's cadet encampment "Camp John F. Downey." Commandant Woolnough announced the choice of names Wednesday in the respect to the retiring dean, who is a Civil war veteran. The fifth annual encampment will be held from Sept. 8 to 15 at Fort Snelling. The farm school encampment will be held from Oct. 2 to 7. Lieut. Woolnough also announced that a means by which university students and high school graduates can receive credit for drill has just been provided. The five weeks' camp during the summer has been established by the war department at Ludington, Mich., and students attending this camp will receive a year's drill credit.

There will be another opportunity of hearing another good Glee club concert on April 23 when the North Dakota Glee club will appear at the chapel. A dance will take place at the armory after the concert. The visit is a result of a concert given by the Minnesota Glee club at Grand Forks last fall, at which time the return performance was arranged by Prof. Scott. The Minnesota club will make a trip to Glencoe next Saturday.

Cap and Gown, the senior girls' society, held a luncheon in Shevlin hall Tuesday immediately following the convocation exercises. The girls had a special menu prepared for the occasion. At the dinner President Ethel Curry suggested that Cap and Gown hold a breakfast or luncheon on commencement day. The question of whether it is to be a breakfast or a luncheon is to be decided by the society by a vote at its next spread on April 15. Following the dinner the junior girls' "Tam O' Shanter" entertained Cap and Gown from 3 to 6 at Shevlin hall.

At a meeting of the university senate Wednesday afternoon it was decided to abolish the present rule requiring the entering student to have an average of 80 per cent in all of his subjects and in the future only a high school diploma will be necessary. This decision practically ends the agitation for easier requirements, although the action of the senate requires the review and approval of the board of regents.

DECLARE RADIUM IS NO CURE FOR CANCER

Leading Surgeons of the Country Discuss Dreaded Disease.

New York, April 11.—All hope of curing cancer by radium has been abandoned by some of the foremost surgeons and research workers of the country, who said at last night's meeting of the American Society for the Control of Cancer that the failures of radium outnumber the cures 100 to 1.

Nothing is of avail against the most dreaded disease but the speedy use of the knife, according to Dr. William H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn.

Operation is the only cure, but radium or ray treatment is in order as a temporary palliative, where operation is impossible, according to Dr. Francis G. Wood, director of cancer research at Columbia university. Another generation will be required to furnish knowledge on the real cause and actual nature of cancer, he said. Experiments for thirty-five centuries show that heredity plays a small part, if any at all, in its appearance.

No Progress and Little Hope.

It was expected that the members of the society would have something hopeful to report of their investigations. Instead they admitted no progress and held out little hope. They united in saying they had discovered neither the cause nor the nature of cancer. Then they proved by statistics that cancer is on the increase.

A change in the habits and customs may reduce the disease to some extent, Dr. Mayo said, and he added that any cancer can be cured if operated upon in its early stages.

"If we could only tell how to avoid it, I would be glad, because I am frank to admit that we do not know," he said.

Dr. Mayo asserted that the statement that the use of meat was one of the habits to be avoided in connection with cancer prevention had been wrongly attributed to him.

The only optimistic note at the meeting was struck by Dr. J. Collins Warren, chairman of the Harvard cancer commission, who, after reviewing its work, stated that the prospect for progress in combatting cancer had never seemed so bright as now. Immediate discovery of the causes of cancer could scarcely be expected, but scientific commission and research work had entered upon a field where progress was sure though slow, he said.

A Quick, Sure Way to Banish Hairy Growths

(Aids to Beauty)

Here is a true hair-remover, and no pain or injury will follow its use: With a little powdered delatone mix enough water to make a stiff paste, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub it off. With this paste comes every trace of hair and when the skin is washed to remove the remaining delatone it will be soft and clear and free from blemish. Excepting in very stubborn cases, a single application of delatone is sufficient.—Advertisement.

POULTRY ON THE VILLAGE LOT.

A Good Revenue From a Small Flock.

By KATE ST MAUR.

With 150 square feet of ground suitable for poultry, and devoting half an hour every night and morning, with an extra two or three hours on Saturday, you should be able to add $200 or $300 to your income. My authority for this is my knowledge of a bank clerk whose home is beyond the city limits, who made $800 last year from a flock of 100 hens, and of a postmistress who made $462, though neither of them gave more than a few hours a week to poultry, so it seems safe to say that any one with ordinary common sense and industry can make $300 or $400. Any sort of old hens and coops won't do. A person who starts with very little capital will find it advisable to buy three good birds rather than twenty poor ones and make a clean, new house, even if it's only 3 by 6 feet, rather than patch up some vermin infested shanty. This is the time to lay the foundation of winter eggs and next year's profits, so if you have a flock of any of the popular breeds hatch every one. But if your flock consists of mongrels, feed well and get all the eggs you can, sell them for table use and with the proceeds buy eggs from some reliable dealer, or, what is better, sell a few old birds and buy a small incubator. There is a good little metal machine costing $6, which holds fifty eggs. Fireless brooders from the same firm cost the same.

Feed Only the Best.

Chicks should have nothing to eat for forty-eight hours after leaving the shell. The reason is the yolk is absorbed immediately before a chick breaks through the shell and must be allowed time to digest and pass through the bowels before any foreign substance is introduced or indigestion and diarrhoea will result.

Commercial chick feed is the best feed, being a mixture of seeds and finely broken corn, specially put up for chicks. Once a day give a little pot cheese or stale bread soaked in milk and squeezed dry. When confined to brooders vegetable material must be added, such as lettuce leaves or tops of green onions chopped fine. Keep clean water, ground charcoal and fine grit always before them and remember, with really good birds, your profits come in the spring from selling eggs for hatching or for day old chicks. Indeed, you should not begrudge the utmost thought and care to your poultry in the growing stage, for it is then you are building the foundation for a profitable poultry plant.

PLANTING TREES.

How They Beautify, Protect and Enrich Their Owners.

By MEADE FERGUSEN.

In the economy of man and of nature trees are of great value not only through the products which they yield as food and materials for industrial purposes, but through the influence which they exercise upon climate, soil and the healthiness and beauty of a community. The village home to be beautiful and complete must have shade trees and, if space permits, fruit trees. The farm from an economic standpoint must have trees for shade and protection from the winds and to produce wood for the verious uses, such as building, manufacturing tools, turning, etc. Whenever a soil cannot by any ordinary process be rendered fit for corn or grass and will bear trees it may be planted as the only, perhaps the best mode of turning it to profit. There are some tracts of thin, stony or gravelly soils covered with no growth of any value which will pay for no improvement whatever except starting a tree growth.

In the fall and early winter, after the crops are harvested and the fall seeding finished, one could utilize some spare time to no better advantage than planting trees. There is always room and a suitable place for them. Landlords could easily effect an agreement between themselves and their tenants under which the tenants would be required to plant and care for trees upon suitable areas each year.

A Lack of Ornamental Trees.

In driving through the country and particularly in and around small towns one observes with regret neglected shade and ornamental trees, of which there are so many beautiful specimens. Perhaps a short list may encourage a trial. For flowering crab, English hawthorn, pink horse chestnut and catalpa. For striking characteristics there are the camperdown elm, weeping beech, variegated elder, River's purple beech and the linden.

Nothing adds more to the welfare of a family than fruit, besides which there is pride and joy in producing it at home. Think of that big red apple and the long winter evenings of your childhood. Then go out and put the old orchard in shape, plant new trees to take the place of the old and be happier. If you have only a town lot and not space for the standard sorts plant dwarf apples and pears. They occupy little room and will bear in two or three years. Anyway plant trees every season, for they will grow while you sleep, add comfort to your old age and make your children glad, all reasons worth consideration.

MY ANGORA GOATS.

How They Pay the Mortgage.

By GEORGE H. DACY.

Angora goats are profitable wage-earners. They clean up underbrush, destroy weeds, yield profitable meat and mohair and improve soil fertility on a minimum of feed and care. They are also naturally browsers and relish underbrush and weeds in preference to luxuriant pasture. Without feed other than what they rustle, grade Angoras will produce from three to six pounds of mohair per animal each year, which sells on the market at from 35 to 60 cents per pound. Well cared for purebreds often yield as high as ten or twelve pounds of mohair to a shearing, while fleeces of special luster and over fifteen or eighteen inches in length sometimes bring as high as $5 or $6 per pound.

The meat of the Angora is tender, well marbled and nicely flavored, and many consumers eat goat meat and imagine that they are consuming lamb or mutton. On the grade fat Angoras sell for from 4 to 6½ cents a pound. The manure of the goat rivals that of sheep in tonicing ailing soils.

First Aids to Farmers.

Angoras are first aids to farmers who desire to inexpensively subdue wild land. Twenty-five or thirty goats pastured on 100 acres of bush land will effect wonders in a couple of years toward reclaiming the idle land. It is best to rotate the goats from one small field to another so that the animals are constantly gaining in live weight and at the same time killing out the undesirable growth. Angoras will stand on their hind legs and browse all the leaves and twigs within their reach. They uniformly graze over field so that when they are through with the task of cleaning the land the field is in shape for plowing.

Grade Angoras range in price according to age, weight and conditon. Farmers can usually buy good crossbred flocks at from $2.50 to $5 per animal. Purebred buck cost from $10 to $50 apiece, while full-blooded does sell for from $8 to $20 per animal. The utility of the Angora hinges around his ability to perform valuable work at cut-price costs. Goats abhor wet or swampy land as well as inclement weather. The animals are reliable barometers, inasmuch as they invariably scent the approaching storm and head for shelter.

Millions of acres of brush land that today are loafing could be brought into profitable use if the landowners would but keep flocks of goats as land cleaners. The winter care of goats is similar to that of sheep. An open shed facing the south, provided with plenty of bedding and perfectly dry, will provide ample protection, while oats, roots and hay will supply sustenance.

THE VEGETABLE GARDEN.

How Can We Afford to Be Without It?

By E. PARKER.

There is an important economical side to this question of a garden. Beef, for instance, in its various forms is notoriously expensive, especially where it is eaten twice or three times a day, whereas beans, peas, spinach, etc., when served with meat would make up half the amount eaten, thus reducing the cash cost of the whole. And the impression that a vegetable garden requires much time and care is such an erroneous one! Two or three hours a week will suffice for a garden 150 by 100 feet, which is capable of producing fruit and vegetables enough for a family of six, provided the rows are three feet apart so that a horse may be used.

Laying Out the Garden.

In laying out such a garden the rows should be run north and south, for planted thus vegetables receive the greatest amount of sun. The first four rows should be six feet apart, and the first of these might contain twelve currant and twelve gooseberry bushes set six feet apart. In the second row plant 100 raspberry canes three feet apart, with two canes at each place. The third row will be for strawberries and will hold 150 plants grown in hills set one foot apart, no runners being allowed to grow. The next thirteen rows will be three feet apart and may be planted to the following vegetables in the order given: Asparagus plants, 50 one-year seedlings, set 3 feet apart in the row; parsnips, 50 feet; then 100 feet of onions, of which 25 feet may be young sets for early summer; beets and lettuce, 50 feet; early cabbage, 100 feet; late cabbage, 100 feet; cauliflower, 50 feet; peas, three full rows; corn, four full rows; tomatoes, 100 feet; beans, 50 feet; okra, 10 feet; then 50 feet more of string beans and 150 feet of dwarf lima beans. The remaining four rows should be eight feet apart to allow the vines to spread. In the first row plant twenty-five muskmelons six feet apart, then a row of cucumbers set six feet apart, five eggplants and ten early squash, all six feet part. The next row may be planted to eight Hubbard squash and twelve rhubarb plants, set six feet apart, and the last two rows may very properly be given over to herbs and flowers for cutting.

It is frequently forgotten that a great many people abroad, notably the drawers of water and hewers of wood, live almost entirely on vegetables, considering meat a luxury only to be indulged in once a week, while we in America, having the most delicious and greatest variety of vegetables grown anywhere, discard them for meat.

BOOKMAKERS TO BE LICENSED

German Authorities Expect to Collect $6,000,000 in Percentage on Bets on Horse Races — Number of Bookmakers to Be Limited.

Berlin, April 11.—The German authorities have again capitulated to what they term "the ineradicable gaming instinct of the average person." After continued and vain attempts to put an end to promiscuous betting on horse races, which involves a sum yearly estimated at between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000, they have decided to license bookmaking in an effort to secure for the state a percentage of this sum. A measure to this end already reported briefly by cable, has been adopted by the Federal council, and is now awaiting the action of the reichstag. It is hoped to have it become effective in time for the Baden-Baden races next August.

Heretofore the only form of betting sanctioned by law has been by means of the pari-mutuel machine. This, however, was available only to persons able to visit the race tracks. The result is that a vast army of bookmakers, estimated at 6,000, ply their business in defiance of the law. In addition, every barber shop and thousands of cafes and similar resorts harbor their bandbook men.

Competent authorities estimate the number of business places where wagers can be laid on horse races at over 200,000. Prosecutions for bookmaking increased from 1,600 in 1906 to 3,000 in 1912. For the most part they resulted in trivial fines or short jail sentences, and the business went ahead just the same. The bettor, too, is outside the law, and has no remedy against dishonest handbook men or bookmakers who refuse to settle winning wagers.

The number of licensed bookmakers is not fixed in the new measure, but it is understood that the government contemplates licenses for about fifty, scattered throughout the empire, each of which will be entitled to establish branch offices to meet the demand. Notwithstanding rigorous provisions against illicit betting, punishing both bookmaker and bettor (the latter with fines up to $250), experts believe that illicit books will continue to flourish, not only because the wage-earners, clerks and small-salaried men, who today furnish the bulk of the handbook custom, cannot afford the minimum stake of $12, but because the heavy taxation of the licensed bookmakers will enable the handbook men to offer far better odds.

Since 6 per cent of every bet entered will go to the government as an initial tax, and winning bets will be mulcted with an additional tax of from 6 per cent on bets at odds of 2 to 1 or less, up to 20 per cent on the long shot of 20 to 1 or better, the man who plays a heavily-backed, odds-on favorite, say at 7 to 5, may risk a possible fine rather than the certain loss of nearly half of his scanty winnings. To backers of 100 to 1 outsiders the prospective surrender of some $25 of a $100 win will be equally deterrent.

Limiting authorized gambling under this law to horse racing, the government in its introduction to the bill pronounced against betting on football and other sports popular with the "middle and lower classes," to save them from the gambling contagion. Officers and soldiers are also classed in the undesirable category, bookmakers being forbidden to accept bets from members of the military forces, and betting on races with gentlemen jockeys is also prohibited.

An important provision of the proposed law makes winning wagers collectible at law, provided they are each cash wagers. This, it is believed, will greatly reduce the number of dishonest bookmakers. The maximum penalty for unlicensed bookmaking is to be two years' imprisonment and $1,500 fine, as against six months and $125 at present. Bettors dealing with unlicensed bookmakers also make themselves liable to imprisonment and fine, and to the loss of all sums wagered, which will be confiscated by the state. The police may forbid the publishing of tips and form sheets.

The government estimates that the new law will produce at least $6,000,000 yearly, of which $2,000,000 will go to the states where the races in question are held, to be devoted to the encouragement of horse breeding, and $4,000,000 to the Federal treasury. Despite the reduction of the tax on pari-mutuel takings, it is not believed that returns will be below the present figures, which are approximately $3,000,000 yearly, since betting through the machines is to be permitted, with restrictions, on races outside Germany. Under the existing law, the machines may be employed only for domestic races.

VALUABLE IKON AWAITS CLAIMANT

Originally Made for Presentation to the British King.

London, April 11.—A mother of pearl ikon, of the "Lord's Last Supper," almost identical to that presented to the emperor of Russia by the sultan of Turkey as a peace offering on the outbreak of the late war with Italy, is in London awaiting a claimant. It was offered for King George, but because it is not an official gift it cannot be presented to him, and, since no one else has a right to accept it, the ikon remains without a master.

The history of the ikon began when Italy cast covetous eyes on Turkey's Tripolian possessions. The sultan, in need of friends, determined to turn to his powerful neighbor on the north and in true oriental fashion decided to accompany his overtures with a gift. He ordered the Kobi, an Arabian tribe celebrated for its mother of pearl work, to make an ikon of the "Lord's Last Supper" for presentation to the Russian emperor. It was no small order, for the mother of pearl had to be carried a twelve-day camel journey into the interior from the seashore.

While the tribe was at work on the ikon one of its members, who had served in the British army, paid a visit to his old home, and when he saw what was being done he insisted that it would be the grossest discourtesy to his royal master if a similar gift was not made for King George. The only difference between the two is that the Russian gift is surmounted by the imperial arms of Russia while the English image bears the royal arms of Great Britain.

When the Russian gift was finished the agents of the sultan paid for it and carried it away, but the Kobi tribesmen did not know how to send the replica to King George. It was finally taken to Sir John Gray Hill of Liverpool, who maintains a winter home on the Mount of Olives in Jerusalem. Lady Hill paid the tribesmen for their work and brought the ikon to London.

The ikon is made in the form of a half room with the front elevation surmounted by the royal arms. The figure of the Saviour and his disciples about the table are done in full relief in solid mother of pearl. The work is very complete, even the smallest table utensils in mother of pearl occupying their ordinary place on the table. The workmanship is exquisite and the design excellently done. It is probable that if no means can be found for delivering the ikon to the king, it will find a resting place in some London museum.

ROME TO CELEBRATE 2,667TH BIRTHDAY.

Rome, April 11.—Rome will celebrate her 2,667th birthday on April 21 with a general hoisting of flags and illumination, but there will be no revival this year of the celebrated feast of the century, the ancient ceremony, which was last attempted in 1900, when the Forum and Palatine rang, as it did twenty centuries before, with the invocation by Horace to the "Alma Sol" in which he asserted that her sun in its passage around the world would see no such sight as Rome. Although the year of Rome's birthday is officially recognized as 750 B. C., recent archaeological discoveries indicate that it should be moved back many centuries.

Another celebration now in progress is in commemoration of the work of Bramante, called "the Prince of Modern Architecture," who died in 1514.

Bramante's work is scattered all over Italy and Rome but his most celebrated edifices here are the palace of the Cancelleria and the courts of San Damaso and the Belvedere at the Vatican. His was the original design for the present St. Peters, but both he and his patron, Pope Julius II., died soon after the building was begun. Had he lived, Michael Angelo's cupola, considered a marvel of architecture, would not have been realized.

NEW CAMPAIGN OF FEMINIST LEADERS.

Rome, April 11.—With the passing of the Giolitti cabinet the leaders of the feminist movement in Italy have taken up a new campaign, in the hope that the new ministers of the government will deal more favorably with their cause.

There is no militant element in the feminist movement of Italy, and no sex antagonism, but women are anxious to free themselves from certain restrictions which the laws of the land and the customs of society have imposed. Originally designed for the protection of women, it is declared these laws are now a burden. The vote is the women's ultimate goal, but at present they are hoping particularly for the opening of the professions to them, and the repeal of such laws as those prohibiting a married woman from opening a bank account without the consent of her husband.

MIDGET ADMITTED TO THE FRENCH ARMY

Paris, April 11.—The French army has admitted to its ranks a youth named Defrance who, although of the military age, 20, weighs only forty-two pounds and is only three feet three and one-quarter inches tall. The medical board found him physically fit in every way. It is understood he will be assigned to duties which will not oblige him to carry the marching outfit of the French soldier. The outfit is one and one-half times the midget's weight.

THEY FOUGHT BACK TO THE LAND

Mother and Girls Won After a Terrific Struggle—Now Are Happy in the Flathead of Montana.

Kansas City Star: How we made a home and dug and delved and carved a living out of bare, unbroken sod, and what it cost is the story I want to tell.

We found ourselves in our home in Kansas City left with nothing but each other and our household furniture. It was the same old story of ill-advised investment—dishonesty of business associates—the problem of providing bread and butter for the family—hereft of the husband and father.

The big flood of 1905 had swept us out of house and home; but the family supply of grit and courage still held out. The youngest daughter was drooping in the hot Kansas City summers. The eldest son was married and had a position as traveling salesman. The two younger boys found work and all helped to keep the family together.

But the Flathead reservation in Montana was to be opened, and our thoughts turned lingeringly Westward. My brother was going out and we decided to go with him "We" meant grandma, 80 years old, myself, a grandmother and well along in the fifties, two young daughters and my brother. My oldest and youngest son decided to keep their positions in Kansas City; but the second son, our "farmer boy," had the ranch fever and was to come with us.

The Bank Went Under.

We were all ready for the journey—had our trunks packed and our household goods on the way when the panic of 1907 broke. Before we could cash the check that was to pay our way to Montana the bank went under! The panic threw my eldest son out of a position. Then the second son was sent to a hospital with typhoid fever.

Before the month was over the "farmer boy" was laid to rest beside his father, and the girls and I were alone in a strange country to bear our crushing sorrow.

One of the blessings of poverty is that you simply have to get up and hustle and in that hustling one finds help and relief. We had no time to brood over our troubles, even when the youngest boy was so injured by a buzz saw that he came home with a permanently maimed hand, having lost two fingers.

On the heels of all this, Louise was stricken down in a day with appendicitis. Dazed and bewildered, I went with her to the hospital, where she was to go through the dreaded operation.

When she recovered we were ordered to take her to the country. Once more we discussed the probability of the homestead proposition. We were then in Missoula, Mont., where kind friends had enabled us to go after the death of my son. We had a pretty home and were taking boarders.

I knew there would be no boarders to take if we gave up our home for a homestead cabin. Nobody out there would want sewing done. How could we live while we were getting started?

Louise had a girl friend, who had drawn a number when the reservation was thrown open. She was settled on a little shack on her claim. She sent for Louise to come and visit her. That visit was the turning point for us.

Louise came home full of enthusiasm. She dilated on the beauty of the country—the rich soil—the subirrigation and the four girl homesteaders she had met. Moreover, she had found a fine claim of 160 acres that she wanted. A letter was written at once to the oldest son, who now had another good position. He encouraged us in our plan to homestead and promised to help all he could. His young wife was equally enthusiastic over the "girl rancher."

Mice Ran Over the Bed Clothes.

We found another claim of 120 acres adjoining the one Louise had chosen, and, although I had nothing but faith to go on, I made up my mind to have that land. I borrowed the money to go up and look it over. I came back even more enthusiastic than Louise had been.

Leo, my son, promised to help us get settled and I went to a lumber merchant and got the lumber on time, arranging to pay for it in monthly payments. We filed in February and Louise and Leo went up in April to get things started.

A good hearted rancher lent the youngsters a large tent and another hauled them some wood. They brought household utensils and an oil cooking stove along and soon were housekeeping in the tent and found the ranchers a big hearted and big souled lot of neighbors.

It was a world of new experiences to the city bred girl to lie awake at night listening to the coyotes—to feel mice running over the bed clothes and to wonder if snakes could crawl in under the tent. But she grew well and strong in the fresh air. The shack was finished in two weeks and they had jolly times with callers from neighboring ranches, rides, walks and visits.

As soon as the shack was done Leo came after grandma and me. We took what household goods we would need in our little shack and rode seventy miles by rail through beautiful mountain scenery and then were ferried across the Pend Oreille river by a Flathead Indian with a sash around his waist and feathers sticking up in his hair. Then there was a ten-mile drive up a rocky mountain canon—and we were at our own door.

I saw a building that looked like a chicken coop, and Louise came rushing out, crying.

"Oh, mamma, oh, grandma—just think—this is my own house and we are on my own land!"

The inside was pretty enough to satisfy any girl's heart. The shack was 12 by 14, with one door and a window. It was of rough pine boards, battened on outside and lined with blue plaster board. There were blue and white rugs on the floor and her school pennants, books and pictures were tastefully arranged on the walls. There was a bed in one corner and a table in another, with cupboards made of dry goods boxes.

280 Acres, Unfenced, Unplowed.

Our lumber and household goods were delayed owing to the bad roads and for two weeks we all lived in that little 12 by 14 shack. The men slept in the tent. There was a small round table for the meals with but two chairs. But we pulled the table close to the bed at meal times and two sat on the bed, while one of us served the meals.

The bracing mountain air gave us such appetites that the supplies we brought with us soon disappeared; but food never tasted so good before. We were a queer collection to think of ranching. Grandma suffered with rheumatism in her legs. I had a lame hip from a fall; Leo had a sprained hand and Louise was weak from her operation for appendicitis. Around us stretched 280 acres of land, unfenced, unplowed, unimproved, from which we must make our living. We had no horses, nor plows, no harness, nor at that time, money to buy them.

It sounds crazy, doesn't it?

The kind-hearted rancher who had lent us the tent until we could get our shacks ready to live in, brought over his plow and plowed a small garden spot for us about 150 feet long and twelve furrows wide. We did not like to ask any one to drag a harrow a mile or more to harrow that little piece, so Louise and I pulverized that heavy new sod ground with the only tools we had—a rake and two hoes—and planted our garden.

It was getting late and the work was heavy; but Louise and I worked all our spare time in the garden. The chunks of ground were dreadfully big, but we beat them down with the rake and made little drills for the seed with the handle of the hoe. Potatoes were dreadfully high—$3.25 a hundred—and we had carefully saved out every eye from those we peeled for cooking. We made a soft bed for them in the ground and they paid us well for our trouble. We had eight long rows of as fine spuds as one could wish.

We planted three varieties of sweet corn, beans, peas, lettuce, radishes, early and late cabbage, beets, turnips, salsify, onions, cucumbers and melons. We were strangers to the soil and did not know what would grow and what would not; but we planted just as if we were at the old home in Kansas City. The garden prospered wonderfully and we were more than repaid for our efforts, although from the tomatoes we had just three small green ones. We had seven cucumbers, which we made up with a cabbage and our three garden tomatoes into a nice pickle.

The Problem of Water.

A friend in Missoula had given Louise a setting of fine Rhode Island Red eggs to start her in the poultry business. Louise walked a mile to the nearest neighboring ranch, borrowed a broody hen, carried her home in a gunny sack, and we set her in a box with a bit of canvas rigged up to protect her from the weather.

The hardest problem was the water. It was hard to people accustomed to turning a faucet and obtaining plenty of hot or cold water. The nearest well was half a mile away, and Leo and Louise had to carry all the water for drinking and cooking. We learned to use water as if it was melted gold and made each pailful do the work of three. When the very hot days came we had no way of keeping it cool. Louise would take a drink of the warmish water and say, "I am doing penance for all the sins I have committed." Soon she would try it again, but spit out the lukewarm water and say, "I am doing penance for all the sins I am ever going to commit." Then she would pick up the 10-pound lard pail and start off on the long hot walk for a pail of fresh water.

The hen was the first to put out "livestock" on the ranch. She hatched twelve fine chicks from her fifteen eggs. Eight of them were pullets. Six hens were purchased and set as fast as we could get them, and by fall we had a nice little flock. By the middle of June we were eating fresh garden stuff.

Leo began digging a well with a pick and spade, and it was slow work. When the hole became too deep for him to throw the dirt up, he rigged up a windlass and got a neighbor's boy to haul the dirt up in a coal hod. At fifty feet he struck water, and that day—Sept. 5—was a red-letter day in the annals of the ranch. Louise began to dig a root cellar near the house, and Leo finished it for us.

The second year we purchased a good team, plow and harrow, and Leo put in a nice field of oats, and we trebled our garden space. Berry plants, rhubarb, asparagus and a small orchard were set out, and a barn was put up.

Things I See From My Window.

The barn on the homestead claim is usually built of poles. A strong framework and then another set of poles about a foot outside and the space is filled in with hay, grass, manure—anything to keep out wind and snow, and a straw or hay roof is piled up on a sloping foundation of poles. Such barns are warm and comfortable, as well. Our chicken coop was built with the same style of architecture, but had a patent roofing paper top and a bit of canvas for the front which made it light and well ventilated.

In the fall we got a good patch of wheat and had some plowing done ready for spring. Now the ranch began to show results of the hard work put on it.

All that was three years ago.

Today, as I write, I can see from the window our two large chicken yards and two chicken houses, where our 200 Rhode Island Reds were hatched last spring. They are now keeping us supplied with meat and eggs and helping to reduce our grocery bill each month. Beyond the chicken yards are the Indian Runner ducks and the Belgian hares whose meat is even better than chicken. On the other side a couple of young sows are turning the kitchen waste into lard, sausage and hams for next winter. Out on the hillside are two fat cows, with two yearling heifer calves that will be cows in another year—two good teams of horses are browsing on the rich bunch grass and we know that spring time will bring us an increase in our stock.

On our third Thanksgiving here we decided to have a "ranch grown dinner." This is what we had—all raised on our own ranch:

A 16-pound turkey, with home-grown sage dressing. Potatoes, creamed onions, cauliflower, beets, green beans canned from our garden, pickles, butter, cream and eggs—everything in the cake except the flavoring and sugar raised on the ranch.

We have a definite idea of a home and saw it grow day by day under our very hands. We believed that disaster does not necessarily mean defeat and every time we were caught in a rushing flood of adverse circumstances we scrambled out, wiped the water from our eyes and traveled on to the next experience.

We were awfully green and made lots of mistakes. From our experience we learned that there is no possibility of making a living the first year unless one has a small income to eke out. Farming for city people is like the learning how to do patchwork blocks as a child. The youngster toils and sweats away at the plaguey old seams, gets all tired and sweaty and then finds that it is all wrong and must be ripped out and sewed over. We have ripped out lots of our quilt patches on this ranch and have a lot more to rip this year; but we keep pegging away.

The range here is not an unbroken chain of peaks running north and south, but a wide network of spurs and short ranges, some running at right angles to the main range. In the spaces between are many valleys and pockets of level land. This peculiar formation gives the Northwest the unusually mild climate and wonderfully rich soil that marks it as one of the favored regions of the country.

Ranch life is not easy work—it takes all our mental as well as physical strength. People who want a "soft snap" had better keep away from the soil.

ON A BICYCLE TRIP AROUND THE WORLD.

Tokio, April 11.—Youthful chauvinistic sportsmen are eagerly following the movements of a young Japanese Okubo, who has just started on a bicycle trip around the world. Strapped to his wheel, Okubo carries a precious bag of sand which he shoveled from the grounds of the palace of his emperor. His intention is to sprinkle a little sand whenever he reaches a Japanese colony or comes to a place where a number of Japanese live. "My idea," he explained before starting, "is to remind Japanese abroad of their native country—of the glorious Mikado empire."

MEETS DEATH FROM BEAK OF A ROOSTER.

Tokio, April 11.—Japanese doctors are discussing the unusual if not unprecedented case of a child meeting death from the beak of a rooster. A 4-year-old girl was walking to a playground near her father's house in Tokio when she was attacked by a rooster who pecked at her viciously. The girl ran, stumbled and fell, hitting a stone. Before the on-lookers could interfere the rooster had again pecked the child in the forehead. The child was picked up dead.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

INQUIRY FOR BUILDING LOTS IS BRISK ALL OVER THE CITY

Agents Say More Houses Are Needed for Rent to Newcomers.

Steel Plant and New Traffic Rates Boom Real Estate.

Well sustained inquiry for building lots, in which all sections of the city participated, featured the situation in realty estate circles during the present week. It is becoming more apparent to operators as the May 1 moving day period approaches that the growth in the city's population during the past year has been well in advance of the additional housing accommodation provided.

Modern Houses All Rented.

Agents say that practically everything modern in the house line has been rented, and that many newcomers will be compelled to board until such time as the deficiency has been overcome through the building of more homes. The shortage is especially apparent in West Duluth and in the steel plant districts, and to overcome it extensive building programs are being planned by individuals and syndicates.

A general inclination on the part of outside holders of property to advance their prices, is the latest development. Instances where owners have refused to sign deeds sent them for execution have been reported of late. In these cases the plea was made by the owners that the Duluth agent should have communicated with them before entering into sale agreements rather than to take it for granted they would stand by listings made several months previously.

Will Invest $20,000,000.

The present bullish sentiment entertained by holders of Duluth properties is based on the knowledge that approximately $20,000,000 will be eventually invested by the United States Steel corporation in its works here, and the impression that the interstate commerce commission's decision in the lake and rail case must lead to enhancement in this place's importance as a distributing center.

At recent conventions of the International Association of Real Estate exchanges, the point has been made that Duluth realty values are relatively lower than in other cities of corresponding population and importance, and that in due time a leveling up must be expected. It has been shown that the best price recorded for central business frontage here is $2,000 per foot, while favorable locations at the West end or West Duluth may be bought for a fraction.

Valuations of Property.

The following compilation of values in fourteen widely scattered cities is interesting as illustrating the possibilities offering here. It is to be seen that an increase of over 50 per cent in valuations of business properties in representative American cities has come about since 1907:

	Even 1,000 Population.	Per Ft. on Record. 1907.	Highest Price Record. 1914.
Atlanta	154,000	$ 5,000	$ 8,000

The latest enterprising move on the part of the Alliance Real Estate company is the erecting of a sawmill to accommodate settlers at its Exeter farms. The plant though as yet only in operation a short time, is busy cutting timber for buyers of these tracts, who are preparing to build homes and improve their holdings during the present season.

The Ebert-Walker company has just disposed of a block of 600 acres of land located near Finland in Lake county to Emil Timms of Chicago. The buyer proposes to divide the parcel for colonization purposes.

That office besides disposed of two lots on Elinor street, West Duluth; a 5-acre tract at Lakewood and two acre tracts in Norton's acre outlots at Woodland. A brisk inquiry is advised by the firm, with a number of sales pending.

* * *

Charles P. Craig & Co., acting for the Lakeside Land company, sold four building lots at Lakeside, and also two small tracts at Greysolon Farms.

* * *

The Field-Frey company sold for Charles Lovett of Douglas county, Wisconsin to M. Hansen, two large lots in the Spirit Lake addition. This addition adjoins the Minnesota Steel company's property on the east, making it a desirable location.

* * *

The Hoopes-Kohagen company sold a lot on Sixth street east to Gus Torgerson. He proposes to improve the property at once in the erection of a flat building. Some sales were effected by the company during the week in the Park Drive addition, and of its Home Land acre tracts. The company is proceeding with the grading of streets in the latter parcel, preparatory to pushing its sale on an extensive scale.

* * *

The Pulford-How company sold for M. Holden to Arthur Fisher, house and lot No. 431 Seventeenth avenue east at $6,500.

* * *

The Little & Nolte company reported the sale of three lots in the Mount Royal addition yesterday. The carrying through of substantial improvements in the way of the building of high class homes, is forecasted in that addition during the present season.

* * *

The Whitney Wall company advised the receipt of earnest money on the sale of a $4,500 dwelling in the East End.

The Most Modern Homes Use Electric Appliances

Even homes enjoying the advantages of Electric Light have not reached the highest point of domestic efficiency, unless they are equipped with one or more of the handy electrical household appliances. Besides a saving of time and labor, tasks are performed better and with an indescribable feeling of satisfaction.

Lessen the Household Labors

An Electric Vacuum Cleaner cleans thoroughly and quickly. It does not stir up the germ-laden dust as a broom does, and it avoids the back-breaking labor of sweeping. An Electric Sewing Machine Motor allows you to do a great deal more work than you can accomplish on a foot-power machine—saves time and strength as well. You owe it to yourself to investigate.

ENGLISH HALF-TIMBERED HOUSE TO COST $3455.

This week we present to the readers of The Herald several novel features in the way of a residence of low cost. This design is a part of the series of beautiful homes and is what is called the English half-timbered house. It is constructed on interlocking tile with stucco exterior and is without question the greatest building bargain in that city of Duluth today. The inside is well arranged, keeping cost uppermost in mind, and while it does not possess all the advantages or comforts of the large home, it has every modern convenience, but on a small scale. The house would cost to build in Duluth, $3,455.00, as shown in sketch.

SARGENT Hardware

The best hardware is most economical in the long run. The artistic quality of Sargent designs adds to the beauty and selling value of a house. Its solid worth makes the dwelling more comfortable and saves repair bills. If you expect to build or remodel, let us show you Sargent designs to harmonize with your architecture and explain points of superiority about this hardware. Sargent Locks are famed for security. All styles, cylinder and bit-key, also padlocks.

DULUTH BUILDERS ARE ASSURED OF BIG SEASON'S BUSINESS

West End Will Have $55,000 Theater; Permits Show Up Well.

With several new propositions coming to a focus, it is now regarded as assured that local architects and contractors will be well employed throughout the present season. As a result of the work that has already come out in the way of moderate-priced frame dwellings, carpenters have been busy for some time back, and there is every promise of sustained activity in that branch of building.

The feature of the week was the announcement that plans have been prepared for a 2,000,000-bushel addition to the Consolidated Elevator company's elevator "H" to entail an outlay of approximately $400,000. It is understood that the contract for the project will be let in a few weeks from now if the crop conditions throughout the Northwest are favorable.

Theater for West End.

Another interesting item of news was the intimation that a new theater enterprise is to be carried through in the West end at an estimated cost of $55,000. The structure, to be known as the Starland theater, will be built by Emil Nelson on a site at 2109 West Superior street adjoining the Star theater. According to the plans prepared by Holstead & Sullivan, architects, it will be 50 by 140 feet in size, two stories high. It is to be of fireproof construction throughout with the latest mechanical system of heating and ventilating. It will have a seating capacity for 1,200 people. The plans will be ready to go to the contractors for figures within a week and the contract is to be let without delay, with a view to the premises being ready for occupancy in about three months.

Many Permits Issued.

The list of building permits issued during the week made a creditable showing, numbering thirty-one with the cost of improvements placed at $40,600. The largest permit in the lot, $12,000, was issued to C. Davis to cover the reconstruction of the premises lately occupied by the Barthe-Martin company on West Michigan street that was gutted by fire. The D. H. Clough company, the contractor for the reinforced concrete for the first floor early next week. It is expected the building will be ready for occupancy by the grocery company in about six weeks.

Additional men were taken on by the contractors at the steel plant site this week, and it is expected that the number will be further augmented during the next month. Operations are now reaching a forward stage in some of the departments. It is intimated that the installing of machinery at the merchants mill is nearly completed, and that the erection of the gas engines is getting well along.

Edward P. Shurick, architect, has prepared plans and will take figures on April 15, on a frame and stucco residence for D. D. Morgan of Virginia. It will be modernly equipped throughout with hot water heating and hardwood finish. The design was selected from the first of The Herald's present Home Beautiful series.

The same architect has plans out for an eight-room frame house for Mrs. G. Kraft of Kerrick, Minn., to cost about $3,500.

* * *

Plans for the proposed new high school at Pine City, Minn., went out for figures yesterday from the office of Kelly & Williams, architects. It is expected that the contract will be let at once.

* * *

P. M. Olsen, architect is taking figures upon a brick and stucco residence for C. E. Patterson. It will be built on Woodland avenue, Hunter's Park, and will cost abiut $6,500.

* * *

Figures are also being received by him on a $3,500-two-story frame dwelling to be built for A. Johnson at Lakeside, and for a two-story frame residence for Andrew Haugen of Two Harbors, to entail an outlay of $6,000.

* * *

Plans have been prepared by Mr. Olsen for remodeling the residences of William Clifford on East First street, and of Fred Harris on East Fourth street. Sun parlors will be added in each case.

* * *

The Hunter's Park Land company has awarded the contract to Gustafson & Olson for two two-story frame dwellings. They will entail an outlay of about $6,500 each. The plans were prepared by P. M. Olsen.

* * *

Arthur Hanford, architect, is preparing plans for the Lakeside Land company for a frame dwelling to be built at Gladstone street and Forty-second avenue east to cost $3,500. He has besides plans in hand for a $3,500 bungalow to be built near Colbyville.

* * *

Increased activity is now evident in building operations at Gary. The erection of twelve cottages has just been started there by Watson S. Moore, the Gary Investment company and A. W. Kuehnow.

* * *

Work on the new Grand theater being built on the site of the St. James hotel, Superior street west, is making good headway. The contractors, Fawcett & Bergstrom, are completing the laying of the roof, and the handsome entrance is approaching the finishing stage.

COLD WAVE BULLS WHEAT

Market Up on Short Covering With Fears of Crop Damage.

Flaxseed Breaks Sharply on Heavy Selling and Lack of Support.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 11.—The wheat market was strong throughout today's session and closing quotations were at the top. Prices advanced sharply around the opening, and then held there on comparatively limited trading. The bulge of ½@¾c was attributed largely to nervousness on the part of the short interest, owing to the extension of the cold wave through the winter wheat territory, and the delay brought about in seeding operations in the Northwest.

May wheat opened unchanged at 89⅜c and closed ⅝c up at 90c. The July option opened unchanged at 90⅝c and closed ½c up at 91⅛@91¼c. September closed ¾c up at 88½c. Durum was neglected, with only a few trades put through in the May option, which closed ¼c off at 87c bid. The July option closed ¼c down at 88⅜c asked.

Oats closed unchanged at 35⅜c and rye unchanged at 54½@56½c for the best grades. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 35¾c bid and July at 36½c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at 88@88⅛c and calls at 87¾c asked.

All the foreign markets were closed, so that there was no outside news to influence prices. German and Russian crop advices were bullish, with cold and unfavorable weather the rule over large areas of country.

Outside of the sentimental effect brought about by the cold wave, the domestic situation was regarded by experts as distinctly bearish. Crop reporters could not find that the high condition of the plant had been impaired in any section of the country, and the cash demand for wheat was slow at all the markets.

Primary wheat receipts were heavy amounting to 252,000 bu more than last year. Inspections at Duluth were 19 cars compared with 10 a year ago and there were 50 cars of all grains on the tracks for the day. Arrivals of 21 cars of bonded grain were also reported. Stocks of all grains in the local elevators increased 275,000 bu in the five days and now aggregate 21,474,000 bu.

Break in Flaxseed.

Flaxseed absorbed the interest of traders throughout the session. Liquidation started in from the opening and with the exception of a couple of rallies, it continued up to the close, which was within a fraction of the low spots set in the day.

The execution of a batch of selling commissions resulted in the uncovering of many stop loss orders and prices went off 2¼c in the first five minutes. Scattered buying then appeared, and a rally of 1¼c was recorded. Further selling materialized near the close, which was weak and excited.

May flax opened ⅛c off at $1.55½ and closed with a loss of 2¾c in the day at $1.53¼ bid. The July option opened ¼c off at $1.57½ and closed 2¾c down at $1.55. September opened 2c off at $1.56¼ and closed 2¾c down at $1.55½ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.34¾ bid and July at $1.37⅝ bid.

Winter wheat is in a fair condition, but much reseeding is necessary. Offers of native wheat are small. A large quantity of wheat has been sold to Hungary and Austria and large contracts are still unfilled. This necessitates their marketing fresh purchases of foreign wheat, largely American.

The Ohio crop report gives the wheat condition as 95 against 94 in March and 93 in April last year. The government made the conditions 96, showing 41,500,000 bu, against 35,100,000 bu harvested last year. Farm reserves are 14 per cent against 13 per cent last year. The condition of corn in cribs is 93 against 97 last year.

The following from Lincoln, Neb., was received today: "The report of the state board of agriculture to be released April 14 shows an acreage of 3,155,740 acres of wheat in Nebraska. The condition is reported at 99 per cent as compared with last year. Reports of winter killing and 40 per cent loss come from three counties. The report on rye shows an acreage at 107 per cent and condition at 101. A decided increase is shown in the alfalfa acreage and the condition of this crop is the best in years."

The Minneapolis cash market was firm with a good general milling demand. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at from 1¼c to 3c over May and velvet chaff at 1½c over. There were fair scattered flour sales, but shipping directions were a little slow. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from 89¼c to 91¼c and No. 2 northern at from 87¼c to 88¾c.

The following letter touching upon crop conditions in the Northwest was issued today by the Van Dussen-Harrington company:

"Since last week's letter our three states have received general rains and snow, followed by colder weather. With the exception of portions of Minnesota, Eastern North Dakota and Eastern South Dakota, the precipitation came in territory where it was badly needed. In most localities it came in the form of heavy, wet snow which melted almost as fast as it fell and gave the ground a good soaking. There are a few complaints from farmers in South Dakota and Southern Minnesota who claim that being kept out of the fields by the rain, snow and cold weather is unduly delaying their spring work. We do not believe that these complaints are worthy of serious consideration.

"Minnesota—In Central Western Minnesota, wheat seeding was well started the first of this week, but was stopped by the wet weather followed by freezing temperatures. In Southern Minnesota no seeding has yet been done because of the amount of moisture received this spring, and several warm days will be required before the farmers will be able to get onto the fields. Conditions in Southwestern Minnesota are practically the same. Northwestern Minnesota is still frozen up and no seeding of moment has as yet been possible. This is not unusual as seeding does not normally begin in the Red River Valley earlier than April 15 to 20. The whole state is now amply supplied with moisture and is in a most satisfactory condition.

"South Dakota—East of the Missouri river wheat seeding was quite general the first of the week, but was stopped by the rain and snow followed by colder weather. The top soil is now frozen and all moisture which has been received will be absorbed by the soil on which it fell as there have been no high drying winds. West of the Missouri river has received some precipitation and now has enough to germinate the seed. The farmers are now busy putting in wheat there but the acreage sown this year in this district will probably show quite a decrease from last year.

"North Dakota—Moisture was received during the past week in all parts of the state and those localities which we mentioned last week as being in need of rain received sufficient to answer all immediate purposes. This was followed by cold weather and no seeding of any consequence has been possible in the state."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Cold in the Southwest Brings About Rise in Wheat.

Chicago, April 11.—Wheat prices rose today on account of seeding delays northwest, where cold weather made conditions unfavorable. There were also reports of possible damage to the winter crop owing to a hard freeze in the Southwest. Expected falling off in world shipments especially from Russia counted likewise against the bears. Opening prices which varied from ⅛c off to a shade advance were followed by a decided upturn all around.

Need of rain in Nebraska helped to promote firmness. So, too, did renewal of talk about green bugs in Oklahoma. The close was steady, ½ to ⅝c net higher.

A rush of selling caused a sudden break in the corn market. Reports that Argentine corn was being sold in Oklahoma forced an element of weakness. Besides, Omaha and Kansas City sent word of cash demand being slack. Quotations here started ¼c lower to a shade up and later hardened a little, but then made a sharp descent.

Depression increased owing to heavy sales by some of the larger speculators. The close was nervous at ½ to ⅝c net decline.

Oats sagged when corn turned down grade. Buying was only in small lots.

Provisions were easy as a result of slowness of demand. First sales ranged from Thursday night's level to a decline of 2½ with no sign of any important rally.

STEEL STOCK SOLD HEAVILY

Poor Showing of Tonnage Figures Cause of Bearish Situation.

New Haven Weakens and Oil Shares Hammered Down Again.

New York April 11.—The large shrinkage in unfilled orders as shown in United States Steel's monthly report, caused heavy selling of the stock at the opening of the market today. The first transactions was a block of 5,000 shares at 61½ to 61¼, compared with the previous close of 62. Oil shares again declined, Mexican Petroleum losnig a point. Changes elsewhere were small with a maporiy of decline.

Initial losses were extended in some instances, but speculative interest was too slight to affect the market greatly.

The market closed weak. Slackness of demand for stocks caused a shading of prices today. The influence of the poor showing of trade conditions in the Steel corporation's tonnage figures was felt throughout the list, with most effect on the stocks of steel companies and related concerns. New Haven weakened on the February statement. Oil shares were hammered down again. The small amount of business transacted was almost entirely of the professional sort. Room sentiment continued to favor the short side, although the general decline was not severe. A few of the specialties broke severely, but comparatively few of the representative shares sagged as much as a point. Bonds were steady.

Weekly Report to Stockholders.

Mutual Iron Mining Co.

"Conditions at the McComber mine could not possibly be better than they are at this time," is the report from the superintendent this week. The drift is now in 90 feet across the ore body, and there seems to be no end to it. There is certainly a big deposit here of high-grade iron ore and preparations will be made to ship next year.

All of the lots in Block A, McComber, are now taken and a considerable number in Blocks 2, 3 and 4. These lots are being sold almost entirely to people on the Iron Range who understand from experience the value of real estate in a live town adjoining a mine like the McComber. Better get yours before they are all gone!

New Mining Sensation

—ON THE—

Cuyuna Iron Range

The iron property of Ver-Mes-Cuyuna Mining & Development company is situated in the very heart of the Cuyuna iron range. A year's drilling has proved up a large body of ore. The over-burden is the lightest yet encountered on the range. Mining will be cheap. The location is ideal and there are no transportation problems.

Results already secured at this mine fully warrant and demand further development work. To strengthen the company's treasury for that purpose, 25,000 shares of stock are offered for subscription at par, $1.00 a share.

This is the first stock offered the public since the company's organization was completed. It is a rare chance. Investigation is invited. Get some of this offering before it is all taken. Prospectus and any information desired on request.

COPPER ISSUES SHOW DECLINES

Market Sells Down With General Apathy on Part of Traders.

Weakness was shown in mining stocks trading at Boston today, with business in light volume. The market largely reflected weakness on Wall street, and there was an absence of buying power in any quarter.

Butte & Superior closed 38 cents off at $34.50; Calumet & Arizona 50 cents off at $67.50; Granby 50 cents off at $87; North Butte unchanged at $27; Shattuck $1 off at $25; Amalgamated Copper 50 cents off at $75.25, and Alaska Gold 38 cents off at $23.87.

Gay & Sturgis had the following closing letter from Boston: "The stock markets were pretty sick today. They were very dull, but buying orders were scarce and a little liquidation made a very considerable impression on prices. Steel was particularly weak, and made a new low record for weeks past. As this is the pivotal stock, it had a marked effect on sentiment and the New Haven statement of earnings contributed largely. The gloom is so thick it ought to mend."

TRADE REVIEW

New York, April 11.—Dun's Review today says: Sentiment especially in the agricultural regions is strengthened by the splendid government report on winter wheat, and the outlook for an almost phenomenal crop is calculated to inspire greater confidence in the future. Reflecting the brilliant prospects, the leading cereal is receding in value, yet the purchasing power of the farming community should be enhanced if the present promise of a banner yield is fulfilled.

The volume of railroad traffic will obviously expand with an increased production of grain and monetary conditions are such that no difficulty is likely to be experienced in harvesting and making the crops.

IS HELD FOR SWINDLING

J. R. Miller Charged With Short-Changing Man on Train.

James Ray Miller, 25 years old, who is accused of having short-changed Severt Tverdahl out of $60 on a Canadian Northern train en route to Duluth last week, was arrested yesterday afternoon when he boarded the same train for Winnipeg.

Miller was recognized when he appeared at the depot and the police notified. Detectives Toewe and Bradley responded and brought him to headquarters, where he was booked on a charge of swindling. In police court this morning he asked for an examination and his hearing was set for Monday afternoon. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

When the train pulled out Detective Toewe remained aboard. At West Duluth, Norman Browne, 20 years old, and George H. Meyer, 40 years old, stepped into one of the coaches. They are alleged to be the two men who were with Miller at the time he is said to have secured Tverdahl's money. They resisted arrest, but were overpowered with the assistance of the conductor and brakeman. They were charged with resisting an officer. In police court they demanded examinations and their hearings were also set for Monday afternoon. Their bail was fixed at $300 each.

HEAR CHOATE AND WHITE ON TOLLS

Senate Committee Will Listen to Distinguished Witnesses.

Washington, April 11.—Many prominent lawyers and diplomatists have agreed to appear next week before the senate canals committee to speak on the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption.

Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to England, who aided in negotiating the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and Henry White, who participated in the negotiations as charge of the embassy in London, are among the number.

ROOSEVELT PARTY PLANS CONFIRMED.

Rio Janeiro, Brazil, April 11.—The report that Col. Theodore Roosevelt expects to arrive at Manaos on April 27, was confirmed today in telegrams received by Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs. The dispatches stated the members of the expedition who had arrived at Calama were in excellent health.

AMUSE THE DEMOCRATS

The Republicans and Bull Moosers Exchange Pleasantries in House.

Mann's Prediction of Party Coalition Starts the Fireworks.

Washington, April 11.—Political fireworks in which the Republicans and Progressives discharged fusillades at one another to the great amusement of the Democrats, took up much of the session in the house today to the delay of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

A row between Representative Howard, Democrat, of Georgia, and Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee, in which Howard assailed Fitzgerald for his economy speech yesterday, brought Republican Leader Mann into the fray. He declared Fitzgerald, working in vain to hold his party to its pledges of economy, was trying to get support from the Progressives.

"Woe to You."

"But the Republicans and the Progressives in this house and elsewhere," Mr. Mann said, "think together, work together, and vote together. And in the end we will get together, and then woe to you on the other side of this house! We've been having a family quarrel, but you better keep out of it!"

"The gentleman from Illinois," interrupted Progressive Leader Murdock, "is right. We'll get together. The Republican party will come to us."

"The gentleman from Kansas," ventured Representative Payne of New York, "is trying to make political capital for what is left of his party. He is now running for the senate from Kansas. He knows he would be beaten for the house in his district, and he is running for the senate because he wants a bigger political funeral."

Speaking of Funerals.

"Speaking of funerals," retorted Murdock, "does the gentleman think I am looking for a bigger funeral than he brought the Republicans with his tariff bill?"

AMERICAN SURGEONS CHOOSE ROCHESTER

Will Hold Their Annual Meeting for 1915 in Minnesota.

New York, April 11.—The American Surgical association, at its closing session today, decided to hold the next annual meeting at Rochester, Minn., and elected these officers:

President, Dr. George E. Armstrong, Montreal, Can.; vice presidents, Dr. Lewis S. Pilcher, Brooklyn, and Dr. Frank E. Bunts, Cleveland; secretary, Dr. Robert G. Leconte, Philadelphia; treasurer, Charles L. Gibson, New York; recorder, Dr. Archibald MacLauren, St. Paul. Members of council—Dr. W. J. Mayo, Rochester, Minn.; Dr. A. G. Gerster, New York, and Dr. Charles A. Powers, Denver, Colo. The fourth congress of the International Surgical association opens here Monday morning.

SPECIAL EXHIBIT OF FEMININE PORTRAITS.

Rome, April 11.—The theory that feminine beauty cannot be divided into types according to nationality, but that it is absolutely international in character will be demonstrated by a special exhibit of paintings by Anglada, the Spanish master, at the coming Exhibition of Fine Arts at Venice.

He has been honored with an invitation to show his pictures in a separate room, and the exhibit will be composed entirely of feminine portraits.

Within two years it is expected that the pavilions of the different countries around the central palace of the Venice group of art buildings will be completed by the addition of those of Germany, Austria and the United States on the island of Saint Elena, which will be connected with the gardens of the exhibition by three beautiful bridges.

LARGE SUM WANTED TO ENTERTAIN KINGS.

Paris, April 11.—The cabinet has asked parliament to vote the equivalent of $84,000 to entertain the kings of England and Denmark when they visit Paris for a couple of days this month. Three-quarters of this sum is to be spent by the foreign office in decorations, illuminations, presents to the sovereigns, receptions, official dinners and special trains. The performance at the opera will take $5,000, the carriage hire $2,500, the tips to servants $450, the military review $11,000 and the extra expenses of the police and secret service $2,500. The royalties will be lodged at the foreign office and their apartments will be furnished with pieces from the museums and hung with antique Gobelin tapestries and old masters.

SUBSIDY FOR JAP STEAMSHIP LINES.

Tokio, April 11.—A lively competition has been going on between Japanese steamship companies which hope to get a government subsidy for a steamship line through the Panama canal to the Eastern coast of the United States, with terminus at Boston. At present it looks as if the Nippon Yusen Kaisha would be elected, and that the company will be accorded a subsidy of $1,000,000. The other competitors were the Toyo Kisen Kaisha and the Osaka Shosen Kaisha. The Toyo Kisen will continue its service to San Francisco, but it is probable that the Nippon Yusen will discontinue its service to Seattle and turn it over to the Osaka company, which is building extra steamers to be used on the northern route which it will henceforth monopolize.

DEFICITS OF NEW HAVEN ARE GREATER.

New York, April 11.—Increased deficits are shown by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company and virtually all its subsidiaries for the month of February. The Maine line reports a deficit in net income of $777,436 against $433,084 in the preceding month. For the eight months of the fiscal year there is a deficit of $625,220 against a net income of $4,110,259 in the corresponding period of the previous year.

In smaller degree similar adverse exhibits are made by the Central New England railroad, the New York, Ontario & Western, the New England Steamship company, the Hartford & New York Transportation company, the Merchants' & Miners' Transportation company, which is soon to be disposed of to Baltimore interests, and all the trolley lines and power companies, excepting the Connecticut companies, whose net income, however, are reduced from $46,827 to $9,379.

WEBB-KENYON LAW UPHELD

Kansas Supreme Court Declares Federal Statute Is Valid.

Topeka, Kan., April 11.—The Webb-Kenyon bill, passed by congress, which gives the state control over liquor shipments, was upheld by the Kansas supreme court today. As a result of decision Kansas will take charge of all liquor shipped into the state.

The case was that of a St. Louis brewing company, appealing from a decision of the district court in Cherokee county. The St. Louis company shipped a carload of beer to Corona, Kan. State officials confiscated it under the Webb law, and the company sought the return of the beer, or reimbursement.

"Without this law no state has any more control over liquor than it has over the shipment of wheat and corn," said Justice R. A. Burch, who wrote today's opinion. "We believe that the liquor traffic can be made subject to the same regulations as obscene literature and white slavery, and that congress has sufficient power to regulate the shipments of liquor, as it has to prohibit transportation of white slaves."

RUSSELL WILL IN COURT ONCE MORE.

Boston, Mass., April 11.—The famous Russell will case again was brought to the attention of the court when counsel for the estate asked yesterday for an interpretation of the clause implying that Daniel Blake Russell, who was missing at the time of the drawing of the instrument, should share equally with William C. Russell, the elder son, in the event of the former's return within twenty years of his father's death.

Since the death of Daniel Russell, the father, two claimants have appeared, one from Dickinson, N. D., and the other from Fresno, Cal. After extended litigation the Dakota claimant twice was declared an imposter. The Californian has been accepted by the family.

Counsel for the estate also asked the court to ratify the provisions of the will whereby William C. Russell, now deceased, became a legatee.

CHIEF AND OFFICER HELD FOR MURDER.

Lexington, Ky., April 11.—Chief of Police Joseph Spiver and Patrolman Henry Denney were arrested here charged with murder. The two officers attempted to arrest Frank Garrett, who was allegedly creating a disturbance. A fight ensued and Garrett was shot dead.

MRS. TAFT JOINS ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS.

New Haven, Conn., April 11.—Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the former president, has become a member of the local anti-woman suffrage association, according to an announcement made by the organization.

KALAMAZOO BUGGY FIRM OFFICER GUILTY

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 11.—Victor L. Palmer, formerly secretary and treasurer of the Michigan Buggy company of Kalamazoo, which now is bankrupt, was convicted of fraudulent use of the mails by a jury in United States district court here late yesterday. He was found guilty upon eleven counts, which charged him with sending a false statement of the financial condition of the buggy company to various banks in attempts to secure loans.

FORTY-FOUR DRILL HOLES ARE IN IRON FORMATION

Great Showing Made By Cuyuna Iron and Manganese Company.

Negotiations for Lease of the Iron Mountain Company's Property.

Brainerd, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Drilling on the property of the Cuyuna Iron and Manganese Ore company's property near Crosby is now going on in hole No. 44. Ore was struck at sixty-five feet and the first sample ran over 60 per cent in iron. At last reports the drill was down nearly 200 feet and was showing up an excellent grade of good ore. This hole was put down to a good depth to test out the ore body in this particular district.

This company now has forty-four drill holes down on its property and it is a noticeable fact that each one has found the iron formation, and although one hole is down 525 feet and bottomed in good ore, yet none of the holes has gone through the ore body and none has gone to depth where the possibility of not finding ore at greater depth did not appear.

Most of this company's ore is located in the northern part of its forty, and while some drilling has been done near the big Pennington pit, stripping is going on within about 150 feet of the south line and the company is pretty positive that it has ore over the entire forty, from the north body of ore right down to the one the Pennington is now stripping and shipping.

Iron Mountain's High Grade Ore.

The new standard mining shaft of the Iron Mountain Mining company has been safely anchored at a depth of 117 feet, showing up forty-seven feet of high grade manganiferous ore, which competent mining men, according to officials of the company, after careful examination claim to be the best yet located in formation. The officers and directors of the company have decided to follow a policy of economy. Operations have been closed down for a period and the mine placed in charge of one man, Capt. N. B. Roscoria. The company has opened negotiations with two of the largest independent furnace men in America as to the advisability of their taking over the company's lease at an advance royalty. Such negotiations, it is reported, have continued along satisfactory lines to date. Negotiations have been entered into covering a three years' contract for the tonnage of the mine.

Secretary T. J. St. Germain reports the property clear of all encumbrances, and that with the expenditure of a small financial outlay it is in position to place the mine on a shipping basis within sixty days. The railroad has been connected with the mine.

The Cuyuna Iron & Land company has given a release of option to Herman Tholen, the property being situated in the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter, the east half of the southwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 10, township 47, range 28. Patrick Hammel of Duluth has assigned an undivided one-sixteenth interest in a lease to lots 3, 4, the south half of the southwest quarter of section 16, township 48, range 29.

Mining Contract Filed.

There has been placed on record a mining contract between Roscoe C. Jamison and Albert F. Gross of Duluth, Edmund F. Gross of Ironton, Dan C. Peacock of Brainerd, John D. Lamont of Virginia and the Cuyuna Realty company. The consideration is $5,000, the lease extending sixty years from Oct. 13, 1909, and the land situated in the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 1, township 46, range 29. It is subject to a certain lease by Hans Andersen to R. C. Jamison, Dan C. Peacock and Albert F. Gross. The grantee will pay royalty to the lessors of the primary lease of 12 cents a ton, and to the lessors under the new lease of 50 cents a ton for all iron containing less than .060 of 1 per cent phosphorus, but for all iron ore containing .060 of 1 per cent or more phosphorus, the Cuyuna Realty company shall pay 30 cents per long ton in addition to 12 cents due under the lease of Oct. 13, 1909. The Cuyuna Realty company agrees further to pay the lessors $5,000 the first year, $12,500 the second year and $25,000 each year thereafter.

Supt. Kruse Resigns.

H. J. Kruse has resigned as superintendent of the Rogers-Brown Ore company in the Cuyuna range district. He had been with the company six years. Mr. Kruse came to the range when not a producing mine existed. He superintended the drill work, and Deerwood was first his headquarters. The shaft at the Kennedy mine was sunk and the first timber shaft experienced a lot of trouble. The quicksand was safely penetrated. In these days of quick railroad construction one has no idea of the obstacles overcome by Mr. Kruse. For a long time Mr. Kruse had to transport supplies, machinery and coal, timber, etc., by four-horse team from Deerwood to the mine, and the roads were none of the best. The Soo Line came afterwards. Then followed further pioneer work at the Meacham mine, where a cement shaft was sunk, but where little mining was done. The Armour No. 1 and the Armour No. 2 were developed and entered the shipping lists. Mr. Kruse had six years' practical experience from office work to engineering at the Champion Ore company mine in Michigan before coming to this range. He is a graduate of the Houghton School of Mines. Mr. Kruse has considerable interests on the Cuyuna range.

In Brainerd a source of great interest is the drilling being done by the Longyear Exploration company at the county poor farm, three miles east. Here the first hole, an angle hole, has been sunk to a depth of 442 feet. Blue prints and samples have been furnished the county commissioners as per contract entered into with the county.

The Brainerd-Cuyuna mine in the city limits of Brainerd is working on its second shaft, cement being worked in back of the timber walls of the three-compartment shaft. It is now down over forty feet, and but little water has been encountered so far. In the first shaft the quicksand was struck at seventy feet depth. Considerable machinery is on the ground and the company has pumps on hand ready to be installed when needed.

Iowa Men on the Range.

Frank and Charles Oberg, C. L. Trenery and Scott Ewers of Le Mars, Iowa, and L. S. Potter of Harlan, Iowa, have been on the range examining interests of the Gopher Iron company. At the Rowe pit mine at Riverton the Cuyuna Range Power company is installing three transformers, changing the voltage from 35,000 to 2,300 volts. As soon as the weather permits, the hydraulic operations will be started up. The steam shovel has been kept busy all winter. The Pennington pit mine is operating a shovel and is expected to ship soon. The Thompson mine of the Inland Steel company has a shovel and a large crew at work and will soon start shipping.

The Barrows mine at Barrows has accumulated large stockpiles and will ship heavily this season. The Armour No. 2 mine of the Rogers-Brown Ore company is running light at present. The Rogers-Brown company and the Iroquois Iron company are in the market for pig iron only. Loading directly into cars are the Kennedy mine at Cuyuna and the Armour No. 2 mine near Ironton. The honor of shipping the first ore this season belongs to the Armour No. 2.

The Cuyuna-Duluth and the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mines of the Locker-Donahue interests, now that they are assured of furnace connections, will, it is reported, get out a large tonnage. The Wilcox mine at Woodrow has its three-compartment timber shaft down twenty-nine feet. The Adams mine at Oreland has Capt. William J. Treloar in charge. There are about 2,000 tons in stockpile. Pumping water, 270 gallons are being handled. A big electric pump of 1,500-gallon capacity will soon be installed by the Cuyuna Range Power company.

Changes in Interests.

J. B. Fulton has sold to Frank G. Schrader for $500 part of the west half of the southwest quarter of section 11, township 136, range 29, and to Carl Musolf also a part of the property described for $450. John Wahl of Duluth has sold to the Brainerd Townsite company the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter and the west half of the northeast quarter, less the railway right-of-way, in section 30, township 45, range 30. John J. Andree and others have sold to the Iron Chief Land company the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 17, township 46, range 28. F. W. Koehler has quit-claimed to J. F. Edwards an undivided one-eighth interest in and to the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 17, township 46, range 28.

Henry Evers has quit-claimed to A. E. McManus for $2,200 the west half of the northwest quarter of section 12, township 47, range 28. Vallie Hunter and Glen Hunter, by guardian, have given an easement deed to the Soo Line of a strip 100 feet in width across the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 27, township 47, range 29. C. C. Adams of Deerwood has sold to H. E. Weber an undivided 1-36 interest in and to the east half of the northeast quarter of section 35, township 47, range 29 and the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter; the east half of the northwest quarter, the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter, and the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 10, township 46, range 28.

Archibald McKay has sold to Otto Thies an undivided 1-16 interest in the south half of the northeast quarter, the west half of the northwest quarter, the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter, the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter, and the north half of the southeast quarter of section 11, township 137, range 25; the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 21, township 137, range 25; the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 29, township 137, range 25.

MEN WORKING AT BUTTE & LONDON

Are at Present Employed on the Surface Installing Engine.

Butte, Mont., April 11.—For the past week a force of men has been engaged at the Butte & London in preparation for opening the shaft and resuming operations. This, as well as the work which is going forward on the Ella, gives McQueen addition much more activity in the mining industry than has been enjoyed for several years.

Only surface work is being done at the Butte & London at present. The men are cleaning up the yard, repairing the buildings and installing a new engine.

Work on the Ella mine, in the heart of the Meaderville district, has been in progress for about two months, and up to the present has consisted in retimbering the shaft, fitting up the engine room and preparing for development work. The work on the shaft is now completed nearly to the 400-foot level. Electric lights have been installed underground, an airshaft built and a blower installed, which is about ready for operation. The head frame and a small ore bin have been up for some time.

The long-abandoned property has resumed an appearance of activity which it had years ago.

The Ella is owned by the Anaconda Copper Mining company and the work is being done under the supervision of Thomas Mitchell, superintendent of the Leonard mine.

IMPORTANT STRIKE OF GRAY COPPER

Is Reported From the Chewelah Camp in Washington.

Spokane, Wash., April 11.—What is considered the most important copper strike ever made in the Pacific Northwest has just been reported from the Chewelah camp in Washington, about fifty miles north of Spokane in the United Copper and Copper King properties. As a result, prices of these issues on the Spokane stock exchange have risen remarkably.

First news of the strike came from Conrad Wolfle, president of United Copper, who stated he had found the vein in position 4,220 feet from the portal of the tunnel started twenty months ago. He said the ledge from wall to wall is twenty-seven feet wide, carrying the same values as those in the upper workings, thus convincing him that it is the same vein.

RAVEN COMPANY IS TO SELL ITS MINE

Ore Not Found and Property Was Closed Down Last Fall.

Butte, Mont., April 11.—It would seem that the Raven company is about to give up the ghost—that is, the present company will probably pass out of existence this spring and the property, such as it is, will pass to other hands.

All of which harks back to the days when there was some flurry in Raven stock—quite a flurry—here in Butte. Raven climbed from obscurity to several dollars a share in remarkably short time and the money lost by the trusting ones would be a pity to relate.

Last fall the mine was closed. The ore was not to be found and the company shut up shop.

Stockholders of the Raven Mining company are in receipt of a circular from President Frisble which says: "After the report to the stockholders of May 24, 1913, the manager at the mine informed us that the ore bodies from which we had been shipping ore were being exhausted and that a large amount of prospecting on the 1,700 level having failed to show commercial ore, he advised that the company should close down the mine and conserve the assets for the stockholders.

"An offer of $65,000 for the property of the company has been received, and it is the opinion of the officials that it should be accepted. The company now has about $9,000 on hand."

SHIPPING ORE TO THE DOCKS

Movement From Iron River District of Menominee Range.

Lake Superior Region Ready to Meet All Furnace Requirements

Whether or not the Lake Superior iron region this year will surpass or even equal its record-breaking achievement of 1913, when there was registered an outgo of 50,000,000 gross tons, the ore shipments from the mines have started exceptionally early. Never until this season, it may be noted as an instance, had the movement from the Iron River district of the Menominee range been launched by the first of April. The Great Lakes and their connecting waters still being closed to navigation, the ore has, of course, been going to the docks at the shipping port, awaiting there the arrival of the first of the big bulk cargo freighters which until December will ply the inland seas in never-ending streams. The region is ready to send out 50,000,000 tons, or even 60,000,000—possibly even 70,000,000 tons—if the furnace requirements demand it.

First Shipping Mines.

The first shippers on the Menominee range this year were mines of Corrigan, McKinney & Co., of Cleveland—the Armenia and Dunn, at Crystal Falls, and the Tully and Baker, at Iron River. Other properties to start ore on its way to Lake Michigan at unusually early date were the Zimmerman, Davidson and Wickwire, members of the Iron River group and each operated by the company from which it takes its name. A prospective shipper in the Iron River district—hardly this year, however—is the Bucholz. Organized to explore this property and to operate it if developments are satisfactory, the Enterprise Mining company has been incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin with a capitalization of $150,000. The new corporation succeeding to the interests of the Iron River Ore company, former holder of the tract. The Buchholz has been equipped with a new and larger plant of machinery and with the workings unwatered and repaired season ore will be started. The shaft is 300 feet deep. John Shepeck is the president of the Enterprise company, F. J. Negedlo the vice president and F. F. Kress the secretary, all three of Green Bay, Wis. Michael Doherty, postmaster of Escanaba, Mich., is the treasurer. The four officers, together with F. A. Krehla of Milwaukee, A. E. Neff of Gladstone, Mich., and N. C. Spencer of Escanaba, constitute the board of directors. Capt. Harry McDermott, an experienced miner, is in charge of the operations. The Buchholz is favorably located. Adjoining it on the east is the Beta mine.

Stripping Baikan Deposit.

It is expected that the work of stripping the big Baikan deposit of Pickands, Mather & Co. in the Alpha field of the Crystal Falls district will be started by the first of May. The Winston Bros. company of Minneapolis, to which the contract recently was awarded, is assembling at the property an equipment, the transportation of which from the Chesaba region will require the use of fifty flat and box cars. The stripping of the 1,200,000 cubic yards and more of overburden is to be completed by May 1, 1915.

At the adjoining Judson property, the Longyear interests are sinking vigorously to open the main body of their part of the great Mastodon deposit of which they were the discoverers. The shaft is going down to the second level. Ore is now being blocked out on the first level, but whether this deposit has any connection with the greater body is not yet established. The latter lies to the north of the shaft, whereas the first level deposit is to the west and was found incidentally by diamond drills engaged in determining the best location in which to sink. Such shipments as are made this season will come from the initial level.

With Capt. Grent, formerly of the Groveland mine, in charge of the work, the Cuyahoga Mining company is preparing the old Hilltop property at Crystal Falls for a resumption of operations, it having recently leased this tract from the Roberts Ore company, along with the adjoining Victoria property. An Upper Michigan syndicate, of which Herman Holmes of Crystal Falls and N. Flodin of Marquette are members, has purchased the lease and equipment of the McDonald mine, a Crystal Falls mine recently involved in litigation arising from dissensions among the stockholders. The property is on the market.

Jones & Laughlin Exploring.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel company of Pittsburg, which is especially active in the search for ore in the Lake Superior region, on four ranges of which it is carrying on operations, is exploring in the Iron River country a tract apparently of much promise. This is the Miller property, on the north side of Iron river, the stream. One diamond drill has been operated for several months, and now two additional machines are being put into commission. It is the understanding that ore has been cut. The company has already opened one mine in the Iron River district—the Forbes, now a shipper, but still in course of development. On the Marquette range, the Jones & Laughlin interests have discontinued exploration of the Sedgwick and Maas lands south of Greenwood, in the Ishpeming district. A large number of holes were sunk, some to depths well in excess of a thousand feet. What the results have been is not known publicly. The work was carried on by the Pollard Diamond Drilling company, which also is exploring the Iron River tract. Prospecting for ore is in progress in lands adjacent to Escanaba and owned by Louis Schemmel of that city.

Curtailment at Republic.

The Cambria Steel company has for the time being at least materially curtailed production at its Republic mine, Marquette range. The property will be wrought only four days a week. In addition, the working force has been reduced to the extent of fifty men. The specific reasons for the retrenchment are not stated.

An important discovery has, it is reported, been made at Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Ottawa mine, in the Wisconsin division of the Gogebic range. Miners following a small seam of ore are stated to have encountered a large deposit, the development of which is now in progress. Southwest of Wakefield, M. A. Hanna & Co. are opening the Selden Rose open-pit mine in virgin territory and, remote from shipping properties, Whiteside La Rue of Duluth are developing an underground mine in the Presque Isle river country.

There is expectation on the Gogebic range that the outgo of ore from the district this year will break all records to date. At least two new mines, and possibly three, will be added to the shipping list. Both the Chicago & Northwestern and the Soo Line are making preparations to handle an increased traffic.

RADIUM REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN FOUND CLOSE TO BUTTE

Several Samples of the Stuff in Hands of Assayers.

Tuolumne Expected to Increase Output Within Another Month.

Butte, Mont., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Has there been a discovery of radium within a short distance of this city? That is the question which is agitating a number of mining men. For upwards of three years some Butte men have been working a clean thirty-four miles from Armstead and ten miles from Brenner on the line of the Gilmore & Pittsburg railway. Some fine values in copper, gold, silver and lead have been opened, and a few days ago the men discovered a pitchblende formation which is declared to answer perfectly to the descriptions published and which, according to an assayer, contains radium. The assayer made as complete an examination of the ore discovered as possible with the means at his disposal, and he says that he believes that the men have made the first discovery of radium in Montana. However, he would prefer that some other persons be called in to express an opinion, and the men who have been working the property have placed samples of the stuff with local assayers and some samples have also been sent East. Until the reports are received from the different assayers the men say they will not give out any information as to the assay of any one particular person. Steps are now being taken by the three men who own the claim to organize a company and work the property on an extensive scale, even should it be decided that radium has not been found. The pitchblende formation is contained in a streak of six inches to a foot wide and it can be traced for thirty feet to a depth of from fifteen to twenty feet.

Tuolumne.

The Tuolumne Mining company shipped fifty-nine cars of ore running 4½ per cent copper to the Washoe smelter during March which realized gross about $18,000 and the net returns will run around $4,500. Development work on the 2,400-foot level is making an excellent showing and before the close of another month the management expects to be in a position to considerably increase the output.

Ballaklava.

The Bullwhacker is closed down and will not resume again for at least a couple of weeks. The small Kelly filter press which was installed a short time ago in the leaching plant was found to give every satisfaction, but it was entirely too small and a larger one has been ordered. Patrick Clark, the principal owner of the property, who was in the city a few days ago from Spokane decided that it was but a waste of time operating with the small filter and he therefore gave orders to close down the plant until the larger filter arrived.

Mountain Con.

The Mountain Con mine of the Anaconda company which has been closed down for some time undergoing shaft and other repairs and having the engine changed from steam to compressed air, has resumed operations. The Steward mine which has also been closed down for some time will open up again around the middle of the month. Although the Diamond, Berkeley, Belmont and Neversweat have been closed for extensive repairs, the output of the company is not in the least decreased. The mines in commission have had their output increased so as to make up for the loss in production caused by the mines closed up.

Pilot Butte.

The Pilot Butte has opened up about two feet of ore running 4½ per cent copper in drifting for the middle vein which is expected to be reached in the course of a couple of weeks. The company is continuing on sinking to a depth of 2,400 feet, and just as soon as a station is cut at the depth the shaft will be carried to a depth of 2,600 feet.

Nettie.

The work of removing the water from the shaft of the old Nettie mine in the western part of the district by the Anaconda company is making slow progress, due to the heavy flow, the water coming pretty nearly as fast as it is taken out. Larger pumping facilities are to be added.

Corbin.

The last payment on the Gambrinus and other claims purchased by the Corbin Copper company a year ago was made the other day with money forwarded to the city from Boston by President R. M. Edwards. The property is now owned outright by the company and advices are to the effect that in a short time sufficient money will be secured to enable the work of sinking the shaft to be resumed. It was down about 300 feet when work was stopped for lack of funds several weeks ago.

Rainbow.

President Congdon of the Rainbow Development company has been in the city for several days attending to business matters. He says that everything is in readiness to start work at the Butte & London Property just as soon as the compressor ordered several weeks ago arrives. According to information given out, the compressor was shipped a month ago, and it is still on the road somewhere.

Butte-Duluth.

Capt. Wolvin says that with the present progress being made with his enlarged leaching plant at the Butte-Duluth property the enlarged plant ought to be in operation in the vicinity of ninety days. The machinery has been ordered and he says that if the manufacturers are on time with the delivery of the equipment, there will not be any delay beyond that time. The plant continues to operate at its capacity of 100 tons of ore a day and results continue to be very gratifying. The cost per pound for the month of March was a little over 8 cents.

Parrott.

Unless there is an appeal to the circuit court of appeals, the case of the Parrot minority holders of stock against the Anaconda Copper Mining company will be disposed of in a short time. The suit was commenced three years ago by W. E. Wall and Louis Foss of Boston, who contended that the sale of the property to the Anaconda company for 90,000 shares of stock was far below the value. The suit is in the Federal court and the depositions have been taken of leading men in Boston and New York on both sides of the case. For the past several days attorneys have been arguing the points involved before Judge Bourquin, and in the course of a few weeks at the least, he is expected to render his decision.

PRODUCTION INCREASING

Lake Copper Mines Getting Over Effects of the Strike.

Calumet & Hecla Breaks All Previous Records in Its History.

Houghton, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Copper Range Consolidated's daily tonnage has risen to the figure of about 4,200 tons. That of the Champion is now over four-fifths of the normal. All three mines will have an increase very shortly as for the two last weeks there has been a steady influx of men from the outside at the rate of twenty to thirty a day. A few of them are those who have stayed here, and some were those returning from other camps to which they had gone at the earlier part of the strike. The remainder are new men who have been brought here by the old employes coming back, or those directed by the favorable representations of those already here. Many of these are Lithuanians, whose home was formerly a part of Poland, and now comprises a few provinces of Western Russia. They formed a colony at Painesdale of over 200 males prior to the strike, and they were among the first to return, being accompanied by some of their countrymen whom they had induced to come with them. There were over 200 working for the company by Dec. 10. There are also quite a number of Armenians. As there are a good many miners among these now being taken on, the others can be put to work at once as trammers, and as the most of them have relatives and friends here there will be no difficulty of soon training them properly. The March production was 3,834,000 pounds of mineral as compared with 3,518,000 in February, and that of April will show a still greater gain.

The changes in the "wash" that are effecting great savings have been completed with the exception of two out of six stamps at the Champion and two out of four at the Trimountain. The inactivity during the strike greatly favored these repairs.

Calumet & Hecla.

Calumet & Hecla had during March an average of daily production that has broken all previous records in the history of the mine, it being 9,380 tons. There are in operation 168 drills at the conglomerate and about 124 on the Osceola amygdaloid.

Sinking was begun at No. 16 shaft, on the Osceola amygdaloid, the first of the month from the twenty-sixth to the twenty-seventh levels. The amount of new work being done on this lode, already about normal, has been increased by the opening of two drifts.

Superior.

Superior has been sinking its No. 2 shaft for some time and will reach the eighteenth level in about ten to fifteen days. A drift will be started at once to meet that coming from No. 1. This work will afford for the first time an opportunity to ascertain how far the west vein extends southward. When connection was made about a year and a half ago on the thirteenth level between the two shafts, it was expressly stipulated by the St. Mary's Mineral Land company, through whose property the Calumet & Hecla had to purchase the right to pass, that the work must not be done on any lode so no information was gathered concerning the lode or its contents. The distance is 2,450 feet. Daily shipments are running about 650 tons, the greater part of which is being taken from the west vein.

Hancock.

Hancock forwarded to the Centennial-Allouez mill this week its third shipment since the strike. These are made about every ten days and each shipment is a little larger than the preceding, the first having been forty and the last fifty cars, or somewhat over 2,000 tons. Some stoping is being done at all of the six openings, which are the same as before the strike.

Osceola.

The old Osceola, 1,700 feet in on the southern drift from shaft No. 6, has cut mills or chutes from the thirty-ninth level so that the rock can be dropped down into a bin made on the forty-second level, which is equipped with the endless rope system of haulage actuated by compressed air. Over such long distances mechanical is much cheaper and quicker than man haulage and as the rock from three levels can be handled as easily as that of one level there is a great saving in the installation and operating costs. It is likely that these systems of mechanical haulage and chutes and bins will be installed on another level in a short time.

New Arcadian.

New Arcadian has covered the distance of about 150 feet on the 750-foot level on the new lode, counting both drifts, and fully 130 feet of this is ground of exceptionally good mineral values. The showing is not quite so good now in the two faces, but the average in the recent openings is high. The crosscut on the 600-foot level is in towards the lode about fifty feet, one-third of the total distance. It is expected to cut the lode about May 10 or 15. The new hoist will be in operation next Monday. The gage of the skiproad to accommodate the new two-ton skip will be widened Sunday. It is not likely that the crosscut on the 900-foot level will be begun until after the lode has been opened by that on the 600-foot level.

Victoria.

Victoria has a most remarkable disclosure of copper on the twenty-fourth level. A length of seventy feet has been made and the values are said by sane people, old and experienced miners, to equal any amydaloidal showing ever made in the Lake Superior district. There is one stretch of forty-five feet in length that is forty feet wide, full of the good copper. This is, of course, to the east of the shaft where the best ground has been met with. Even where the width was so great the hanging wall had not yet been encountered. The twenty-third level is from fair to good. The twenty-second, which has a stretch over 1,000 feet of commercially mineralized territory, is just out of the copper and is seeking it by a crosscut. These disclosures seem to bear out the theory of the management that there is enough profitable ground at the bottom of the mine and east of the shaft to make a paying property. The plat is about cut at the twenty-fifth level and next week when it is finished sinking will be started again.

Wyandot.

The Wyandot management, on account of the very promising and encouraging mineralization disclosed on the seventh and eighth levels of the No. 8 lode, has just begun to continue the winze down to the ninth level. The seventh level has been opened up by drifts for about 400 feet and the eighth for about 700. Some copper was constantly encountered and occasionally short stretches of commercial grade.

Mohawk.

Mohawk will after a while use mules for underground haulage. This method has been very successful at the Ahmeek, where eight are now employed, the number having been gradually increased from two. There are now two at the Isle Royale, which will be tried out in the drifts after a time.

Franklin.

Franklin's mill test last Sunday of 906 tons gave a result of 30,210 pounds of mineral or thirty-three pounds a ton. It would seem that the prediction of President Edwards that the refined would run about twenty pounds to the ton will be about right, although almost every one understanding the conditions of the mine thinks it will be over that figure. On last Friday the face of the northern drift showed rock of higher values than has been met with so far and it is still being disclosed.

Ahmeek.

Ahmeek's purchase of eleven acres from the Hale and Jacob interests in 1912 has proved very profitable, both on account of its excellent quality of copper and the very low price. This lies just north of No. 2 shaft, the northern shaft of the Ahmeek proper.

SNOWSTORM TAKES MISSOULA COPPER

Negotiations Are Closed By Unanimous Vote of Chief Stockholders.

Spokane, Wash., April 11.—The deal for the purchase of the outstanding capitalization of the Missoula Copper company, 1,100,000 shares, by the Snowstorm Mining company, which has been under negotiation for several weeks by C. E. Mallette, Spokane mining broker, was closed in Mullan, Idaho, by unanimous vote of the Missoula stockholders who were in the pool, according to advices from Mr. Malette. A stockholders' meeting has been called by the Missoula company at Mullan on April 18, formally to ratify the contract, but there is no danger of the sale being blocked, as more than 800,000 shares already are in the pool. The purchase price is $600,000, or a little less than 57 cents the share, $200,000 to be paid in one year and $100,000 each six months thereafter until the final payment in four and one-half years. The contract stipulates that a royalty of from 5 to 30 per cent, based on the value of the ore of the net smelter returns from all shipments from the Missoula mine by the Snowstorm company are to be credited on the payments. It is agreed further that development of the Missoula is to begin immediately and that not less than $2,000 a month is to be expended. Work will be commenced at once and as soon as enough ore is blocked out to warrant beginning shipments, which it is believed will be within sixty days, a surface tram line is to be constructed from the No. 2 tunnel of the Snowstorm to the Missoula and the ore will be handled through the Snowstrom main tunnel, the mill feed to be sent to the Snowstorm concentrator at Larson and the high grade forwarded to the smelter.

DAVIS-DALY NEEDS WORKING CAPITAL

Shaft of Colorado to Be Sunk 600 Feet Deeper.

Butte, Mont., April 11.—Davis-Daly stock has declined owing to the calling of another 50-cent assessment. Possibly the call of the assessment was due to the recommendation of Engineer W. L. Creedon, who is in charge of the company's properties, for more money than there is on hand to care for. The board of directors has not acted on the matter as yet, but the calling of the new assessment indicates that the recommendation is thought favorably of.

"I am shaping a report for the directors on the conditions of the property," said Engineer Creedon, when seen at the works of the Colorado mine, the main working property of the Davis-Daly company. "I have recommended sinking the shaft 600 feet more from the 1,900, and making exploratory crosscuts into the Hesperus and Red Chief ground adjoining the Belmont at the greater depth. There is not enough in the treasury to care for the work suggested, and that is probably the reason the assessment is made, although I have not heard yet as to how the directors acted. The mine at its present levels could go along, but that is not enough. It is my idea to make a paying mine. The Colorado is not the first mine that has been forced to sink and crosscut when it had ore in sight, in order to do better. The ore bodies we have now are not sufficient to care for the development recommended."

IS SEEKING OPTION UPON THE COCHISE

I. N. Kinsey of Douglas Offers $385,000 for the Property.

Douglas, Ariz., April 11.—I. N. Kinsey, of this city, president of the Kinsey Leasing company, has made an offer to the stockholders of the Cochise Mining & Development company, owning the Cochise property in the Warren district, of $385,000 for the mine. A meeting of the stockholders has been called for the near future to determine whether the offer will be accepted.

The Cochise company is capitalized at $1,000,000, its stock being divided into 100,000 shares of $10 par value. During its life the stock has witnessed many vicissitudes. It has sold on the market at from 12 cents to $12. The control is understood to lie in the hands of L. C. Shattuck, Joe Muheim and associates.

Blanks were sent to all stockholders last week requesting that they give power of attorney to Thomas McGraw to vote their stock. It is believed in Bisbee that a majority will do so. There is at present no market for the stock, while the terms of the bond and lease offered by Kinsey will carry a price of approximately $7.50 for every share outstanding.

CALUMET & ARIZONA ANNUAL MEETING

No Change in the Directors or Officers Is Expected.

Bisbee, Ariz., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Calumet & Arizona Copper company will be held here next Monday. There is little likelihood of changes in the official family, which has conducted the affairs of the company with high efficiency. Reports have been current that the duties of Capt. John C. Greenway, general manager of the company, might be enlarged and that the advantage of his personal supervision of all mining enterprises in which Calumet & Arizona interests may have concern would be secured. Mr. Greenway is now carrying very large responsibilities, and it is questionable if he would care to assume more. His administration has been one under which Calumet & Arizona interests have benefited tremendously, however, in all ways, and it is only natural that his associates should desire still broader use of his abilities.

Mr. Greenway returned last week from a several days' inspection of the work at the New Cornelia property, and his personal report on this to the Calumet & Arizona officials will doubtless be very interesting to them. The principal recent development at the New Cornelia has been the determination that water is available. The pump on the strata in one of the wells sunk is now producing 150 inches. There is excellent reason for the belief that this output can be materially improved upon. The water question has been one of the most serious involved in the plans of the Calumet & Arizona management in connection with the future conduct of the property, and the determination that there will be water available on the ground is highly gratifying.

AT THE CHIEF CONSOLIDATED

Sinking a Winze From the 1600 to the 1800 Level.

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 11.—According to advices from the Chief Consolidated property, a portion of the present output is now being taken from the 1,600—the deepest ore level in the mine—and while the vein is not as large at this point as it is on the 1,400 and other upper levels, there seems to be a noticeable improvement in the quality of the ore.

For the purpose of following this same ore body a winze is now being sunk from the 1,600, and future work on the 1,800 (which in the Chief is just above the water) will be deferred until the work in this winze gives the management an idea of what can be expected on the latter level.

The drift which has been driven over into the Eureka City section of the Chief ground is thought to be nearing the Beck fault, in which there should be splendid ore possibilities. Manager Fitch considers the exploration of this fault at a depth of 1,400 feet as being of vast importance.

Figures that are now available show that in the development of the Eureka City Mining company's ground the Chief company has spent in excess of $90,000. At the time of the organization of the former company, and later when a consolidation of the two properties was brought about, the statement was made that the sum of $100,000 was to be put aside for the development of the Eureka City company's territory.

Some ore has been developed in the Eureka City territory, but these deposits have been small and not permanent, indicating that they were merely offshoots from the main ore channel. Mr. Fitch, however, intends to continue this work and is confident that time and money are all that are needed to locate the ore beneath the Eureka City townsite.

During the past month or two the mine has maintained an output of over twenty carloads a week, and the earnings for the first three months of the present year will undoubtedly be equal to the dividend requirements.

ANOTHER CONFESSION.

Washington Star: "So you are a lobbyist," said Senator Sorghum.

"I am."

"But you never took the slightest chance in trying to influence my vote. Your frequent conversations with me have been of the most harmless and commonplace nature."

"Quite true. But the people who are paying me a large salary to lobby don't know that."

SALE — MISCELLANEOUS

WE HAVE MORE THAN A CARLOAD OF BUFFETS, FUMED OR GOLDEN OAK.
Come in and see the massive fumed oak buffet we are selling right now for $25; any retail shop would be justified in asking $42. If you buy from our salesroom you will save the difference, and you can pay the bill later.

OUR FURNITURE SALES FOR APRIL, 1914,
Must reach $45,000 to enable us to empty our wareroom on First street, present salesrooms, 2110-2112 West Superior street, and goods in transit at this time. It's our intention to wipe the slate clean by May 1 if possible to do so. It's your opportunity to purchase for the home at practically your own prices. Hundreds of pieces will be sold at factory cost, plus freight; thousands of pieces will go at 35 to 40 per cent less than retail shop prices. Furthermore, you don't need to pay the cash until a more convenient day if you say so. Right at this moment we would like to remind you again that purchases made now will be delivered any time you say up to July 1. This gives prospective homemakers an opportunity to select now and have goods delivered in the future.
We have no time to lose, neither have you if economy means anything to you in present or future home furnishings. Come this week and pick some of the plums we are shaking from our tree of furniture bargains.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!
We will open our greater salesrooms shortly after May 1 with a much larger assortment of home furnishings, which are being made for us at this time by many of the best manufacturers.

REAL ESTATE IS "MOVING" THESE DAYS

BEFORE YOU BUY A HOME

or lot, or building of any kind in Duluth, take your time and look the field over well; as very often by a little investigation you can save money, and at the same time get a better offering than if you buy in a hurry.

How will you investigate?

It's a simple matter. Practically every Real Estate offering of any kind is published once or twice in the "For Sale Real Estate" columns of the want ads in this paper—and that is absolutely the only place in Duluth that you can find a complete published list of real estate for sale in Greater Duluth.

That's the reason it will benefit you to watch the ads in The Herald before you buy, as it's the only place where you can thoroughly post yourself.

LOST AND FOUND

FOUND—IT HAS BEEN RUMORED that Cameron-Johnson-Horgan, the furniture distributers, "are going off the map." This is not true. Our only object of emptying our present salesroom and wareroom at this time is to wipe the slate clean, to enable us to open our greater salesrooms shortly after May 1 with a much larger assortment of better made furniture, rugs, Buck's steel ranges, etc., for the home, which are being prepared for us by the world's best manufacturers of home furnishings. Right now you can pluck many gems from our stock and yet save 35 to 40 per cent; besides you can pay the bill later. Cameron-Johnson-Horgan, Factory Distributers, 2110-2112 West Superior street.

SOME OF THE GUNMEN ARE THOUGHT TO HAVE CONFESSED TO CRIME

"No Injustice Done By Execution," Says Prison Chief.

"Dago Frank," Near Collapse, Is First One Executed.

Only Forty Minutes Required for Deaths of All Four.

"DAGO FRANK" IS SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED.

Ossining, N. Y., April 13.—It was reported here this afternoon that Frank Cirofici, before being put to death this morning, made a confession to Warden Clancy and Father Cashin in which he admitted that justice would be done.

"Dago Frank" is said to have stated that while he was not present at the murder of Rosenthal, Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenburg and Harry Vallon did the shooting.

It further was reported that Cirofici said that none of the gunmen had known, previous to the shooting, that Lieut. Charles Becker was concerned in the affair.

The confession is said to have been signed and is now on its way to Governor Glynn.

Albany, N. Y., April 13.—Some of the four gunmen executed this morning in Sing Sing prison are believed to have confessed before they died.

Supt. John B. Riley of the state prison department, said that statements would arrive here from Ossining today which would show that "no injustice had been done by the execution." He knew nothing of the nature of the statements.

Died at Daybreak.

Sing Sing Prison, Ossining, N. Y., April 13.—The four gunmen, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison at the break of dawn this Easter Monday morning. None confessed his guilt and none mentioned the name of Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant found guilty of instigating the murder but saved by court of appeals reversal.

Of the four who died, Frank Seidenshner ("Whitey Lewis"), made the only statement. Even he did not flatly assert his innocence.

"Gentlemen," he mumbled, as they strapped him in the chair, "I did not shoot at Rosenthal. The man who said I did was a perjurer. For the sake of justice, gentlemen, I say I didn't. The witness Stannish—"

Death Stopped Words.

"Whitey" did not finish the sentence. The straps harness had been adjusted and the current shot his body forward in the chair. He had meant to say that Stannish, a waiter and a witness at the murder trial, had lied, but death intervened.

Seidenshner was the second man to die. "Dago Frank (Frank Cirofici) came first. "Gyp the Blood" (Harry Horowitz) was third and "Lefty Louis" (Louis Rosenberg) last. In forty minutes all four were dispatched. This time would have been shortened had it not been for the overcrowding of newspaper reporters. Their numbers necessitated a shifting of witnesses for each execution.

There was not an untoward incident throughout the proceedings. All walked to the chair and only their quaking knees and the sickly, green pallor of their faces attested that the realization of death was upon them.

Priest and Rabbis Present.

William E. Cashin, Roman Catholic chaplain of the prison, accompanied "Dago Frank" to the chair. With "Whitey Lewis" and "Gyp the Blood" was Rabbi Joseph Goldstein of New York. Rabbi Mayer Kopstein, long the spiritual adviser of the Rosenberg family, stood by "Lefty Louie." Priest and rabbi alike averted their drawn faces from the chair of death, struggling to control themselves as they intoned a prayer for the dying.

"Gentlemen," said Rabbi Goldstein, as he left the death chamber, "if you ask me whether the Jewish boys were guilty, I will say I do not know. They did not confess to me. As for the Italian, I do not believe he was at the scene of the crime. I do not think any of them should have been convicted on the testimony offered."

Denied New Trial.

The final hope of the gunmen vanished yesterday when Governor Glynn at Albany once more declined to reprieve them pending the new trial of Becker. Previous to that Justice Goff, in New York, had declared that he found no grounds in the alleged new evidence submitted by the defense for granting a motion for a new trial for the four gunmen. This evidence was presented at a hearing on Saturday and for several hours following the hearing the justice studied the claims of the defense over and over, only to

BECKER'S NEW TRIAL WILL START MAY 4

Whitman Wants No Delay in Police Lieutenant's Case.

New York, April 13.—The second trial of Charles S. Becker, former police lieutenant found guilty of murder with the four gunmen executed today, will begin on May 4, if the district attorney has his way. It was said at the district attorney's office that Mr. Whitman will appear before a supreme court justice on Wednesday and move to set the trial for that date. He will also ask for a special panel of talesmen.

DELEGATES FOR REPEAL

First Returns From Poll of Baltimore Roll Call Are Received.

Only 69 of 418 Would Retain Tolls Exemption Law.

Washington, April 13.—First returns from a poll Senator Gore is making of delegates to the Democratic national convention at Baltimore on the canal tolls issue were announced last night by the Democratic national committee.

They showed 338 in favor of repealing the clause of the canal act exempting American coastwise shipping from tolls, 69 against repeal and 11 noncommittal. Debate on the administration's repeal policy has centered largely on the discussion of the Baltimore platform in favor of free tolls and two weeks ago Senator Gore addressed personal letters to each of the 1,000-odd delegates to the convention asking for an expression of opinion on the issue.

Not Treaty Interpretation.

President Wilson today declared that the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption could not be regarded as an interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, because it would be a legislative act. He held that no amendment setting forth the rights of the United States under the treaty was necessary.

The president, together with Secretary Bryan, considers that by repealing the exemption the United States merely showed a disinclination to raise the question of discrimination, but did not by its act limit any further policy of the government. Mr. Wilson drew a distinction between a legislative act and an authoritative interpretation of a treaty, the latter of which would have to be formulated by the executive branch of the government and ratified by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

Norris Amendment Needless.

Mr. Wilson said the Norris amendment, setting forth that the United States, by repealing the exemption, would not be surrendering any of its rights, had not been seriously suggested to him, and that he had not given it serious consideration because it appeared obvious to him that any act of congress in that connection could not be an interpretation of the treaty.

The president remarked that among the senators who would be in the majority on the tolls question there did not seem to be any sentiment for amendment.

The president incidentally declined to discuss the reported exemption of Colombian war vessels from the payment of tolls, saying that when the new treaty was made public that phase of it would be clarified.

Mr. Wilson said the tolls situation in the senate was constantly improving, and apparently people who had been asked to appear in the hearings were getting "cold feet."

Minnesotans for Repeal.

That Minnesota people generally are with President Wilson on the Panama canals tolls question was the statement made by Representative Clarence B. Miller on his return to Washington today. Mr. Miller said that the interest was not so keen as in Washington, but from what he had heard, public sentiment was in favor of the passage of the Sims bill.

WILSON WILL TALK AT A. P. LUNCHEON

Washington, April 13.—Announcement was made at the White House today, that President Wilson had accepted an invitation to speak April 21 at a luncheon at the annual meeting of the Associated Press in New York city. Secretary Tumulty said the president had not yet decided what subject he would discuss, but that he would make an important speech.

It is the first invitation the president has accepted for a speech outside of Washington since he went to Mobile last October to attend the Southern Commercial congress.

OLE SAGENG DECLINES TO BECOME CANDIDATE OF THE PROGRESSIVES

Lee's Declaration in Favor of County Option Satisfies Him.

Sageng Will Again Be Candidate for the State Senate.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Ole Sageng has declined the overtures made by the Progressive leaders that he become the candidate of the Progressive party for governor, as he believes his candidacy would have the effect of weakening Mr. Lee's chance against Governor Eberhart. Mr. Sageng, at the same time, announces he will be a candidate for re-election to the state senate. His statement is as follows:

Reasons for Declining.

"In his opening speech at Owatonna Mr. Lee made a clear and unequivocal declaration in favor of county option. The Democratic candidate for governor, whether it be Hammond or Lawler, backed by a stronger party sentiment on this question, is certain to be as acceptable to the liquor interest as Governor Eberhart is; and in that situation, assuming Mr. Lee's nomination, I would not consent to continue in the field and be responsible for a division of the county option forces, which would make the triumph of the breweries easy and certain.

"In addition to this consideration, my filing for governor on the Progressive ticket would have a tendency to lessen the interest in Mr. Lee's candidacy and to that extent help the breweries in their efforts to renominate Governor Eberhart. For these reasons I shall not be a candidate for governor but shall ask the people of Otter Tail county for re-election to the state senate.

"The domination of the saloon and brewery influence in our legislative and political affairs has for years been so notorious and disastrous to the best interests of the state that when an opportunity has presented itself to strike an effective blow against this domination the fortunes of men and of parties should not be considered.

"OLE O. SAGENG."

CONSOLIDATION OF TRUST BILLS LIKELY

Definition Measure and Directorate Supervision May Be Joined.

Washington, April 13.—President Wilson and Chairman Clayton and Representatives Floyd and Carlin of the house judiciary committee, after an hour's conference, agreed to consolidate in one measure the main feature of the Sherman law definitions bill and the bills to prohibit interlocking directorates and holding companies. The president agreed to the insertion of the principles embodied in two measures which passed the house last year providing for the regulation of injunctions in labor cases and trial by jury in contempt cases.

WILSON FOR TRUST BILLS

President Does Not Favor Proposed Cutting of Program.

Keep Faith With the Country, Is His View.

Washington, April 13.—Proposals in congress to curtail the administration trust legislative program were not regarded today with favor by President Wilson. He said that while he had heard suggestions to cut the program short and enact only a trade commission bill, he deemed it necessary to keep faith with the country and carry out measures for a comprehensive trust reform.

Mr. Wilson was asked if he believed congress could dispose of the trust program and other pending questions and get away from Washington by the middle of summer, and he laughingly remarked that if an express schedule instead of a freight schedule were adopted there would be no difficulty.

He added that he did not mean the cutting off of nevessary discuss'on, but that the committees had worked very hard and had prepared legislation which he believed could be promptly disposed of.

RIFLE COMPARATIVELY HARMLESS, HE SAYS

Head of World Surgical Association Talks of War and Weapons.

New York, April 13.—The modern rifle used by the armies of the world was called a "comparatively harmless weapon" today by [illegible] De Page, president of the International Surgical association, at the opening of the fourth congress of that organization.

President De Page, a Belgian, one of the foremost surgeons of Europe, spoke on the surgery of war. He protested, in the name of the association, against the use of shrapnel, and urged that civilized nations abolish these death-dealing projectiles for the same reasons that brought about the banishment of explosive bullets. Dr. De Page said:

"From a medical standpoint, the horrors of warfare in modern times have been greatly decreased. Soldiers in the armies of the leading countries have been instructed in the use of first aid packages which they carry in their ammunition belts.

"It is now necessary that the armies of the world should be instructed in the fundamentals of sanitation. Experience in recent wars, notably those in the Balkans, teaches this: A soldier should know the dangers of infection, and should have at his command simple facts, such as that in case he be wounded in the abdomen, it is better to rest motionless for hours, if necessary, than to walk to a field hospital station."

JOHN LIND REACHES CAPITAL TO TELL WILSON OF MEXICO

WILL GO TO WORK IN COLONY OF LEPERS

REV. A. S. HEWLETT.

New York, April 13.—Rev. A. S. Hewlett has resigned the living of St. Paul's church, Birkenhead, to devote himself to missionary work among the lepers at Kumato, an island off Kyushyu, Japan. There is a possibility that he will come back to civilization, for he says that when his work there is finished he hopes to end his days in England. Mr. Hewlett is a cousin of Maurice Hewlett, the writer. He belongs to the High Church congregation known as the Cowley Fathers. In a letter to the Bain News Service about his work, Mr. Hewlett says he hopes to have financial aid from American philanthropists, as there is one American to his knowledge in the leper colony. He says he has no money, and he hopes that wealthy Americans who hear of his work will contribute to its support.

Will Return to Southern Country If It Is Desired.

President Says Mexicans Will Salute American Flag.

Washington, April 13.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, returned to Washington today after an absence of several months. While he came for a rest after his long stay in a tropical climate, he brought much information for conferences with the president and Secretary Bryan. The first of these took place at a luncheon with Mr. Bryan.

Secretary Bryan had arranged his trip to Miami, Fla., so he could have a conference with Mr. Lind before leaving.

Secretary Daniels joined Mr. Lind and Secretary Bryan in the conference and the three men talked at length in private. It was said that an arrangement had been made for Mr. Lind to confer with President Wilson later in the day.

On the Mayflower with Mr. Lind were Mrs. F. Fletcher, wife of Rear Admiral Fletcher, and her two daughters and Mr. Lind's daughter, Miss Jennie. Mrs. Lind was expected from Minnesota today to join her husband.

Quizzed His Inquirers.

So far as was known early today, Mr. Lind's plan was to go west for a rest, probably to French Lick, Ind. There was no plan today about his returning to Mexico.

Mr. Lind greeted inquirers by asking if it were true that Rear Admiral Mayo had been ordered to revoke his demand for the firing of a salute to the American colors at Tampico, and when he was informed that President Wilson had insisted that the salute be fired, he smiled approvingly.

The face of the former Minnesota governor was bronzed by the tropical sun, and he appeared somewhat fatigued and thin after his long sojourn in Mexico.

Reputation as "Talkative."

He was uncommunicative about conditions in Mexico, and laughed when a friend approached him in the hotel lobby and told him that he had acquired the title of "The Silent Mr. Lind."

"It is ordered," said the former governor, "that a man has to go abroad to get a reputation. When I was in public life in this country some people said I was talkative, but I seem to have gotten a reputation for silence."

Mr. Lind said his plans were not definite, and depended largely on his talks with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan. He left Mexico at his own request, he said, because he needed rest and change. He intimated that he was ready to go back should a contingency arise requiring his return.

It is understood that Mr. Lind brings the president a good deal of information that has not been communicated through official telegrams, descriptive of general conditions and in no way affecting the diplomatic status of affairs.

Saw Censorship in Force.

The rigorous censorship that has been established in Mexico, and the inability of the people in Southern Mexico to learn definitely about Constitutionalist victories in the north, are phases of the situation which Mr. Lind probably will tell officials here. When Mr. Lind left Vera Cruz, Torreon had fallen, but the news was known to only a few people, and those who essayed to spread it were promptly arrested.

Will Salute Flag.

President Wilson today told callers that a salute would be fired to the

MINOT BOY IS SOME DETECTIVE.

Minot, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Will Duggan, aged 13, obtained evidence on which the local authorities arrested Harry Grill on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Duggan rushed into the sheriff's office with the information that he knew where there was a blind pig, and that he had bought liquor there. Sheriff Kelley gave the lad $1, and told him to make another purchase. The second purchase was negotiated, and an hour later Grill was under arrest, and a stock of liquor was confiscated.

Washington, April 13.—On behalf of the Red River Valley Improvement association, Representative Steenerson today invited Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture to attend the meeting of that association at Moorhead June 25 and 26. Mr. Houston said he would answer the invitaton later, when his summer plans will have been made.

FEDERATION RECOGNITION IS NOT ASKED

Dispute Has Cost Companies About $4,000,000 and Men $1,000,000.

Michigan and Counties Involved Have Spent Big Sums.

Federal Government Has Spent $100,000 as Result of Strike.

Calumet, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The copper mine workers who have been on strike since July 23 last, voted yesterday to call off the strike, according to an announcement made today by Charles E. Hietela, district secretary of the Western Federation of Miners.

The figures will not be given out until after a meeting of the district board this afternoon, but it is unofficially reported that the majority in favor of calling off the strike was 1,012.

Recognition of the union, denied by the mining companies, is waived by the strikers in voting to return to work. They claim that practically all of their demands have been complied with since the strike began. These demands include better working conditions, an eight-hour day, and a minimum daily wage of $3.

From the outset the operators have declared that they never would recognize the Western Federation of Miners, although they have maintained that they do not question the right of their employes to organize.

It is estimated that the strike has cost the mining companies in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 and has cost the men, in wages, a million. It cost the Federation of Miners another million, including donations received from other unions, and it cost the government $100,000, the state $300,000, including the maintenance of troops in the strike zone, and the county $300,000 roughly estimated. Exact figures cannot be obtained as yet.

The unofficial count of the vote from four of the five locals in the district resulted as follows:

Ahmeek, 600 for returning to work; 17 against.
Calumet, 291 for, 382 against.
Hancock, 491 for, 18 against.
South Range, 455 for, 90 against.

The fact that Calumet declared against calling off the strike is explained, it is believed, because of the big vote of men formerly employed by the Tamarack Mining company, which is not operating.

An unofficial report from the Mass City union gives a further majority of close to 200 in favor of calling off the strike, making the ratio about three and a half to one. Official figures probably will not be received till late this afternoon, if then. The official count is now being made by the district officers. Union officials explain the difference between the total vote cast and the number of men they claimed to be still on strike by saying that thousands of the men did

POLICE RESPOND TO FALSE ALARM

Man Falls From Steel Plant Bridge But Is Unhurt.

The report of a fatal or serious accident caused by a man falling off the steel plant bridge near the Northern Pacific tracks at New Duluth resulted in calling every member of the New Duluth police force to the spot and giving an ambulance from West Duluth a run of five miles. When the police and ambulance arrived the man had walked away.

E. J. Gallagher, who in company with A. J. Whalen, had come across the bridge at that time, said that when they reached the stairway used to decend from the bridge at New Duluth, Whalen had lost his foothold and dropped to the ground. Whalen's groans frightened Gallagher to such an extent that he ran to the first house to wake up the inhabitants in order to ascertain where was the nearest telephone in order that he might get in touch with the police and hospital authorities.

After spending twenty minutes in doing this he finally located the telephone. With Sergt. McDermott and Patrolmen Root and Anderson of the New Duluth station, Gallagher went back to pick up the man's "remains." Whalen had disappeared, but was reported to have been seen getting on a street car at 4 o'clock at Seventy-first avenue west.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CURLING CLUB

Will Elect Officers and Make Plans to Improve Property.

The annual meeting of the Western Curling club will be held at the clubrooms, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Bristol street, tomorrow evening. Officers will be elected and plans made for improvements to the property.

Through efforts of its present officials, twenty members of the club cooperated in purchasing the property. The clubhouse and rinks can now be remodeled and improved without danger of an order compelling the removal of the building on short notice.

It is probable that action will be taken to have the posts removed from the skating rink in order that it can be utilized for hockey purposes. Several hockey organizations in this end of the city have made such requests of the officials, and have claimed that the financial returns from such action would repay the management for the outlay.

The present officers are: P. H. Wade, president; A. H. Donald and J. A. Scott, vice president; E. G. Kreidler, secretary, and W. B. Getchell, treasurer.

MAY CHANGE WHEEL TAX

City Council Considers Plans But Takes No Action.

Would Reduce Tax on Auto Trucks and Raise Electrics.

The wheelage tax schedules were threshed over at an informal meeting of the city council this morning. Some tentative changes were outlined but no definite action was decided upon.

The discussion centered upon the rate now charged for auto trucks, which have been assessed $10 per ton capacity under the present ordinance, as compared with $6 for two and three-horse vehicles.

Auto truck owners have complained that this is too high, asserting that their trucks do little, if any, more damage than the three-horse wagons. The council felt that two and three-horse vehicles should be classed separately, leaving the two-horse outfits at $6 per year and raising the three-horse to $12 or $15 a year, while reducing motor trucks to $8 per ton capacity. It was pointed out that the two-horse vehicles include many carriages and light rigs as well as draymen, who now pay a dray license, and numerous teamsters who are in business for themselves in a small way.

Under the present ordinance electric machines have been paying but $1, $1.50 or $2, under the provision which taxes automobiles at 50 cents per horse power. Their horse power cannot be determined as can that of gasoline-driven engines and it was practically concluded that these should be charged a flat rate of $10 per year.

Motorcycles will probably be raised from $3 a year to $5 a year, the commissioners considering that the former tax was too small in proportion to the damage which they do to the highways.

Automobiles other than trucks will likely be left at 50 cents per horse power and one-horse vehicles at $3 per year.

SUES BONDSMEN FOR TEAM PRICE

P. McDonnell's Sureties Asked to Replace Animals Rented to Him.

The National Surety company, bondsmen for P. McDonnell, bankrupt contractor, are defendants in an action which was brought to trial before Judge Ensign and a district court jury this morning by John Colbrath, who is seeking to recover the value of a team of horses estimated to be worth $500.

Three teams of horses, it is alleged, were hired from the plaintiff by McDonnell last fall. When the contractor failed and abandoned his contracts with the city covering a number of paving jobs, his bondsmen took over the horses. When the horses were returned Colbrath claims, one team was missing. He afterwards learned that one of the horses had died. He then made demand upon the company, he says, for the value of the team but was refused.

Anti-Catholic Lecturer Tells Story to Denver Grand Jury.

Denver, Colo., April 13.—Robert L. Owens was arrested today in connection with kidnaping and deportation of Rev. Otis L. Spurgeon, Baptist minister and lecturer against the Roman Catholic clergy, on the night of April 5. He was the sixth man to be arrested.

Mr. Spurgeon appeared before the grand jury today and told his version of the kidnapping.

SEES NO HARM IN RAISING LEVEL

D. M. & N. Engineer Will Read Report to City Council.

The report of W. H. Hoyt, assistant chief engineer of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, who represented the city at the recent meeting of the International Joint commission to consider the application of the Michigan Northern Power company to raise the level of Lake Superior at the Soo for water power purposes, will be submitted to the council this afternoon.

Mr. Hoyt states that the consensus of opinion of the engineers who attended the hearing was that the interests at the Head of the Lakes would not be injured if the water were maintained between levels of 602.1 and 603.6, as desired by the power company.

Probably the most favorable feature was that the joint commission will probably retain control of the level, instead of delegating it to the power company or the war department. He explained that this would enable interests at the Head of the Lakes to appeal directly to the commission if the proper levels should not be maintained or if the plans should not work out as expected. He felt that the welfare of the lake ports would be safeguarded and quick relief obtained should occasion arise.

PREPARING FOR SENIOR PLAY

"The Starry Flag" Is the Vehicle Chosen This Year.

The play, "The Starry Flag," which is to be given by the senior class of the Duluth Central high school on Friday and Saturday nights of this week, gives promise of being an exceptionally good amateur play.

Preparations have been going on for the past three months under the coaching of Mr. Alexander of the high school English department.

The play is a story of love in the days of the Spanish-American war. A brief synopsis follows: The younger daughter of Mr. Maitland, a New York millionaire, is stolen in infancy by a Spanish rival who keeps the girl in Cuba until the close of the Spanish-American war of 1898. During the war she is found by Capt. Kenneth Tracy of the New York National Guard, future son-in-law of Mr. Maitland, who has been previously asked by Mr. Maitland to search for his long-lost daughter. After a desperate struggle with her abductors, she is finally brought home and a family reunion is thus effected. Besides many humorous situations, the play contains a touch of pathos.

As to the players—William Craig and Marie Elston occupy the leading roles as Capt. Kenneth Tracy and Miss Alice Maitland, Tracy's future wife. They have the necessary enthusiasm and should play their parts well. Seward Kempton, in the role of the Southern rascal, is developing all the bad there is in him for the occasion. Oliver Vivian, as Harvey Maitland, "the only duly accredited and special ——," is due to "bring down the house." Lucille Bleberman, as Mabel Horton, who thinks that Harvey and war are glorious, is Harvey's able assistant in many humorous scenes. Milton Stickles, who takes the part of Mr. Maitland, has slowly developed into the true old gentleman who mourns for his long-lost daughter. Arthur Spear, as Don Alfredo Surarez, the Spanish rascal and abductor, will give a glimpse of the true villain. Irene Keyes takes the part of the "simple Cuban lass" and Mr. Maitland's "long-lost daughter." Abe Shapiro, as Surarez's drunken toady, who is a lover of the spoils of the abbey, plays his part enthusiastically. Harold Bradley, as Mark Horton, the confirmed old bachelor with the adamantine heart, has learned the knack of acting. Gilbert Denfeld, as Barney O'Shea, the irate sergeant, and Ruth O'Brien, as Bridget, the equally irate maid, lend many humorous situations to the play

GETTING THE DAIRY MOVEMENT STARTED

Important Meeting Held at Commercial Club Preliminary Survey.

The agricultural committee of the Commercial club held a meeting this noon at the club at which County Agent Van Wagenen of St. Louis county and County Agent Pfleughoft of Carlton county were present and joined in the discussion of the movement to develop the dairy industry of Northeastern Minnesota. Leading bankers from Carlton, Cloquet and Farnum had also been invited but could not attend. However they sent letters assuring the members of the committee that they are ready to join heartily in the movement under the so-called Ashland plan. Duluth bankers have already appointed their trustees. A letter was received from Dean A. F. Woods of the state agricultural school saying that he is ready to furnish the inspector under whose supervision the cows will be purchased, as soon as he is needed.

Preliminary literature will be sent out to the different farmers of the territory to be covered and in which all necessary questions will be asked, and when this preliminary survey will have been finished the committee will be in shape to go ahead with further work.

WEATHER—Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; slightly warmer tonight with lowest temperature about 30 deg. at Duluth-Superior and 25 deg. on the iron ranges; moderate breezes, mostly easterly.

SWEEPING PLANS BY J. HAM LEWIS

Three Bills Affecting Commerce and Industry Offered to Senate.

Washington, April 13.—Characterizing three bills which he introduced in the senate today as representing "the trinity of his labors while in the senate," Senator Lewis, Democrat, of Illinois, submitted a measure to empower the United States to take over and lease to private interests all interstate railroads; another to authorize the government to build 100 ships in American waters, to be chartered to any part of the world, as government merchant marine and be an adjunct to the navy in time of war, and a third to abolish the interstate commerce commission and create a new commission for interstate commerce and industry, of twenty-one members divided into three branches.

Senator Lewis' commission bill, as explained by himself, would create three sub-commissions of seven members each, "one branch to have interstate commerce and transportation, railways and steamships; one to have jurisdiction over banking and finance; the third over factories and interstate manufactories and intershipments of manufactured merchandise."

URGING FARMERS TO GROW TUBERS.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers of this territory will be pledged to grow a certain acreage of patatoes this season. The Commercial club is back of the movement and petitions are out among the farmers, asking them to devote a certain portion of their farms to the growing of tubers.

President J. M. Kelly of the local club anticipates that from 600 to 800 acres can be obtained for the growing of potatoes this season, and he believes that with this start, the potato industry will be placed on a firm basis.

HEALTH IS HIS HOBBY

Time to Guard It Is Before It Goes, Says Dr. Barker.

Real Leaders of America Find They Need Physical Training.

That the time to think about your health is when you still have it, and that the big men of America today are finding that they have to watch their health as carefully as the athlete does and train themselves physically to withstand the tremendous strain of a growingly complex life, are two interesting statements made today by Dr. Charles E. Barker.

Dr. Barker, who is here delivering a series of talks, under Y. M. C. A. auspices, is notable for several accomplishments in the medical world—but his chief fame in the popular mind is for the prodiguous task of making the former president of the United States thin.

Some admirers of the president and of the doctor declared that it could not be done. The good doctor persisted, and he won, and as exhibit A of his work the mots recent ex-president of the United States is traveling around the country, shy several score pounds of useless tissue.

For more than fifteen years the subject of disease prevention has been a hobby with Dr. Barker. He believes in preventing disease—in keeping healthy.

Time to Guard Health.

"The time to protect health is when you have it," says the doctor. "You know in the past it has been the custom with some people to give the health little consideration until it was lost. Then it became the paramount subject of this life.

"Health should be the greatest consideration in the world. We should look after it constantly and prevent disease and illness.

"Let me tell you—the rich, the successful man of this day has a new gospel—it is the gospel of health.

"The big men have come to the same conclusion that success means work and work in turn demands health. It is very simple. The men who have made their marks and are making their marks, are taking really remarkable care of their health.

"These men have learned that health means energy. They eat simply, give attention to the proper way to live, and, one might put it—are in training for the business of life. They are finding that they have to do it to stand the strain."

Dr. Barker states that the object of his tour of the country is three fold. First it is to hold separate meetings for fathers and mothers to talk over sex problems that should be discussed with children; second to hold meetings for young men who have not been informed on such matters by their parents; and thirdly to arouse the interest of busy men and women in their own health. All of his meetings are free. A list of them is published in another column of The Herald this evening. He is being brought here and paid by the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Barker is opposed to the teaching of sex hygiene in the grade schools. He believes that the young child should receive its first instruction from its parents, although he thinks the study a proper one for high school pupils.

WRECKAGE MAY BE FROM NEWFOUNDLAND

Steamer Kyle Goes to Inspect Floating Debris.

St. John's, Nfld., April 13.—The steamer Kyle, which was ordered by wireless yesterday to investigate wreckage supposed to have come from the missing steamer Southern Cross, was forced to put in here last night for coal. She sailed again at daylight today.

The wreckage which was sighted Saturday 100 miles southeast of this port by the steamer Bloodhound, included gear from a ship's deck, a seaman's chest, a man's cap and part of the bow of a small boat. It was drifting against a large ice floe.

REFERENCE WORK FOR EVERYBODY

Complete Set of Books for Less Than Price of One Volume.

Here is a book event that will long be remembered in Duluth. There has always been an urgent need for a convenient work of reference. Every publisher who has issued an encyclopedia seemed to have a desire to make it as large as possible, without regard to convenience, and the object seems to have been to incorporate as many words as possible to fill space and increase the size. So, while there are many sets of this nature on the market, they do not meet the requirements of the general public, for the reason that they are too large and unhandy.

Taking this into consideration, the publishers of People's Cyclopedia have compiled a work in one set of five volumes of convenient and usable size and with the sole idea of giving the reader just the information wanted on every subject in a simple, straightforward manner that is easily and quickly comprehended.

More than 100 of the large metropolitan newspapers of the country, under the auspices of the National Newspaper Syndicate, have planned a popular educational movement that has already accomplished untold good for the many thousands of newspaper readers who have been able to share in the great benefits offered. The syndicate's representative in Duluth through The Herald, announces that for the express benefit of its friends and readers it has arranged with the Glass Block store to make a distribution of this great reference work in this city.

This public spirited store is naturally interested in the welfare of its patrons and in conjunction with The Herald is pleased to undertake this great work without exacting one penny of profit from the distribution of these books. On Wednesday, the distribution will begin and continue daily until the allotment of books for Duluth and vicinity is exhausted, which, however, in any event will be closed promptly at the expiration of the tenth day.

As before stated, this handy reference work is complete in five volumes, beautifully bound in English silk cloth. These five volumes comprise all the important subjects in all departments of knowledge including biographical sketches, chronological history and educational data from all sources throughout the entire world. People's Cyclopedia represents the equivalent of a valuable library of modern reference books for everybody. It is accurately compiled from the latest sources of authority and introduces hundreds of new subjects, covering all recent advances in the progress of the world up to the date of publication. The various sections are conveniently arranged for quick reference in alphabetical order, so that page numbers are not required. Instead of using the old time methods that make other encyclopedias out of date before they are completed, the modern card index plan was used, so that during the long and expensive period of compilation all recent events could be added to keep the work abreast of the times, and this plan renders People's Cyclopedia unique among reference works, as it contains the knowledge of recent days of the world's progress up to the present time, which workers and students have greater need to refer to than to the knowledge of previous years.

Beginning Wednesday, April 15, these sets will be ready for distribution at the Glass Block store to their friends and patrons. Read the great offer on another page of today's paper and clip the coupon without delay. "First come, first served" will be the rule while this ten-day distribution continues.

BEGINS WORK ON THE WALDO

Capt. James Cunning Will Try to Save Big Ore Carrier.

Hancock, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. James Cunning of the Great Lakes Dredge and Lock company's wrecker Favorite, moved the tug to the Peninsula dock today to take on supplies preparatory to starting work on the J. C. Waldo, the 475-foot ore carrier which was wrecked last fall on Manitou island. The tank top is ripped off the stranded vessel, and Capt. Cunning plans constructing a bulkhead to withhold the water until the hull is pumped out. Several thousand tons of the original cargo of iron ore have been dumped into the lake and it is expected the boat can be operated on its own steam when floated. It is in an exposed position.

Wrecking operations on the Turret Chief, high and dry on the south shore of Lake Superior near Eagle Harbor, will be started as soon as the Waldo is freed.

EXCESS BAGGAGE CASE REHEARING

North Dakota Rail Commission to Take Up Matter Again.

Fargo, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota railway commission has granted rehearings in the excess baggage rate cases and in the express cases. The former will be held at Bismarck, May 5, and the latter at Grand Forks, May 9. On May 7, the board will meet at Ellendale to consider the question of a new depot on the Milwaukee and better train service by the Great Northern on the Forbes line.

The rehearing on the excess baggage case is due to the fact that after the commission had ordered a cut of one-third in the rates to correspond more nearly with the rates of some other states, the roads then withdrew the excess baggage rate coupon books for use entirely in North Dakota. This aroused the indignation of the traveling men and the commission ordered the rehearing as one of the rules is that the roads cannot change its methods of procedure without filing notice with the commission. The traveling men of the state are greatly intrested.

TWO COMMANDERIES ATTEND SERVICES

Crookston and Grand Forks Knights Templar Go to Church.

Crookston, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual Easter service of Constantine commandery, Knight Templar, of Crookston, was observed yesterday, St. Aldemar commandery of Grand Forks being the guests of the local commandery. Since their installation the two commanderies have alternated in their Easter observances between Crookston and Grand Forks.

The services were held yesterday in the Congregational church here, Rev. Paul Albert delivering a masterful address. Following the church services there was an elaborate banquet served in Masonic temple and the usual toasts given to the grand commander and telegrams exchanged.

Ideal Easter Weather.

Easter Sunday ushered in ideal weather and thousands of people thronged the streets, the weather permittting the first general parade of spring toggery, made specially brilliant by the tango-hued coats.

The roads are also ideal for automobiling and every car was in service yesterday.

HORSE THIEVES BUSY.

Thirty Animals Are Stolen Near Stanley, N. D.

Minot, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another epidemic of horse-stealing has broken out in the northwestern part of the state. Near Stanley thirty head of horses were run off.

Eighteen of the horses were taken from the Soren Hilde ranch and Lorenz Weinmann lost twelve.

The thieves covered their tracks. The evidence obtained indicates that they made their raid early in the evening, heading for the Canadian line, twenty miles distant.

Sheriff Ed Keley has left for Regina, Sask., to arrest J. L. King when he steps from the Canadian penitentiary. He is wanted here for horse-stealing, perpetrated about a year ago at Donnybrook.

Sheriff Stainhofer of Burke county has just recovered a horse stolen from Robert Bloomquist of Powers Lake, Christmas eve, and which was found on the Canadian side of the boundary.

Helped Dickinson's Hope.

Dickinson, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dickinson's campaign for the establishment of a new state normal school here received a new impetus at the meeting of the Missouri Slope Educational association, held at Bismarck, when resolutions, approving the location of the school here, were adopted.

BOARD WILL DO SAMPLING

Work Formerly Done By Traders—Better Protection to Shipper.

The Duluth board of trade has decided to establish a bureau for the obtaining of samples of grain and seeds from cars and cargoes, the operation of the bureau to date from June 1. It will be conducted by the Duluth board of trade.

The procuring of samples from every car of grain that is consigned here for sale is one of the obligations that rests on the commission man who is the agent of the shipper. Some years ago each commission had its track man, whose duty it was to take samples from the cars that were consigned to his employer.

When the state of Minnesota adopted the system of getting its samples from the cars at some point on the railroad line while the grain was en route to Duluth, a new problem presented itself, and it was solved by the entrance into the field of a sampling bureau conducted by individuals who procured the samples for the commission firms at the point as the state samplers, forwarded them to Duluth and delivered them to the various offices.

The purpose of procuring these samples is to give the commission man a check on the work of the state sampler. The procuring of a sample that properly represents the grain in the car is vital. If the state sample should be incorrect, the grain may be graded and the dockage fixed so as to cause the shipped a loss. With his independent sample the commission man can, if he thinks the state's inspection wrong, compare samples, and if there is a difference, take steps to secure a resampling of the car.

The feeling has for some time been growing among the commission men that the ideal system of procuring the independent samples would be to have the work conducted by the Duluth board of trade as an organization and not by private individuals, and with this in mind an amendment of the rules was adopted last fall giving authority to establish and conduct such a department. Following the adoption of this, there has been an insistent demand that the board establish a bureau.

Committee in Charge.

The Duluth Sampling Bureau is the name under which the work will be conducted, and it will be under the direction of a committee consisting of five members of the Duluth board of trade. The first committee is constituted as follows: M. L. Jenks, chairman; W. S. Moore, A. W. Frick, H. J. Atwood and C. F. Haley.

To manage the new bureau, P. H. Bevis has been secured and will report in Duluth on June 1. Mr. Bevis has been assistant general manager of the department of grain sampling and seed inspection of the Chicago Board of Trade for several years and is known throughout the United States as one of the very best judges and samplers of grain to be found anywhere. He has been a frequent visitor in Duluth, coming here as the representative of Chicago buyers of grain in Duluth for the purpose of sampling their cargoes and watching the inspection and loading out of the grain. The committee considers the Duluth Board of trade fortunate in having secured Mr. Bevis and has already been congratulated at having done so by grain dealers in other markets.

The sampling of cars is not the only work of a sampling bureau. The sampling of cargoes is a large branch of the business and Mr. Bevis' reputation among buyers of grain in the other markets is expected to develop this branch of the business materially.

It is not the intention in establishing the new department that it shall be made to yield a profit to the board of trade, but only that it shall be self-sustaining. The service of procuring samples from cars is one for which the shipper is not charged. The commission man bears it as part of the service he must render for his commission, and in bringing about the establishment of the bureau conducted by the Duluth Board of Trade the commission men have been actuated by the belief that they will be bringing to the service the highest possible efficiency.

LICENSE IS IN JEOPARDY

Selling Liquor to Minor Is Charged to Scharabon's Bartender.

Another saloon license was placed in jeopardy this morning by the arrest shortly after 9 o'clock of Joseph Germ, 26 years old, bartender for Joseph Scharabon, 415 West Michigan street, on a charge of selling liquor to a minor. Germ was arrested by Patrolman P. Barber on the complaint of Chief Troyer, who claims that the bartender sold a glass of malt beer Saturday afternoon to Walno Kivisto, 17 years old. Kivisto was with several companions when the drink was sold, Chief Troyer claims, and they were all subpoenaed this noon to appear at the trial, which was set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, Germ pleading not guilty when arraigned before Judge Cutting.

Should Germ be found guilty of having sold Kivisto liquor, there is little doubt but that the license of his employer, Scharabon, will be revoked. This will make the tenth license revoked in the last year for violation of city ordinances.

Kivisto claims he is but 17 years old and said this morning that he rooms at 328 Lake avenue south, together with Christ Pederson, Onni Honkanen, J. W. Kays and William Kulmbara. The latter four were with him in the Scharabon saloon Saturday afternoon, when Kivisto claims he purchased his drink.

Germ was allowed to go on payment of $100 bail.

OLD LAW'S INTENT STILL HOLDS GOOD

Assistant Attorney General Stevenson Rules on Registration Days.

June 2 and 9 will be registration days in Duluth for voters at the general congressional, state and county election, which will be held Nov. 3. Primary election day—June 16—is also a day for registration.

The primary election law passed by the legislature of 1913, made no specific provision for registration days and the question of procedure was submitted to the attorney general at St. Paul for his decision by Odin Halden, county auditor.

In a letter received today from William J. Stevenson, assistant attorney general, Mr. Halden says, he is advised that the first two Tuesdays in June should be set aside as registration days for the November election in Minnesota cities of the first class.

The 1913 legislature passed a law which set the primary election day twenty weeks ahead of the general election day, but no reference was made to the days of registration. The old law provided that in cities of the first class there should be a day of registration nine weeks preceding the general election and another eight weeks preceding the general election and that voters might also register for the general election on primary election day, which preceded the general election by seven weeks.

The attorney general holds that the intent of the old law was to have two registration days immediately preceding the primary election in order that voters might be registered before voting at the primaries. Although the new law is silent on this question, he holds that it is presumed that the same procedure should be followed. The last registration day for the general election will be on the Saturday immediately preceding it.

In brief the old law's intent as to registration days is to be followed under the new one.

Saved From Drowning.

Valley City, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clara, John and Mable Henderson, aged 10 to 14 years, were precipateted into the river near here while attempting to cross on ice. A lad witnessed the accident, and notified a local newspaper office. The editor notified employes of the flour mill, near where the accident had occurred, and they reached the scene in time to save all the children, who were clinging to the ice.

TEN WILL ACT FOR THE CITY

Will Support Other Organizations in Planning 1915 Festival.

Meeting of General Committee Will Be Called in May.

The city council will soon appoint a committee of ten citizens to represent the city at large on the general committee which will have charge of the proposed midsummer festival and pageant of 1915.

A. C. Pearson and A. K. Squier, representing the Retail Merchants' association, called upon Mayor Prince this morning to request that this be done. The mayor said that all members of the commission strongly favor the festival and that the committee will be named at an early date.

The midsummer celebration is meeting with hearty approval throughout the city. Organization after organization has passed resolutions indorsing the move and appointed committees to act with the general committee. The committee to be named by the council will be in the nature of a committee at large to represent the city.

During the first week in May a meeting of the general committees will be called, a permanent organization affected and active preparations begun.

Announcement was made this morning that there are twenty-six organizations already represented by committees and that there are but two more to be heard from before the list is completed. These are expected to meet within a week or two and appoint their respective committees.

The Twentieth Century club has announced its committee as follows: Mrs. N. F. Hugo, chairman, Mrs. J. H. Crowley and Mrs. A. H. Brocklehurst. This makes the twenty-sixth organization represented.

SALOONS NOT PROSPEROUS

Many Owners Seek Transfers Hoping to Improve Business.

The average saloonkeepers in Duluth are apparently not reaping any golden harvest but are having difficulty in making their places of business profitable.

This is evidenced by the large number of applications for transfers of licenses from one location to another or from one person to another. Never before have so many transfers been sought as has been the case in the last few months, and they seem to be increasing.

The reason in most cases is that they are not making money. Some are selling out to others and turning over their establishments without trying other locations. Others are finding that they are falling behind and in an effort to retrieve are trying new buildings. At every council meeting several applications for transfers come up for consideration.

Several are due to come up at the meeting this afternoon. A petition protesting against one of them has been filed, that of J. E. Bietila from 103½ East Superior stret to 410 Central avenue West Duluth. The petition states that enough saloons are now located in West Duluth and particularly in the half block in which Bietila desires to open his bar.

GRAN REPEATS FORMER STORY

Several Witnesses Called in Second Case Against Heino.

Victor H. Gran, whose wife, Olga Gran and John R. Heino are facing trial in district court for adultery, took the stand as a state's witness at the separate trial of Heino this morning. Gran told the same story that he related on the witness stand at the divorce trial. His cross-examination at the hands of Theodore Hollister, one of the attorneys who is defending Heino, had not concluded when the noon adjournment of court was taken today.

Other witnesses called this morning were O. J. Larson, an attorney, who testified to overhearing certain telephone conversations which passed between Mrs. Gran and Heino, J. F. McKanna, manager of the Duluth Telephone company, and Frank M. Kilgore in whose store building a tap was installed by Gran on the wires which led into his residence. It was by means of the tap, Gran and other witnesses testified, that the clandestine conversations were overheard.

It is expected that the trial will consume the greater part of the week

MEAGHER GETS $1,056.

Jury Gives Decree in the Floodwood Land Case.

In Judge Ensign's division of the district court this morning, a sealed verdict agreed upon Friday evening at 6 o'clock by the jury which tried the Meagher-Fogarty lawsuit, was opened and read in court. The jury awarded Austin J. Meagher, plaintiff, $1,056.37 damages from Joseph Fogarty, his former business associate.

Meagher demanded judgment for the remainder alleged to be due him for his interest in the Floodwood Land company. He testified that he and Fogarty were partners in this concern and that when the partnership was dissovled in 1909, Fogarty agreed to pay him $1,250 for his interest in the business.

EXPECT WORST TO BE CANDIDATE.

Bismarck, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—That J. H. Worst, president of the state agricultural college, will be a candidate for the United States senatorship from the state, is now quite generally accepted.

Petitions have been placed in circulation throughout the state, nominating Mr. Worst for the Republican nomination.

ASKS $30,000 FOR FRACTURE OF LEGS

Injuries which Sam Belford sustained July 9, 1913, while in the employ of Whitney Bros., contractors, are the basis for a personal injury action started by Belford against the contracting firm and Oscar Archambault and Victor Moline, fellow workers, in district court Saturday. Damages in the sum of $30,000 are asked.

Belford was working on a pile driver which was being used in the construction of a dock for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company. He claims that the big hammer descended upon him without warning and that both of his legs were fractured and that he was seriously injured internally. He charges his employers with negligence.

ELDERBERRY, WIS., BIG FIRE LOSER.

Wittenberg, Wis., April 13.—Fire early Sunday destroyed the business district of Elderberry, Marathon county, about twenty miles from this place, with a loss of about $100,000. The destruction of the telephone exchange when the fire first started prevented the calling of assistance in time to be of service.

FAITHFUL TO GATHER

Shriners of Aad Temple Will Hold Ceremonial April 24.

Potentate Richardson Will Hurl Novices Into Initiation Machine.

Every member of Aad temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, was served today with a subpoena to appear in a case to be triad on April 24, and as the matter is urgent, already the members are arranging their business affairs so that they may make an appearance in answer to the summons. The case is that of Aad Temple, Oasis of Duluth, vs. Certain Novices, and the case will be heard before the illustrious divan at the Desert of Minnesota, Caliphate of St. Louis, ss.

In other words, while actual subpoenas were served, the command is to appear at the next ceremonial of Aad temple, at which time several score of novitiates will be put through the stunts, scorched over the hot sands and otherwise maltreated. The command follows:

"Noble Shereef and son of the desert, greeting: You are hereby commanded that, laying aside all and singular your business and excuses, and protests of your wife or sweetheart, you be and appear in person before the illustrious potentate of Aad temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., Oasis of Duluth, on the evening of Friday, the 24th day of April, 1914, which is the month of Jamaz Ul Awwal, and then and there to give, on the part of said Aad temple, renewed and true evidence of your loyalty to shrinedom, in a case to be tried between the nobility of Aad temple, plaintiff, and certain unregenerate novices, defendants, hereof fail not to join the caravan and appear as directed, on pain of the penalty that will fall thereon."

Illustrious Potentate H. W. Richardson will conduct this, his first, ceremonial since his induction into the office, and as it will be the last before the meeting of the imperial council at Atlanta, Ga., it is expected that more than usual interest will be taken in it.

The ceremonial will be preceded by a dinner at the Masonic temple at 6 o'clock in the evening, and the procession to the temple's auditorium, where the ceremonial will take place, will start at 7:30 sharp.

The form of subpoena with which the Shriners are summoned is the last word in announcements. It is in the actual form of a legal subpoena, so far as the jacket is concerned. The contents, however, are unique, artistically given and witty. Most tasteful color work, original and handsome designs and illustrations mark it, the various officers coming in for their share. The design and drawing work are by F. H. Hamm, engraver of The Herald, who has become official designer of the various Masonic bodies, as well as originator and leading trouble-maker of the new drum corps of Aad patrol. The folder is one that will be worth preserving, and it is to be expected that the idea will be copied widely.

Many nobles are expected from outside of the city and a gala night will be the result.

MICHIGAN COPPER STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

not vote, intending to return to work anyway because of the cutting down of strike benefits.

Officially Declared Off.

An official announcement that the strike was declared off by the vote of yesterday was made this morning by President Dan Sullivan, of the district local union which embraces the five locals.

Men are applying for work in great numbers this morning and mine clerks are kept busy receiving applications. Most of those applying for work are being given places. Those who do not get work will continue their union membership, probably affiliating with the district local, which will close the offices of the other locals.

The strike opened July 23 with rioting, which forced the mining companies all over the district, with the exception of the Victoria, which is isolated, to close down. Sixteen thousand men, roughly estimated, were thrown out of work, the mills and smelters being forced to close at the same time because of lack of copper rock to work on. The unions claimed 9,000 of the men were affiliated, the mining companies claiming that the union membership when the strike was called was but about 4,000, and that not more than 6,000 affiliated at any time during the strike. On petition of 3,000 employes the Calumet & Hecla company resumed operations during August, the other companies slowly reopening their mines.

Men Were Imported.

Importations of men to take the places of the strikers began in October. Deflections from the ranks of the strikers brought the workers up to 10,000 by the first of the year. Hundreds left the district but have been returning till nearly all are back. The companies now have, roughly speaking, 18,000 men at work, including strikers and new men and loyal men.

The strike was characterized by considerable violence, mainly on the part of imported trouble-makers, and eleven lives were taken, five of them strikers. Convictions of those charged with strike violence were few until about thirty strikers pleaded guilty in Calument court last week.

Strikers who cannot get work and their families, will be taken care of by the Federation, it was announced. Those who want to go elsewhere will be provided with funds. The district union has a small amount of men on hand and an additional sum is expected from the Federation headquarters in Denver.

Mining company officials said today that no strikers would be taken back until they had renounced their membership in the Western Federation.

Moyer Must Stand Trial.

Houghton, Mich., April 13.—Charles H. Moyer and the thirty-seven officers and members of the Western Federation of Miners, must stand trial under the indictment charging them with conspiracy in connection with their activities in the copper miners' strike, Circuit Judge O'Brien today denied a motion by attorneys for the Federation for a writ of abatement to quash the proceedings.

The attorneys charged that Governor Ferris, by his presence before it, had influenced the special grand jury which brought the indictment last January. Judge O'Brien said this charge had not been sustained.

Strangled Husband to Death.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 13.—Mrs. Carnetto Musso, a frail little Italian woman, was found guilty of having strangled her husband to death on the night of Jan. 6.

SOME OF THE GUNMEN ARE THOUGHT TO HAVE CONFESSED TO CRIME

arrive at the conclusion that he could not interfere with the mandate of the court as already recorded.

News of the justice's decision reached the gunmen just as three of them, Horowitz, Seidenshner and Rosenberg, had concluded the celebration of the feast of the passover in company with a rabbi. They received the announcement stoically, saying nothing after they had asked a few questions to assure themselves of the authenticity of the statement.

No Sound from Convicts.

A pale moon still hung in the sky when those who were to witness the executions gathered in front of the prison. The air was chilly and a raw wind swept across the Hudson. Faint lights glimmered at corridor ends of the buildings, but no sound came from within. The hideous noises which convicts have been said to emit when one or more of their number is to die were spared those who waited.

Dawn was just creeping over the bills when the witnesses were admitted to the bare courtyard of the death house. Many were ashen-faced and trembling. From a printed list a clerk read off the names of those who were to see the first man die. A moment more and the door of the death chamber had closed behind them.

Changed Death Program.

Warden Clancy had announced that "Gyp the Blood" would die first, followed by "Lefty Louie," "Dago Frank" and "Whitey Lewis." But as it occurred, the man who first came through the little iron door at the right was "Dago Frank." He had shown sign of collapse, and it was deemed expedient to shield him from the ordeal of waiting.

State Electrician Davis carefully tested the eelctric current.

"Two of these men have told me that they will make a statement," announced Warden Clancy, "but under no circumstances must any one ask them any questions."

Crucifix in Each Hand.

The head and leg sponges were then wet, and Head Keeper McInterney, acting on a signal from the warden, went to the death cell. There he found Cirofici in prayer with Father Cashin. The condemned man clutched a crucifix in each hand as he was led into the presence of death. He had to be supported by two keepers.

In the death cells could be heard the murmur of the other slayers in their supplications. The warden and attendants stepped back from the rubber mat.

"Oh, God, I meet my God!" gasped the Italian.

The state electrician turned the switch. The first contact was gradually reduced and then a second shock was given. The prison physicians, Dr. Farr and Dr. Mereemo, with several other witnessing doctors, applied the stethescope.

"I pronounce this man dead," said Dr. Farr in a low voice.

It was 5:43 o'clock. The group of witnesses left the death chamber and the body of "Dago Frank" was lifted by white-coated guards and taken to the autopsy room.

"Dago Frank" Died Easiest.

The doctors said Cirofici had made little resistance to the electric current, which registered 1,920 volts and between 9 and 10 amperes. Of the four Cirofici died the easiest. He had intended making a statement, but his mental processes had failed him.

A new lot of witnesses filed in. Through the little door presently came "Whitey Lewis." He was garbed in a black suit, as "Dago Frank" had been. The statement that he never finished was on his lips as he entered. The attendants, fearing a shocking spectacle of hysteria, sought to soothe him.

A current of 1,920 volts, with a slightly higher amperage than had been used on Cirofici, took his life. The switch was first closed at 5:47:36 and he was pronounced dead at 5:52.

At 5:56 "Gyp the Blood" was brought in. He had a Jewish prayer book in his left hand, and Rabbi Goldstein walked by his side. "Listen Israel! There is only one God!" mumbled "Gyp" in Hebrew.

Two shocks were given, and at 6:02 o'clock physicians pronounced the man dead.

"Lefty Louie" the Last.

"Lefty Louie," the last of the four to die, and accordingly the keenest sufferer by reason of the interval of waiting, entered the chamber at 6:07. The Jewish prayer book which he grasped he handed to Rabbi Kopfstein before the guard strapped him in the chair. Like "Gyp" he mumbled a prayer in Hebrew. The theory that the strongest shall die last, "Lefty" bore out by his uncanny resistance to the current. The first contact was given at 6:08. At 6:17 he was pronounced dead.

The only relatives of the gunmen who were in the prison at the time of the execution was "Dago Frank's" mother, sister and brothers, and "Whitey Lewis'" brothers. Mrs. Cirofici was borne to her carriage in collapse an hour after the electrocution.

The bodies of the gunmen will be claimed by relatives.

Mother Pleaded for Confession.

Mrs. Cirofici remained with her son as late as 4 a. m. This is an unusual procedure. She had thought until the last moment that on her son's plea for mercy the governor would grant a reprieve. She believed in her boy's innocence to the end. She pleaded with Frank in Italian to confess, but he said he had told all he knew, and that he had not been present when Herman Rosenthal was killed.

All four of the men were Jews except "Dago Frank." As the nickname implies, he was an Italian. Gyp the Blood and Lefty Louis were married. Their young widows survive them.

Not only during the trial, but in statements given out at Sing Sing, three of the gunmen persisted in the declaration that "Dago Frank" had not been present at the time of the murder, and was not in any way concerned in the plot to murder Rosenthal. During their stay in the death house all four maintained an attitude of martyrlike innocence, tempered with an optimism growing out of their belief that their fate hinged upon Becker's, and that if he were not guilty they must be set free. The news, crushing hopes of this nature, as announced by the warden, was received with stoical calmness.

Crime Started Reform Wave.

The crime for which the four gunmen paid the death penalty started a wave of police reform from which the ripples have not yet subsided. Throughout the revelations made at the time and subsequently stalked the vague, sinister monster known as the "police system."

Rosenthal was shot down early on the morning of July 16, 1912, in front of the Hotel Metropole in the heart of the Tenderloin. On receiving an announcement from a man who came into the hotel, he walked out and fell dead before a fusillade of bullets. The murderers leaped into an automobile and escaped. Weeks later, after Becker had been arrested, the gunmen were found in a flat in Brooklyn.

Their conviction and Becker's were based chiefly on the testimony of three go-betweens who turned state's evidence. These men—Jack Rose, Bridgey Webber and Harry Vallon—declared that they had hired the gunmen to kill the gambler, Rosenthal, at Becker's request.

Becker Was Accused.

Becker was a police lieutenant in charge of the "strong arm squad," whose duties were to keep in subjection the gangs of the city and to regulate gambling houses and places of ill-fame. Rose, Webber and Vallon said that Becker had made use of his position to collect money from these houses. Rosenthal, according to these same witnesses, having a grievance against Becker, was about to give evidence against Becker to the district attorney.

Becker was arrested July 29, 1912, but nearly two months elapsed before the apprehension of the gunmen. Their trial before Justice Goff marked a record of speed in criminal procedure.

American flag by Mexican Federals at Tampico today as an apology for the recent arrest of American marines. The president spoke with such confidence that his hearers took it to imply that the point would be insisted upon. The president already has approved Rear Admiral Mayo's demand for the salute as an apology.

Secretary Daniels also had notified Admiral Mayo that his action is approved.

"The salute shall be fired," was his positive announcement today. He added that he did not consider the element an important one because of the difficulties of communication between Washington and Tampico.

Bryan Is Reticent.

Secretary Bryan was reticent about the Tampico incident. He said he was in close correspondence with Charge O'Shaughnessy over Huerta's promised investigation. He declined to reveal the nature of any dispatches between the state department and the charge, and would neither affirm nor deny reports that Gen. Huerta had forbidden the salute demanded by Admiral Mayo.

In some official circles the suggestion that Huerta would refuse to permit the salute was received with surprise. In their opinion the refusal might compel drastic action on the part of the United States.

Censor Slashes Battle Report.

Torreon, Mex., April 11, via El Paso, April 13.—Heavy fighting was in progress at San Pedro yesterday, Federals having retaken the town two days previously. It is reported also that a Federal force of 3,000 men, believing this city to be lightly garrisoned, is on its way to recapture the place. A surprise awaits them, for when Gen. Villa sent pursuers after Gen. Velasco he left 5,000 men here.

San Pedro was retaken by Gen. Argumedo and Gen. Emilio P. Campo. When Villa's troops drove the Federal commander, De Moure, out of the town, he left it with a small garrison, the remander of the troops taking up the pursuit.

Campo and Argumendo are believed to have thought De Moure still in possession, for they approached unsuspectingly and were met with a withering fire. They soon discovered the inferior numbers of the defenders and took it.

Villa, with several train loads of reinforcements under his personal command, attacked the town yesterday and a fierce battle ensued. A trainload of rebel wounded and 365 Federal prisoners arrived here today.

J. C. Hamm, American consul at Durango, who has been here, returned to Durango today carrying assurances that foreigners in his city would be given every possible protection. Many foreigngers are here preparing to reopen business.

El Paso, Tex., April 13.—The above dispatch bore much evidence of the work of the censor. One sentence, beginning "Heavier fighting than at Torreon" had been robbed of its verb and there was other evidence of mutilation.

Carranza Opens Capital.

Juarez, Mexico, April 13.—The new Constitutionalist capital was established at Chihuahua yesterday with the arrival of Gen. Carranza, first chief of the revolution, and his staff. It it understood that his interview with Gen. Villa will take place next Wednesday or Thursday.

Gen. Carranza telegraphed to Rafael Zubrin, his minister of the interior, and the only cabinet member remaining in Juarez, to assure the state department at Washington that his first duty would be to return formal replies to representations hitherto unanswered owing to press of emergency matters connected with the military campaign.

RED RIVER VALLEY READY FOR WORK

Fields Drying Up and Farmers Soon to Get Busy.

Crookston, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Warmer weather and strong winds have dried up the fields in good shape and by the middle of the week many farmers will be at work.

In the districts where the soil is lighter there was a little seeding done today, but work is not at all general.

SIX WOULD BE LARSON'S BRIDE

Olaf Larson of Holland, Mich., the prospective groom who will secure a bride at the Empress theater this week by popular vote, is on hand ready to appear at every performance. Six would-be brides are said to have promised faithfully to enter the contest.

Manager Abrahamson has completed all arrangements with Mr. Larson, and has persuaded him that he will not make a mistake in taking a chance on the decision of the Empress patrons. The management assures Mr. Larson that all the women will be of a good moral character and eligible for matrimony.

That the applicants may have a chance to present their case clearly to the audience, each will be expected to make a short talk, stating her qualifications to become Larson's bride. A vote will be taken at each show and the total count will be announced Saturday night at the second show. Much interest is being shown on the part of the public.

EASTER POSTERS ON THE BILLBOARDS

Large Easter posters, placed upon the billboards of Duluth, Superior and practically all cities and towns of the country, have been put out by the United States Display Advertising company, of which C. A. Marshall of Duluth is president.

The posters carry no advertising and are the continuation of a series begun last fall for moral and ethical teaching. The Easter poster is a beautifully colored picture of Christ blessing the little children and a church with a large number of persons entering. On one side is inscribed, "Suffer little children to come unto me" and on the other, "Take your children to church; give them the right start." The poster was designed by Edward Volkert of Cincinnati, who made the Christmas poster.

SAYS SULPHUR IS SURE TO RELIEVE ITCHING ECZEMA

Get an Ounce of Bold-Sulphur Cream and Heal Skin Eruptions Right Up.

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome.

The General says:

"There are real guarantees, also talk imitations"

There are a lot of guarantees offered on roofings. Most of them are by irresponsible people or merely conversational guarantees. It's a very important thing in a guarantee that there should be responsibility, and that it should be in writing.

Certain-teed

Quality Cert-ified Roofing Durability Guaran-teed

Since we have been giving a regular written guarantee on Certain-teed Roofing, one class of competitors has been saying that their roofing "will generally last twenty years, or longer." They don't guarantee it, however, at all. It's very easy to talk, talk, talk and say any number of years in such talk, but responsible concerns must know all about their roofing if they do any more than talk—they must know their roofings really do last when they sign a printed guarantee of plain requirements that the roofing shall make good. Of course, the irresponsible type—those who are likely to go out of business soon—can sign anything. It's very important that the buyer should not be caught in such a trifling manner.

Another very important thing is, these talk guarantees are offered on the cheapest goods the manufacturers make; not being real guarantees, there is no risk. They say nothing about their highest priced brands and qualities—just offer the cheapest thing they have—offer a talk guarantee on cheap goods equal to the real guarantee given on Certain-teed Roofing. It's funny how many people they catch on such things!

When you buy a piece of roofing you should know—and know in writing—that it is the best quality—best brand goods made by that manufacturer. Remember—make him put this in writing, that it is his best in every way, and then have the guarantee in writing and properly signed, too.

It pays to be careful in buying goods where the quality could not be judged by the sample—where everything must depend upon the standing and ability of the manufacturer to make good over a long period of years in the future.

Certain-teed Roofing is sold at a reasonable price everywhere by dealers who believe in giving unsurpassed quality at a fair profit. The amount of Certain-teed Roofing required for an average roof, say ten squares, will cost less than $5 over the cheap mail order grade. This small initial cost is saved many times in the fifteen years' wear which is covered by the manufacturer's guarantee.

EXODUS FOR NORWAY IS ON

Twenty-five Duluthians Start on Trip to Native Land.

Exhibits Already on Way—1,000 From Minnesota Will Take Trip.

The exodus of Norwegians to their fatherland to take part in the centennial celebration which will begin in Christiania on May 17, began yesterday when twenty-five men and women left Duluth. They will sail from New York on Wednesday.

It is expected that fully 1,000 Norwegians from Minnesota will attend the celebration. Practically all of those who left yesterday were from the West end or the western end of the city most of them being young men. Only one aged man was in the party, John Rassmussen, who has resided in Duluth for forty years.

Probably the largest delegation will leave on April 29 the last day which they will be able to leave in order to get to Norway by May 17. In that crowd will be the Normanna Male chorus, composed of thirty-five members and delegations from many Norwegian lodges, who will go as the organizations' official representatives. The Normanna chorus will join with about 1,000 other members of the Norwegian singers of America which has a chartered boat for conveying them to the land of their birth. About twenty-five members of the Norden Singing Society of Superior, affiliated with this organization, will accompany the local men.

Last week, on April 8, the industrial display, showing the mineral, timber and agricultural wealth of Minnesota was sent to Norway in charge of prominent Norwegians of the state. It included many views of mining operations, locations, housing conditions, and motion pictures of actual work in the mines on the range; scenes taken in the lumbering districts, on farms and paintings made by well-known Norwegians of the state. This exhibit is expected to do more than anything else to advertise Minnesota in Norway where it is said that everything is done to discourage immigration to this country.

Among the members of the Normanna Male chorus who will make the trip are: George Thrana, president of the society; Alfred Christopherson, Bert Eldegaard, Otto Hammer, Olaf J. Hanson, Sverre Haug, Haakon Haugen, Sander Jentoft, J. A. Johnson, Harlod Kjelman, Helmer Sorenzen, A. J. Meyers, Jens Morkeud, Ludo E. ABSTINENCE HIS PRICE OF LIBERTY

Stans Sankosky Is Paroled After Conviction for Stealing Watch.

Stans Sankosky, who was convicted of burglary after two hard-fought trials in district court at the January term, has escaped going to state's prison on a promise to Judge Dancer that he would mend his ways.

On the condition that he must for one year keep away from saloons, refrain absolutely from taking a drink of liquor and forsake evil companions, Sankosky was granted his freedom Saturday. The court impressed upon him that if he violated the terms of his parole he would go to Stillwater without further ceremony.

Sankosky was convicted for the theft of a watch from a roomer at the Adelphi hotel Jan. 1. He was arrested with James Carey, who was sentenced to the state reformatory after he had been convicted. Carey, when brought before the court for sentence, took all the blame for the affair himself, absolving Sankosky.

Attorney Walter F. Dacey interceded on behalf of Sankosky, and the execution of sentence was withheld by the court until Saturday. The court disposed of the matter by paroling Sankosky for one year under Col. F. E. Resche, probation officer.

LACKS "BUSINESS DARING;" IS SUICIDE.

Chicago, April 13.—Christ Wolf, a wealthy merchant, committed suicide last night after writing a long note bemoaning his lack of business daring. He shot himself while in his hoffice after writing the note.

"I have had a yellow streak all my life," he wrote. "Take my body, have it cremated and the ashes scattered in the winds."

Wolf was in partnership with George J. Sayer and Isador Heller, who, explaining Wolf's letter, said they had by outside speculation greatly increased their wealth, but that, despite their urging, Wolf refused to join them in their ventures.

EX-CHOIR BOY GIVES $500,000 TO CHURCH.

New York, April 13.—Frederick G. Bourne, a wealthy manufacturer and capitalist, once a choir boy in Trinity Episcopal church, has given $500,000 to the cathedral of St. John the Divine for the endowment of the choir school. The gift was announced at the Easter service. Mr. Bourne's only condition was that he be elected a member of the cathedral choir. He was elected unanimously.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys; they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease. Agent, Wirth's Red Cross Drug store, 13 West Superior street.

SCHOOLS WILL PLANT TREES

Duluth Pupils Will Celebrate Bird and Arbor Day.

State Superintendent Gives Suggestions for School Programs.

Bird and Arbor day, which will occur on April 17 this spring according to a proclamation by the governor, will be observed in the Duluth schools in an appropriate manner. Compositions on bird and plant life are being prepared, and it is probable that some of the teachers will arrange to have the pupils plant trees, build bird houses and carry out other work appropriate to the day. Definite plans have not yet been made.

That interest in Arbor and Bird day may be stimulated in the schools throughout the state, C. G. Schulz, superintendent of public instruction, has issued a bulletin, making suggestions to teachers as to what should be done by the schools on this occasion. Mr. Schulz's suggestions in part follow:

Helpful Suggestions.

"The day should not pass unnoted, for the value of the subjects connected with it is incalculable. It affords an opportunity of teaching lessons in civic pride, gives point to the cleaning-up of the schoolhouse and grounds, and of beautification by planting of hardy vines, or shrubs and trees to improve the grounds. Bird houses might be made and placed advantageously to help the birds in their spring housekeeping.

"The practical observance of Arbor day by planting trees and shrubs will be emphasized and stimulated by appropriate exercises, including talks on the value of the forests, and the need of conservation of our trees, wild flowers and birds, the writing of compositions and reciting of seasonable selections.

"A more intimate acquaintance with birds and bird life in Minnesota and with our native trees and flowers should naturally follow from a keener interest in the observance of Arbor and Bird day.

"The 18th of May is observed each year throughout the country as Peace day. It seems proper that the teachers and the school children in Minnesota should express their interest in the furtherance of peace and the discontinuance of war and hostile relations between the nations. Some exercises may properly be had in all schools on that day, to bring out the child expression that the school youth in our state believes in the development of healthy physical vigor, but that this strength should be applied toward providing homes, furthering happiness, and averting the sorrow, misery and loss that follow upon strife and hatred. That day may properly stand out in the school year as one typifying the values and the uses of peace and good feeling."

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Woman's Realm

True to the weather forecast Easter was "fair and warmer."

Spring suits and hats were in evidence everywhere, at the church, on the streets and at hotels and restaurants. Church services were well attended, in fact if there were as many church-goers every Sunday in the year as there were yesterday it would be necessary to build several more churches or put additions on those now built.

Easter gowns and hats are generally attractive but the styles this year have eclipsed in "freakishness" all those that have gone before, except perhaps, buckled shoes and ruffled shirts. The women were not the only gorgeously arrayed persons who made up the style parade yesterday for the men did their share to make the day a cubist fantasy. Bright Balmacaan coats, fancy hats, the colors and shapes of which no mere woman could possibly describe, and Easter-egg colored ties made the men who are generally supposed to make good backgrounds for gaily dressed women equally prominent figures in the grand parade. Someone has said that despite their entering business and the professions, women are not affecting masculine attire but that on the contrary men are dressing more gaily than ever, and copying the styles of women.

There was every kind of a hat from the simple tailored one with one feather sticking straight up in front to the dress hat covered with flowers of every color. Suits ranged from sedate blues and grays plainly made to tango red and citron green made with ruffles, bustles and frills beyond number.

Many women wore flowers, for of all days in the year Easter is deemed the most fitting for natural flowers, whether a gorgeous corsage bouquet or orchids and violets or a single rose.

The day was too cold and windy for an imitation of the Easter parade on Fifth avenue but on the way to and from church there was a good opportunity to show off the spring finery.

EGG ROLLING.

Ideal Weather Favors Children's Sport at White House.

Washington, April 13.—President Wilson had as his guests today the children of the national capital. The occasion was the annual frolic and egg-rolling in the White House grounds.

From early today until nearly dusk the little folk with the full freedom of the grounds accorded them enjoyed the president's hospitality. President Wilson and members of the cabinet planned to either view the children at play from the south portico of the White House or else go down into the throng and view the fun at close range.

Ideal weather favored the little guests and thousands of them gathered on the lawns for the day's merrymaking. Adults, unaccompanied by children, were not admitted. Thousands of grownups, however, watched the fun from near by.

Among the children from the homes of administration members participating were:

Sally and John McAdoo, children of the secretary of the treasury; the seven youngsters of Secretary Tumulty; John Bryan, grandson of the secretary of state; Elizabeth Howe Wilson and her sister, Virginia Wilson, both daughters of the secretary of labor; Ned and Nancy Lane, children of the secretary of the interior, and David Houston, son of the secretary of agriculture.

RAGINE SOCIETY GIRL TAKES UP TANGO AS PROFESSION

RUTH ELLIOTT AND R. BOWLBY.

Many children of the rich and socially prominent in all parts of the country are taking to the tango as a profession. The latest society girl to take to dancing as a profession is Ruth Elliott, the daughter of Lucius P. Elliott, a wealthy manufacturer of Racine. She is dancing at a Milwaukee hotel with Robert Archer Bowlby of Boston.

"Peter, the Mocking Bird, and the Watermelon" and "The Baptising of Lily Belle Pearl" were delightfully given and it would have been hard to find a more appreciative audience than Mrs. MacHarg had yesterday afternoon. Mrs. MacHarg also sang.

The grand march was played by Hugh McDonald (piano) and John Day (drum). Miss Margaret Rogers gave the welcoming address for the St. James' guild and Miss Adelaide Meinning played a violin solo. The children from the orphanage sang two choruses.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Too Much Flattery Is Odious.

It must have been considered the polite and agreeable thing at one time to pay compliments whether they applied or not. With us still are human beings of this type who break into peans of praise at every opportunity. They are largely florid, elderly folk without tact and about as sensitive to the niceties of life as a rhinoceros.

The tendency to be flowery and always flattering has descended in line, for the prototypes of these old-time gallants are to be observed now and then among young men, who lose no opportunity to turn a compliment, however farfetched. Also do we find young women, just as we do old, who are profuse in praise and admiration and invariably calculated to make us doubt its sincerity.

The tongue that wags only to emit words of honey sweetness may seem preferable to the one that is constantly bitter. It is, of course, but the other is more nauseating to the senses. We know that we are not always at our best, and that we are not perfect, and so, perforce, the unceasing commendation of those whom we meet with becomes a bore, and more than that, a positive aversion.

It is an embarrassing thing to be obliged to courtesy or half-smile at some of the ponderous things said with the intention of flattering our vanity. I have blushed in confusion and fretted in sympathy with some poor mortal who was being made the butt of this sort of gallantry.

There are those who swallow talk of this description as a child gulps a sugar-coated pill. They are always persons concerned with their own interests and bent upon their own glorification. To such the misfit compliment appeals in no ridiculous sense. Probably two people enjoy this style of conversation to one who resents and dislikes it. But anyone can become hardened to it, and time teaches us how to avoid these inanities and also the people guilty of them.

A class never safe from flowery and suggestive remarks are the young girls just entering upon young womanhood. It is pitiful to watch these young creatures, who know not whether to be pleased, frightened or disgusted. I have always maintained that the person with this proclivity, regardless of age and sex, should be bound and gagged in the interests of the few who suffer at his or her hands.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"Little Women."
ORPHEUM—Orpheum Road Show.

AT THE LYCEUM.

"Little Women" Will Open an Engagement in Duluth.

"Little Women" on the stage It just had to come. Louisa M. Alcott's immortal story, the delight of three generations, has been put into dramatic form and will be presented at the Lyceum tonight under the direction of William A. Brady. Marian de Forest, the adapter, has succeeded in making the book into a charming character comedy; more than this, she has kept intact the spirit of the book, it is said. "Little Women," the play, is really "Little Women," the book, and all the main incidents of the story will be found in this dramatic version. The drama is the life of the four girls, Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy, carrying them thgough girlhood and young womanhood, and bringing to each the consummation of her life romance, just as Miss Alcott described it in the book, which, more than all the rest of her writtings, has insured her enduring fame.

It is not likely that the present theatrical season will bring an attraction of more interest than William A. Brady's production of "Little Women." Three generations of girls have loved "Little Women." Marian de Forest, a well known magazine and newspaper writer, has dramatized it and Mr. Brady has placed it upon the stage. The production of the play is most timely, as no modern books have exceeded the popularity of "Little Women," and it still has a prominent place in all the book stores. The costuming is in the fashion of the early 60s and the entire production is planned to reflect the closest fidelity to the spirit and period of Miss Alcott's story. Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy and all the other characters in the charming story are faithfully reproduced.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

The Road Show Opens a Week's Engagement in Duluth.

It is one of the peculiarities of vaudeville that two such genuine artists as Claude and Fannie Usher are sometimes called upon to share honors with a trained monkey, but such is vaudeville and the trained monkey is undoubtedly interesting. Both the Ushers and the monkey are on the Orpheum Road Show bill, which opened yesterday at the Orpheum and proved fully up to expectations. The audience last evening completely filled the theater and was most enthusiastic in its applause.

The Ushers have come to be ranked as two of the most popular performers in vaudeville because of the charming little playlets they offer. There is always a human touch to them and they never fail to find a ready appeal. Fannie Usher is a real artist in her delineation of child parts and her husband, while he may have technical faults in acting, has a personality that makes itself felt and that seems to instantly put the audience in sympathy with him. Their new playlet is called "The Straight Path." It contains many bright lines and the comedy and pathos are delicately intermingled. Sniffles were heard on all sides in the audience last evening, but they were interspersed with laughs. If vaudeville had more actors of the class of Mr. and Mrs. Usher one-act plays would be more popular than they are.

And the monk is all that he was claimed to be. Romeo is most uncannily like a human being. He eats at a table, smokes, expectorates in a cuspidor, undresses himself, roller skates and performs some trick bicycle riding that is nothing short of wonderful. It is hard to realize that he is not a human being.

Two-team acts of widely different type appear on the Road Show bill. Walter De Leon and "Muggins" Davies, two former musical comedy stards, have a neat and classy little turn, with some good songs, a few dance steps and some pleasing nonsense. Their "proposal" number is a clever bit of comedy, well done.

Sharp and Turek are dancers. They appear in blackface, the young woman being a light chocolate-colored belle. Their dancing is the kind that appeals to a vaudeville audience and their rag tango is a good novelty.

Comedians of the "nut" type have become common during the last two or three years. Few of them have the personality and the sheer "nerve" to get away with it, but Bert Fitzgibbon apparently has both. He calls himself the original daffy dill. If you like that kind of a comedian he is the kind of a comedian you will like. He had the big audience last evening in shouts of laughter with his "imitation of a ventriloquist calling to its mate" and his other nonsense. The person listening to Fitzgibbon will either become hysterical with laughter or sit with a frozen face and a frantic desire to hurl a seat at the performer. The former were far in the majority last evening.

Stelling and Revell, two knockabout slapstick bar performers in burlesque comedy makeup, close the bill in riotous fashion, and Valveno and La More, two acrobats who know how to combine comedy with their excellent acrobatic work, open the show in lively style.

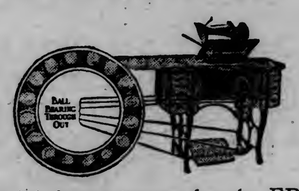
The motion pictures are most interesting, as usual, and complete a most entertaining program that fully lives up to its billing as a Road Show. It will continue all week with a daily matinee.

At the Empress.

Catchy songs, pretty girls and graceful dances makes up an entertaining offering at the Empress. "The Parisian Revue," one of the best tabloid musical shows now going the rounds, began a four-day engagement yesterday afternoon and was well received.

The scenes are laid in Maxim's cafe, and are of the cabaret variety. Wine, songs and scenes of revelry, appropriate to a "live" cabaret, are given considerable prominence. "Absinthe Frappe" is featured by Miss Grace Greenwood, and also, "I Miss You Most of All." Miss Greenwood was given a warm reception.

A good share of the comedy is supplied by Sam Wiel, who plays the part of a "man about town." Don't Blame It On Broadway" is one of the best songs.



Two tots, Mae Weston and Babe La Forte, appear in song and dance, and are well received for their charm and skill. Miss Daisy Dean appeared with C. H. Murphy in the dance of the rose. "The Parisian Revue" will continue at the Empress until Thursday.

CAP AND GOWN FOR THE HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES.

Principal Leonard Young has proposed—tentatively, we take it, since he has instituted a referendum among the parents—that the members of the class of 1914 wear caps and gowns for the commencement exercises.

It may be that the first impulse of those who are captiously critical and hasty of judgment will be that this is an attempt to overdo the dignity of a high school sheepskin by aping the higher institutions of learning.

But that will be a very unjust judgment. The fact is that Mr. Young's idea is to avoid competition in display, rather than to create display; and that the high cost of graduation gowns is the real reason back of his proposal.

And that makes it, we think, eminently wise and sensible.

It is pleasant and pretty to see the girls of the graduating classes all decked out in their prettiest—and there is nothing prettier or sweeter on earth than a girl of that age prettily attired.

But it robs the spectacle of all its pleasure to think of the sacrifices this display has made necessary in a large proportion of the cases. And if there is any pleasure in it left after that, it is turned into sorrow by the spectacle of the occasional one or two whose mothers, to their sorrow, have been utterly unable to squeeze out of the slender family purse enough money to compass the large expense of outfitting their girls on the scale set by those of ample fortunes.

And that, dear reader, is tragedy if there ever was tragedy without bloodshed and death. An aching heart is tragedy, whatever the cause.

Nor is the pernicious influence of the extravagant ideas that go with the usual competition in display to be ignored for a moment. That, too, will be avoided by the cap and gown; and it is one of the most menacing things in modern life, one which must soon be fought if universal suffering and disaster are to be averted.

And so we think that Mr. Young's idea is a splendid one, that it solves the always vexed question of graduation gowns admirably, and that it ought to be carried out not only this year, but yearly hereafter.

Maybe the little affair transacted in Sing Sing prison this morning will curb any small-boy tendencies to envy the possessors of certain captivating nicknames.

THE WEYERHAEUSER FORTUNE.

Whether the late Mr. Weyerhaeuser died worth a hundred millions or a billion we do not know. Undoubtedly he died very rich, and after all a hundred million dollars means about the same as a billion dollars. Both are more than any man needs or should have.

What lessons are to be drawn from this little known but mightily important career?

Two lessons—neither new, both vital; one always profitable, the other perhaps too much belated to be of high value.

The first lesson is thrift—for thrift was the foundation of the Weyerhaeuser wealth. Weyerhaeuser was a thrifty man—thrifty in small things when he was poor or he never would have been rich, thrifty in big things later or he never would have been among the world's richest men. His life teaches—if the lesson is worth anything to anybody—that a young man who makes up his mind to be rich, who lives always within his income and who sacrifices the many things that would draw upon his energies and his funds—he must sacrifice very much, and a good deal of it is very valuable—can get rich.

The other lesson, which is late, is that the people should have been more careful of their common heritage of timber. If they had used ten per cent of the sagacity Mr. Weyerhaeuser used, there would have been no Weyerhaeuser fortune. The timber was theirs, they left it outdoors and unguarded, and a few got very rich at their expense. It is no discredit to Weyerhaeuser. The people having left the gate of such opportunity open, he would have been foolish not to enter. The rest of us who did not enter were foolish for staying out, if we wanted money.

There will be no more such fortunes out of timber—but that is more largely because the timber is gone than because we are more careful with the common heritage. We ARE more careful with it than we were. There is a lock on the stable door now. But the stall is empty.

It is now assured that any greasing of the state political skids must be done with something else than Ole O.

VIEWPOINTS.

"The Duluth Herald insists," says the Red Wing Eagle, "that to charge the Associated Press news with being sometimes tainted or colored in the 'interest of certain interests' is preposterous because of the heterogeneous make-up of the association membership. Was The Duluth Herald a member of the association in 1896, when plutocracy waged its fiercest battle against the people? If it was, can it really believe its own present claim?"

Yes, The Herald was, then as now, a member of the Associated Press. And it can and does believe its own present claim, even in the light of that fierce battle—indeed, needs no better evidence to support its belief than that very conflict.

For The Herald has a very clear recollection of these facts: that the Associated Press did not take sides in that fight, for it takes sides in no fight; that it published the facts about the campaign, whether they helped McKinley or Bryan; and that during the heat of that fight each side was charging the Associated Press with helping the other side. And if there is any better evidence of neutrality than that, we don't know what it is.

Now comes a "puncture-proof" pneumatic tire named the Lee. It remains to be seen whether the designation has any political significance.

RESISTING PETTY IMPOSITIONS.

There is nothing that is harder for the average man to do than to stand up for his rights in small things wherein he knows that he is being "worked."

He knows that it is the sensible thing and the brave thing to resist imposition no matter how small the amount involved; but it takes more courage than most of us possess.

We knew a man who was lavishly supplied with wealth, who thought nothing of the cost when his own pleasure and comfort or the pleasure and comfort of his friends were the ends in view, but who would fight to the last ditch against being "worked" for a penny. He would spend enough on a meal at a cafe to keep a family a month—but if a waiter made a mistake of a nickel against him he would raise the roof. And his was the right and sensible attitude—but one that few have courage to take.

There would be less petty grafting if more people had that kind of courage, but it is scarce.

The Herald has a letter from a local citizen that illuminates the point:

> Am I a fool or a wise man, a prodigal or a niggard? Like Hashimura Togo, I ask to know.
>
> There is nothing, secretly, that galls me more than to know that I have been "worked." There is nothing, on the other hand, that terrifies me more than to have people think I am cheap and parsimonious; and when I do stand up for my rights in small matters,—which is seldom—that's the way the people I row with always make me feel. And I hate a row, anyway.
>
> For instance, three time lately a concern that delivers parcels for other concerns has brought packages to my house, sent C. O. D., with the amount due an odd one. Each time the driver has lacked change, and there have been no pennies in the house. The first time I happened along when the dispute was in progress, and I quickly said "keep the change" and sent the man off satisfied. The next time it happened I wasn't there, but the man refused to leave the package unless he got his money—it wasn't because my credit is bad, by the way, because it isn't—so again he got away with the odd pennies. The third time it happened I told those at the house to refuse to stand for the graft, and they did. So the driver took away the package, which contained a perishable article.
>
> So I called up the concern and kicked. I was sharply told that we ought to have had change, and when I disputed that, I was told to tell my troubles to a policeman, and the 'phone was hung up on me. That made me mad. I went to one of the concerns that employ this outfit, and the head of it, rather to my embarrassment, insisted on going with me to headquarters, and we went.
>
> Well, I got results. Instructions were issued that change should be available. I performed a public service. But they made me feel that I was a microscopic-souled miser who had stirred up an awful row over a cent or two, and that I was an object of pity and contempt. I don't think I am up to doing it again; but if such things were done oftener there would be less petty grafting than there is.

True for you, sir! Such things should be done oftener, and if they were there would shortly be less occasion for doing them at all.

Most of us will have the respect for this man that we reserve for those with greater courage than we have.

The Kansas state college is teaching girls how to keep house on four dollars a week. And yet we have been maligning Kansas as a "bleeding" state!

No Grog

Editorial in the Chicago Tribune.

An American warship is a plant in which as high as $16,000,000 has been invested. Huge as may be its hulk as a ship, it is a small container for such value. It is a machine, powerful and sturdy in build, delicate in adjustment, open in times of peace to the dangers of shoal, breaker, iceberg and tempest.

It is a national asset which cannot be replaced in short time. If the nation easily could stand the monetary loss, it could not easily submit to the disarrangement of its navy program caused by the crippling or destruction of so valuable and tremendous a piece of property.

Secretary Daniels of the navy department has ordered that the "wine mess" of the officers of the navy be abolished and that the use of alcohol on any vessel, navy yard, or station be "strictly prohibited." However divided the nation may be upon the social or hygienic question of alcohol, there can be only one intelligent opinion as to this order. It is wise.

When ships were not complicated and delicate assemblages of machinery, grog was a part of the sailor's life. The crew was piped to this exhilarating pleasure whenever occasion warranted.

Men went into battle under the stimulus of "Dutch courage." They received their reward in this liquid form. Times have changed. Ship machinery now demands sober intelligence. No industrial establishment expecting efficiency would think of serving liquor. Railroads, industries and commerce have set up bars against the man who drinks. It's not a question of morals. It is a question of efficiency.

The sociable creature with even a moderate quantity of alcohol in his system cannot be expected to perform the efficient service of a man in his condition of intelligence. Sailors are always either on duty or at the call of it.

The Tribune has opposed the repeal of the canteen in the army. That is another matter. Soldiers are footloose. If they will, they may drink. They are not in charge of machinery which a moment's lapse from close attention may wreck. The canteen was a sane substitute for the wretched saloon of a military outpost. It is a different matter in the navy.

The Daniels prohibition is wise.

Scandinavian Revolt.

Atlanta Journal: The fever of political unrest with which nearly all Europe is now disturbed has reached a particularly acute stage in the Scandinavian peninsula. Norway and Sweden, dispatches relate, are tense with expectancy and one observer of the situation declares that the abdication of the kings of both countries in the near future would not be surprising.

In Sweden the differences between King Gustaf and the people center in a question of army increases. Great crowds of peasants have swarmed before the royal palace at Stockholm and protested against new war taxes and lengthened military service. It seems that the king has undertaken to put these measures into effect without the counsel or consent of the ministry representing the majority in the parliament. The ministry has accordingly resigned, Parliament will soon be dissolved, and an election will ensue, the main issue of which will be royal encroachment on constitutional rights.

The Literary Digest notes in an interesting review that while the people of Sweden are "trembling in the fear of being trampled upon, like Finland, by the remoseless heel of Russia, or threatened on their coast by the navy of Germany, they are angry with the king because he has attempted to enforce his own will without consulting either his ministry or his people."

The king has been actuated entirely, it appears, by an earnest desire to strengthen his country against possible Russian aggressions. During the last few years Russia has been making extraordinary preparations in Finland; she has established numerous barracks and supply depots, has altered the gauge of Finnish railroads to accommodate Russian trains, and has gradually assembled there an army of 50,000 men. The only explanation for this unusual activity is a design on Russia's part to extend her influence and territory still further.

Beginning a New Pension Roll.

New York World: In the natural order of things the pension roll diminishes rapidly through the deaths of veterans. It is forty-nine years since the Civil war was brought to a close. Over 40,000 names were dropped last year, carrying with them a reduction of $11,000,000 in costs for pensions next year.

But so far as congress can prevent it, the country need expect little relief. Aside from the private pension bills which every member regards as his personal privilege, the house has just passed a new bill granting pensions to widows and minor children of all officers and men who served in the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and the Boxer uprising. There are the usual conditions as to marriage before the passage of the bill and limited incomes.

This is the familiar practice of congress. It always begins by placing restrictions upon pensions. But no one need be fooled by the trick in the present case. In a few years the restrictions will be removed on Spanish war pensions as they have been on other pensions and the doors of the treasury will be thrown wide open to all. It's an old story. Politics and pensions go together.

Catholic Patience.

Zephine Humphrey in the Atlantic: Catholic patience is one of the firmest and most magnificent developments of the human race. It is cosmic—that bottomless word has to be used again to describe it; it has caught the spirit of time and creation and eternity. Nothing ever dismays or shocks it—no raging of the heathen, no dissension or catastrophe, no injury or insult. It is not tolerant, for it holds that truth must be absolute, one truth for all humanity; but it is full of forbearance and pity, ready to make allowances, to wait, to turn back, to begin all over again. There is no coldness about it; instead, there is a passion. "The passion of patience"—somewhere or other that phrase has lately crept into religious discussion, and it admirably describes the marvelous temper of the Catholic church. Caring so mightily that he would die for his faith and would suffer anything to promote its cause, a good Catholic yet remains undisturbed in the face of calumny.

An Evil Growth

Editorial in the New York World.

No doubt congress is in ill-humor, but its manners are worse than its temper. Such a debate as that in the house on Saturday on the subject of the personal expenditures of the president and Secretary Bryan would hardly be tolerated in a doggery. In the senate it has been deemed necessary to introduce a new rule prohibiting offensive references to the president.

Congressional irritation proceeds from various causes, but it finds expression chiefly because the administration has blocked a ship subsidy at Panama and refused to yield to the demands of the jingoes in Mexico. On these subjects members whose opinions are in conflict with governmental policy appear to talk without restraint.

If they are shown to be in error, as Senator O'Gorman was in the case of Prof. Emory R. Johnson, who was falsely accused of receiving money from the Carnegie Peace Foundation, there is no apology; there is a further insinuation. If they are called to account, as in the case of Senator Wesley Jones, who assailed the honor of the president, there is a disavowal of intent and a repetition of the offense.

In the house on Saturday the vituperative wit of members was given such free play that one man wanted to know who paid the president's grocery bills; another suggested that Mr. Bryan's coach should bear the British coat-of-arms, and another lightly referred to "the president's recent sellout to the English government." These things sound the depths of legislative ruffianism. They are a new and an evil growth.

Confronted by such a campaign of slander, it would appear that every self-respecting member of congress should enter a solemn protest. If the legislative branch of government is to be mobbed by William R. Hearst, Henry Lane Wilson, Dean C. Worcester, Victoriano Huerta, Gov. Colquitt and Maj. Gillette, there ought to be at least one solemn and memorable protest in each branch.

Those who want war ought to be made to say war. Those who want subsidies ought to be made to say subsidies. Those Democrats who expect a continuation of Mark Hannaism under a Democratic administration ought to be made to avow their true leadership. The advancement of such causes by defaming the president is intolerable.

Women for Good Government

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin: The Women's Ten Commandments to the aldermanic candidates of Chicago are enumerated as follows—

Thou shalt not be the tool of any special interest.

Thou shalt not forget the death rate of babies in thy ward.

Neither shalt thou forget the morals of the young; nor shalt thou bend thine ear to small theaters that fight ordinances for ventilation and for clean pictures.

When special and powerful interests ask for favors, the public policy shall be near to thee.

Thou shalt not have an office connected with a saloon.

Thou shalt have a keen sense of smell to detect nuisances and garbage evils; garbage dumps shalt thou abolish.

Thou shalt not hearken to commercialized vice.

Good men equally with good women, everywhere else as in Chicago, are interested in the observane of every one of these commandments — quite as much so as the women of Chicago. The fact is, the interests of good citizens are identical. If the women voters help the men voters in getting good government for Chicago, the result will tend to make our communities yearning for better government more alert than they are now to the advantage of according votes to women.

Pension Payments Decline.

New York Times: For the second time since the end of the Civil war, and for the first time since 1875, this year records a slight receding of the huge wave of expenditures for war pensions. President Garfield predicted in the late '70s that by the dawn of the twentieth century the amount spent in pensions would be little or nothing, because the pensioners would be dead. Yet in 1910 the budget of $160,000,000 was almost precisely ten times that called for in 1866, which, supposedly, covered all cases of wounds and disability at the close of the Civil war. Fifty years later the volume of pension expenditures was still rising. This year the falling off of $21,150,000 in the bill reported on April 1, embodying an appropriation of $169,150,000, is due to the deaths of 57,459 veterans.

Has the wave merely retired into the sea to gather strength? With the dispatch to the Times recording the cutting of the pension bill came the announcement that the house has passed the "entering wedge" bill of the Spanish war veterans, which may begin a new series of pension extravagances. We shall have next a dollar-a-day pension for the heroes of the Spanish war. The present bill pensions widows and childrens of the Spanish war veterans, regardless of whether their widowhood or dependence is due to the service to his country of the husband or father. Existing law covers the cases of dependence on account of disabilities incurred during service.

President Wilson, whose attitude toward the "entering wedge" bill and all pension legislation is yet to be determined, will note that this bill computes the length of service "from date of enlistment to date of discharge, including all furloughs." The bill applies therefore, not only to widows of men who actually served ninety days or more, but to men who on account of absence on furloughs never saw field service, never smelled gunpowder, never incurred any disability whatever.

This is in accordance with the policy of congress in dealing with veteran soldiers and sailors and their dependents.

Advertising vs. Praying.

Little Rock Gazette: Here is one deserving of notice: The small daughter of a Little Rock family had been praying each evening at bedtime for a baby sister. The other morning her mother, reading the paper, exclaimed: "I see Mrs. Smith has a little daughter."

"How do you know that?" asked the child.

"I read it in the paper."

"Read it to me."

The mother read: "Born—on March —, to Mr. and Mrs. —— Smith, a daughter."

The child thought a moment, then said: "I know what I am going to do. I am going to quit praying and begin advertising."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although a learned, serious-minded man and an authority on international law, Robert Lansing, the new counselor for the department of state, amuses himself at odd moments by drawing funny pictures of people and things about him. This little habit once saved the government of the United States a great deal of money—but we'll come to that presently.

Lansing does not draw pictures because of any frivolous streak in his makeup, for he is almost as ponderous a person as his predecessor in the important counsel's place, John Bassett Moore. He does his caricaturing almost absent-mindedly, much as a person will sit and abstractedly write a phone number on a pad over and over again while waiting for the operator to get his party. Lansing will be talking to a man on some weighty topic across a flat-top desk, let us say, and as they talk he begins to draw a picture of the other man. He scarcely knows he is doing it, for all the time he is thinking about the grave matter they're discussing. Yet when the picture is done, it is a first-class likeness, with a humorous emphasis on the man's more striking facial characteristics.

* * *

As an indication that Lansing draws pictures more or less subconsciously we may cite the fact that he does his drawing with his left hand, though in all other things he is right handed. If he were going to write a letter, spank a child, lift a coal bucket, stroke a cat, or peel a boiled potato, he would not think of using his left hand. You see, he has a sort of dual personality, and does not let his right hand know of all the mischief his left hand gets into.

Some day, perhaps, Lansing will sketch off a comical portrait of William Jennings Bryan, his chief, and it will not be lese majeste at all, because he will not realize what he is doing.

Here is how his drawing habit once saved several thousand dollars to the taxpayers of the United States. A great many years ago Great Britain presented a claim for $500,000 damages done to their Bering sea fishers. The state department courteously O. K'd the claim, but congress thought it was too much money—much too much. So they wouldn't let the item stay in the appropriation bill. That led to the appointment of arbitrators by the two countries, and Lansing went along as counsel for the United States.

Inasmuch as the state department had once agreed to the payment of $500,000, Great Britain stuck out for that amount, and it was extremely difficult to drive any better bargain with them. One of the witnesses, who testified at the arbitration hearing was an old man named Munsey who was the proprietor of a sealing vessel. He told about what a large investment he had in his boat, how finely it was equipped, and what a great loss he had suffered due to—due to whatever it was that had caused his great loss.

As the man talked, Lansing unconsciously or subconsciously began to draw, first a picture of him, and then a cross-sectional view of his boat. The boat was a magnificent affair as Lansing drew it, much more elaborate than the Lusitania of the present day. It had Turkish baths, a swimming pool, billiard parlors, handsome salons in which beautifully gowned women promenaded while their husbands were out sealing, private dining rooms—oh, everything to make life aboard one sybaritic dream.

When the witness had finished, one of the arbitrators picked up Lansing's drawing and passed it about that all might see. Even the British arbitrators laughed heartily over the picture and agreed that it was indeed some boat. And when you can get a British arbitrator to laugh out loud, you have made a whole lot of progress. They proceeded then on a new basis, and in a little while agreed on a settlement many thousands less than had been demanded. Lansing's picture did the trick.

Lansing was counsel in the arbitration at The Hague in 1909 of the North Atlantic fisheries case, and during the progress of the arbitration, he amused himself by drawing caricatures of the judges. One of his associates was so amused over these that he insisted on showing the pictures to the victims. Lansing agreed that he might show the pictures provided that he carefully omit in each case the one of the man to whom he was showing them. In that way, each judge was made happy in the belief that all had been cartooned except himself.

Counselor Lansing is a calm, courteous, methodical person with a disposition to give infinite care even to the details. His occupation has been making himself an authority on international law, and for purposes of recreation he reads and becomes more and more of an authority on the history, habits, traits and sterling qualities of the American Indian.

Two of the most inseparable "buddies" in congress are Representatives Dickinson and Rucker of Missouri. Though both are from the Show-me state, both were born in Virginia, suh, which seems to be the basic excuse for their strong friendship. They room together in Washington, wear each other's clothes and are as thick as a Welsh rabbit.

Standing By the President

The State Press of All Parties Backs Wilson.

The Nation's Honor at All Costs.

Grand Rapids Independent: The gist of the mighty struggle now going on between the president and congress—or a large proportion of congress—is just this: It is no question of partisan politics, but simply one of national honor. The national faith has been pledged—and as the Lord liveth he is no good American who does not back Woodrow Wilson in his fight to keep the national faith, no matter what may be the cost.

Because He Is Right.

Greenbush Tribune: President Wilson seems in a fair way to win his fight for the repeal of the free tolls provision of the Panama canal law. The president has a way of getting what he goes after.

A Great Personality.

Albert Lea Standard: An Eastern exchange well illustrates and analyzes not only the dispositions of national characters like Roosevelt, McKinley and Taft, but that of Wilson, the leading phases being striking. It is seen now how clearly there is the need of a clearing down or leveling up and what striking effects this would show. Take the change in the whining disposition which existed towards us during most of the Roosevelt and Taft times. It has almost wholly changed and reflects Mr. Wilson's good temper. The disposition which is good-natured and gracious toward President Wilson has even remarkably improved and is putting us on a footing most friendly with all countries of the world.

Conduct is contagious. A president in the chair, having an aggressive, sensitive, too-assertive and provocative disposition is likely to allow it too free run in the family of nations. Like incites like and it is indeed fortunate that we have a temperate, forebearing and patient man like Wilson in the White House who can be depended upon to uphold American conscience, maintain American justice and protect the American sense of right and honor.

Ashamed of the Law But Proud of the President.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: This country agreed to open the Panama canal to all on equal terms. Then the Republican congress cutely juggled words and passed a law to pass our own coastwise ships through the canal free. Then President Wilson said that was sharp practice, which the country ought to be ashamed of. Now the congress is going to repeal the law. This is fine. The country is ashamed of the law and will approve its repeal.

The Right Kind of Boss.

Aurora News: President Wilson is being called a boss by those who are catering to the jackpot element in politics and it is admitted that he is some boss. But it makes a heap of difference if the boss is on the job in the interests of the people or if he is helping to pull the wool over the people's eyes, like some of the bosses we have been having in the past.

And Had Its Effect.

Red Wing Eagle: President Wilson recently delivered a message to congress which was a model worthy of emulation in more ways than one. Among the praiseworthy features should be included its brevity and pointedness. The president delivered it in person and it took him just four minutes to do so. It urged the repeal of the law which conflicts with our treaty with Great Britain in regard to discriminatory canal tolls at Panama in favor of American ship owners.

Vindicating the Wilson Policy

New York World: Gen. Villa is evidently not alone a military chieftain of high capacity. He discloses qualities of statesmanship when he says, as quoted:

> This revolution must be the last in Mexico, and it must be thorough and conclusive. This we must accomplish by force of arms, so that in the end there will be no questioning of our orders or laws.

The revolution must be thorough and conclusive or it cannot be the last. It must avoid compromises to be thorough and conclusive. "Madero compromised, and his government failed through the treachery of those who did not appreciate him or took advantage of his clemency."

This is true, and the lesson is not to be lost.

President Diaz gave up too soon for the Madero revolution on behalf of the landless classes to establish its finality in the minds of the dominant class. Huerta, by hanging on in his dull and desperate way, has unwittingly performed a service of value to his country in forcing this refighting of the Madero case into a fight to a finish.

Villa evidently knows his country and its great present need. He is teaching it that war is war. He is making it known there with a force long to be remembered that usurpations mean war, and that the places of elected presidents are not to be gained by stabbing them in the back, without war and war to a finish.

This is the way and the only way in which the self-governing peoples of the northern nations have achieved constitutional government. It is the only way in which such government can be established and rooted in Mexico.

Armed intervention in Mexico could at best only have delayed this end. Recognition of Huerta could only have helped to destroy it. The Wilson policy is finding its vindication in the current course of events.

Did You Ever?

Margaret Lynn in the Atlantic: Did you ever get a note in school?—from a boy?—from a big boy? I suppose there are other experiences in life that are comparable to this, but certainly there is nothing else at that time which combines the same elements,—dramatic, embarrassing, gratifying, triumphant, delicious, queer. Not that there was anything in such a note—the outside, as the missive first came to view, was much more thrilling than the contents. But the very sight of it—pencilled on rough bluish scratch-paper, and ragged-edged and rumpled—as it was flipped across an intervening space, or offered slyly behind a geography, or dropped on the desk as the writer went up to the A spelling class, gave a sensation not to be duplicated in any later years. The contents, I regret to say, were insignificant, negligible. It is to be hoped that the big boys learned more about the art in time. But the mere fact of getting such a note, of having it written to yourself, of forecasting the contents, of having the other girls see you get it, all that in addition to the exciting fear that the teacher might see—once she made a girl read a note out loud!—filled the moment with peculiar emotion.

The Old, Old Story.

C. K. Mead in Lippincott's: Love bravely marched through the front door of Mr. and Mrs. Marriedon Dream's home, seated himself in the most comfortable chair to be found and dreamed there contentedly until he grew hungry. Making sure that no one was watching him, he sneaked into the kitchen and looked around for something to eat. Love is continually growing hungry. In the cupboard he found part of a loaf of dry bread, which he irritably pushed aside, and a bone with a small piece of meat adhering to it, which he irritably gobbled. Having whetted his appetite, he tiptoed through the house to the bedroom in which was located the closet containing Mr. and Mrs. Dream's clothes. Love likes to be well supplied with clothes, especially the expensive kind. He opened the door of the closet and sadly noticed the lack of both quantity and quality in the garments that hung there. With a sigh he closed the door. He next turned his attention to the sagging bed standing near by and fished the rusty black family pocketbook from beneath the mattress. Love likes money. He opened the pocketbook and carefully examined a door key, a nickel, three pennies and a 5-cent handkerchief. Sniffling disgustedly, he replaced the pocketbook and retreated to the sitting room. From behind the torn curtain of a window looking into the street he intently eyed the passing show. Love is always peeking to see what other people have and do. Mrs. S. in a new suit, Mrs. A. in a new suit, Mr. and Mrs. C. in their new automobile, and many others in new suits and new automobiles, passed before his vision. Love bowed his head and wept; he could stand life in the Marriedon Dreams' home no longer, so he opened the window, climbed through and silently flitted away.

WOMEN AND ECONOMY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Ah, what a fort Sam and J. J. are building; and, Oh, my, for walls! They are broad enough and high enough all right, but they are not deep enough. It is quicksand underneath and they have used rottenstone in the walls and on these walls they figure to build the castle of economy. Hupp; yes, you think they stand the storm. All right, let us try.

Hark ye, men! Stop, look and listen! I and 99 per cent of all the women will now lay an unpadded yoke on your shoulders and make you pull this load. It may gall your tender hide, but the more you twist the better you will pull. Look out, do not stop and buck; remember the goad-stick is at our reach. This might be taken as a joke, but it has its meaning. The question of economy is a deep one, and the class and society question is at the bottom of it all. Space will not allow me to go farther this time, but will say, let us men put the blame on ourselves, as the woman's weakness is made weaker through men. As a rule before marriage a young man overestimates his earnings to her, perhaps tells her he has so much money, and then after she becomes his wife she finds out different. She does not cry her eyes out altogether because she can't get what she wants, but because she has lost confidence in the man she loved she has found out he is a hypocrite and a liar and her fond hopes have vanished. Do you not think that this is so? Yours truly,

C. N. O. S. REVES.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your issue of the 6th inst. in the Open Court column, I read with interest a well written article by "One Who Loves Girls," Cloquet, Minn., regarding "The Traffic," the play recently produced in your city.

At first I read with general approval, but after a more careful consideration and having witnessed the play, I am compelled to register a very opposite opinion.

I, too, love girls. To me they represent the most beautiful of all God's creation, and when I contemplate to what sordid depths of depravity so many of them fall, I abhor and curse the agency of their falling.

If then we are to have publicly staged any portrayal which discloses only, or chiefly, the more alluring and attractive features of this most debasing traffic, if we are to have a play presenting in any measure the apparent ease and luxury of these poor ignorant and unfortunate girls, if by any word, act or suggestion any inducement is offered other girls to "try it out," then, indeed, should we express our disapproval in no uncertain terms.

But "The Traffic" does none of these. It presents the deep persistent struggle of an underpaid factory girl to help her young sister and maintain her own virtue. She is threatened, cajoled and beaten, and in her sturdy defense shows up, in some measure, the extents of the hellish wiles to which we men—brave, chivalrous men(?) that we are—will stoop to gain our desires.

It is an awful indictment of us men, morally depraved cowards, try to excuse our own degradation by placing the blame upon the weaker sex.

I believe the reasons given in the company's advertising for a girl's going wrong are true, but there are other ones and the show, itself, presents one of them.

Girls go wrong because they are trustful and men abuse that trust; they go wrong—thousands of them—because of insufficient wages to maintain a bare existence; they go wrong because, having once, perhaps, been imprudent, unfortunate or otherwise, we self-righteous hypocrites wrap our robes about us more closely and cry "Unclean! Unclean!"

I maintain that few intelligent girls go wrong from choice. The writer from Cloquet speaks of the need of domestic servants and indicates that all fallen women could find such honest employment if they would. If this man has a home and wife and daughters I would ask him if he, himself, would take into his home such an unfortunate one and treat her with any consideration? Does he have any acquaintances whom he knows would do so? Let him provide such service and the transportation tickets and I will undertake to provide the girls.

Perhaps he means that girls could, if they would, go to the kitchen and so avoid the red-light district. I agree that many could (though God knows the humiliations that are heaped upon domestics generally). But how about the underpaid, underfed factory or shop girl knowing nothing of household work? How about those unfortunates? Or those betrayed by the perfidy of man?

It is not the girls upon whom we must lay the blame for the awful condition of social vice in our cities. We men are to blame.

"The Traffic" played to a big house in this city, and if the able presentation here did not bring the blush of shame to every man present, God alone knows what could.

We need more of such presentation of facts. We need less criticism of the girls. Let us say something concerning those cowardly, unprincipled male bipeds claiming, but undeserving, the appellation man. Respectfully,

S. A. SHERMAN.

ANOTHER PROBLEM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Having seen some problems in the Open Court column, I would like you to put this one in.

A fellow went into a store and said unto the storekeeper, "If you will give me as much as I have in my pocket I will spend a dollar." The storekeeper did and he spent the dollar. Then he went to another store and said the same thing and spent another dollar. Then he went to another store and said the same thing and spent another dollar, but when he came out of this store he was broke. How much money did he have when he went into the first store? A. P.

BLAMES HOUSING CODE FOR SCARCITY OF HOMES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

That our city is facing a scarcity of available flats and renting houses can be no doubt. The demand for tenements is bound to increase in the same ratio as the increase of the population. These circumstances have before been adjusted by the constant erection of new buildings; but now we are up against the fact that new buildings are not going up to a degree sufficient to meet the demand. Did you ever stop to consider why not, now as before, improvements are made in proportion to the increase of the population? In spite of all assertions to the contrary, it is an indisputable fact that the new rules and regulations on housing conditions are responsible for it. We might just as well confess that we made a grave mistake when we established the housing code system. When we look at it in an impartial way it seems that we are deliberately endeavoring to discourage improvements. We have put the small tract holder entirely out of business as far as improvements concern, and a person holding a lot large enough to meet the requirements hesitates to build on account of the difficulties he has to contend to before he gets the necessary papers issued, as it will confuse an ordinary person before he gets that far.

Hardly any man feels disposed to put his life's earnings into improvements in which he is not allowed to consult his own fancy and judgment in the least. We believe in regulations, but it is indeed unwise to create so entangled and absurd rules that they in reality prove to serve only as molestation and embarrassment. Where there is a question of danger and safety, or where the rights of other people are involved a building ordinance is necessary, but it is foolish to make so much fuss about scattered constructions of small frame dwellings in the fields of which Duluth has so plenty.

There is no use to deny that the new housing code, with the way it is applied, has cut down improvements considerably, and you may ask almost any man who has a house under construction and he will tell you he is sorry he ever tackled it and will declare that if he ever gets out of it he will never get into mischief again.

A person making a home nowadays is looked upon as an offender; he is watched with vigilance and is liable to arrest without a moment's notice. Under these circumstances it is absurd to expect anything but a lack of renting houses in the near future.

There is another thing to this: the small property is the real taxpayer, and by putting obstacles in the way for improvement we lose many would-be taxpayers and the consequence is that taxes on already improved property will increase to such an extent that it is beyond the owner's ability to meet it.

How are we going to fill this bottomless pit where our taxes go if we do not take a broader view of things and give chances for improvements?

If we do not want to see our people without shelter, and already improved property confiscated, then it is time to free ourselves from this intricate code to which we are now fettered and which so systematically interrupts our progress. GUST MATTSON,

BRYAN FOR TOLLS REPEAL

Talk of Surrender to England Is "Appeal to Prejudice."

President's Right to Support By Congress in International Affairs.

Washington, April 13.—Secretary Bryan in a statement made public today lengthily reviews the Panama tolls question, and in the course of the statement declares that the repeal of the tolls exemption in the Panama canal act "cannot be construed to be a construction of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty" but is "simply a refusal on the part of the United States to raise that question in that way."

Mr. Bryan discusses various features of the subject—the limiting of debate in the house of representatives, the Baltimore platform, and the effect of repeal on the treaty.

"Appeal to Prejudice."

Claiming that the opponents of the repeal had seized upon the charge that the president was "surrendering to England," Mr. Bryan declared that the opposition to the repeal had attempted to appeal "to prejudice rather than to reason."

"What has Great Britain done," he asked, "to justify the accusation that she is trying to dictate to this country? She has simply called attention to the terms of the treaty, and asked for arbitration of the question of construction, in case this government differs from the British government in the construction to be placed upon the language. The very men who are so insistent upon construing the treaty to permit free tolls, delayed for months the ratification of the treaty with Great Britain because of their opposition to any arbitration of the subject? In other words they construed the treaty to permit discrimination, and then objected to allowing any international court to express an opinion on the subject. If, as a matter of fact, the treaty grants the rights which Great Britain claims, is it a 'surrender to Great Britain' for our nation to repeal a law that raised that question? The repeal of the law cannot be construed to be a construction of the treaty. It is simply a refusal on the part of the United States to raise that question in that way. In the controversy over the Welland canal, Canada withdrew a discrimination which she had made in favor of Canadian ships, 'in order that no cause for friction with the United States authorities in regard to the matter should exist.'

Voted Down in Senate.

"Why cannot the United States withdraw a discrimination for the same reason? When the treaty involved was before the senate for ratification an attempt was made to so amend it as to permit a discrimination in favor of coastwise vessels, but it was voted down by a decided majority. With this record to support them, is it strange that foreign nations question our right to make an exception in favor of American vessels?"

Discussing the president's right to expect the support of congress when he deals with international questions, Secretary Bryan adds:

"The chief executive speaks for the nation in international affairs, and it is only fair to assume that he speaks advisedly when he declares that intercourse with other nations is seriously embarrassed by the free tolls cases which he seeks to repeal."

The Baltimore Platform.

Mr. Bryan was a member of the resolutions committee of the Baltimore convention and his observations on the platform constitute his first utterance on the subject. Mr. Bryan argues that there are two planks in the Baltimore platform, pertinent to the discussion, one which declares the belief of the Democratic party in the encouragement of the merchant marine but states that it should be developed "without imposing additional burdens upon the people and without bounty or subsidies from the public treasuries," and a second plank declaring in favor of the exemption from tolls of American coastwise ships. Mr. Bryan declares that the opposition to bounties is a doctrine "for which the Democratic party has stood from time immemorial." He refers to the exemption plank as a "little plank" and to the pronouncement on bounties and subsidies as the "larger plank" and says:

Only Two Questions.

Considering the repeal measure upon its merits, Mr. Bryan said there were just two questions to be decided:

"First, is it desirable for the Democratic party to abandon its historic position and become the advocate of subsidies and bounties? And, second, if it is desirable, what is the Democratic party willing to sacrifice in international prestige and world influence in order to secure the advantage which these subsidies promise to a few people."

NO EASTER BONNET; COMMITS SUICIDE.

New York, April 13.—Because her savings for an Easter bonnet were lost or stolen, Sarah Lester, a dressmaker, aged 21, jumped to her death yesterday from a window of her third floor room in Harlem into a throng of paraders on the sidewalk. Her brother saved her life on Easter eve when she had tried to inhale gas.

AVIATOR LOOPS THE LOOP EIGHT TIMES.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 13.—De Lloyd Thompson looped the loop eight times here Sunday, breaking Lincoln Beachy's American record at San Francisco of seven loops. Thompson was less than 2,000 feet above the ground when he started his downward flight, and made his last loop when within 100 feet of the earth.

TRADE WELL MAINTAINED

Iron and Steel Plants Operating on 68 Per Cent Basis.

Rush Looked for If Railroads Are Granted Rate Increase.

Operations of the iron and steel plants throughout the country are estimated to be on a basis of 68 per cent this week.

Manufacturers say that the call for general steel products is being well maintained, but that the effect of the railroads holding off in the placing of orders for rails and rolling stock equipment, is being severely felt. They predict a rush of business in the event of the roads being granted an increase in their freight rates by the interstate commerce commission. Orders placed by the railroads last week included one for 2,000 refrigerator cars by the Great Northern, and the Chicago & Northwestern bought 2,000 steel freight cars. It is expected that the United States Steel corporation will place orders this week for 3,500 steel cars. As showing that the railroads have not actually starved the steel trade this year, even though they have held their buying down to cover bare requirements, it is estimated that 600,000 tons of rails and 32,000 cars have been bought by them since Jan. 1.

Statistics compiled by the Iron Age show that the furnaces made an impressive record in their March coke iron outputs. There was produced in the month 2,347,867 tons against an aggregate of 1,888,670 tons in February. The daily capacity of the 227 furnaces in blast on April 1 was 75,911 tons against 71,399 tons a day for 218 furnaces on March 1.

The Carnegie Steel company is operating ten of the twelve open-hearth furnaces at its Farrell works this week, as compared with nine last week. All the other departments at the plant are working at normal capacity. The new battery of coke ovens erected for the Republic Steel & Iron company at Langsingville, Ohio, is expected to go into operation within two weeks.

BURGLARS ENTER M'ALPINE HOME

Widow Asks Police for Revolver Found When Husband Was Shot.

Sometime Saturday night burglars broke into the basement of the residence of Mrs. Sarah McAlpine, 1610 East First street, and stole three bottles of wine and a coat that had belonged to the late John McAlpine.

Mrs. McAlpine reported the burglary to the police early yesterday morning and Detective Irvine and Sergt. Roberg were detailed to investigate the case. They found that the burglars had gained entrance by prying open the rear basement door after picking the lock. The coat and the bottles of wine are the only articles missing.

Following her report to the police, Mrs. McAlpine made a request for the revolver, with which her husband was believed to have been shot and which is now in the possession of the authorities. She said she needs the gun for protection in the home. The police have two revolvers obtained at the time Mr. McAlpine was found dead in the basement of his home, one which was found underneath the cellar steps and the other in an upstairs room. They both belonged to Mr. McAlpine.

THREE FIRES DO BUT SMALL DAMAGE

Cutler Warehouse, Apartment House and Residence Scorched.

Two fires late Saturday night and another this morning have entailed a total loss of about $80.

At 10 o'clock Saturday evening the department received a call from the D. G. Cutler company's warehouse at the foot of Eighth avenue west, where a window casing had caught fire from an engine spark. The firemen extinguished the flames before any serious damage was done. The loss is estimated at $5.

About thirty minutes later the bed clothes in the apartment of J. R. Joyce, 12 First avenue west, caught fire and caused a damage of about $50. A week ago an early morning fire caused about $5,000 damage to the two saloons downstairs and the front part of the building on the upper floor. The bed clothes caught fire from a match that had been thrown carelessly aside.

At 8:25 o'clock this morning sparks from the chimney of the residence of Joe Popkin at 121 East Third street started a blaze on the roof. The damage is about $25.

I. W. W. WOMAN ASSAILS PARKHURST.

New York, April 13.—Jane Est, a young woman sympathizer with the doctrines of the Industrial Workers of the World, at the Easter morning service of the Madison Square Presbyterian church interrupted the service and was arrested.

Rising from a seat she had preempted in the pew of a parishioner in the gallery just over the chancel, Miss Est started an attack on Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, the pastor. The organist, looking over his shoulder and catching sight of the speaker, drowned her voice with the sonorous vibrations of the big pipes.

Miss Est was taken to a police station, where she was charged with disturbing public worship.

LAST RITES FOR OLD RESIDENT.

The funeral of Andrew Furni, 55 years old, one of the pioneer residents of Duluth, who died Saturday morning at St. Luke's hospital, following a long illness, was held at 10 o'clock this morning from St. Peter's Catholic church, Eleventh avenue west and Superior street. Interment was at Calvary.

Mr. Furni came to Duluth thirty years ago and had made his residence here ever since. He lived with his family at 607 East First street. Besides a widow, he is survived by two sons and four daughters. They are: Mrs. G. C. Ryan, Duluth; Mrs. G. W. Smith, Brainerd; Virginia and Louise Furni, Duluth, and Edward and Joseph Furni, Duluth.

CONFERENCE OF BANKERS

Will Discuss Plans for Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank.

Representatives of Four Duluth Institutions Will Attend.

David Williams, vice president of the First National bank; W. G. Hegardt, vice president of the American Exchange National; J. W. Lyder, cashier of the Northern National, and H. S. Macgregor, cashier of the City National bank, will attend a meeting of the bankers of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth to be held at St. Paul tomorrow.

Questions in connection with the establishing of the Federal reserve bank at Minneapolis will be discussed, and two representatives of the national banks in the three cities will be selected to serve on its board of directors. Three members will be named later by the Federal authorities.

According to the provisions of the law, the Minnesota banks must make their contributions towards the capital stock of the Federal reserve bank within thirty days. Blanks for that purpose were received here on Saturday from the Federal reserve board.

In a communication sent out to bankers of the country by members of the reserve bank organization, it is pointed out that under the new system a financial crisis such as took place in 1907 is most unlikely to occur again. Under the present system more than $300,000,000 of reserves from the smaller banks in the country is usually on deposit in only four banks in four centers. These funds are usually put out in call loans, and in times of stress the small banks have sometimes found themselves unable to get their reserve funds from those cities. It is claimed that with regional reserve banks of nearly equal capitalization scattered through the country, the danger of such a concentration of reserves in the future is provided against.

Start a health account in the bank of life for your baby

THE best heritage that you can give your baby is health, and health depends mainly on his food. Nurse your baby if you can, but when mother's milk fails, do not use cow's milk. It is almost impossible to get it pure, and it is always hard for babies to digest. Cow's milk was made for strong little calves, not for babies' tender little stomachs. Use the Food that for three generations has been best for babies—

Nestlé's Food

Nestlé's is pure and safe. It has just the nourishing elements necessary to build firm flesh, bone and muscle. Pure cow's milk is the basis of Nestlé's Food—milk from rigidly tested cows in sanitary dairies. In Nestlé's the curd of the milk is rendered soft and fleecy as in mother's milk, and to it are added the food elements that cow's milk does not contain, and that baby needs, until it is a perfect Food for your little baby. Just add cold water and boil.

Send the coupon today for a free sample box of Nestlé's and see for yourself how perfectly Nestlé's Food agrees with your baby. TWO LODGERS MEET DEATH

James Cavanaugh and John Burns Succumb to Heart Failure.

Latter Said to Have Been Fireman at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Heart disease caused the death of two men in lodging houses yesterday.

James Cavanaugh, 43 years old, was stricken as he stood in the washroom of the Nicollet hotel, 521 West Michigan street, late in the afternoon, and John Burns, 50 years old, died as he was about to be removed in an ambulance from the Denver lodging house, 520½ West First street. He had been ill all day and was stricken about 9 o'clock last night.

Coroner McComb was notified immediately after the death of Cavanaugh and he ordered the body removed to the Stewart undertaking rooms, where an autopsy will be held this afternoon. The body of Burns was removed to the Crawford undertaking rooms and Coroner McComb will hold another autopsy there today.

Cavanaugh was formerly a bartender and had been living at the Nicollet hotel for some time. He leaves a mother, Mrs. Ellen Cavanaugh, 3918 Grand avenue, and a brother, William Cavanaugh, 1517 South street. The funeral arrangements will be made this afternoon.

Burns was this morning identified by a former fellow workman, who called at the Crawford undertaking rooms. He had been known as John Howard, the latter said, but his real name was John Burns. He told an attendant at the undertaking rooms that Burns came to Duluth last fall from Grand Rapids, Mich., where his parents now reside and that he changed his name to hide his identity. Burns, he said, was a city fireman at Grand Rapids at one time. Efforts are being made to get into communication with Burns' parents before the funeral arrangements are made.

HOPE TO REVIVE NEW HAVEN ROAD

Elliott and Directors Issue Report to the Stockholders.

New York, April 13.—Hope that "within a reasonable time" the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company can be restored to its former prosperity is held out to the stockholders, who are to hold a special meeting April 21, in a detailed report by Chairman Howard Elliott and the board of directors.

The report explains that the acceptance by the directors of the government's right to insist upon a dissolution was due to their belief that, because of "the present discouraging financial conditions," a battle in the courts might have resulted in a receivership.

Mr. Elliott, after explaining that all improvements except those absolutely necessary for safety have been stopped, and that service is being curtailed, states that the value of the properties, including subsidiaries, at present valuation is in round figures more than $132,000,000.

The report urges the stockholders to approve the dissolution arrangement made with the attorney general, so as to make it easier for the company to take care of maturing obligations and to provide additional capital for needed improvements.

The security holders of the New Haven and its associated companies are declared to number at least 60,000 and the employes about 90,000; with those dependent upon them this is said to represent more than 600,000 persons, or about one-eleventh of the population of New England.

SUFFRAGETTES AT EASTER SERVICE

Chant Prayer for Mrs. Pankhurst in London Church.

Lowestoft, Eng., April 13.—A large number of suffragists disturbed the service at St. John's church while the bishop of Norwich was officiating. Several days ago the bishop was visited by a delegation of suffragettes, and after a long parley consented to see two of them. They protested to him against the forcible feeding of women, and he promised to consider their protest.

Yesterday they kept up a continuous chanting of "God Save Emmeline Pankhurst." Several of them were ejected and others ran to the foot of the pulpit and exclaimed, "My lord bishop, will you protest against the torturing of women?"

These disturbers were also ejected.

Two Hunger Strikers Freed.

London, April 13.—The suffragettes, Dorothy Evans and Madge Muir, officials of the Belfast branch of the Women's Social and Political union, held on the charge of having in their possession explosives for the purpose of committing a felony, were liberated from prison yesterday after a hunger strike.

SANTO DOMINGO REBELS SURRENDER.

Santo Domingo, April 13.—The rebel forces who have occupied the citadel at Santiago have surrendered to the government. President Bordas at the head of 1,500 men, is now on his way to Santiago, having taken the field against the insurrectionists a week ago.

The government is now virtually in full control of the republic and peace prevails except in the northeast portion.

FEDERAL BOARD AVERTS STRIKE.

Washington, April 13.—Through the good offices of the Federal board of mediation and conciliation, a settlement has been effected of differences between the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and about 2,000 of its telegraphers and telephone operators. Negotiations extended over several months, and at one time a strike was threatened. The settlement provides for a direct increase in wages of about $75,000 a year, or an approximate increase of about 6 per cent. The new schedule is to go into effect May 1. Vacation privileges have been extended to about 1,200 men. The overtime rate in line offices was increased from 30 cents to 35 cents an hour, and in relay offices from 40 cents to 45 cents an hour.

BETTER ROADS BEING SOUGHT

Cuyuna Good Roads Association Going Ahead With Its Plans.

Bridge Across Mississippi and Other Conveniences Desired.

Crosby, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cuyuna Good Roads association is perfecting plans for a bigger, better and busier community. A permanent organization will be perfected at the next meeting and the constitution and by-laws adopted by the temporary organization will be ratified.

The constitution provides for a directorate, one member each being elected by the townships and villages located within this section of the Cuyuna range. These directors in turn elect the president, secretary and other officers of the permanent organization.

The villages which will be represented on the board of directors are: Crosby, Cuyuna, Deerwood, Ironton, Manganese and Riverton; the townships: Deerwood, Klondike, Lake Edward, Wolford, Rabbit Lake, Dean Lake, Perry Lake, Mission, Pelican, Watertown, Fairfield, Ross Lake, Little Pine, Emily and the unorganized township known as 135-27.

The committee appointed, including State Highway Commissioner Garrison of Brainerd, also an engineer to secure plans for the best location of a ferry acros the Mississippi river, will report at the next meeting.

Ferry Solves Problem.

The ferry was the solution of the problem of crossing the river and making the territory west of the river more accessible and offering better markets for the farmers with the range towns. At the last meeting of the association it was stated that a bridge would cost $10,000 while a ferry would be but a nominal expense for building, and the upkeep could be met by a small toll.

The location of the ferry will be in the vicinity of Bear lake, about six miles west of Crosby. Farmers are already taking keen interest in the project and with the aid of both the business men of the surrounding towns and the farmers, it is expected that there will be much activity and development in farm lands in this section of Crow Wing county.

BELIEVE BRUNO MAN MURDERED

John Carlson Found With Throat Cut in River at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 13.—John Carlson, a farmer who lived near Bruno, Pine county, whose body was recovered from the Mississippi river Saturday, was murdered about five months ago, Coroner Seashore believes. Five knife wounds on the body, indicating an attack by robbers, supports the theory that he was killed and that his body then was thrown into the river to hide the crime. The police are inclined to the suicide theory.

The body was identified by Miss May Lindh. Miss Lindh's father runs a farm adjoining that of Carlson near Bruno. The identification followed the discovering in Carlson's clothes of a letter from Miss Lindh's father.

Carlson borrowed $100 from Benjamin Anderson of Minneapolis avenue on Nov. 2. He was not seen again by acquaintances until Thanksgiving day. His whereabouts and activities in the interim are now the subject of police investigation.

Dispatches from Bruno stated that Carlson left there about Nov. 1 for the Twin Cities, where he intended to raise money to meet some financial obligations. He was seen later by friends in St. Paul with plenty of money and the appearance of alcoholic indulgence.

Carlson's body was seen floating in the river by Adam Kurski, as he was going to work. He notified the police who recovered it at Tenth avenue southeast.

The letter from Lindh, some tax receipts and a sight draft led to the identification. The body was well clothed and preserved. A deep dagger cut in the throat had slit the windpipe, there was a small cut below that, a deep mark at the base of the ear and two cuts on the forehead. The wounds did not appear to be self-inflicted.

ST. PAUL GAS SAVING.

Figures Considered By Council Lop Off $83,500 Annually.

St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eighty-five-cent gas for the next three or four years, beginning May 1, 1914, instead of the present 90-cent rate, and a reduction from 9.9 to 9 cents in the residence primary electric lighting rate, and the principal recommendations of Prof. Edw. W. Bemis, rate expert, incorporated in a report considered by the special gas and electric rate investigating committee of the city council.

Pending the promised submission by the St. Paul Gas Light company by July 1, of a new schedule of commercial and power rates, materially lower than that in effect, the establishment of an arbitrary schedule by the city is not recommended.

The estimated saving to the city during the next twelve months as a result of these reductions is $83,500, distributed as follows:

St. Paul Gas Light company, gas reduction, $65,000.

St. Paul Gas Light company, primary lighting reductions, $12,000.

Consumers' Power company, primary electric lighting reductions, $6,500.

KILLS FELLOW CONVICT.

Culmination of Difference Ends in Stillwater Tragedy.

Stillwater, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Junior Danielson, 28 years old, an inmate at the state penitentiary, was instantly killed as he stepped from his cell on the fifth gallery of the old prison house Saturday, when struck on the head with an iron pail wielded by John Schultz, 28 years old, a fellow convict.

It is believed the murder is the culmination of a grudge secretly acquired by Schultz against his fellow inmate as they worked together in the prison workshops. The murder occurred when the cells were opened for their occupants to march to their work. The blow struck Danielson on the back of the head and fractured his skull. He was dead when the guards reached him.

Hundreds of other prisoners occupying cells on the same gallery were spectators of the murder.

Guards Albert Meltin and L. E. Thompson were the first to reach Danielson and it was with difficulty that they restrained the other prisoners from breaking ranks and creating general disorder.

COMMISSION'S POWER.

Marquette City Government Has Strengthened Its Authority.

Marquette, Mich., April 13.—Conferring almost automatic power upon each of the five members, Marquette's new municipal commission has adopted an ordinance greatly strengthening the authority of the mayor and his associates on the governing board of the city. Each is given the right to suspend from office any employe serving under his direction, subject to report to the whole body for approval. Each is made the responsible head of his department in much the same sense as in the general manager of a private corporation. In addition, the enactment clothes the mayor with extensive police powers. Another section confers on the executive the right to suspend the operation of any city license to conduct any business or occupation until the subsequent meeting of the commission, when, if the members are satisfied with the sufficiency of the reasons cited, they can continue the suspension, pending a hearing to be given the license, following which the license may be revoked.

The fire started from an explosion of an unknown origin that shattered the windows in a restaurant building. While the firemen were fighting the flames in this building, a second explosion completely wrecked it, injuring several firemen. Martin Jacobson, one of the injured, cannot recoved.

MICHIGAN TOWNSHIP WILL OWN RAILROAD.

Marquette, Mich., April 13.—Garden township, Delta county, Mich., has fallen in line with the government of the United States in the matter of railway lines and government ownership. Possibly no other township in the United States is the proud possessor of a real railway outside of street car lines.

A lumber company, after having disposed of all of its holdings in Van's Harbor, planned to rip up the rails and demolish the road. The line connects the village with the Soo line at Cook's mills and gives the Big Bay district its first and only railway. Rather than be cut off from the world again, the voters at a recent election votel to issue bonds and purchase the entire railroad.

MANY SEEKING MARQUETTE JOB.

Marquette, Mich., April 13.—The Marquette board of education has received several applications for the position of superintendent of the public schools, and it is expected that fifty or more will be on file by the time formal action on the appointment is taken. T. W. Murphy praised H. I. Davie for his work in Staples. W. F. Miller, an alfalfa expert, told of the first crop grown in Minnesota fifty-five years ago. Prof. Arnold of the University of Minnesota explained how to plant and take care of alfalfa.

"Man-Failure All Along the Line"

That was the verdict of the Coroner's jury that investigated the killing of twenty-one persons in a wreck on a New England railroad. There is "man-failure all along the line" where the body is not nourished by foods that build bone and muscle and brain, that keep the human organism up to top-notch of efficiency.

Shredded Wheat

contains all the body-building elements in the whole wheat grain, made digestible by steam-cooking, shredding and baking. A food for the man who works with hand or brain—a food for the man who needs a steady nerve—a sustaining, satisfying food—always pure, always clean, always the same price. Ask your grocer.

Always heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with hot milk or cream will supply all the energy needed for a half day's work. Deliciously nourishing when eaten in combination with baked apples, stewed prunes, sliced bananas or canned or preserved fruits. Try toasted Triscuit, the Shredded Wheat wafer, for luncheon with butter, cheese or marmalade.

LOVE IS THE SAVING POWER

Helps Man to Forget Self and Live Above Creed, Says Dr. Gebauer.

Is the Force Back of All Good Works Within or Without Church.

The power of love as the saving force in life was the theme of the Easter sermon preached yesterday morning by Dr. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church. Love is above church or creed he declared, and is back of all good works. His sermon in part follows:

"The saving power in life is love. It saves us in that it makes us forget our little selves in a great and pure passion which leads into the heights of being, life eternal. Call this eternal power for good as seen in Jesus, the Christ, or love, it matters little. The one thing that matters is, that we not merely say 'Lord, Lord,' but that we do the will of love, eternal love, God. That law of love is as exact, as absolutely true in its action as is the law of gravitation. The one is physical, the other psychic; but both are divine. The one draws the planets toward the central sun, the other draws the souls of men toward the eternal sun of righteousness. All men are drawn by that same force, though not all equally. In some there is little if any of that power noticeable, in others it is passive, in others it is spasmodic in its action. Only in a few it becomes a powerful ruling passion. And such as let this eternal power of love act in them, they become the saviors and helpers of mankind; they are the inspirers of truth; they are the bridges upon which many walk from the temporal to the eternal; they are ways of life for others.

Love Behind All Good.

"Friends, we want knowledge, we want wisdom in human affairs, but all our efforts to help and to save will avail naught except we have love. Behind the great things accomplished there has always been the great loving heart. When we lay down our lives in service of others, there is the Christ. And whenever we see the true deer of good, we see about him the halo of love and we bare our heads in reverence. Such are the true disciples of the master, and they may be found in all the churches and outside the church, too. We well know what devout Catholics have done in that spirit of love; we know the willingness with which orthodox men and women will leave their home and friends to serve in far off lands people who are strangers to them. Friends, the foreign mission labor is the sacred poetry of the churches, which lifts them on high. I am well aware what foolishness is in many of these efforts to save the heathen, but what is all foolishness when compared with the great ideal of human fellowship which pervades this foolishness. And there again are men and women who so 'foolishly' will give their lives to make bearable the miserable existence of sufferers. A daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne turns a nun to become a nurse in the cancer hospital, to wait on strangers afflicted with a loathsome disease. Blessed be her name as sister of charity; yet strange; she did not know that the Christ of love might too be served by a Unitarian heart without the garb of sisterhood.

Not Bound By Creed.

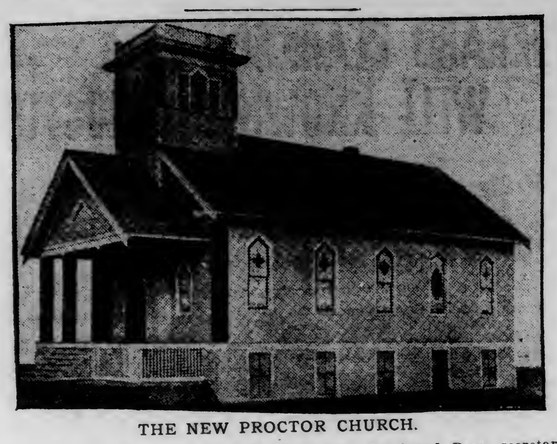
"What finer tribute could be paid to man than that in his love he forgets to count his beads of religious doctrine. Such love never faileth. Without it all reform is vain; courts of justice, reformatories, prisons, the rock pile, work farm are lifeless institutions. If you would know what love can do, how it can raise a man out of the sepulcher of selfishness and life him on high, read Tolstoy's short story: 'Master and Man.' By love we are saved, by the love we call forth in others we same them. It is not the Bible that saves the poor heathen in Africa, but the love of man that goes with the Bible. Yes, love will sometimes convert a man in spite of the Bible. The missionary in order to do the Master's work must be filled with the Master's love, the master who did not write his gospel in a dead book, but in living hearts. By his mortal love he inspired the ages and gave them the immortality of love.

"While therefore we indeed believe that the soul of the master of love has arisen to the father of love, while we believe that there is in every heart of man some of the divine love which makes his soul immortal, the Easter story itself does not appeal to us as a historical fact, difficult to prove; it is to us a beautiful symbol of the eternal truth, that love leads the soul onward and upward to higher spheres of being, to life eternal."

MAKE MERRY WITH DEAD MAN NEARBY.

Butte, Mont., April 13.—With a dead man in their midst, fifty miners coming off shift made merry in the saloon of Ed Mathews here. For nearly five hours William McDonald, a shift boss of the Bell & Diamond, sat at a table, his head resting on his arms, apparently asleep. When an effort was finally made to arouse the sleeping man, it was found that life had been extinct for hours. The circumstances surrounding the death are so unusual that Coroner Drew is conducting an investigation.

DROPSY AND BRIGHTS DISEASE



Nearly everybody knows that when the dropsy comes so fast in Bright's Disease that the patient has to be tapped that the case is hopeless so far as the old treatment is concerned. We never heard of a case recovering that required tapping until Fulton's Renal Compound was evolved. Under the Renal Compound recoveries are frequently reported even in this supposed hopeless stage. We cite two cases:

F. H. Chandler of Clay, New York, presented a serious case. As high as four quarts of water were drawn at a tapping. He was put on Fulton's Renal Compound and a year thereafter had resumed employment.

Another—Patient six years old, the son of A. C. Dean of Oakland, Cal., was tapped eight times; even had to be tapped after being put on Fulton's Renal Compound, but the tappings grew further apart and he made a recovery and was going to school at last advices.

The ability of Fulton's Renal Compound to oppose renal degeneration and reduce albumen in many cases of Bright's Disease is not a matter of opinion but a FACT IN PHYSICS, and we will mail formula for albumen test that will show the percentage from week to week. As the albumen declines improvement commonly follows, recoveries having been reported in thousands of cases. Formula and literature mailed on request. John J. Fulton Co. For sale at druggists.

FORBES MEMORIAL CHURCH IS DEDICATED AT EASTER SERVICE

THE NEW PROCTOR CHURCH.

The Forbes Memorial Methodist Episcopal church at Proctor was dedicated with impressive ceremony yesterday afternoon.

A baptismal service and reception of new members, both by letter and confession of faith, also took place at the afternoon meeting. Four members were accepted by letter and eleven by confession. The opening address was read by Rev. M. P. Burns, D. D., superintendent of the Duluth district. An eloquent sermon was preached by Rev. William F. Hovis, D. D., pastor of Endion M. E. church of Duluth. After the presentation of the building by the trustees the declaration was read by Dr. Burns.

Special Musical Program.

During the service the choir consisting of Mesdames Orie Bossnet, Gilbert, Jenkins, Wilson and Messrs. Stewart and Thomas. Mrs. W. H. M. Stewart, organist, and Chris Anderson, violinist, rendered appropriate musical selections. The service was under the direction of the pastor, Rev. B. D. Hanscom. Le Grand Pace, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., also had a place on the program.

The new building was started under the pastorate of Rev. R. W. Wilcox, D. D., with the small sum of $200 in the treasury in May, 1913. In October, 1913, when the present pastor took charge, about $2,000 had been raised and paid on the building, and since then about the same amount has been placed to the credit of the congregation. The total cost of the edifice with furnishings was approximately $8,000, and to cover the unpaid amount due more than $4,200 was pledged in about thirty minutes at the morning service yesterday, which placed the building in a position to be dedicated with all indebtedness provided for.

Women Deserve Credit.

To the ladies' aid society no little credit is due, as the women have paid for a considerable part of the building and at a special meeting held last week they signified their willingness to be responsible for $1,000, but owing to the generosity of the congregation, they will assume but $400.

"THE FATAL REFUSAL"

Dr. Hoffman Talks on Story of Rich Young Man.

Selfishness, Not Merely Riches, Was Fault Christ Saw in Him.

Dr. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First Methodist church, had for his subject last evening "The Fatal Refusal." His theme was the story of a certain rich young man who asked the Savior what he should do to inherit eternal life, saying that he had kept all of the commandments from his youth up, upon which the Savior said to him:

"Yet thou lackest one thing: sell all that thou hast and distribute unto the poor and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me."

But the young man refused. This was the fatal refusal that Dr. Hoffman took as the basis for his sermon. Said, he in part:

"Let us get rid of the idea that Christ meant that all rich men must do as he said to this rich young man; let us also get rid of the idea that Christ wished to say that it is impossible for rich men to enter the kingdom of heaven. That is not what he meant. He said to this rich young man: 'Yet thou lackest one thing.' What was it? He had no cross in his life. He had kept the commandments because it was generally conceded that it was the proper thing to do. But one thing he lacked and that was not the matter of riches, or that their possession was a curse. It was unselfishness that he lacked. He put his riches before his God. That is the wickedness of the possession of riches and the only wickedness—selfishness. And that curse is not possessed by the rich alone. Some of the most selfish people I have ever known have been the poor. The only thing lacking was the love of humanity and that is an awful lack. It will damn anybody. Henry George and Cardinal Manning were conversing one day. Cardinal Manning said that he loved humanity because Jesus loved humanity. Henry George, the great man who has left his memory enshrined in the minds of mankind replied: 'I love Jesus because he loved men.'

"The loving of humanity makes a man a Christian no matter what he professes. You cannot be a Christian and be selfish too. The fatal refusal of the rich young man was not that he refused to sell all of his goods, but that he refused to renounce selfishness."

"SEALED ORDERS"

"The Great Wide Sea" Is Theme of Dr. Yost's Sermon.

Rev. Robert Yost, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, preached yesterday morning an exceptionally strong sermon on "The Great Wide Sea." He took for his text Hebrews xi., 8: "By faith, Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should soon after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went."

"When the call comes," said Dr. Yost, "it may not seem pleasant to leave the pleasant harbor, where one hears the rippling music of the waters, and can enjoy the pleasant surroundings of the shore, and to venture out into the great wide sea under sealed orders, not knowing whither one is bound. But that call must be obeyed if one wishes to arrive anywhere. Abraham, that poor old patriarch, who never owned enough ground to call it home, obeyed implicitly the call that came to him. Heart-broken he started up the mountain to sacrifice his son when the call came, heart-broken, but he did not falter. Others lived in stone-walled cities in their mansions, but he was called into the wilderness and unmurmuringly answered. 'He went out, not knowing whither he was going.' That is sublime faith for you. How many of us will answer such a call and perhaps sacrifice comforts and friends? Take Paul, for instance. When Jesus appeared to him on the road to Damacus, and issued His call to service, Paul obeyed. He answered without reserving anything, and what a service he rendered; and wherever he fleed he made. Where does it lead to, if you answer? It leads to the greatest tranquility this world can know. In Paul's case when he was in prison and awaiting the decision of Nero as to whether he would be put to death or would be pardoned, there was no fear in his attitude, merely doubt as to which would be the better—life or death? His sole worry was whether it would be better to die and go home to the Father forever, or to live longer that he might still preach the Word. That alone concerned him.

"Where does it lead? We would have all of tomorrows, if we could, to blossom as beautifully as the gardens of the Lord; but how can we when we still harbor in our minds the locusts of appetite and desire that have made our yesterdays barren wastes? When we answer the call of Christ and rid our minds of these things which hold us down to the grosser things of life we are led to a tranquillity that can be experienced in no other way."

MANY ATTEND MASONIC SERVICE

Dr. MacLean Speaks on Ceremony of Relighting the Lights.

The auditorium of the Masonic temple was crowded to such an extent yesterday afternoon that many had to be refused admittance. The occasion was the ceremony of the relighting of the lights, extinguished on Thursday evening after the Maundy Thursday banquet; following which came the annual Easter services of the Knights Templar.

The ceremony of the relighting of the lights is a very beautiful and impressive one. The music during the entire affair yesterday afternoon was appropriate and in keeping with all of the excellent program which Prof. Custance and the Scottish Rite quartet furnish at each of the ceremonies.

At the services of the Knights Templar, Rev. Thomas W. MacLean, vicar of Trinity pro-cathedral, was the speaker. Dr. MacLean spoke about the meaning and solemnity of the ceremony of relighting the lights and then dealt with the Templar service and its relation to the Christian religion, telling why the feast of Easter is especially observed by the knights, of their traditional descent from the crusaders, and of their present position as soldiers of Christ.

Try this prescription: Go to the nearest wide-awake drug store and get a bottle of Optona tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with watot, drop in one tablet and allow to thoroughly dissolve. EASTER THE GREATEST DAY

Eternal Life Is Man's Instinctive Desire, Says Dr. Hovis.

Draws an Analogy Between Nature and Human Life.

In his Easter sermon yesterday morning, Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, spoke on "The Resurrection and the Life," drawing an analogy between nature and human life, the spring and the resurrection. Eternal life he contended was instinctive and insistent in man. His sermon in part follows:

"Easter is the greatest day in the calendar of the soul. Great was the hour when guardian shepherds saw the wondrous start and heard the song of peace, but greater still that early morn when white-robed heralds from the empty tomb announced the startling message, 'He is risen; He is not here.' The Christmas cry is 'Glory!' The Easter shout is 'Victory!' Happy the day when the manger cradled the infant king; but happier still the other day when the bands of death were broken.

Shall a Man Live Again?

"The soul's query has always been, 'If a man die, shall he live again?' Man hungers for immortality; he thirsts for life eternal; his very being is instinct with futurity; his dominion seems to suggest infinity; he cannot rid himself of the feeling that there must be something farther on and higher up; he will not believe that God would endow him with the treasures of the ages past, only to dissolve him in death and blast him in extinction; but, he wants some positive assurance that 'life shall live for-ever-more.' A voice with the ring of authority answers, 'I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me though he were dead yet shall he live, and he that liveth and believeth in me shall never die.'

"Have you read the parable of the growing world? Shivering bulbs and roots and seeds, with blood congealed and powers quiescent, come forth from their wintry graves into the glory of risen state. A strange energy thrilling in the heart of nature rouses her dormant instincts and spreads the hills and valleys with the flush of life and beauty. To grass and trees and flowers and birds. Spring says 'I am the resurrection and the life.' The distance between the bulb asleep in muck and the 'flowery pride' of the lotus lily is covered by warmth and showers and golden sunbeams. Of every root lifted from the cold clods to the beauty of a perfect plant it might be said, 'It is risen; it is not here.'

"There is a striking analogy between the realm of nature and the soul of man. The assurance of the resurrection is written on the face of every leaf and flower. As the very clods respond to sunlight, so the life touched by Christ's resurrection glory has springtime in the heart. The resurrection has significance not only as a future event, but as a present force constantly impelling toward higher worth to the soul, chilled and blighted and starved and dying, there comes the comfort full of cheering warmth, 'I am the resurrection and the life.'

Death Is Necessary.

"There can be no resurrection without what men call death. Taken by itself death is horrifying and alarming; but, looked upon as a part of a system of progress, it is the gateway to the freedom of a larger life. It is possible to so magnify death as to hide in profane concealment the fact of life. Martha, sitting in the shadow of a great bereavement, misunderstood the import of the Master's words. To be told that her brother would rise again only seemed like hope deferred. She did not seem to know that Christ's comfort to a bleeding heart was not merely the promise of a far-off, vague event, but of an abundant and an abiding life, continuous here and hereafter, and therefore immortal measured not by ages of future existence, but by depths of present living. Death may interrupt the earthly career, but it has no power to change the life that is hidden with Christ in God. Its sorrow lies in the sense of separation.

'I wage not any feud with death
For changes wrought on form of face;
No lower life that earth's embrace
May breed with him can fright my faith.

'Eternal process moving on,
From state to state the spirit walks;
And these are but the shattered stalks,
Or ruined chrysalis of one.

'Nor blame I death because he bear
The use of virtue out of earth;
I know transplanted human worth
Will bloom to profit otherwhere.

'For this alone on death I wreak
The wrath that garners in my heart;
He puts our lives so far apart
We cannot hear each other speak.'
—Tennyson.

Man Does Not Die.

"When Christ is in the life men do not die, they ascend. To the Christian, death is emancipation. In the home of the saint, bereavement is a sacrament. The little child does not die, but goes like a dew-drop called-for by the sun. It is possible for one to live so near to God that going into heaven occasions no surprise at all. Enoch walked with God and when he died it was said of him, 'He was not for God took him.' O thou bright little dew-drop thou dost not tremble with pain when the sun comes to call thee up to set thee in a rainbow! O poor shrinking heart of mine, trembling flesh, misgiving, doubtful spirit, when thy Lord cometh thou shalt not know that thy feet are in the river, He will kiss thee into peace and life and heaven! We rebel because we do not know the resurrection glory. There is no death! It is only the process of passing into the bosom of God.

CHURCHES CROWDED

Congregations Even Larger Than on Go to Church Sunday.

Fair Weather and Special Easter Services Bring Out Worshipers.

Easter services in the Duluth churches attracted large crowds to the many houses of worship in the city yesterday. Larger congregations were present, in many instances, to celebrate the anniversary of the resurrection of Christ than responded to the "Go to Church Sunday" call a few weeks ago, and at most churches the congregation was limited only by the capacity of the church.

Impressive musical services were conducted in all of the churches. Several Easter cantatas were sung in many houses of worship and in many instances the Sunday school children played a large part in the Easter program.

Except for the chilly wind, Easter was a perfect spring day and quite a contrast from the weather a year ago, when a blizzard raged all day.

CHURCH CELEBRATES ITS ANNIVERSARY.

The thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, was celebrated in a fitting manner yesterday. Dr. Frank Peterson of Minneapolis, through whose efforts the congregation was organized thirty years ago, was the principal speaker.

At the morning service Dr. Peterson spoke on the mission of the church and in the evening he again was the principal speaker, giving a history of the life of Dr. A. Judson, who 100 years ago founded Baptist mission work in Burmah.

The principal celebration took place during the afternoon when a history of the church was read by Rev. Swaney Nelson, the pastor. Among the charter members present at the services were: Mr. and Mrs. John Fredin, Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Olson, Miss Kate Swanberg, August Magnuson and Axel Peterson.

Greetings were read from the Bethel church by Rev. L. W. Lindor, Central Baptist by Rev. Milton Fish, West Duluth Baptist by Gust Carlson and Swedish Baptist of Superior by Frank Carlson. Letters of greeting were also read from Rev. Arvid Edstam of Kansas City, Mo., and Rev. C. Seline of Firth, Idaho, former pastors.

A sum of $1,400 was raised to be contributed to the building fund of the church.

Winona Mail Thief Sentenced.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. S. Crozier of Winona, Minn., pleaded guilty Saturday in United States court to taking valuables from the mails, and was sentenced to one year and one day in the Minnesota state prison.

THREATENED TO KILL.

Former Copper Country Deputy Sheriff in Toils of Law.

Houghton, Mich., April 13.—Mike Denny, a former deputy sheriff, who recently was relieved from duty after serving throughout the strike at the sheriff's South Range branch office, is under arrest on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Officers had been attempting to locate him for three days and finally found him at Ahmeek.

Denny, when relieved of duty, it is said, started a celebration which brought him into his present difficulty. He is charged with attacking William Lucas, Sr., chief deputy at South Range, and it is said when Mr. Lucas' son, a deputy, attempted to arrest him he fired and escaped.

LIVE SPORTING GOSSIP

By BRUCE

SPEAKING, Bill, of the golden age of Pericles or the ornate age of the Victorian poets, reminds us of the fact that we are in the fabulous salaried age of the baseball player. Sign, boys, while the signing is good.

It can't go on forever. The wise baseball players will get while the getting is extremely getable. In other words no sane and competent bunch of business men are going to continue to offer players the fabulous salaries that are being hurled at their heads at the present writing.

It isn't business—or at least it would not be good business to continue this policy over an indefinite length of time—and therefore after the affairs of the Federals and the other two leagues are adjusted, amicably or otherwise, the salaries of the baseball slaves will descend the scale of munificence.

She is a grand old time—for the baseball star. Some of the others who are stars by the kind lustre light of friendly comment, have also profited by the bull market in baseball salaries and have taken old opportunity by the shaggy forelock and signed for copious sheckles. All this is to the credit and industry of the ball players.

In a few simple and well chosen words, the entire situation, brethren, can be classed as a titanic upheaval, as an epoch in the game. For uneventful years, unbroken save for the increase of Ban Johnson's salary and the annual ruction in the affairs of the older league, the limpid waters of the organized baseball pool have been undisturbed by the rude rocks of boisterous busters. But, alas and alack for those owning steel and concrete stands and a long list of players, times have changed.

• • •

What Does It Mean?

JUST what the wallop on the jaw that the reserve clause received at the hands of the usually more or less benign courts, where large issues are concerned, time, a creature that has more secrets than Pandora's box ever contained, will tell.

If the whole fabric of baseball is to be changed, some stirring incidents are ahead of us. The reserve clause ruling will be fought further, in all likelihood. The men connected with the national game are adroit and resourceful. The fight may be more titanic, more epic in its character than any of us dream of; and there may be events penciled on the memorandum of fate that are to be played out in the future. She is a grand old game and withal is furnishing excellent copy for the sporting pages.

But this all brings us right back to the spot we started at, and to the subject of this discussion: namely, that the scramble for the star baseball players of the country has created a demand unnatural and artificial, and the result is that the wise player has signed a contract that will assure him a snug fortune for the next few years.

We have long wondered, some of us, of what earthly use was a college education to the young man who used professional baseball as the means of earning his livelihood. Perhaps we have the answer now, for the man who has been associated with a college in any way shape or form should possess sufficient erudition to realize that when money is being flung around is the grand old pyschological time to thrust a grasping fist in the air.

Connie the Garrulous.

YEARS ago some of the kind but curious people of these United States were on the poignant point of offering the Carnegie medal incentive to interviewers in the hope that some bold and persistent and skillful young man might effect in some way, manner or means in interview from the thin and straight lips of Connie Mack.

But time has softened the stern resentment of Cornelius McGillicuddy against the spoken word for printed contemplation, and he is becoming one of our best little information donaters.

In one of the current magazines the long leader of the three-time world's championship winning Athletics comes loping to the front with a recipe for the success of his remarkable baseball team.

In a word, enclosed in snug parenthesis, it is that the members of the Athletics do not drink.

"The clean liver is the quick thinker," says the astute and kindly Mr. Mack.

"In the old days I took baseball players who drank, on the theory that I could cure this habit. Today I seldom take the time to train the young baseball player who drinks. The drinker has no place in the big leagues today; he is out of place and will be left behind."

A famous editor declared that Connie Mack was one of the greatest and one of the best influences in this country. Perhaps he is; Connie Mack surely is one of the three remarkable men who have dedicated their energies to the development of the great game of baseball to the stage of a precise science—and more than this, Connie Mack in his fatherly and benign way has acted through the uneven lane of the formulative years as the moral preceptor of the national sport.

Along the Lane of Years.

THREE men were seated in one of the early closing cafes of our fair city. As they sat over their cigars the talk fell to some of the illustrious lightweights of our time. And as talk grew argument spread her wings and flopped into the midst of the hovering controversy.

Said the large lumberman: "Gans was the greatest of his time and of all time. He had everything that any fighter in the world ever possessed. His speed was wonderful; he was like a panther in action. The colored boy could hit, was one of the best boxers of all time. He could often counter and beat a man to his lead. Any man who swung at him would get his block knocked off."

Said the professional man: "Jack McAuliffe was the greatest lightweight that the world has ever proudly saluted. The proof of this is in the fact that he retired from the ring unbeaten. He was the premier boxer of his day and generation, game and brainy and one of the wonders of all ring generals—and he could hit."

And up spake the flitting drummer: "Back in the days and riotous nights of Saginaw, Mich., I was on the personal acquaintance list of George Lavigne. I am not so proud of the fact—merely citing it as proof of what I am going to say.

"George was a green kid when he fought that memorable draw with Siddons, and they jobbed him that night and stopped the fight. The kid cried with rage. Down in his fearless heart he believed he could lick Tommy Ryan. He beat Joe Wolcott and Joe Wolcott knocked out Joe Choynski, one of the greatest of all light heavyweights. Lavigne beat Dick Burge when the great English fighter weighed around 150 pounds. Gentlemen, throw away your arguments, this boy was the greatest back in the old days and he would have eaten any of the others up."

ALL-ALASKAN DOG SWEEPSTAKE ON

Big Contest From Nome to Candle and Return Begins.

Nome, Alaska, April 13.—The world's greatest dog race, the all-Alaska sweepstake, started at 9 o'clock this morning when four dog teams with dogs and drivers groomed for a hard struggle set out on the snow trail over the course from Nome to Candle and return, a distance of 412 miles. For seventy-five hours or more, with brief stops for rest and food at reporting stations, the dogs and drivers will press on.

Zero weather of the last few days hardened the snow and conditions are ideal for fast time.

Interest in the race, which is for a purse of $3,000 and a trophy cup, is intense in Nome and surrounding camps.

The record time for the course is 74 hours, 14 minutes and 20 seconds, made in 1910 by John Johnson, driving his team of Siberian wolves.

FEDERALS BEGIN FIRST SEASON

Baltimore Meets Buffalo on Home Grounds—Many Dignitaries Attend.

Baltimore, Md., April 13.—The Federal league with its numerous recruits from the ranks of the National and American leagues, opens here today a season which its officials will hope will result in a vindication of its claim to rank as a third major league of baseball.

Baltimore and Buffalo, which for many years has been represented only by teams in the International league will play the first game in the contest for the championship of the new "big league."

Mayor James H. Preston of Baltimore will put the ball in play and Mayor Louis Fuhrmann of Buffalo is expected to be present as also are Governor Goldsborough of Maryland, President James A. Gilmore and other Federal league officials.

UMPIRES IN CONDITION.

National Arbitrators Assigned to Places for Tuesday's Opening.

New York, April 13.—Umpires of the National league today received their instructions for the season and were assigned to the opening games on Tuesday. In the absence of President John K. Tener who was prevented from attending, Secretary John A. Heydler, presided.

The umpires present reported in fine condition for their trying duties, most of them having spent several weeks of hard work in practice games.

The placing of the officials and their assignments for Tuesday's opening games are as follows: Klem and Hart, Brooklyn; Eason and Quigley at Philadelphia; Orth and Byron at Cincinnati, and Rigler and Emslie at St. Louis.

THE MILITANT HEAD OF THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

BAN JOHNSON.

For years the genius and executive force of Ban Johnson has been one of the bywords of baseball. The season about to open will perhaps test to the full the powers of capabilities of the president of the junior major, for some of the wise students of the game profess to believe that baseball is facing a great crisis.

"BIG NINE'S" SEASON ON DIAMOND BEGINS.

Chicago, April 13.—The race for the baseball championship of the "Big Nine" begins this week, Illinois meeting Northwestern and Ohio playing Indiana.

The Illini, with a week's sojourn in the South, favored by good weather and teams of class opposing them, have attained a form which is likely to make them dangerous, at least during the first part of the race.

Northwestern apparently has been slow in development, but this week will have the benefit of practice daily with a professional squad, the Green Bay team of the Wisconsin-Illinois league.

Indiana and Ohio are both unknown quantities. The game next Saturday between the two at Columbus will be the first on which calculations can be made.

Ancient diamond foes meet today when Michigan and Notre Dame clash on the latter's grounds. The game will be the first of a series of three, the other two being scheduled for Ann Arbor in June.

McGOORTY GETS DAVE SMITH IN TEN ROUNDS.

Sydney, Australia, April 13.—Eddie McGoorty, the American fighter, yesterday knocked out Dave Smith of Australia in the tenth round of a twenty-round bout. Smith had the advantage in the first eight rounds. Last January McGoorty knocked out Smith in the first round.

WOMEN'S CREWS PLANNED FOR DULUTH BOAT CLUB

Fair Members of the Club Not to Contest in War Canoes But in Barges As at Vassar and Wellesley.

A la Vassar, a la Wellesley, there will be rowing crews for the women of the Duluth Boat club this season.

So announced James E. Ten Eyck today.

These crews are not to be the old familiar war canoes that have raced hilariously, frantically and hysterically in the past; nothing like that at all, at all—the dear girls are to row in barges, according to the present plans, just as they do at the most exclusive girls' finishing schools.

Candidates will be welcomed, according to Coach Ten Eyck, just as soon as the ice gets out of the bay and the weather moderates.

The new barges are along the same line of general construction as those used in training recruits to the rowing game, and those in use at Vassar and Wellesley.

Rowing has become famous at the two exclusive schools. The races there have been the subject of much discussion and extended comment. As far as is known the adoption of the rowing game for the women members of the club here will mark an innovation and will set the standard for other clubs of the West.

Possibly this move will supplant the annual race between the valiant red and blue crews. The barge racing between the fair members of the club should certainly prove interesting and should provide some very excellent races.

The coach will be instructed to go carefully over the list of descriptive and admonitory adjectives and hold daily rehearsals before taking the candidates for the crews out for the first time.

Also, the coach might as well learn in the very beginning that the candidates for the crews will not cut out fudge, even on the very day of the race. Perhaps there will not be as extended a list of articles placed in strict taboo—but, let it be understood right now that fudge will be eaten at all times.

Another little thing—the coach of the crew cannot expect the members of the squad to report promptly each day.

It is proposed to send to Vassar and Wellesley for the code of training rules and have them strictly enforced—maybe.

The experiment promises to be interesting, exceedingly so, and it also promises to develop among the fair members of the club some fine oarswomen.

It is proposed to have the sweater design done in silk and have the sleeves of the rowing garment fall loosely and end in frills.

Silk caps will be worn, it is suggested, with the colors of the two crews inserted in the form of gay ribbons.

Parasols can be carried in the boat and hoisted at such times as the members of the crews are not rowing.

The bow of each boat, it is suggested, may be decorated gayly in a garland of flowers, suggesting the color of the crews, and gay ribbons should be stretched along the side of the boat.

It is generally believed that the races will be very successful. The first one is planned for May 2. The suffragettes can no doubt be persuaded to march to the club and make the occasion one that will long be remembered.

WOLGAST WILL TAKE NO CHANCE

Cadillac, Mich., April 13.—If any one thinks Ad Wolgast is holding Johnny Tillman cheaply, then he should make a trip up here and see the "Michigan Wildcat" go through his daily training stunts in preparation for his ten-round bout with the Minneapolis boxer, which will take place at Hudson, Wis., April 23.

The ex-champion realizes he has a fight on his hands when he meets Tillman and intends to be in just as good condition as when he tackled Willie Ritchie recently at Milwaukee. The Dutchman is working like a Trojan and looks fine.

"A defeat by Tillman would give me a serious setback and would spoil my chances for a twenty-round fight with Willie Ritchie on July 4 in California," said Wolgast today. "I know Tillman is a dangerous fellow and I will be in the best of trim when we hook up.

"I was at the ringside when Tillman fought Len Rowlands, a husky welterweight, at Milwaukee. I know Tillman was ill when he boxed Rowlands, but if he could put up the battle he did when sick then he must be a corking good scrapper when feeling perfectly well.

"I know that any boy who is good enough to whip Pal Brown and Danny Goodman both inside of five days cannot be trifled with. Some folks think I will have a cinch with Tillman, but I wish I was as sure of the outcome as they profess to be. Personally, I know I am in for a hard fight."

RICHARD CLARKSON IS A WELL KNOWN INSTRUCTOR

Golf Director of the Northland Club Worked Under Alec Smith and Ranks High in Golf Circles of the United States.

Richard Clarkson is the name of the new golf instructor of the Northland Country club. Being a golf instructor, perhaps it is surperfluous to add that Clarkson is Scotch.

Born in Carnoustle, Scotland, the same part of the land of the heather that gave birth to Alec Smith, the wonderful professional player, Clarkson became a player and later one of the best known instructors and club makers on the other side of the brine.

It was while Smith was at the Nassau, Long Island golf club, that he sent for Clarkson to come and act as his assistant. While working at the Nassau club, Clarkson gained a large part of the information possessed by Smith and also began to take rank with his mentor as one of the best instructors in the country.

Clarkson was at the Nassau club for five years. From there Clarkson went to Auchtrlone and was later at Belleaire, Fla., where a number of the Duluthians play during the winter months. From there the present instructor of the Duluth club went to Rockford, Ill., and from there to the Northland club.

Is Well Known in Golf World.

Richard Clarkson is better known as an instructor than as a player. He ranks with the best instructors in the United States today. He learned the game from the ground up and is thorough and efficient, according to those who have followed his work in this country.

Coming from the very heart of the golf country of Scotland and being associated with the greatest players of the day, the man chosen to look after the interests of the Northland Country club is generally conceded to possess a deep and wide knowledge of golf and to be thoroughly competent as an instructor.

Under the general instruction and direction of the Clarkson the members of the Northland club look forward to one of the best seasons in the history of the club.

Play has started among the more enthusiastic of the members of the club. There was a fairly large number of the players on the links yesterday, despite the cold weather, and for the last two weeks there have been some of the real dyed-in-the-wool bugs rushing the season. From this time on till the opening of the official season there will be activity at the club.

SUNDAY GAMES END MOST PRE-SEASON BALL GAMES

Cleveland, Ohio, April 13.—The Chicago club defeated the Naps at League park yesterday afternoon. The final count was 8 to 0 in favor of the Cubs. The game started well and the 10,000 fans present were cheerful until the fourth inning when Joe Jackson made a doubtful play on Zimmerman's drive. The hit went for a triple.

Jersey City, N. J., April 13.—The Jersey City Internationals smothered the world's champion Athletics here yesterday, winning, 20 to 8. With two exceptions the Mackmen had their regular team on the field, and they hit freely, but the recruit pitchers sent in to the box by the visitors were easy for the Internationals.

Providence, R. I., April 13.—Washington Americans won over the Providence Internationals, 7 to 5, yesterday. The game was called at the opening of the eighth inning because Walter Johnson's admirers stopped the play by crowding on the field when he started to warm up.

St. Louis, Mo., April 13.—The St. Louis Nationals won the last game of the city series for the spring championship from the St. Louis Americans by a score of 5 to 2. The standing at the close of the series gave the Nationals five victories and the Americans one.

Covington, Ky., April 13.—The Chicago Federal team yesterday beat the West Covington team, 20 to 0.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 13.—The Cleveland American association club defeated the Terre Haute Central league team here yestrday, 12 to 0.

Lincoln, Neb., April 13.—Lincoln won again yesterday from the Minneapolis American association second team, 15 to 6.

New York, April 13.—On the eve of the major baseball league season, magnates and officials of the American and National league predict another six months of exciting pennant races and general prosperity. Organized baseball, ignoring the invasion of its field by the newly-formed Federal group of owners and players, reiterates its faith in the loyalty of its followers and the standard of the game as played by its clubs.

outlining the prospects of their respective organizations for the 1914 season, express the belief that organized baseball will receive the confidence and support accorded it by the devotees of the game in past years. President Johnson, as the spokesman for the junior association states:

"The American league, which entertained the largest aggregate number of fans in its history in 1913, looks forward to another year of loyal support from the public.

"I think the quality of ball to be played this year, will equal or excel that of the past. The Philadelphia Athletics naturally command the greatest respect because of their pennant and world's series victories, but several other clubs must be given serious consideration.

"Washington and Boston are clubs of known strength. Chicago appears to have found new men of exceptional value. Cleveland has not been seriously crippled by the Federal league invasion, but the accident to Chapman and Leibold will interfere materially with its success in the early part of the season. Detroit has developed two or three players of splendid promise, and both Jennings and Navin are highly elated over the prospects of the team.

"Chance is very hopeful of making a splendid showing in the race this year. St. Louis has one of the best pitching staffs in the league and a little hitting strength behind this pitching will make the Browns dangerous against any club."

President Tener, as the representative of the National league, expressed similar sentiments as follows:

"At the very best baseball predictions are no more than precarious judgments. So many unforeseen and uncertain elements enter into a baseball championship race that it is not only futile, but foolish, to estimate the relative playing strength of eight clubs and attempt to forecast their position at the end of the season.

"Generally speaking, I am well pleased over the outlook in the National league and for organized baseball everywhere, for the season of 1914. I have not been in receipt of a report from a single club owner that has contained a pessimistic tone.

"From my contact with the general public, I am led to believe that interest in organized baseball was never greater and its confidence never so strong. I expect a year of financial and artistic success for organized baseball in general."

COVEY EASY FOR ANOTHER AMERICAN.

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., April 13.—John White, professional of the New York Tennis and Racquet club, easily defeated George Covey of England, ex-champion of the world, three straight sets at court tennis yesterday at the Tuxedo Tennis and Racquet club. The score was 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

Covey made his last appearance in America yesterday. He sails tomorrow for England.

CRIPPLE IS SENT BACK TO CANADA

Had Opened Cobbler Shop at Gospel Mission to Raise Funds.

William Mileski, who lost his feet in Canada during the winter of 1913, is liable to become a public charge in this country, according to the decision of the local immigration authorities and he was sent back to Canada Saturday evening. One of the local officers accompanied him.

About three months ago Mileski came to Duluth and after his arrival here obtained lodging and board at the Gospel mission, where Rev. F. E. Plumb, who is in charge, later attempted to aid the cripple. Mr. Plumb obtained a cobbler's outfit and a shoe repair shop was arranged in the front part of the mission, where it was hoped Mileski would be able to earn enough money for the purchase of artificial limbs.

Shortly after Mileski opened his shop the local immigration officials heard of his accident in Canada and an investigation was immediately begun. It was learned that he froze his feet in the Canadian woods during the winter of 1913 and that they were amputated at a Winnipeg hospital. As he is not a citizen of this country and liable to become a public charge, the authorities decided to send him back to Canada.

ROBBER OF ALTOONA BANK BREAKS JAIL.

Altoona, Pa., April 13.—Using a rope made from his mattress, Frank G. Hohl, the auto bandit who confessed to holding up the cashier and pay teller of the Union bank here, and escaped with $3,000 in broad daylight, fled from the Hollidaysburg jail early Sunday morning.

The flight of Hohl, who was to have been sentenced today, was not discovered until after sunrise, when an employe at the jail saw the rope dangling from the roof to the sidewalk in front of the building.

REPUBLICANS TO TELL TRUTH ON THEMSELVES

Conference Candidate Lee Now at It; Administration Threatens to Uncover Lee's True Record; No Chance to Get Together After Primaries; Plenty of Material for Democrats, No Matter Which Faction of Gone Old Party Wins; No Ammunition Against Hammond; Eberhart's Weak Platform; Bull Moosers Might Elect Latter.

In another column will be found the formal announcement made this morning that Senator Ole Sageng of Ottertail county has refused to entertain a nomination by the Bull Moosers for the governorship. Below will be found comment on the contingency of Senator Sageng running as a Bull Mooser. The senator evidently views the matter in the same light as does The Herald. His refusal will prove an immense help to the anti-machine forces, regardless of party and will be very disconcerting to the Eberhart-Smith machine. It also goes to prove the good judgment, clear-headedness and honesty of the Ottertail statesman.

The Republican governorship situation in Minnesota resembles a great deal, the Mexican situation—the "outs" want to be the "ins"—and already the "outs" have begun rapid firing. Candidate Lee, the uneliminated, is already in the midst of his campaign, has made several speeches in which he is making remarks that are not at all kind about Governor Eberhart, Boss Smith and their administration of state affairs. This evidently is the policy which Mr. Lee and his supporters expect to pursue throughout the campaign up to the primaries June 16. The Minneapolis Journal, which has been opposed to the present administration for a long time, is devoting pages of space to Mr. Lee's attacks on the governor, and is also actively supporting the conference candidate in an editorial way.

Now comes the rumor that when the administration guns unlimber there will be ammunition to burn for use against Mr. Lee. It is claimed that his legislative record will not bear too close scrutiny, and that that part of it which is the most unwholesome will be bared to the light of day and that when the administration forces get through with him he will not appear to the public to be the patriotic gentleman he claims to be, running for office for the purpose of releasing the people of the state from a maladministration that is robbing it in the way of taxation because of inefficient management. What the administration has against Mr. Lee is not yet announced, but the rumor has a sinister sound.

The chances are that there will be a regular Kilkenny cat affair within the ranks of the Republican party before the primaries will have arrived.

* * *

What will be the result of this nasty washing of dirty linen? There can be but one result, and that is that the losing faction cannot in good conscience support the winner. It is hard to see how either side can backup without eating its words. And regardless of which side wins, the Democrats will be furnished with a whole lot of material for the campaign for the general election in November. There will be plenty of it—if there was any lack of it before.

* * *

The best of this thing, viewed from a Democratic viewpoint, is that nothing but manufactured stuff can be brought against Congressman Hammond, who, without doubt, will be the Democratic nominee for governor. Already some of the administration papers are trying hard to stir up something and are trying to make it appear that Mr. Hammond will be weakened because he voted and worked for the tariff bill admitting farm machinery free. It is only the small and insignificant editors of the state who have taken this up. The greater papers supporting the administration have left this severely alone, knowing that it is too silly to be swallowed by the people except perhaps at first, and then with plenty in the way of fact-emetics at hand.

And that is the sole charge that they have been able to bring up against Mr. Hammond. If they do not do better than that silence will be more profitable to them.

* * *

On the other hand, almost without respect to party the papers of the state have been congratulating the Democratic conference on the saneness of its choice of Mr. Hammond. It is generally agreed that he is the truly big man of the party in Minnesota, and that he is a tower of strength for the people as well as for the party in the coming campaign; that he will be a governor who will be thoroughly business, will make both less sightseeing and talking trips and less taxes; and will show the people where the money has been going and where economy can and should be practiced, thus setting a standard for his successors in office which they will have no choice but to follow. And that, it is generally admitted, is the crying need of Minnesota today.

* * *

Some of the Republican papers of the state profess to believe that the Lawler faction will cause trouble for the Democratic party, it being conceded that Mr. Lawler's chances for getting the nomination are about as great as those of a hen writing a book. As a matter of fact they don't believe it; the wish is simply father to the thought. Mr. Lawler's prestige in the Democratic party, because of his frequent bolts and his never-ending trouble making has been reduced to such an extent that he even fails to hold his old comrade and close friend—the cardinal—in line. The cardinal is said to be frankly out for Mr. Hammond and he is a support to be counted on when he is for anybody. This so-called "trouble" in the Democratic ranks is about as important as a boy whispering up a rainpipe.

* * *

The latest announcement of Governor Eberhart of his candidacy for renomination is one that will do him but little good. Without saying so he gives the impression that he is responsible for the distribution of tax collections throughout the state and makes a play for the country vote by showing how the three larger counties—St. Louis, Hennepin and Ramsey—are bilked for the benefit of the other counties. The governor has nothing to do with it of course—is not even a factor; it is fixed by law. His presumption is bound to reflect on him as does always borrowed glory; and in view of the fact that he makes this the feature of his statement to the exclusion of practically anything else, it must be inferred that the governor has little to use as an excuse for asking the people to return him for another term.

Not so with Mr. Hammond. He has been a man of achievement in congress and has accomplished much for the benefit of his constituents and for the state as a whole.

* * *

What will the Bull Moosers do? That has become an important question for the reason that a serious complication may arise after June 16. Senator Ole Sageng is Mr. Halbert's choice, and though it is doubtful if he will be in the race for the governorship, he maybe. If so, it will be most unfortunate; not that Senator Sageng would not make a first-class governor, but because his candidacy for a third party would naturally tend to defeat the very thing which the Bull Moosers, the conference Republicans and the Democrats want to see brought about, namely, the ousting from the state government of the present inefficient "executive." Should Eberhart obtain a renomination by his party, Senator Sageng would split the opposition to such an extent that the governor would likely win. Wheelock's Weekly of Fergus Falls expresses this situation well in the following editorial:

The wiseacres are already electing one or another governor from the facts at command, but the struggle is too much complicated by unknown factors to enable anybody to do more than guess at the outcome this year. Congressman Hammond will undoubtedly get the Democratic nomination in competition with Dan Lawler of St. Paul, but the outcome of the Republican primaries is by no means so certain. Governor Eberhart has many sources of strength, and will work all of them to their utmost limit. Mr. Lee will have the strong backing of all the independent Republican elements of the state. It will be a pretty fight. The Progressives will also have one or more candidates in the field, and the Democratic and Republican winners will face a three-cornered contest this fall.

Out of the mass of predictions and forecasts, only one thing stands clear, namely that the real contest at the autumn election will be between the Democratic and Republican candidates. The nominee of the Progressives will be an important factor in deciding whether the Democrat or the Republican will win, but he can by no posibility hope to win himself. If he be a man of the same general beliefs and convictions as Mr. Hammond his candidacy will help to defeat Mr. Hammond. If he be a man whose views coincide in important particulars with those of the Republican candidate, he will help to defeat that candidate.

Let it be clearly understood from the outset that the candidate of the Progressive party in this state will be in effect merely a stool pigeon of one of the old parties.

* * *

Queries have been made as to the exclusion of the offices of judge of probate and county surveyor from the non-partisan law under which the elections are being held this year, many wondering why they are excepted. The office of judge of probate was excluded because it is provided for in a special bill, passed in the special session of 1912. The county surveyorships were excluded by virtue of an amendment to the non-partisan law introduced at the last minute by Senator W. W. Dunn of St. Paul. It is left open—in short is a free-for-all. No matter how many men file for this office they are put on the November ballot and are voted on then without having had a nomination. Senator Dunn declared that he was in favor of such a measure for all offices, and wished merely to try it on one office to see how it would work. Hence the exclusive position of the county surveyors.

F. A. Wilson, editor of the Bemidji Sentinel, has filed for the office of state senator from the Fifty-second district. It appears to be a "cinch" for him, as several other aspirants have withdrawn in his favor. So far, he is alone in the field. In view of this condition it is needless to say that Mr. Wilson is popular in his district; and he is popular elsewhere as well. He is a fearless and intelligent editor and has a political record which is absolutely clean. Others who hope to be in the senate from Northeastern Minnesota look forward with pleasure at having him for a colleague.

The Star-Republican of Rushford, Minn., in a recent issue makes an attack on the work of the recently held anti-machine Republican conference. There is nothing unusual about attacks of this kind in most cases but in this case it is a little bit different in view of the fact that Samuel G. Iverson, state auditor, recent candidate for the governorship indorsement before the anti-machine conference, and present stump speaker for William E. Lee who won in the conference, is said to be owner of the Star-Republican. Of course Mr. Iverson may have disposed of his holdings in the paper, and then, again, he may not have. At any rate the Preston Times, edited by Sam Langum, gleefully hints that Mr. Iverson is double-crossing Conference Candidate Lee, and quotes the following from the Star-Republican:

The promoting of the anti-machine conference was one of the master strokes of political manipulation in this state. It has been very apparent ever since the elimination idea was started that a political machine, seemingly headed by W. B. Lee, was being organized. Soon there was a well-organized combination with headquarters in the West hotel and sufficient funds to carry out its plans. So shrewdly did the promoters of this anti-machine conference work that they forced every candidate for governor in the field to accept the results of the conference, while they themselves, whoever was selected, would stand out as men who had saved the state of Minnesota from that awful machine politics. They must receive much credit for their work, and these men must necessarily be reckoned with when the candidate, if elected is in a position to return political favors. Neither must the political advertising received, which will aid them in attaining future political ambitions, be overlooked.

But, after all, what a farce was the anti-machine convention. One machine on the outside is organized for the purpose of defeating the machine now in possession of the offices and emoluments that they themselves may be able to enjoy the spoils. Can a few men interested in securing the offices for their organization meet and decide on a candidate for which the average citizen of the state shall vote? At least one-seventh of the counties of the state were not represented at all, and those represented were so mostly by self-styled or self-elected delegates. The primary system has its faults, but this anti-machine convention demonstrates how entirely the old convention system and machine politics work hand in hand.

No greater political stunt has been pulled off in this state since R. C. Dunn defeated the Van Sant-Collins machine in the state convention and the Van Sant-Collins machine joined the Democrats in defeating Dunn at the general election, thereby largely retaining the spoils, while Governor Johnson claimed, and also received, much credit for taking many appointive offices out of politics.

A conference of Democrats will be held in Duluth on the afternoon of April 25, for the purpose of adopting a congressional platform and trying to induce one or more Democrats to file for the Democratic congressional nomination in the Eighth district. Rumor uses the names of several leading Democrats but nothing seems to have crystallized, and nothing is known as to the ideas of those mentioned about the matter.

* * *

Chairman J. A. Farrell of the recent county Democratic conference has named the St. Louis county committee and a call for a meeting will be issued soon. It is likely that it will be called to meet on the same day as the congressional district conference. The committee consists of the following: At large—Alfred Jaques, Andrew Nelson, John Jenswold, Jr., C. O. Baldwin, John Kenny, Harris Bennett, Walter Gonska and E. A. Furni of Duluth; J. B. Connors, Hibbing, and Michael Boylan, Virginia.

Duluth—First ward, T. J. McKeon; Second, Joseph Krieger; Third, Frank Jordan; Fourth, George Neff; Fifth, H. C. Ribenack; Sixth, Louis Levine; Seventh, James Hart, Jr.; Eighth, P. H. Martin.

BOTH WETS AND DRYS SEEK LOST MINISTER.

Danville, Ill., April 13.—Twelve days of search by churches, individuals and private detective agencies have failed to reveal a trace of Rev. Louis R. Patmont of Milwaukee, who disappeared in Westville in Vermillion county. He was last seen on the outskirts of the village about 6:30 o'clock March 31.

Rev. Mr. Patmont went to Westville to participate in the anti-saloon fight. On April 7 Georgetown township went wet by a vote of 2,691 to 1,287. In Westville, the woman vote was 611 wet and 113 dry. April 21, the city of Danville will vote on the saloon question.

The disappearance of the Milwaukee minister is being made part of the campaign of both sides. Danville minisiters charge that sympathizers of the saloon have kidnaped or made away with Patmont. The saloon forces counter charge that the drys are concealing the minister for the effect to be gained in the Danville election. Both sides have engaged private detectives to search for the missing man.

STOOD TOO NEAR THE TRACK WHEN CAR WAS TURNING CURVE.

HE STOOD TOO NEAR THE TRACK

DON'T stand too close to a car when it is turning a corner or curve.

Remember that the ends of a car project some distance outside the track when it is making a turn. Give it all the room it needs and some to spare. Don't try to see how closely you can judge the distance the front or rear end will project. Think of SAFETY FIRST. The least that could happen if you misjudge the distance is a nasty fall; the worst, a fatal accident.

EVELETH MAN WOULD LEAVE STATE PRISON

J. P. TREDDINNECK.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. P. Treddinneck, formerly engaged in the brokerage business here, and well known in Duluth, who was given an indeterminate sentence in Stillwater penitentiary Feb. 10, 1912, after pleading guilty to embezzling a large amount of money from range clients, is seeking a parole, and it is understood his case will come up before the parole board at Stillwater today. Several local people are said to have written to the board urging that he be released. Public sentiment appears to be divided as to whether he should be freed. Treddinneck, in making his application for parole claims that he has been offered a lucrative position, and that if released will be in a position to earn something toward paying back the people he wronged.

The long search for Treddinneck who was finally captured on the coast furnished a sensation at the time. It has been claimed that he took as much as $30,000 from clients on the range.

HIBBING CHILD IS AUTO VICTIM

Run Down and Almost Instantly Killed By Whiteside Mine Machine.

Hibbing, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Maras, the 4-year-old son of Steve Maras, a prominent local Austrian, was almost instantly killed late yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile. The boy was taken at once to the Rood hospital in the car which struck him but died within a few minutes after he arrived there.

Car Going Slowly.

According to eye witnesses the car which was driven by an employe of the Whiteside mine was traveling at a slow rate of speed owing to the congested condition of the crossing at Third avenue and Pine street where the accident took place. The boy, it is claimed, suddenly ran into the street while playing with his comrades and fell under the wheel which passed over his body.

This is the third automobile accident this season in which fatalities have occurred, the young sons of George Wood and Frank E. Christmas being the other victims.

He is to get $10 per month for the rest of his natural life from the purchaser. Although McDonald is very old, claiming to have been born in Scotland in 1815 on the day the battle of Waterloo was fought, he is remarkably healthy and promises to live considerably over the century mark.

He has been a character in this section for years, living a hermit's life and so far as known has no relatives in this locality.

He is said to have received $2 per bushel for the potatoes he sold here way back in the early days when he got his soubriquet of "Potato" McDonald.

D. G. KERR LOOKING OVER BIG MINES

Vice President of Steel Corporation Is on Western Mesaba.

Virginia, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vice President D. G. Kerr of the United States Steel corporation who has charge of the ore properties is looking over the Mesaba range. He spent yesterday on the eastern part of the range and left here this morning for Coleraine and other points on the Western Mesaba. The party travels by special and consist of the following besides Mr. Kerr: E. H. Utley of Pittsburg, vice president of the Bessemer and Lake Erie railroad; MacGilvary Shires of Pittsburg, ore agent for the Carnegie Steel company; Pentecost Mitchell, vice president of the Oliver Iron Mining company; John McLean, general manager; J. H. Hearding, assistant manager, and Guy A. Diehl, assistant chief engineer of the Oliver Iron Mining company, and W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth Missabe & Northern railroad.

Knows Nothing of Prices.

Mr. Kerr stated that so far as he know no ore prices had yet been fixed and none would be fixed until there had been a sale. He knew nothing of the reported sale of a big lot of ore at a reduction of from 40 to 60 cents per ton. He said his trip was merely one of inspection.

Only Inspection Trip.

Hibbing, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—That his visit was purely one of inspection and that it had nothing to do with the fixing of the price of ore, for which all mining men are waiting with more than a little anxiety, was the statement made by D. G. Kerr of New York, vice president of the United States Steel corporation who was in Hibbing for several hours yesterday with a party of Eastern and Duluth mining men.

"We are simply on our annual trip of inspection," said Mr. Kerr in an interview yesterday afternoon," we have had splendid weather so far and we hope that it will continue for the rest of our trip."

"It is rumored that the price of ore is to be materially reduced and that as a consequence several of the companies operating on this range will shut down their properties, can you give us any information regarding that?" was the direct query put to Mr. Kerr.

"So far as I know there has not been a single sale of ore this season, so that we have nothing to base the price on," answered Mr. Kerr. "There may have been sales but they have been based on the price that will be fixed."

MINING IN EVELETH.

Reported Property Will Be Developed in City Limits.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—That a piece of property owned by the John A. Savage company within the corporate limits of this city is to be developed at once as an open pit mine is the substance of a report current here.

The property is located between the business part of the city and the Adams mine and is said to contain a large deposit of Bessemer. The overburden is light, it is said, and it is expected that stripping operations will begin in a short time. The dump will probably be located along the Eveleth-Virginia road.

Mr. Savage was formerly superintendent for the Shenango Furnace company and is an experienced mining man.

Boys are suspected of having committed recent burglaries here but the police have not been able as yet to fix the guilt on any one.

Mayor J. J. Gleason has suggested to the city council that a city juvenile officer be appointed to keep the boys off the streets and away from the pool halls in the evenings.

Stock acted as presiding officer.

COLERAINE WILL HAVE BOAT CLUB.

Coleraine, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coleraine is to have a boat club. Already the promoters have secured subscriptions for $5,000 worth of stock, and steps are being taken to incorporate, elect directors and proceed at once with the erection of the boat house and dock.

Spies has checked the books of the village for the past five years and has recommended special favorable comment for F. L. Austin, deputy recorder, in the conduct of the office. His report will reach the council in about two weeks.

The spending of half a million dollars by the village last year at first staggered the auditor, but when the assets were computed he was well pleased to learn that so much of the money went into permanent improvements.

THREE DROWNED IN RAINY RIVER

Albert Weeks, Formerly of International Falls, Among Victims.

International Falls, Minn., April 13.—Albert Weeks, a former International Lumber company cruiser, and who until recently made his home here, met death by drowning in Rainy river Saturday with two companions at a point opposite Barwick, a Canadian town east of here, while attempting to cross Rainy river in a small canoe. There were four men in the craft, but the fourth, George Smart, was saved by a man who heard his cries for help.

Those drowned were:
CARL HAGLUND.
E. ERICKSON.
ALBERT WEEKS.
The bodies of Weeks and one other were recovered.

The men attempted to cross in the face of a heavy wind and had reached the middle of the river when they lost control of their canoe, which capsized.

Weeks Had Homestead.

Mr. Weeks had a homestead on the American side opposite Barwick, where he was residing with his family, which accounts for his presence at the point where the drowning occurred. It is understood his companions were from Littlefork and were members of the Eagles' lodge of that place, which body has taken steps to care for the bodies.

Mr. Weeks was well known in this city and throughout the northern part of the county. He served with the International Lumber company for years as a buyer and scaler. He had for the past year been devoting his time to making a farm out of his homestead and had accomplished much in that direction.

He leaves a wife and one or two small children.

A TONIC FOR DYSPEPTICS

When food lies undigested in the stomach it ferments and gas forms. This gas distends the stomach and presses on the heart, causing a pain that sometimes arouses fear of heart trouble. The condition in which gas forms is caused by a low tone of the digestive organs and a lack of rich red blood resulting in deficient nerve force. It is a condition that calls for a tonic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic for the blood and nerves, have been used with great success in the treatment of this form of stomach trouble. Cold baths in the morning followed by brisk friction with a rough towel will help as they stimulate the circulation but a tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood, restoring the nerve force and making the stomach able to do its work gives the most lasting benefit. With their use the appetite increases, digestion becomes normal and improvement in the general health follows with certainty.

You are trying no experiment when you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cannot harm the most delicate system.

SAYS PEOPLE ARE MISLED

Senator Cummins Charges Campaign to Get Sentiment for Railroads.

Denounces Efforts to Get Favor for Rate Increase.

Washington, April 13.—Senator Cummins charged on the floor of the senate today that a persistent and widespread campaign was being conducted to arouse public sympathy for the request for a 5 per cent increase in freight rates on Eastern railroads, now pending before the interstate commerce commission. The senator expressed confidence that the commission would decide the question on its merits, but said the public was being misled by incorrect and exaggerated statements.

Senator Cummins compared the railroad situation with the Panama canal tolls question, declaring that an advance in railroad rates of 5 per cent will amount in one year to more than all the tolls paid by all the ships that will go through the canal in twelve or fifteen years, and more than American coastwise ships, if they paid full tolls, would be charged in half a century.

Persistent Campaign

"In connection with the proceedings before the commission," he continued, "there is in progress the most comprehensive, energetic, and persistent campaign that I have ever witnessed, to make the people of the country believe that the effort of the government to regulate railways, railway rates and railway practices has resulted in dismal, disastrous failure; that the government, in its endeavor to protect the people, has impoverished the transportation companies; that it has driven them to the very verge of bankruptcy and ruin; that it has destroyed their credit and rendered them incapable of performing the service which commerce demands; that it has outlawed them from the confidence of capital, and exiled them from the field of the investor.

How It Is Conducted.

"This extraordinary campaign has filled the newspapers with headlines, with dispatches, with letters and with editorials. It has taken possession of the magazines, out of which week after week issue appeals for justice to the decadent railroads and to despondent railroad managers, and it gives dinners and holds public banquets where the eloquence of orators paints lurid pictures of empty treasuries, of worn-out tracks, of falling bridges and dilapidated equipment."

Senator Cummins quoted from several magazine and newspaper stories giving accounts of how different railroads had been forced to discharge large numbers of employes and retrench in their expenditures.

Directed Toward People.

"I do not assert that the campaign is being carried on to affect the commission," he continued, "for the railroad companies know that it cannot be swerved a hair's breadth from the path of its duty; but I do assert that the movers of this campaign are trying to do an infinitely more objectionable thing. They are trying to mislead and pervert the judgment of the people. They are trying to awaken sympathy by false pretenses. They are trying to deceive the country with exaggerated cries of suffering and distress in order to escape the control which experience has demonstrated should be imposed upon all corporations which undertake a public service."

The senator denied that the people of the United States are hostile to the railroads and said that every one desired that all railroads be well constructed and well operated. He did not doubt that there were some rates which should be increased, and some which should be decreased.

Who Made the Rates.

Senator Cummins recalled that substantially all the railroad rates now prevailing were made by the railroads themselves; and added that in his opinion 95 per cent of the freight revenues of the railroads are derived from interstate freight rates made and published without interference upon the part of the government. He added that he believed that the physical condition of the railroads is better now than ever before in their history.

"It follows, of course," he went on, "that the railroad property devoted to the public service is more valuable at this moment than at any other moment since railroads began. We ought to understand that we are dealing with the most perfect and complete railroad system that this world has ever seen, prepared to render more and better service than it has ever rendered before, and all the declamations about railroads passing into decay and becoming unsafe or insufficient is the rankest, basest nonsense!"

Fair Return on Capital.

He took up what rate of return on an investment is generally accepted as fair.

He said that between 1890 and 1909 representative government bonds paid an average return of between 2.43 and 2.52 per cent in the United States; between 2.88 and 2.90 in Great Britain, and between 3.45 and 3.34 in Germany. Typical railroad bonds in 1909, he said, paid an average of from 3.87 to 4.14 on the investment.

Discussing the net revenues of the railroads, the senator said they amounted to $328,756,192 in 1890 and $814,331,842 in 1913, a net increase of 147.8 per cent over 1890. He added that the railroads have earned enough to pay 7 per cent upon all their capital stock, but generally pay no more than 5 per cent.

"It is almost unbelievable that in the face of these facts," he went on, "intelligent men will continue to denounce the attitude of the government toward the railroads as hostile or unjust."

He concluded by reading tables showing the quotations of railroad stocks in recent years, to demonstrate that railroad stocks from 1896 to 1914 not only were higher, but steadier than the industrial stocks or any other securities.

"Where the blazes—" "Where the blazes what?" "Where the blazes can I get some of those 'buckskin' socks?" "At any up-to-date men's clothing store, 20 cents."

MUST HEAR TRIAL BEFORE ENJOINING

Dry Cleaning Injunction Suit Must Be Decided on Merits.

Harry Silverman, manager of a dry cleaning establishment at 131 East Superior street, will not be obliged to close up shop during the pendancy of a lawsuit brought against him in district court by the Yale company which is seeking a permanent injunction restraining him from continuing in his present business.

Judge Bert Fesler today denied the application of the Yale company, a competitor, for a temporary injunction restraining Silverman from operating his business until the issues in the suit are tried on their merits. The decision follows a hearing held on Saturday on an order directing Silverman to show cause why the restraining order should not be issued against him. The court discharged the order to show cause.

The Yale company claims that when Silverman left its employ last January he was under contract to refrain from conducting a dry cleaning business in Duluth for a period of five years. Silverman claims that the company discharged him as manager of its dry cleaning department and that the contract was void.

In denying the application for a temporary injunction, the court stated in its memorandum:

"As it is well understood, the grant or refusal of the relief sought on this hearing is in the discretion of the court, operating in quite a broad field, it is hardly worth while to give a reason for the order. But the view of the court is, first, that the effect of granting the relief could would be so disastrous to the defendant that it ought not to be granted on a preliminary hearing unless the right to it be obvious; and second, that the the provisions of the contract, for breach of which the remedy is sought, are so one-sided, although not illegally so, that the court cannot be expected to favor the plaintiff in the construction or enforcement of it on a preliminary hearing.

"Remedy by damages for breach of contract is no doubt also inadequate for the reason that the amount of such damages is difficult of ascertainment; but the very difficulty of the situation has led the court to conclude that any relief granted should be after trial on the merits.

"Practically the entire business of the defendant would be destroyed by granting the order sought. Only a comparatively small portion of the plaintiff's business is affected by the delay until trial on the merits. Having in mind the facts in the particular case and the relative injury and inconvenience which may be likely to result to the parties from the allowance or disallowance of the relief sought, a long line of decisions of our supreme court warrant the order made."

MINNEAPOLIS LADY BADLY SCALDED WHILE COOKING

While preparing dinner a young Minneapolis wife had the misfortune to scald her hand so badly that over half the skin came off. She was alone at the time and rushed over to her neighbor's for help. This neighbor promptly applied Allen's Ulcerine Salve and in ten days the hand was completely healed without a scar.

This salve is one of the oldest remedies in America and since 1869 it has been known as the only salve powerful enough to cure chronic ulcers and old sores of long standing. Because it is so powerful, it will heal burns and scalds without a scar in a remarkably short time.

Allen's Ulcerine Salve heals from the bottom up and draws out the poisons. If applied on new cuts and sores it heals in one-third the time that common salves and liniments take. Sold by the Spencer Pharmacy and other leading druggists.

COUNTY IS MONEY AHEAD

Gravel on the St. Vincent Road Route Will Save $50,000.

County Auditor Lets Contract for State Highway to Dahl & Co.

A saving of $50,000 in the cost of the construction of State Rural Highway No. 4, the St. Louis county portion of the Duluth-St. Vincent road, the contract for which was let today, has been made possible by the location of a gravel road on the right-of-way of the proposed road from which the county will furnish free to contractors all gravel which is needed for the work.

The big saving in the cost of the road is largely due to the efforts of County Auditor Odin Halden and County Commissioner Charles Kauppi, who were instrumental in securing the free gravel. The bed from which the gravel will be taken is located in section 2, 51-19, through which the Duluth-St. Vincent highway will be built.

The bed is owned by the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company. County Auditor Halden has secured permission from the railroad company for the county to use as much of the gravel as is needed in making public improvements. Several million yards are known to be available and as gravel is a scarce article in St. Louis county the find is considered a very valuable one. According to the estimate of County Road Engineer E. K. Coe, the construction of the road would have cost $50,000 more if the gravel had to be secured elsewhere.

Gravel Approved.

Last week, George W. Cooley, state highway engineer, in conference with a committee from the county board, the county auditor and the county road engineer, inspected samples of the gravel and approved the use of the gravel in the construction of the proposed state rural highway.

Contract Is Let.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock, County Auditor Halden officially let the contract for the construction of the highway to E. A. Dahl & Co., whose bid for the construction of the entire road was the lowest, $126,772. Bids for the construction of the road were opened by the county auditor Saturday. There were several bidders for various portions of the work and for the entire job as one contract. The only other bidder for the entire job was King & Runquist, whose bid was $209,460.10.

The road will extend from the intersection of the Culver and Miller trunk roads directly west to Floodwood and thence in a northwesterly direction to the Aitkin county line. When completed it will be one of the finest highways in the county, if not in the state. It will open up a direct route from Duluth to Floodwood, something which has been needed for years and which will be greatly appreciated by the farmers of that vicinity. The contracts for the bridges along the highway have already been let. Bids on the construction of the road proper were rejected twice before.

The contract executed today must be completed by April 1, 1916. It is expected, however, that the road will be ready for use some time before that. It will be built under the Elwell law.

FINE POINT IS RAISED

Are Men Employed on Piece Work "Independent Contractors?"

Whether laborers employed by lumber companies and other corporations at piece work are independent contractors within the meaning of the law, or whether they come within the terms of the working men's compensation law, is a question which is being submitted today to Judge Bert Fesler of the district court.

Judge Fesler today is hearing the contested claim of Stanley Boshko against the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company. Boshko is demanding $1,050 damages for the loss of an eye, Dec. 29, 1913, while employed by the company in one of the company's camps. He was being paid for his work by the piece, but was furnished his tools by the company.

Charles E. Adams, attorney for Boshko, argued to the court this morning that the system of hiring men by the piece as "independent contractors" was a fraudulent device employed by the company to evade responsibility under the law for any injuries which might occur. Howard T. Abbott appeared at attorney for the company.

The piece work question has never been raised before, and the decision is looked forward to with interest.

Superior

Would Add to City.

A movement is said to be under way to have a part of the township of Superior included in the limits of the city of Superior. It is said that the part that is wanted includes the saloons operated by A. Jacob and Pete Farley, both of which were voted out of the township in the recent election. No blanks for this purpose have as yet been furnished by the county clerk.

Held on State Charge.

Peter Swanson, a saloon keeper on lower Tower avenue, and Mrs. Francis Weddell, were arrested this morning on a charge of adultery preferred by Mrs. Swanson. Swanson and the Waddell woman were arrested at the home of the latte. Both pleaded not guilty in police court this morning and hearing was set for Thursday. They were released on $500 bail.

ALBERT F. DOD IS A BENEDICT.

Albert F. Dod, a well known newspaper man of Superior and Miss Florence Patterson, daughter of W. J. Patterson, Superior's city comptroller, were married last night. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Patrick Kenny at St. Anthony's rectory, Minneapolis.

Overcome By Gas.

Peter Hagen and Olaf Dedrickson were found Saturday afternoon in an unconscious condition in their room at 611 Grand avenue, overcome by coal gas. The men had not arisen in the morning and the landlady in charge of the rooming house becoming alarmed, broke into the rooms. Both men were removed to St. Mary's hospital, where it is believed they will recover.

Will Open Paving Bids.

Bids for the paving of Cummings avenue will be opened this afternoon by the city commission. A number of bids have been submitted by contractors. The thoroughfare is to be paved from Winter to Twenty-first street, a distance of twelve blocks.

"American Party" Is Incorporated—May Name Him for Governor.

Albany, N. Y., April 13.—What was regarded in political circles as possibly William Sulzer's initial step toward a race for the governorship next fall, was the incorporation today of "the American party."

Among the incorporators were Col. Alexander S. Bacon and Samuel Bell Thomas, formerly attorneys for Sulzer, and Emil Koarick, who acted as bodyguard to the former governor while he was in office. Chester O. Platt, formerly the governor's secretary, filed the papers.

Some of the purposes of the party, as set forth in the incorporation papers, are to "drive out corrupt politicians, advocate election reforms, promote progressive legislation, bring about greater constitutional powers in the government to fight corrupt practices and to make peace between capital and labor."

REPORTS ARE CONTRADICTORY

Conflicting Statements Are Made Regarding Painters' Strike Conditions.

Contradictory reports are still being given out regarding the strike declared last week by the painters, paperhangers and interior decorators' union. Union men declare that all but five contractors have secretely signed contracts with them while the contractors maintain absolute silence except to state that they know of none of their number who have accepted such terms.

One of the contractors said today that they had not had any meeting since last Saturday and none was contemplated. Union men say that the majority of the strikers have gone to work for their former employers and that the strike is about settled.

The painters issued a statement Saturday afternoon in which they gave a summary of their relations with the contractors, enumerating the various demands made in the past, and the concessions made by their employers. The two points at issue at this time, the report states, are the demand for a Saturday half-holiday and a preferential union shop.

The master painters in a statement severely criticized the action of the union and non-union men alike. Upon this one point rests all the contention according to the contractors, as the latter maintain they were willing to grant the half-holiday.

WANTS INQUIRY INTO STEEL TRADE WAGES

Representative Lobeck of Nebraska Offers Resolution.

Washington, April 13.—Investigation by the department of commerce of wages in the steel industry was asked in a resolution today by Representative Lobbeck, Democrat, of Nebraska. The resolution declared "that a number of residents of so-called independent steel manufacturing companies recently met in Pittsburg for the purpose of arranging a uniform reduction in wages."

JACKSON SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Fred Jackson, who pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree when arraigned before Judge Dancer in district court Saturday afternoon, was sentenced to the state penitentiary on the indeterminate plan. Jackson admitted that he had broken into the hardware store of A. O. Geise, 103 West First street on the night of March 10 and had stolen $25 in cash and other valuables. He is the man who is reported by the police to have confessed to a series of eleven burglaries since December 1912.

GUN CLUB SCORES.

Strong Wind Interferes With Attempts to Make Good Marks.

The West End Gun club held its regular weekly shoot yesterday and made fair records, but not what the members expected. The high wind interfered badly and handicapped the marksmen. Following were the scores:

LEAKING LINER HEADS FOR AZORES.

London, April 13.—The French liner Niagara, which sailed from Havre April 4 for New York, has sprung a leak and is steaming for the Azores. A wireless message dated April 9 was received today from the Niagara conveying this information.

At the time the message was sent the steamer was in latitude 46, longitude 34, and therefore was considerably to the northwest of the Azores. The leak is in No. 1 hold.

Last February the Niagara broke down in the Atlantic on the way to New York 135 miles off Ushant. She put back with her 150 passengers to Havre, having lost her starboard propeller and having been otherwise badly damaged by the terrific storm.

ROOSEVELT AND WILSON PRAISED.

Charlottesville, Va., April 13.—Exercises celebrating the ninety-fifth anniversary of the founding of the University of Virginia were held today on the university campus. James M. Beck of New York was orator of the day, speaking on "Thomas Jefferson, the Scholar in Politics." In the course of his address he paid tribute to Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

THE QUESTION OF THE GIRL.

Edward S. Martin in Harper's Magazine: We keep hearing that the world has changed so much; is changing so fast; and especially for girls. People wonder whether anywhere there are back-waters where children are being brought up as they used to be. The suggestion is abroad—very disquieting to a good many people—that everything in the world, including the institutions and the human beings, is about to be different from what it has been, and that the change is now in full course and going fast. Old-fashioned people are getting rattled, and begin to inspect one another, with the kind of attention that one pays to menagerie animals, as examples of a species about to become extinct.

Still, for the moment, it is permitted to deprecate these anxieties. Things do move, to be sure, but there are still considerations that may keep up hope in folks who have agreeable memories of the world as it lately was, and prefer that it should not do a lightning change into a brand-new place peopled with complete strangers. We hear of the great change in children: how differently nowadays they are taught, clothed, trained, by methods unfamiliar to most of their elders, to ends that seem hypothetical and untried. And especially the girls. We are constantly invited to predict what the girls are going to be and do and what is going to happen to the world in consequence. The old-fashioned girls got married and—well—here we are! But these new-fashioned girls that are just about to be—can our old-fashioned world be altered sufficiently to suit them? Can the venerable institution of marriage have enough tucks let out in it to be a loose enough garment for their audacious requirements? Can man be trained to be wise enough or of a sufficent submissiveness for them to marry? And when they are done, will wary young men dare to love them?

Of course, if the girls are going to be different it's a serious thing, unless the boys and all the rest of creation are nicely adjusted to the change in them. Either a sufficient proportion of the girls must match the rest of the terrestrial institution, or the institution must match the girls. Otherwise things can't go on.

MARKET OFF AT THE CLOSE

Wheat Declines on Light Demand and Weakness in Coarse Grains.

Flaxseed Advances With Strength at Winnipeg and By Good Inquiry.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 13.—The market turned weak at the close with a break in coarse grains. May wheat closed ⅜c off; July ⅜c off and September ⅞c off at 87⅝c. May durum closed ⅜c off and July ⅜c off.

Oats closed ⅞c off at 34¼c, and rye closed unchanged at 54½@56½c for the best grades.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 35⅛c and July at 36⅛c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis, May wheat closed at 87⅛c bid and calls at 87⅞c bid.

Trading in the wheat market was dull and featureless today. After easing off fractionally around the opening, quotations firmed up and stood at Saturday's closing basis at the final hour.

Reports from over the winter wheat territory were bearish, telling of continued high condition with no damages resulting from the recent cold weather. Experts by all accounts, had been unable to find any traces of injury from green bugs through Oklahoma and Kansas. The weather is warming up in the Northwest, and farmers are said to have started seeding in some sections of North Dakota.

Inquiry from the East on the Duluth market was advised and some business was reported to have been put through. So far no charterings of steamers for grain to Buffalo have been effected, but with the opening of navigation now placed at around April 25 or 28, inquiries are looked for by vesselmen this week.

With Liverpool closed, traders had no line on the situation over there. World's shipments were larger than had been expected at 11,646,000 bu. but the news from Russia was bullish, with receipts at the seaports affected by unfavorable weather conditions.

Marketings at Duluth were in small volume last week amounting to 401,000 bu and shipments were the smallest in a considerable period back, aggregating just 80,000 bu of which 74,000 bu were taken by the mills. Receipts here today were 32 cars against 35 last year and there were 55 cars of all grains on the tracks for the day. There was another rush here of bonded grain 46 cars, of which 30 cars were wheat, coming to hand.

May wheat opened unchanged at 90c and held at that basis up till the closing hour. The July option opened unchanged at 91¼c and did not move. Durum was inclined to be weak on light inquiry. May durum opened unchanged at 87c and weakened ⅛c. The July option opened unchanged at 88⅜c and sold off ¼c.

Flax Turns Strong.

The market in flaxseed turned strong after its sharp breaks of last week. There was fair buying by crushers and operators during the session and quotations at the close showed advances of 1¼@½c.

Winnipeg advanced right from the opening, the putting through of some export business being intimated.

Buenos Aires closed ½c up, but all the other foreign markets were closed.

May flax opened ¼c off at $1.53 and closed 1½c up at $1.54¾ asked. The July option opened ⅛c up at $1.55¼ and closed 1¼c up at $1.56⅜ asked, and the September option opened unchanged at $1.55½ and closed 1⅜c up at $1.56⅞ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.35⅞.

Baker had the following wire from Wellington, Kan.: "Wheat is in good condition and the plant is now getting into jointing stage. There has been no damage to wheat or oats from the recent cold weather. The government entomologist tells me he has found no bugs and all samples of green bugs sent him from Oklahoma were not of the genuine character. The chinch bugs suffered this winter as never before. He says 90 per cent are gone. The Hessian fly may be there, but there is such a world of wheat they may create no damage of importance."

Parker Payne received the following wire from Chicago: "Broomhall says rain is badly needed in Germany for the growing wheat crop. Special cables late last week said wheat stocks are decreasing at Odessa and arrivals are disappointing. The advices from Australia are on the side of buyers. As an offset the trade has world's shipments for the week much larger than indicated Saturday. It is probable that the market will turn very largely on the Southwest crop news. If there is any indication of spread of green bugs the trade and the country will buy actively. Even without positively bullish news from that quarter the crop promise is largely discounted."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Good Weather Helps Put Selling Pressure on Wheat.

Chicago, April 13.—Favorable weather and lack of damage reports led today to a good deal of selling pressure on wheat. Kansas advices told of the winter crop entering the jointing stage without showing any evidence of harm from recent cold. There were also reports of improved seeding conditions for spring wheat. Quotations started a shade to ¼@⅜c lower and later suffered a material further decline.

Subsequently the market rallied as a result of greenbugs being discovered in Brown county, Kan. The effect on prices, however, gradually wore off. Closing figures were weak at a decline of ⅛c to ⅜c net.

Pit speculators for the most part took to the selling side of corn. Belief grew that financial stringency in Argentina due to failure of the wheat crop would result in continued sacrifice offerings of Argentine corn. The market opened a sixteenth to ¼@⅜c off and underwent an additional setback.

Afterward shorts covering brought about a temporary reaction. The close was weak, 1⅛@1¼c to 1⅝c net lower.

Liquidating sales formed the rule in the oats crowd. May in particular was thrown overboard by holders. Bearish influence came chiefly from the better seeding outlook.

Provisions ascended with hogs. First transactions were 2½ to 5c higher and the strength was well maintained.

DECLINE IN STOCKS

Break in Steel Has Damaging Influence on the Market.

Stocks Are Poured Out Freely and the Close Is Weak.

New York, April 13.—Urgent selling of special stocks held back the whole market for a time today. Speculative interest centered in Steel on account of heavy liquidation and short selling. Discouraging news from the steel trade and reports of further curtailment of working forces on the part of railroads and industrial concerns, were used to facilitate short selling, but the movement was small except in stocks against which pressure was concentrated.

After Steel had been broken under 60, it responded to covering and made a full recovery. The remainder of the list hardened with the principal railroad shares rising ½ to 1½ above Saturday's close.

Bonds were easy.

Steel was again under pressure at the opening today. It lost half on the first transaction of 4,000 shares. Canadian Pacific sold under 198 for the first time during its present decline. Changes in general were small and irregular.

Heavy selling of United States Steel lowered it to 59¾ and depressed minor steel properties. Spread of weakness elsewhere subsequently checked by a good rally in United States Steel and Canadian Pacific.

The early afternoon market was dull and drifting with prices shading somewhat. Rumely shares continued to lose ground. General Motors was active and gained 3½ points on reports of exceptional earnings.

Standard railroad stocks displayed more sympathy later with the pronounced weakness of various industrials. United States Steel again sagged under 60 and the active list generally relapsed to the early low figures or below.

Great Northern and Baltimore & Ohio were conspicuously in the latter reaction, losing about a point each. Cleveland, C., C. & St. Louis sold at 25, compared with the previous sale at 38 on Feb. 20.

The market closed weak. Stocks were poured out freely. A break in Steel to 59⅝ had a damaging influence.

COPPER ISSUES DEVELOP WEAKNESS

Quotations Decline Moderately on Light Trading; Break in Granby.

Outside of a few specialties, business in mining stocks was limited at Boston today and quotations declined moderately. The break on Wall street had an unsettling effect on mining issues generally.

At a special meeting, held on Saturday afternoon, shareholders of the Cuyuna-Duluth Iron company ratified the plan of consolidations with the American Manganese Manufacturing company.

For each 100 shares of stock held by them, shareholders of the Cuyuna Duluth will receive two shares of preferred stock of a par value of $100, and 3½ shares of common stock of a par value of $175 in the new company. F. W. Stevenson of Minneapolis, and C. B. Rowley of Brainerd, Minn., were elected to represent the company on the board of directors of the American Manganese Manufacturing company.

RESUMES HEARINGS AS TO TOLLS REPEAL

Senate Committee Hears Commissioner Chamberlain Approve Bill.

Washington, April 13.—The senate canals committee today resumed public hearings on the tolls repeal bill with E. T. Chamberlain, commissioner of the bureau of navigation, as the first witness. The commissioner declared his belief that under the treaty the United States had no right to exempt its ships unless the government absorbed the proportionate charges for the operation of the canal properly assessable against such shipments. He believed this should be done either by collecting and remitting tolls on all ships, or by direct subsidy.

Senator O'Gorman sought to show by extracts from reports made by the commissioner that he had not always held such an opinion. Senator O'Gorman said it generally was assumed that 92 per cent of the coastwise traffic was in railroad-owned ships, which the law bars from the canal, and on that proportion there would be few American coastwise ships to enjoy a tolls exemption.

"That is assuming," remarked Senator Thomas, "that the railroads don't beat the devil around the stump and get through the canal anyway."

Senator O'Gorman conducted a line of questioning to show that no tolls were charged to ships in inland canals and waterways of the United States.

LIGHT ON MURDER OF TEN YEARS AGO

Chauffeur May Have Been Killed By Henry Spencer.

Joliet, Ill., April 13.—The unsolved mystery of the murder in Chicago ten years ago of John W. Bates, a taxicab driver, was cleared up here today, it was asserted, when information was offered that the slayer was Henry Spencer, the "tango" murderer now awaiting the execution of his sentence for the murder of Mildred Allison Rexroat at Wheaton last fall.

Bates was called the night of Nov. 18, 1904, to take a "Mr. Dove," a guest at a Chicago hotel, on a long drive. Bates was found murdered the next day. "Dove" disappeared.

A mysterious man, generally supposed to have been "Dove," arrived in Joliet the morning after the murder, remained two days in seclusion at the boarding house of a Mrs. Hausser, and left suddenly a few minutes before the arrival of Chicago detectives. A suit case containing bloody garments was left in Dove's room. He had inquired at a drug store for something to take out blood stains.

Mrs. Hausser, her son-in-law, John Smith, and the drug clerk today identified portraits of Spencer as likenesses of "Dove." They will be taken to Wheaton today or tomorrow to see Spencer in his cell.

DELAY BIDS ON THE INTER-OCEAN.

Chicago, April 13.—Receipt of bids for the property of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, one of the oldest of Chicago's daily newspapers, in the Federal court here was postponed today until April 18, at the request of counsel, who intimated that it would be to the interest of the parties to allow another week to elapse before closing the matter.

The courtroom was crowded with several hundreds of persons interested in the disposition of the newspaper, which for some months has been in the hands of receivers.

OFFERS MORE BLOOD TO SAVE BROTHER

Man Who Had Already Given Quart Sacrifices Still More.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 13.—The condition of John C. C. Mayo, the wealthy Kentucky mine owner, and member of the Democratic national committee, became such today that another transfusion of blood from the veins of his brother was necessary.

William Mayo, who recently gave up a quart of blood in an operation of this character, and has volunteered for as many more operations as the surgeons desire, submitted to the operation, though its success is problematical.

Missing Boy Frostbitten.

Williston, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—His fingers and toes badly frostbitten, after he spent a night in the willows skirting the Missouri river near here, John, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Bais, of Buford, was found by searchers who had spent the entire night looking for him.

TWO INFINITIES?

New York American: Can there be two kinds of infinities; or two infinite spaces? The nearest star is distant 25,000,000,000,000 miles. Go write a row of units 111111... to the star and let each unit represent 1 mile; then the distance represented by a line of 1s, 25,000,000,000,000 miles long, submerges all human powers of imagination. But write a row of 222222. 25,000,000,000,000 miles long, then the number of miles represented will be twice as great. Then write a row of 999999... equally as long, and the distance expressed would be nine times as great as that expressed by the 1s. But no human can think of the distance expressed by the 1s. Let the first row of figures extend 25,000,000,000,000 or 50,000,000,000,000 or 1,000,000,000,000,000 miles to the east; then a row could be extended toward the west. Many millions of years would be required to write the the long rows. Suppose you write 9s both ways during 1,000,000,000 years each. Then the distance in miles would be thinner than a spiker's thread compared to an infinite distance. There are possibly fifty persons now living able to think one new thought; they are the mighty of the earth; and are all transcendent mathematicians. Not one of these even tries to begin to think of infinity or eternity. They all know better. Only the superficial strive to think of the two words. I can not even hope to secure a glimpse, lasting a thousandth part of one second, of the meaning of the following list of words: Mind, space, time, duration, infinity, eternity, beginning, end, space and electrons.

THE NEW CURRENCY BILL

is not nearly of so much personal importance to you as the new dollar bill you have stowed away in your pocket.

Congress may debate. Bankers may petition. Orators may orate. Well and good. But after all you are much more interested in knowing where you can get 100 cents worth of goods or service for that dollar of your own.

You are not so much interested in the price of bonds in Mexico, but you DO want to know about the best market at your own front door.

You find that the very best and most up-to-the-minute guide to this market is the advertising in The Herald.

The advertising tells you what goods are being offered and where and what the prices are.

People who get the most for their money are the students of advertising. They buy with knowledge. They buy where dealers are competitors and that insures the lowest market price.

Get All the Facts You Can

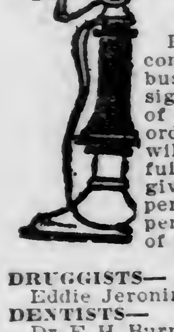
No one ever had too much information. Some of us appear to think we "know it all"—but really we all know that our fund of information is decidedly limited.

Each day and each hour has something to teach us and if we are wise we will learn.

The Herald, for instance, is full of interesting information. Some parts of it will be useful to you—other parts to someone else.

Perhaps the most important information is that conveyed by the advertisements.

They are live personal messages about merchandise and service. They are planned in a spirit of co-operation—to be helpful to you and to the man who is paying for them.



He can only hope to profit by making his announcement of service to you.

He believes he has what people are looking for; and he comes out frankly and tells them exactly what he has.

It is the fair and above-board way of doing things. It is applying the first principle of the rule of the Square Deal—the rule on which modern business successes are built.

SEVEN LOSE LIFE IN FLAMES THAT WRECK BOSTON APARTMENTS

Tenants, Trapped in Small Suites, Shriek for Help.

Some Have to Crawl Along Copings to Fire Escapes.

Sixteen Seriously Injured and Seventy-Five in Peril.

Boston, Mass., April 14.—Seven persons were killed, 16 seriously injured and 21 families, totaling 75 individuals, were endangered in an early morning fire that wrecked the Melvin, a five-story brick apartment house at the corner of Commonwealth and Long avenues in the Allston district.

The dead:

MRS. C. L. SHACKFORD.

MRS. H. E. BEMIS.

MRS. F. C. BEHARRELL, sister of Mrs. Bemis.

JAMES RAYMOND POWER, MRS. POWER and their INFANT SON.

MISS MARY CONNORS, Mrs. Power's maid.

Trapped in Their Suites.

Nearly all of the suites were small kitchenette apartments in which the occupants were trapped as the flames raced through each story. Men, women and children were standing on window ledges shrieking for help when the firemen arrived. Some reached the ground by crawling along narrow copings to fire escapes. Others managed to reach small balconies on the front of the house, from which they were taken down on fire ladders.

It was not until hours after the blaze had been extinguished that the casualty list could be made up.

Mrs. Shackford and Mrs. Bemis met death by jumping, one from the fourth floor and the other from the fifth. The bodies of the other victims were found on the fifth floor, two hours after the

BLACKMAILER HELD GUILTY OF MURDER

Convicted of Shooting Detective Who Placed Decoy Package.

Ogden, Utah, April 14.—Joseph Henry Martin, alleged to be the leader of a gang of blackmailing bandits who terrorized Ogden for several years, was found guilty last night by a jury in the district court on the charge of shooting Detective David Edwards on the early morning of Nov. 9, 1913. Edwards was shot while disguised in the clothes of Le Roy Eccles, Ogden millionaire, and attempting to deceive the blackmailers into the belief that he was delivering a satchel filled with money demanded by letter and telephone.

JACK JOHNSON WINS APPEAL

United States Court of Appeals Grants Him New Trial.

Fails to Find Him Guilty of Trafficking in Vice.

Chicago, April 14.—Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, today was granted a new trial on the Mann act charges under which he was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary and $1,000 fine. The United States court of appeals reversed the decision of the lower court on certain of the counts in Johnson's indictment.

By the decision Johnson's case is returned to the low court for resentence on one of the counts in connection with Johnson's transportation from Pittsburg to Chicago of Belle Schreiber, a white woman. On the count concerning violation of the commercial clause of the Mann act, a retrial is ordered, as the upper court held that Johnson had not been guilty of trafficking in vice.

According to United States District Attorney Wilkeson the situation of Johnson's bond is unchanged. Date for the retrial will be set in the Federal court here thirty days from today and the pugilist must be present on the new trial date or forfeit his bond.

WHERE DOROTHY ARNOLD MAY HAVE DIED

PITTSBURG'S "HOUSE OF MYSTERY."

LUCY D. ORR.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 14.—In a house on the bluffs overlooking the Ohio river at Bellevue, Dorothy Arnold died, if the police of Pittsburg are not mistaken. The house has been used ostensibly as a hospital. Last week the police raided it and arrested Dr. C. C. Meredith, the person in charge, who is suspected of performing illegal operations on women and burning their bodies in the furnace. Two big furnaces were found in the basement of the house. Dorothy Arnold's father says he has heard of this house before and that his family attorney were there at the time it was reported Dorothy Arnold was a patient, examined all the patients then in the house, and reported that Dorothy was not among them. The Pittsburg authorities question this story. Lucy Dorothy Orr, who was a nurse in the "House of Mystery," also was arrested when the place was raided.

WOMAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF MURDER.

Taunton, Mass., April 14.—Mrs. Bradford C. Scudder, wife of the secretary of the Massachusetts Fish and Game association, today pleaded not guilty to the murder yesterday of Edgar Scudder, her brother-in-law. She was remanded for examination Friday.

The woman's husband expressed the opinion today that his wife was suffering from temporary insanity.

TALK OF FARM CO-OPERATION

Delegates to National Conference Meet in Chicago.

Advantages of Working Together Are Voiced By Speakers.

Chicago, April 14.—An attempt to formulate the best method for American farmers to co-operate in the marketing of their products was started here today in the second national conference on marketing and farm credits, which opened a four days' meeting with the Western Economic society.

Getting farm products to market so that the grower may realize the largest measure of profit is the central idea of the conference, and the titles of the papers read indicated that the building up of co-operative organizations offered the best solution of the problem. Other problems scheduled were the subject of farm financing and possibility of state supervision of standard farm products.

The relation of farmers to anti-trust laws was a subject dealt with by Samuel Untermyer and President Van Hise of the University of Minnesota. Government aid in marketing, and parcel post problems were the subject of papers contributed by Federal official delegates to the conference.

"The cold storage plant should be treated as a friend rather than an enemy of the public," C. H. Benkendorf, assistant professor of dairy husbandry in the University of Wisconsin, today told the conference.

Praise for Storage.

"The consumer in the city at the present time is so far distant from the manufacturer that without modern methods of keeping the dairy products cold until they reach him they would be practically spoiled," he said.

"Hostile legislation against the cold storage houses cannot help but prove detrimental in the end. Thorough and sensible regulation is what is needed.

"Proper co-operation between the railroads and the creamery man and cheese dealer will do much toward

HARRY K. THAW GETS HABEAS CORPUS, BUT IS DENIED FREEDOM

Court Withholds Order Pending Perfecting of New York's Appeal.

Supreme Court Not Likely to Hear Case Before October.

Concord, N. H., April 14.—Harry Kendall Thaw's petition for a writ of habeas corpus was granted by Judge Edgar Aldrich of the United States district court today.

The court said, however, that no order would be issued for the prisoner's discharge from custody until arrangements had been completed to take the case to the United States supreme court on appeal.

Thaw's petition for admission to bail, the court left undetermined, taking the ground that it would be more appropriate for this to be passed upon by the supreme court.

Condition Unchanged.

The result of the decision is that Thaw's guardianship and condition will be unchanged for the present, but that his petition for a writ of habeas corpus will go to the highest court in the land with a decision of the lower court in his favor.

The decision filed with the clerk of the court here makes more than 10,000 words, and discusses exhaustively the various phases of the case presented in the United States court, concluding:

"My conclusion is that the constitutional right of extradition for crime does not reasonably apply to such a situation as this, where the right of control by the demanding state resides in a degree of custody based on insanity, and where its papers, upon their face, negative the idea of personal criminal responsibility. It is further thought that it would in-

$50,000 FIRE AT WEST SALEM, WIS.

La Crosse, Wis., April 14.—Fire at the village of West Salem, twelve miles east of here, today destroyed the Steenson flour and feed mill with a loss of $50,000.

When the fire broke out it appeared that the manufacturing and wholesale district would be swept and a hasty call was sent to this city for aid. A fire engine and company were rushed from La Crosse on a special train, but the fire was under control before they arrived.

URGES INSISTENCE ON SALUTE TO THE FLAG

JOHN LIND.

NEW CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF IOWA

State Republican Committee Has Three Men to Figure With.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 14.—With the assembling of members of the Republican state central committee for an important conference today, came the announcement that District Judge C. G. Lee of Ames will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor against Governor George W. Clarke.

The formal statement of the Ames jurist was made public early today and was much discussed by members of the committee and other political leaders, who had expected John W. Rowley of Keosauqua and Governor Clarke to have the field to themselves.

The committee, besides filling two vacancies, was expected to lay plans for the immediate opening of the state campaign. Chairman Charles A. Rawson announced that there would be an urgent call for campaign funds.

Survived By Boy of 74.

Marshalltown, Iowa, April 14.—Mrs. Sarah Williams, a pioneer of both Illinois and Iowa, who celebrated the 100th anniversary of her birth a week ago Sunday, is dead after a week's illness. She was a native of Pennsylvania and came to Iowa with her husband, Benjamin Williams, and five children in 1851. She is survived by all her children, her oldest son being 74 years old.

MAYO TO BE BACKED UP IN HIS DEMANDS

Cabinet at Washington Decides on Action Over Marines' Arrest.

John Lind, in Talk With President Wilson, Advises Decisive Move.

Washington, April 14.—A general concentration of the Atlantic fleet at Tampico was ordered today by Secretary Daniels, after a cabinet meeting in which President Wilson laid before the cabinet the necessity of backing up the demand of Rear Admiral Mayo that the American flag be saluted by the Huerta commander.

All the ships of the Atlantic fleet at Hampton Roads were ordered to Tampico.

The battleship South Carolina, en route from San Domingo, has been intercepted by wireless and ordered to Tampico.

The gunboats Nashville at San Domingo and Tacoma at Boston also have been ordered to Tampico.

The torpedo flotilla at Pensacola, Fla., has been notified to be ready to join the battleships at Tampico on short notice.

The transport Hancock with 800 marines has been ordered from New Orleans to Tampico at once.

Secretary Bryan had made all arrangements to leave tonight for Miami, Fla., for a few days' rest. The developments of the Mexican situation, however, forced a change in his plans and late today he canceled his traveling reservations. Mrs. Bryan and some of the family will go.

Lind at Conference.

Washington, April 14.—After conferences between President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and John Lind, and after a cabinet meeting today, it was decided that before the Washington government goes further in backing up Rear Admiral Mayo's demand for a salute to the American flag at Tampico as an apology for the recent arrest of marines there, a further investigation would be made into the facts surrounding the incident.

All officials were silent on a situation admittedly a tense one. They let it be known, however, that the delay did not indicate a disposition to change President Wilson's attitude, but to afford opportunity to investigate fully Huerta's statement of the affair and Admiral Mayo's representations to the Federal commander.

Want Complete Information.

Officials said the administration wished to be fully and completely informed before proceeding further. Officials pointed out that the difficulties of communication between Washington and Tampico might put off a final determination probably two or three days.

The tensity of the situation is emphasized by the caution with which officials guard every statement relating to Admiral Mayo's demand for the firing of the salute. It is understood that when the cabinet met today information had been received that Huerta persists in declining to accede to the American admiral's demand, though it is also understood that his decision is not irrevocable, but is couched in such language as to make it appear that he still is open to conviction, if he can be shown that Mexican honor will not be tarnished by rendering the salute.

Want Mayo Sustained.

Naval officers are insistent that Admiral Mayo should be fully sustained in his original demand with a possible allowance of sufficient time for the Mexican foreign office to fairly consider the proposition. This view was also shared by some members of the cabinet when the subject was laid before them today.

Meanwhile the big naval transport Hancock, due to have sailed from New Orleans yesterday to take aboard refugees at Tampico, is being held. Nine hundred marines are now ashore at the naval station at New Orleans.

Lind Advises Firmness.

Washington, April 14.—Latest developments in Mexico, particularly the demand by Rear Admiral Mayo, backed up by the White House, that the American flag be saluted by the Huerta commander at Tampico, were discussed in detail today at a conference between President Wilson, John Lind, his personal representative in Mexico for the last eight months, and Secretary Bryan.

Mr. Lind's own view was that the salute should be insisted upon. The president himself had made clear to callers that the apology to the United States must be given for the recent arrest of marines, and that the Stars and Stripes must be saluted.

Maas Is Defiant.

Reports from Vera Cruz, quoting Gen. Maas, the Federal commander, as contending that ample satisfaction had been given in the verbal apology by Huerta and that the salute was unnecessary, were received with some surprise here, but so far as could be learned had no effect on the determination of President Wilson that the salue should be fired.

All administration officials were reticent to discuss the situation, and it was not known whether there had been any official telegrams from Charge O'Shaughnessy confirming Huerta's reported refusal to order the salute.

Mr. Lind gave the president and Secretary Bryan an intimate picture of the military situation at Tampico. His advice and counsel at this time were considered opportune by the administration, for what had seemed a

LIFE TERM FOR HIGGINS

Judge Says He Ought to Die, But May Live.

Holds Out Hope of Pardon to Self-Confessed Uxoricide.

Galesburg, Ill., April 14.—Robert Higgins today was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary by Judge Olmstead in the Mercer county circuit court. Julia Flake, Higgins' step-daughter, for love of whom Higgins killed his wife, has not been tried for her part in the crime.

Judge Olmstead encouraged Higgins to hope for pardon later.

Higgins' crime merited death, Judge Olmstead said in pronouncing sentence, but the wife murderer's life was spared because of his good behavior as a prisoner and because of the plea of the state's attorney.

"You may make partial expiation of the dreadful sin you have committed by being a model prisoner in the penitentiary," said Judge Olmstead. "It may be that you can cling to the hope that in later years you may deserve and receive a pardon, and have years of freedom in which to redeem your past."

Julia Flake was not brought here for the trial from the girl's school of which she is an inmate. State's Attorney Wilson said that she would not be given a hearing at this term of court. He declined to state definitely at what time her case would be considered. On account of the youth of the girl and the sensational nature of the case, Wilson intimated that he favored putting off her trial indefinitely.

ONE-HALF BOTTLE OF THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY ACCOMPLISHES RESULTS

When I sent for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, I was in great distress day and night. Before I received sample by mail, I went to our best doctor (and he is second to none in this vicinity) and told him how I felt. He put me up a bottle of medicine. I was about a week taking the medicine, but was no better than when I began. I then began your sample bottle, and before I got through with it, I felt a change. The scalding sensation did not bother only a few times in the middle of the day. I would not have believed such a small quantity would have done so much, but before it was gone I learned that our druggist kept Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and so got a large bottle for one-dollar but actually worth one hundred dollars. I only took one large tablespoonful three times a day and before I had taken one-half bottle I was all right and have been since. Gratefully yours,

ORATORY IS CUT SHORT

Council Adjourns While Attorney Is in Middle of Speech.

Amended Wheelage Tax Ordinance Given Its First Reading.

The city council treated Attorney Charles V. McCoy quite rudely yesterday afternoon.

McCoy was just getting into his oratorical stride with what appeared to be a clear track ahead, when he suddenly banged into a stone wall, figuratively speaking. The commissioners adjourned right in the midst of his speech.

McCoy was appearing to ask for an amended return of the proceedings certified by the city to the supreme court in the matter of the revocation of Charles Sholund's saloon license at 101 East Superior street, in response to the writ of certiorari issued by the supreme court.

He had already filed a lengthy written notice setting forth fifteen or sixteen particulars in which he alleged the return to be erroneous and announcing his intention of appearing before the council. Commissioner Hicken said that he had read the items of complaint but Mr. McCoy said that he wished to elaborate upon them and bring out some additional features.

He read the first alleged error and was going on with the second and third paragraphs claiming to show that the return was a sham and a self-assertive statement when City Attorney Clapp interrupted him with a "beg your pardon." The city attorney pointed out that the council chamber was not the supreme court and that it wasn't in McCoy's province to dictate how the city should make its answer. McCoy replied that he was appearing to have the council correct its return in order that it might be a true return.

Council Adjourns.

He resumed his speech and Mayor Prince leaned over for a whispered conference with the city attorney. At its conclusion the mayor broke into McCoy's continued arguments with the declaration that he didn't see why the council should sit there and listen further to the attorney, and moved that the council adjourn. City Clerk Palmer called the roll and the response was five ayes and no nays.

As he rose the mayor said "This is not the supreme court and it is not a common council." "I should say it was rather an uncommon council," was McCoy's last word. In his notice McCoy entitled the case "Charles Sholund, ex rel State of Minnesota, relator, vs. the Mayor and the Common Council of the City of Duluth, respondents." Under the old charter the governing body was designated the common council but under the new charter that term is not recognized, the city fathers being the city council or the city commission.

The Wheelage Tax.

Following the informal meeting yesterday morning and amended wheelage tax ordinance was introduced yesterday afternoon. The new rates are those tentatively agreed upon. Motor trucks are reduced from $10 to $8 per ton capacity. Three-horse vehicles are raised from $6 to $12 per year. Electric automobiles are taxed at $10 flat per year. Motor cycles are raised from $2 to $5 per year. Others are unchanged, single rigs remaining at $3, doubles at $6 per year and automobiles at 50 cents per horse power.

Upon motion of Finance Commissioner Voss a resolution was passed authorizing the city to issue registered bonds, as is being done by other cities. The finance commissioner explained that this means the city can issue a certificate for bonds. Instead of having 50 or 100 bonds the purchaser would receive a single certificate upon the surrender and cancellation of the bonds. This would save him the trouble of clipping the coupons and the city could remit the interest direct to him, which would save the exchange now paid by the city.

A resolution was passed turning over sixty feet of the Armory for market purposes. The part used by the city will be completely separated from the market.

The commissioner of public utilities was authorized to advertise for sale the property purchased as a site for a reservoir for the middle system and later abandoned and to buy the necessary right-of-way for the 36-inch duplicate force main.

Routine Business.

Ordinances appropriating $20,000 for water and gas extensions for 1914, $6,500 for a steel water tower and tank and $3,000 for 36-inch cast iron specials were given their first reading.

The ordinance appropriating $2,000 for four 36-inch gate valves was passed and the contract awarded to the Rensselaer Valve company on their low bid of $1,880.

The contract for furnishing 4,000 yards of sand and 4,000 yards of gravel was awarded to Whitney Brothers and a contract for 3,500 barrels of cement was awarded to the Standard Salt & Cement company. The material will be used by the works division in street improvements.

The health department was authorized to employ a nurse for ten months at a salary of $50 a month, half to be paid from the welfare fund and half from the health department fund.

An ordinance making an additional appropriation of $1,500 to complete the valuation of the Duluth-Edison plant was advanced to its second reading. The original appropriation was $7,000.

The revised employment office ordinance was given its third reading and passed. The only change is prohibiting employment offices on Michigan street between Fifth and Sixth avenues west. Agents who have leases will be allowed to remain until their expiration.

The report of W. H. Hoyt, who represented the city at the recent meeting of the International Joint commission when it was considering the application of the Michigan Northern Power company to be granted permission to raise the level of Lake Superior for water power purposes, was received.

A resolution was passed ordering the construction of a sanitary sewer in Seventy-first avenue west between Waseca and Raleigh streets.

The paving of West Superior street between Twenty-fifth and Thirtieth avenues was ordered done by day labor.

The salary of the first assistant city engineer was fixed at $150 per month, beginning May 1.

A petition was filed asking that an alley be condemned between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues east in block 37, Endion division.

ANOTHER BOOST FOR 1915 FESTIVAL

French Club Will Name Committee for Purpose of Co-operation.

A committee to work with joint committees of other progressive organizations of the city which will have charge of the midsummer festival and celebration in 1915 will be appointed at the meeting of the French Naturalization club Friday evening. The club recently went on record as favoring the festival.

The French Naturalization club is probably the largest club in Minnesota, the object of which is to make good citizens of its members. It has now exceeded the 600 membership mark and expects within another year or two to bring this membership to more than 1,000.

The club was organized six years ago by progressive citizens of French descent. These men, realizing that many of their countrymen were backward in becoming citizens of the United States, organized the club for the purpose of instructing and assisting the new arrivals in getting their citizenship papers as well as in becoming better citizens.

E. R. Grignon, president of the club, said this morning that the committee would be appointed Friday. The club has also planned a smoker and social for the members.

TO CONFIRM SIXTEEN.

Church Will Receive Large Class Next Sunday.

A class of sixteen young people will be confirmed Sunday morning at the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. Special music has been planned for the occasion.

PERSONAL HYGIENE.

Dr. McCoy Speaks at Social Center on Aids to Good Health.

Dr. Mary McCoy spoke on the value of cleanliness and exercise as factors in good health, before the meeting of the Junior Women's club of the Bryant social center last evening. The care of the teeth, face, throat, hair and body were all mentioned during the lecture on "Personal Hygiene."

Dr. McCoy said that swimming and walking were the best forms of exercise that people could take. The former she said brought into play all of the muscles of the body and encouraged lung exercise. She said that a person should walk at least three miles a day in order to be healthy.

"Walking as an exercise is not as popular as it should be. One should walk at least three miles a day. The head should be held erect. The legs and arms should be given perfect freedom. To walk properly a broad-soled and low-heeled shoe should be worn. The average walking pace for a healthy young woman should be seventy-five steps a minute. Breathing should be full and deep. The leg should be moved from the hip and the figure be held immovable. The movement from the knee is the secret of bad walking combined with the discomfort of tight and high-heeled shoes.

"Normal breathing is generally correct. The chest should expand the whole breath, the waist swell out at the sides and front."

Dr. McCoy said that water of about the same temperature as the mouth should be used in washing the teeth. She said the toothbrush should be brushed up and down and sideways before breakfast and after meals as well as before retiring. Improper care of the teeth she said leads to decayed teeth and stomach disorders.

She advocated discarding the "wash rag" and using the bare hands in washing the face. Dashing the water in the fact at least once a day and giving the skin a thorough massage. She also advocated the use of individual towels, saying that the roller towel has no place in the home.

GOVERNOR GENERAL IN AFRICA MADE VISCOUNT

SIDNEY CHARLES BUXTON.

London, April 14.—Sidney Charles Buxton, the newly appointed governor general of the Union of South Africa, was created a viscount yesterday. He formerly was president of the Board of Trade, and at one time was postmaster general, in which capacity he introduced 2-cent postage for letters between the British Isles and the United States.

The new viscount is an authority on the question of the relations between employer and workman, having participated in the settlement of many disputes. His experience in this connection is expected to be useful to him in South Africa, where the labor problem is acute.

Mr. Buxton was born in 1853, educated at Trinity college and was first elected a member of parliament for Peterborugh in 1883. He was appointed under secretary of state for the colonies in 1892 and in 1903 was appointed postmaster general. On Feb. 15, 1910, he was made president of the board of trade.

INSPECTION OF BOILERS

Should Be Made Effective or It Should Be Abolished.

Efficiency Commission Now Plans to Have Small and Competent Force.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Boiler inspection should be made effective or it should be abolished.

Many people have said that but at least one man who holds that view is a boiler inspector himself, J. H. Colwell of St. Paul. To prove his sincerity he argued before the last legislature for a plan to make the inspection effective.

He proposed an examination to test the qualifications of inspectors—there is none now. He prepared blanks for reports of inspections—there are no reports now. He prepared forms to show what boilers were in use in each district—there are no such records now. And he offered to show that about eight men, traveling on lines marked out by a department, as the weights and measures force goes or the food inspectors, could cover more ground than sixty boiler inspectors probably do now and do it better and make a permanent record as they go, which is now wholly lacking.

Could Cover More Ground.

These inspectors could probably cover more ground. One can't say positively because nobody knows how much ground the inspectors cover now. They don't report unless they feel like it.

These inspectors should be competent men. Doubtless some of the inspectors now are competent, but everyone knows they are not all qualified and it has never been customary to ask any troublesome questions about it. By immemorial custom the places have been filled by patriots who rendered faithful service to the party that had favors to dispense. Now that parties have been ruled out of state politics, there is no reason for continuing that system of party rewards.

At all events there is no excuse for levying on industry a tax estimated at $35,000 a year—nobody knows the exact figures—for services that may not be worth 35 cents.

Should Receive Value.

If that tax is to be laid on industry, it is the state's business to see that value is rendered for it. The state does not know the first thing about it. The state doesn't know whether the inspectors really test boilers or just go through the motions. The state doesn't know whether the inspectors know what they are about or whether they are surprised to discover that "the blamed thing is hollow," like the secretary of the navy who visited a man-of-war the first time. The state doesn't know whether the inspections are made in good faith or whether the owners are mulcted of $3 per for a little piece of mumbo-jumbo.

What the Commission Plans.

Under the plans of the efficiency commission, the inspection would be done by men who report daily to their chief, as the food inspectors and factory inspectors do; they would have to show that they know their business before they got on the payroll, likewise as food inspectors and factory inspectors do. Civil service methods are a feature of the proposed plan. And if they neglected their duty they would be promptly separated from the payroll.

But the legislature may not be willing to displace some sixty patriots who draw about $500 apiece. Maybe not. That all depends on what kind of a legislature the people elect next fall. If they think a $500 "plum" is more important than the introduction of business methods into the state government, naturally they won't. But it is barely possible that the voters will pick out another sort of a legislature this year.

HOLD PARISH MEETINGS

Both St. Paul's and Pro-Cathedral Congregations Are Flourishing.

The annual parish meetings of Trinity pro-cathedral and of St. Paul's Episcopal church took place last night at the respective churches.

At the annual meeting of the pro-cathedral, Bishop Morrison presided. A most encouraging condition of affairs was revealed, and the treasurer's careful and detailed report was received with great satisfaction. Treasurer J. W. Lyder, Jr., was given a hearty vote of thanks for his work. The report shows that all of the guilds and societies connected with the church have comfortable bank balances. The Sunday schools of the cathedral and of St. Andrews-by-the-Lake are in a healthy condition and are making satisfactory progress. The following church organizations were reported active: The Woman's Auxiliary; St. Cecilia society, with forty young women and girls, who gave an Easter offering of $100; the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, with fifteen members; the Altar Guild, which furnished the Easter decorations for the cathedral.

Following are the parish officers elected for the ensuing year: Senior warden, George H. Crosby; junior warden, Charles T. Fitzsimmons; treasurer, J. W. Lyder, Jr.; clerk, Edmund Ingalls; vestrymen, Judge Page Morris, J. G. Ketcham, Dr. A. L. McDonald, Fred Waldron, Charles Traphagen, T. D. Merrill and R. R. Knox.

Delegates—George H. Crosby, Judge Page Morris, C. T. Fitzsimmons and J. W. Lyder, Jr.

Alternates—J. G. Ketcham, Dr. A. L. McDonald, W. E. Lequesne and F. H. Waldron.

The parish meeting of St. Paul's church heard reports from the treasurer which shows that the church has just passed through its best financial year. When the election of vestrymen came up, it was with regret that the parish members learned that G. A. St. Clair would not serve again. He has been thirty years a vestryman in St. Paul's and elsewhere. The officers elected are: Senior warden, Dr. J. E. Bowers; junior warden, F. W. Paine; vestrymen, H. M. Peyton, G. G. Hartley, H. R. Spencer, James Wanless, Ralph Moore, W. J. Olcott, A. C. LeDuc, W. H. Rattenbury and Thomas S. Wood; clerk, J. H. Dight, and treasurer, F. W. Paine.

BIG SUM FOR UTILITY WORK

City Will Spend $36,500 for Water and Gas Extensions.

Water Mains Will Be Laid From New Duluth to Gary.

The city council yesterday afternoon approved $36,500 of new work recommended by the water and light department for the present season.

Chief among these is the extension of water mains from New Duluth to Gary, estimated at $15,000 to $20,000. Gas mains will also be laid but these will be in anticipation of the time when gas is piped to the steel plant suburbs.

Probably next in importance is the erection of a steel water tower and tank at Woodland, which will furnish a water supply for the Orphanage system.

Considerable other work will be done this season in addition to that ordered yesterday. This includes the duplication of 1,000 to 2,000 feet of the big force main from the Lakewood pumping station to the city, for which the pipe and other equipment has been contracted; improvements for the Woodland system; the probable installation of another electric pump at Lakewood, estimated at $20,000; the completion of the 10,000,000-gallon concrete reservoir for the middle system, and numerous extensions.

A number of lesser water and gas main extensions were included in the work yesterday, but many additions will be made to the list before the end of the season.

The extensions ordered yesterday were:

On Gilliat street from Forty-fourth avenue east to Forty-fifth avenue east.

On West Sixth street from mains in Eighth avenue west to a point 175 feet east of Eight avenue west.

INTERPRETS CANAL PACT

Henry White, Who Helped Frame Treaty, Talks to Senators.

Says Exemption of American Ships Was Not Intended.

Washington, April 14.—Henry White, who as secretary of the American embassy at London first suggested to Great Britain that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty be superseded by a new one so that the United States might build a canal across the Isthmus of Panama, told the senate canals committee today that in all the negotiations of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty no suggestion ever had been made that American coastwise ships might be exempted from the present canal tolls.

HENRY WHITE.

"During all those negotiations I heard no suggestion that our coastwise ships might be exempted from tolls," said Mr. White. "It was my understanding that the words 'ships of all nations,' used by Lord Salisbury in our first conversation and cabled by me to Secretary Hay, included ships of the United States, domestic and foreign."

Will Ask for Documents.

Mr. White agreed to seek the permission of the department of state to lay before the committee messages exchanged between the department and himself at the time of the negotiations, and also instructions sent him by Secretary Hay, on which he acted in opening the negotiations. These, he said, never had been published.

Senator Simmons asked for Mr. White's understanding of the intent of the treaty negotiations, and drew objection from Chairman O'Gorman, leader of the repeal opposition.

"Asking for the intent involves a legal conclusion," said he. "Any statement of a conclusion in his own mind by this witness would not be regarded as a statement of fact by any person."

WHILE YOU WAIT

SEASON FOR TROUT HERE

Lester Park Boys Expected to Make the First Catches.

Two doughnuts against the center of another doughnut that the Lakeside and Lester Park "kids" start the fishing season on its way with a catch.

Lest it be forgot, let it be known that the fishing season, the trout fishing season, the season in which the real disciple of Isaac Walton extracts the concentrated essence of the joy of life from existence on this mortal sphere, will open tomorrow.

Tomorrow, April 15, is the day. It's the day for which hundreds have been waiting, with keen anticipation. For even though the season devotee of the piscatorial art cannot get away to match his wits against the cunning of the wily speckled beauty, it's a great relief for him to know that he can go if he wants to go, as far as legal restrictions are concerned.

The ice is not yet out of the streams but some of the deep holes are open, particularly those below the swift rapids or the falls, where the most beautiful of all the finny tribe gather during the winter season. This is true of Lester river in its lower reaches. And therefore the reckless wager that the embryo fishermen of the eastern suburbs will get results. For years past the "kids" in that end of the city have not failed to safely land a number of trout from the waters of Lester river. And some of them have been "whoppers." Going on past experience the odds are in their favor. It will be a real disappointment to many if they fail to start Duluth's fishing season right in the year of 1914.

But they won't. Raise the bet to three doughnuts to the hole of another that they don't.

THREE MUST FACE THE GRAND JURY.

James Ray Miller, 25 years old, who was arrested last Friday afternoon on a charge of having short-changed Severt Tverdahl out of $60 on a Canadian Northern train en route to Duluth, the previous day, waived examination in police court this morning and he was bound over to the May term of the grand jury. He is being held on $1,000 bail.

George H. Meyer, 25, and Norman Browne, 20, who were arrested with Miller on a charge of resisting Detective Toewe, were also bound over to the grand jury. Bail in each case was fixed at $300.

Miller was recognized when he appeared at the Canadian Northern station Friday afternoon. The police were notified and Detectives Toewe and Bradley were detailed to make the arrest. Meyer and Browne were believed to have been with Miller and when the officers attempted to arrest them also they resisted and showed fight. The trio were finally taken into custody, however, and later brought to headquarters. They all asked for a hearing when arraigned Saturday and the court set the examinations for yesterday afternoon.

PRACTICE TEACHERS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Recommendations that normal school practice teachers be allowed hereafter to become a permanent fixture in the public schools of Superior were made by Supt. W. E. Maddox at the meeting of the board of education last night. The practice teachers, he said, not only get good practical training in this manner, but also are of considerable assistance to the teachers.

Such a plan, said the superintendent, is in effect at Milwaukee and meeting with success.

The board granted the use of the Superior high school for the conducting of summer normal courses.

SEVERE PENALTIES FOR BLIND PIGGERS

Severe penalties are provided for those who operate "blind pigs" in Superior by an ordinance introduced at the meeting of the city commission this morning.

First offense cases will be subject to fines of from $100 to $500 and second offenses will result in fines of from $500 to $1,000. In case of failure to pay the fines a term of six months in the county workhouse is provided as an alternative.

Concrete Paving.

Rock concrete will be used in the paving of Cummings avenue, according to decision of the city commission yesterday afternoon. The contract was let to John Diffor. The street will be paved from Winter to Twenty-first street.

"LITTLE WOMEN."

Dramatization of Miss Alcott's Story Charms Lyceum Audience.

Whether it was a delightful introduction to Miss Louisa M. Alcott, or a charming reminiscence, we all had a merry, weepy, happy time of it at the Lyceum last evening.

To the young woman who sat with tense fists clutching a soggy, limp muslin handkerchief, and who mirrored in a very flushed and eager face the emotions of the characters on the stage, "Little Women" was undoubtedly a reminiscence. The young woman had probably read the book some eleven or twelve times, and could undoubtedly have supplied the missing words if the services of a prompter had been needed.

To the portly, middle-aged gentleman who heroically held out against the onslaughts on his emotions until little Beth died, and then gave way with a deep sigh and the fluttering of a large, many colored silk handkerchief, it was probably an introduction.

True, the weather did get a little sloppy in the vicinity of the young woman in the third act, but it was a flow of perfectly happy tears.

And the man was heard to confide to his wife that he was glad "he got her dam——d Dutchman after all." So it looked like an even break between the introduction and the reminiscence.

Probably the average American youth would almost prefer being caught playing with dolls, to admitting that he had ever read "Little Women." And the girl who hasn't read it is probably about as scarce as the boy who will admit he has. To the average woman therefore the play is a reminiscence. To the average man, an introduction.

"Little Women" violates all the rules of play writing. It is a play without a villain or a villainess. It can hardly be said to have a hero or a heroine. Jo might be classed as the heroine, but the interest in the affairs of pretty Meg, or quiet little Beth, or Amy is almost as great as that in Jo's fate. There is no plot, and not much that could be called action. There are no theatrical devices for "sustaining interest." One cannot help but admire the courage and the keen insight into human nature of the man who dared produce "Little Women" as a play. It is successful because it deals with "just folks," common everyday people, who live their lives, love, get married and die; who have common everyday problems on face, not the highly involved problems of stage mummers.

A visit to "Little Women" is to renew your youth. There isn't a problem in it. There isn't a "triangle." It is just a series of delightful stage pictures of incidents in the lives of characters, whom, if you haven't learned to love them in your youth, you cannot fail to love at first acquaintance. They are not characters from a strange unknown realm, who exist in the author's fancy only, who "laugh by precept only and shed tears by rule." They are natural, wholesome everyday folks. Pretty Meg steps out of the book and lives before you for three hours. You see impulsive, warm hearted Jo just as you pictured her.

It would be unfortunate if anyone should gain the idea that "Little Women" is a "sad play" and that they don't want to see it for that reason. They would be the losers, for "Little Women" is above all else cheerful and wholesome.

The company is the last word in excellence. Only twelve persons are needed, but every one has apparently been chosen with the most extreme care. The work of Jane Marbury stands out, not because she did what was assigned to her any better than did several others in the cast, but because she had more to do. She is the awkward, boyish, impulsive Jo of the book. Miss Marbury has a peculiar quality of voice that makes her pathetic scenes most effective.

You quite lost your heart to pretty Meg as portrayed by Miss Madeline King, and nobody could resist the appeal of Henrietta McDannel's Beth. Ida St. Leon was charmingly effective as Amy, especially in the later acts when she has achieved maturity.

And Donald Gallagher's Laurie was one of the most charming features of the entire performance. It seemed too bad that Laurie couldn't marry the whole four of them. Laurie's affairs once nearly disrupted the nation, when the story was appearing in serial form. Girls by the hundreds wrote to Miss Alcott and insisted that Laurie must marry Jo, and also that Jo must marry somebody. Miss Alcott had intended Jo for an old maid, but she had to yield to the popular demand, and compromised by marrying Jo to her old German professor. The audience last evening should have been grateful, for it made possible the excellent work of Robert Fischer as Prof. Bhaer.

Martha Oatman was wholly charming as "Marmee" and Frank McEntee showed a most intelligent and sympathetic appreciation of the character of Mr. March the father of the girls.

Selmar Romaine was a delightful and courtly old Mr. Lawrence, and Marshall Birmingham made an effective and most likable John Brooke.

Even Aunt March, you felt, was not as bad as she tried to make herself out to be, thanks to the intelligent work of Lillian Dixon, and Helen Beaumont was effective in her bit as Hannah, the maid.

The stage settings were superb. The comfortable old room, with its somewhat shabby but homelike furniture, and its pleasant atmosphere, was just what you pictured it to be when you read the book.

"Little Women" will remain at the Lyceum today, and tomorrow, with matinees both days, and an extra matinee Thursday. It is unfortunate that it cannot be seen by every boy and girl—and for that matter every older person—in Duluth. J. E. R.

Amusement Notes.

"Spareribs" is on a strike.

"Spareribs" is the nondescript little dog that appears with Claude and Fannie Usher at the Orpheum this week, in the delightful one-act play "The Straight Path." He has been with the Ushers for several seasons, and has always been a well behaved pup. He was accustomed to catch his "cues" with the promptness of a trained actor.

CLAUDE AND FANNIE USHER AND "SPARERIBS."

At certain words he had certain "stage business" to perform, and until this week he has never failed. But either "Spareribs" is getting old and lazy, or he has temperament and has gone on strike, for this week he refuses to work in his old style. He misses his cues regularly, and has to be coaxed to do his part.

"I guess the old fellow is getting tired," said Mr. Usher, last evening. "We've been out nearly forty weeks, and we're headed for our home a little way out of Boston. It may be that he's jealous of Romeo the monkey, but whatever the reason is Spareribs is certainly 'laying down' on us."

The Clifton suspension bridge, which originally stood at Charing Cross, London, was removed to Bristol in 1862.

COMMISSION YEAR OLD AT 12 O'CLOCK

City Council Feels That Present Form of Government Justifies Itself.

Three members of Duluth's city council celebrated the first anniversary of the commission government in Duluth by visiting the work farm today, an institution which they saw come into being during their tenure in office.

They were Mayor W. I. Prince, head of the division of public affairs, which includes supervision of the city's share in the work farm; Roderick Murchison, head of the division of public works, and William A. Hicken, head of the division of public safety. Commissioners Fred J. Voss, head of the finance division, and Leonidas Merritt, head of the utility division, had other pressing business which made it impossible for them to accompany the inspecting party.

At noon today commission government in Duluth was one year old. Just a year ago at 12 o'clock the old aldermanic form of municipal administration went out of existence and the new form was inaugurated.

The members of the commission feel that, all things weighed in the balance, it has been a successful year; that commission government has justified itself. They point to numerous accomplishments in the last twelve months and hold forth promises of greater endeavor and further achievements before the next anniversary rolls around.

During question time, Francis Dyke-Acland, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, gave the house official information as to events at Tampico already recorded in dispatches. He told members how Secretary of State Bryan, at the request of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador at Washington, had "taken steps to impress the combatants that a most serious situation would be created by the wanton destruction of oil fields."

Washington, April 14.—Feasibility of establishing a line of fast naval cruisers to carry passengers, mail and freight between the United States and South America was indorsed by Secretary Daniels today in a report to the senate on the resolution recently introduced by Senator Weeks. It is the plan to use in time of peace such swift scout cruisers as are little needed in fleet maneuvers.

Chicago and Cleveland Teams Open Season in Chicago.

Chicago, April 14.—With the promise of ideal weather, the Chicago and Cleveland Americans prepared to open the baseball season here this afternoon. Manager Callahan of the Chicago team was in doubt up to the last moment over his lineup. Fournier's injured ankle again threatened to keep him out, and Daly, a catcher with little experience in the outfield, though a good batter, was expected to be placed in left. Manager Birmingham was to play in center field in place of Leibold. The place of the other cripple, Chapman, at short, was to be taken care of by Olson.

Scott or Cicotte were likely selections as pitchers for the White Sox. Blanding and Steen, with Mitchell a possibility, were said to be Birmingham's favorites for the start.

The Home Beauty Parlor

Marguerite: You should make up and use this harmless eye-tonic and you will have no further trouble with your eyes: In 1 pint clear water dissolve 1 ounce crystos. Put 2 or 3 drops in each eye twice a day for a while and the smart and ache will entirely disappear. The crystos tonic will give almost instant relief to tired, aching eye-muscles and its timely use frequently overcomes the need for glasses.

City Girl: Yes, some soaps have a tendency to rob the scalp of all its oil, and frequently cause a mild form of eczema. Get from your druggist a small, original package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, then pour this mixture on the head slowly and rub well. The thick, cleansing lather will dissolve all dust, dandruff and excess oil and greatly invigorate the scalp and hair roots. Rinsing leaves the scalp immaculately clean, while the hair dries quickly and is greatly enriched in color and brilliancy. Canthrox shampoos, if used regularly, will correct scalp troubles and induce the hair to grow in thick and beautiful.

Priscilla: The old-fashioned kardene tonic is Nature's best helper, and a course of treatment of this famous blood cleanser and tissue-builder restores strength and vitality to the weak, wan, worn body. It is easily and cheaply made at home—just dissolve ½ cupful sugar and 1 ounce kardene in ½ pint alcohol (not whisky), then add hot water to make a full quart. The dose is a tablespoonful before each meal. This tonic restores lost appetite, builds up and strengthens the body, gives to the skin a clear, healthy glow and guards against bodily ills.

Mrs. A. I. M.: To retain the velvety smoothness and healthy tint of your complexion, apply daily a spurmax lotion, made by dissolving 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel or hot water to which add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This protects the perfect complexion and will make a "muddy," oily or blotchy skin clear and pleasingly beautiful.

Marie L.: Electric scalp massages will not do as much for your scalp as will a plain quinzoin hair-tonic, made by adding 1 ounce quinzoin to ½ pint alcohol, in which is then poured ½ pint water. Manipulate the scalp thoroughly when you use this tonic and you will be surprised how quickly the dry, scaly condition will disappear. Then, too, this treatment will restore the proper luster and soft fluffiness to your hair. I unhesitatingly recommend this quinzoin tonic for dandruff, faded, streaky or gray hair, because of the great good it has done for others.

Mrs. de L.: If you are getting too fat mix together 4 ounces parnotis and 1½ pints hot water. When cool strain and take 1 tablespoonful before meals until weight is where you want it. This is a safe, harmless method of fat-reduction and does not depend on dieting or unusual exercising. The parnotis treatment is gentle in action and restores th symmetrical lies to the figure.

Eve: Wrinkles and premature age marks are quickly erased from the skin by the following treatment: Into ½ pint cold water dissolve 1 ounce almazoin and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Let stand one day; then at night apply generously to skin, covering the wrinkles. This protects the surface and stimulates the blood vessels just beneath the skin and so energizes the starved tissues underneath the creases that they gradually assume their proper size—then the wrinkles or lines will have vanished. As a skin-cleanser and rejuvenator of the complexion the almazoin cream-jelly is not equaled. All blemishes, blackheads, skin roughness and sallowness vanish as if by magic.

INDORSE SIMS REPEAL BILL

Minnesotans and Others in Northwest Telegraph Washington.

Praise Wilson's Stand as Upholding National Honor.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, April 14.—More than twenty telegrams indorsing the administration's canal tolls policy and urging the passage of the Sims repeal bill were received by President Wilson from Minnesotans today. Among them were the following including some from other states:

Frank A. Crassweller, A. H. Crassweller and Elmer F. Blu, Duluth: "Both daily papers in Duluth and the people in this state generally indorse your position on the repeal of canal tolls exemption. Personally we desire to heartily indorse your action in standing for the national honor and in opposing any form of ship subsidy. We still hope that the senators from this state will follow the lead of their representatives and vote for the repeal."

Cyrus Northrop: "We approve your splendid stand for national honor in the repeal of canal tolls. We hope Minnesota senators will stand with you."

S. J. Doyle and one hundred other residents of Fargo, N. D.: "We Democrats of the state of North Dakota, in conference assembled, do most heartily indorse your attitude on the canal tolls question, and are today wiring the senate committee on foreign relations to this effect."

Fred Schiplin, president St. Cloud Commercial club: "Country's good name is at stake in Panama canal tolls exemption bill. We wish you to know that the people in this section of the country heartily indorse your action and will hold up your hands in the fight you are making. Let the world know America prefers honor to gold."

Henry J. Harm, mayor, and business men and bankers of Albert Lea: "Citizens here, regardless of party, indorse your position on the question of canal tolls exemption for American boats and earnestly hope you will be sustained by the vote of the senators from this state."

Lee Latham, Pekin, Ill.: "I am traveling through Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota. Recently Senator McCumber was quoted as having written on the canals toll question to one of his constituents, 'The man who wants his own word good wants the nation to keep its word.' This tersely seems to express the opinion of fully 80 per cent of the people there."

Mrs. Mary Rodasevich, 50 years old, who was arrested Sunday afternoon on a charge of running a blind-pig at 608 West First street, was found guilty in police court this morning and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve in the county jail for a period of thirty days. On motion of her attorney, John Norton, a stay of thirty days was granted by Judge Windom. Mrs. Rodasevich pleaded not guilty when she was arraigned yesterday morning. She sold a bottle of whisky to Steve Turner, who appeared as the complaining witness this morning.

SAYS CHURCH IS GROWING

Moderator of Presbyterian General Assembly Has Hopeful Outlook.

Church Making a New Appeal Through Humanitarian Work.

Dr. John Timothy Stone, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, who is here today to attend the silver anniversary of the establishment of the Duluth presbytery, believes that the church is gaining both in numbers and in the general enthusiasm of its members.

Dr. Stone stated that he has traveled 48,000 miles since the first of last September, and that his general impression of church conditions throughout the United States, is that more people are going to church, especially men; that more men are desiring to do some other work other than usher in the church; and that never before in the history of the church has the press of this country devoted so much attention to religious matters as today.

In the course of an interview with The Herald, Dr. Stone pointed out that the church was paying more attention to practical religion, that it was increasing the scope of its work, and that it was making an appeal through its humanitarian efforts as well as on a religious lines.

Dr. Stone is one of the best known pastors in the Presbyterian church. He has filled the pulpit in Brown Memorial church of Baltimore and other large churches, going from Baltimore to the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago.

One of the big accomplishments of Dr. Stone was the completion of the $750,000 North Side Institutional Church of Chicago. This occupies an entire square and has in addition to the church, meeting houses for institutional work, a club house for the young men, a gymnasium and other houses.

Dr. Stone was elected moderator at the meeting last year in Atlanta, Ga.

Frank Higgins, the sky pilot of the lumberjacks of the north woods, who is here today, came in for genuine praise from Dr. Stone.

"Frank Higgins is one of the most sincere, earnest and useful men in the Presbyterian church," said Dr. Stone. "He is a friend of mine and a man whose qualities I greatly appreciate. He is doing a wonderful work, a greater work than many people understand or appreciate."

volve forced or fictional reasoning to make a flight, of the character of the one in question, the kind of a flight contemplated by the constitution as a basis for extradition.

Discharged From Extradition.

"It results that an order will be made sustaining the writ, and that the petitioner be discharged from the extradition process under which he was held at the time his petition for habeas corpus was brought upon constitutional grounds.

"It has been understood from the beginning that whichever way this case was decided by me, it would be taken to the supreme court. Therefore, no formal order will be made, either sustaining the writ or discharging the petitioner, until the aggrieved party has had an opportunity to perfect its appeal."

When Thaw entered this state last September, after his deportation from Canada, he was arrested by the state authorities. To prevent his extradition to New York, his attorneys petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus. This proceeding automatically placed the case in Federal jurisdiction, and acted as a stay to the extradition which was granted by Governor Felker.

Bail Not Granted.

Later the fugitive applied for admission to bail on the ground that conspiracy to escape from the insane asylum at Mateawan, the alleged offense on which extradition proceedings were based, was bailable. Counsel for New York state opposed the motion for bail, alleging that Thaw's mental condition was such as to make his freedom a menace to the public.

Reciting the facts as to Thaw's petition for bail and the appointment and report of the commission upon his mental condition, the court says:

"I have no doubt of the right of the court to grant bail under the circumstances of this case; but as the question is an interlocutory one, of which the petitioner has the right to avail himself at any time and at any stage of the proceedings, and as the case is about to go out of the control of this court and into the supreme court, and as supreme court rule 34 has an important and perhaps a controlling bearing upon the question, I am disposed to leave the motion for bail undetermined.

No Damage in Liberty.

The court says that the report of the commission, supplemented by his own observation at the several hearings, satisfied him that any supposed danger to the community through Thaw's liberty was so remote as not to warrant his being deprived of bail upon that ground.

"I am not at all certain that I am not denying a plain right and doing the petitioner injustice by leaving this question undecided," he says.

Thaw's case the court finds to be that of a person sought to be extradited under the Constitution because he had fled from guardianship custody based upon the verdict of a jury that he was insane.

"The case is a novel one," comments the court, "and required the utmost caution, as the power of extradition is exceptional and extremely arbitrary, and because it imposes itself upon personal liberty, and because heretofore, neither in this country nor in England, has extradition power been invoked for the return of a person fleeing from custody based upon such a finding of insanity and such an escape and flight."

New Question Presented.

New York's right of custody, if the right exists, Judge Aldrich rules, "was based solely upon the idea of insanity; and from the very nature of the case, in describing the supposed extradition crime, the demanding state itself, upon the face of the papers, necessarily throws the question of criminal responsibility into the field of uncertainty and thus it at once presents a question new to extradition law."

Further on, Judge Aldrich says:

"It is strongly urged by counsel for the petitioner in this case that the real and substantial purpose of the extradition sought is not to punish the supposed misdemeanor involved in the escape, but to secure a return of the petitioner under extradition power upon a charge of crime, for the ultimate purpose of recommitment at the Mateawan hospital as an insane or dangerous person.

Motive of New York State.

"I think the reasonable interpretation of the entire proceeding, including the statement of counsel, 'We expect to take this man back; we expect to try him, and punish him for his crime; and when he has taken his punishment for his crime we expect to put him where he belongs, and where he will not be a menace to the public,' is at least that the sole purpose is not to punish for the supposed crime of conspiracy to escape from guardianship custody."

Long Delay Likely.

Washington, April 14.—Only by extraordinary steps can the Thaw case be considered by the supreme court before next October, as the court plans to suspend hearing all cases on Friday, April 24, and hear no more argument until October, unless some extraordinary occasion should demand it. That probably would mean that Thaw must remain in custody at least until October. Those best posted on the court's procedure predict it may be Christmas before the supreme court passes upon the case finally.

Veteran observers of supreme court procedure who look for precedents today thought the Porter Charlton case was the only one approaching a parallel, but even so they did not contend the cases were alike. In the Charlton case, however, the supreme court held there was no right to inquire into the sanity of the prisoner in an extradition proceeding. It was pointed out, however, that the Thaw case took on some different aspects.

Forces Hair To Grow Quickly

An Extract From Valeska Suratt's Famous Beauty Talks, Giving Hair Growing Secret, How to Remove Hair, to Get Rid of Wrinkles, and Other Beauty Methods, as Recommended by Her in the Boston American.

"Try this formula if you would have your hair grow luxuriantly, become long, silky, glossy, full of life, and thin patches will quickly fill out.

"It has produced results out of all proportion to its cost. It is the most economical, effective hair preparation possible to secure.

"Mix half a pint of water with half a point of alcohol (or take a full pint of imported bay rum, if you prefer it) and add to this one ounce of betaquinol, which you can obtain for not more than fifty cents at drug stores. Then it is ready to apply. Mix this formula yourself at home and it will cost you far less and be more effective than any hair tonic you can ever buy ready to use."

• • • "I have known women even of 50 and 60 years to make themselves look years younger by using this wrinkle formula:

"Add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine and two ounces of eptol to a half pint of hot water. Stir constantly until cold. Use very liberally. The eptol you can obtain for not more than fifty cents at the drug store. Mix the formula yourself and you will save a good many dollars."

• • • • • • "You can use simple sulfo solution on the most tender skin anywhere and you can be sure that it will remove every hair, heavy or light, thoroughly and without the least injury. It is wonderful to see how it just dissolves away the hair. Simple sulfo solution will cost you one dollar at any drug store."—Advertisement.

CONGRATULATE BANGS.

Grand Forks Friends Compliment Lawyer on Case's Outcome.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 14.—About 100 professional and other friends of Tracy R. Bangs, the well-known local attorney, met at his home and tendered congratulations upon his success in clearing his name of any stain in connection with the alleged illegal operations with the jury in the Cooper case.

J. Nelson Kelly, superintendent of the Grand Forks public schools, was the speaker of the occasion.

KEEP BOYS ON THE FARM

Extensive Campaign to Interest Them in Agricultural Work.

Girls Included, Too—Contests Planned in Every Community.

Realizing the value of stimulating agricultural enthusiasm among the rising generation on St. Louis county farms, the bankers of the county are getting behind a movement for an extensive campaign to interest farm boys and girls in the home farm.

Bankers, farmers' clubs, the County Fair association and individuals are all lining up for a great series of local contests in potato, poultry and garden culture by boys and girls, which will be unified and centralized through the office of the county agricultural agent. Funds are being furnished by these organizations for prizes, and at present it bids fair to be of no little importance.

The plan briefly is this: In each community where there is a farmers' organization of any kind, a contest will be held between boys and girls along the lines recommended by the department of agriculture. Prizes will be offered for potatoes grown on one-eighth of an acre by a boy or girl; for the egg yield of the home flock of chickens; for the best pair of chickens raised this season, and for the best results from the home garden. Each local contest will be looked after by the farmers' club, and a committee will judge the results. Possibly a local fair will be held a day or two before the county fair. The best from each local fair will then be taken to the county fair for competition, and thus each community will be in competition with other communities. It is hoped that this plan will cause boys and girls to become more interested in staying on the farm, and in working that farm to the best possible advantage. Where such club work has been conducted in other parts of the country it has been found that the young people can often get better yields than their fathers have been getting. The highest yield of corn ever received was secured by a 15-year-old boy last season.

The banks of the county are especially interested in the project. The range banks that have been responding to this movement are the First National of Biwabik, the First National of Gilbert and the State bank of Aurora. The Duluth banks that have contributed are the First National and the American Exchange National. It is expected that the others will fall in line when they fully realize the importance of the club work.

The county fair has set aside more than $200 for prizes in this work, indicating what importance is attached to it by that association.

solving the problem of marketing butter properly. Very seldom will the railroads turn down a reasonable proposition. The railroads appreciate the importance of the dairy industry, and will do all they can to co-operate with the dairyman."

Co-operation and advertising make possible the uniform distribution of California citrus fruits at a cost of less than 5 per cent, said H. J. Eustace, professor of horticulture of Michigan agricultural college, addressing the conference today.

Mr. Eustace described the methods of the California Fruit Growers' exchange from the time the fruit was picked by the 6,500 growers, until it was sold to the retailers on the markets throughout the country. This exchange, he said, was probably the largest and most successful co-operative organization of fruit growers in the world. Over 60 per cent of all the citrus fruits grown in California was picked, shipped and sold by the exchange. The yearly volume of business amounted to $20,000,000, made up entirely to returns for fruit and receipts for supplies necessary to grow and market the fruit.

Mr. Eustace said the the agricultural prosperity of Los Angeles county could in a large measure be accounted for by the good results from thorough, honest, mutual co-operation.

Co-operation's Limits.

Co-operation has its economic limits as well as socialism, said John Graham Brooks, of Harvard university, president of the National Consumers' league, in a discussion today. He said that not all agencies of production were going to be turned over to the state, and consequently not all interest and profits could be socialized. He said:

"Fifty years of profit-sharing and labor co-partnership, as recorded in the careful report of the English board of trade, 1912, shows us with a sort of absolute certainty how profound are the limits within which those agencies must work. Though older profit sharers thought they were to have the whole future to themselves. As against these, consumers' co-operation is with equal certainty to have (as it is actually having) a vastly wider influence. But it seems to me clear that the socialist claim for its universality is without much solid ground.

"Co-operation lifts the level of the competitive struggle; it makes it fairer; it humanizes it, but it does not remove it."

SEVEN LOSE LIFE IN FLAMES THAT WRECK BOSTON APARTMENTS

discovery of the fire. All had been suffocated.

The fire started in the basement, near a waste paper chute, and the flames shot rapidly up the chute and an elevator well. The whole building was ablaze when the firemen arrived.

Woman Gave Alarm.

Miss May Body, living next door, was the first to see the fire. While another neighbor rang in an alarm, Miss Boyd rushed into the burning building and rang the bells to the suites. The occupants were quickly aroused. Many were able to escape by the stairways. Others used the fire escapes in the rear until the flames made this impossible. The firemen carried a number of men and women down ladders. Several persons jumped from upper floors into the life nets.

Trapped on the fourth floor, Mr. and Mrs. Clement R. Rogers and Mrs. Robert Adams hastily fashioned a rope from bedclothing and let themselves down to the ground.

No one had time to dress, and there was considerable suffering from exposure in the chill air of the early morning. The survivors found shelter in nearby apartment houses.

The state police later in the day began an investigation in an effort to determine the cause of the fire.

YOUR attention is respectfully called to an important point not generally known, that a laxative should have a tonic element to successfully meet constipation.

Mr. John B. Capers, of 610 Pecan St., Fort Worth, Texas, had a significant experience in this particular. He was afflicted with a severe case of constipation and bowel trouble. He spent a good deal of money in trying to find a remedy. To his astonishment, Peruna very quickly relieved him of his bad symptoms. This happened a number of years ago. Since then, Mr. Capers states that he has had similar attacks of trouble, the prominent symptom of which is constipation, and has always found prompt and efficient relief from Peruna. He says: "Up to the time I started using your Peruna I could drink castor oil like water. It did no good. As for salts, they were of no use. Physics of all kinds and classes were used, but we had to call on the fountain syringe for help." Peruna was able to correct this condition completely in Mr. Capers' case, and there is every reason to believe that it was the tonic qualities of Peruna, added to the laxative qualities, that procured this very desirable result.

BIGGEST BOIL DOWN ON RECORD IS HERE

Twentieth Century Methods Will Save Everybody Time and Expense.

The "boiling down" process, as every newspaper man knows, is the effort to crowd as much information into the smallest possible space on printed paper as can be done. The derivative of the term "boil down" as applied to this work is easily enough determined, as it is the physical process of securing the concrete good out of anything that goes through the process. Maple sap "boiled down" makes delicious syrup. Words and sentences boiled down make terse, readable news items, and all the information of the world brought down to the present time "boiled down" to smallest possible space and profusely illustrated, has made People's Cyclopedia the handiest reference work of the age. In fact, this is the biggest and best "boil down" on record, as it places just what you want when and where you want it, right at your elbow all the time.

Beginning tomorrow, Wednesday, and continuing for ten days, the National Newspaper Syndicate's Duluth representative, The Herald, will distribute this great reference work through the Glass Block store. Read the announcement on another page of this issue and then clip a coupon and be ready to present it as directed at the Glass Block store.

No One Would Talk.

When the conference was ended, Mr. Lind went back to the state department for conferences with officials there, while Secretary Bryan and the president went to the cabinet meeting.

No one would discuss what took place at the conference, but it was learned authoritatively that a thorough investigation of the facts connected with the arrest of the American marines at Tampico had been called for before further action would be taken by the United States.

It is understood that Huerta, while regretting that the marines should have been arrested has pointed out that under international law the Mexican commander acted within his rights. The Washington government is seeking to learn whether the marines were armed or whether they committed some overt act which might have caused their arrest.

While official dispatches from Admiral Mayo are meager, it is believed that Mr. Lind assured President Wilson and Secretary Bryan that American marines never went ashore armed and always were careful in their demeanor when they went to get supplies.

Talked of Finances.

Part of the conference, it was said, was devoted to a discussion of the Huerta administration financially, and such information as Mr. Lind gathered from Senor Portillo y Rojas, Mexican foreign minister, in recent conferences at Vera Cruz.

The entire situation was discussed at length at the cabinet meeting, but the general impression prevailed that until more information was received from Rear Admiral Mayo there would be no further steps by the Washington government, immediate action in the interval being left to the discretion of the admiral.

At the navy department officials were in communication with Admiral Mayo. That there was "no news" was the terse and only announcement there. That was generally accepted as meaning that the salute had not been fired.

Dutch Send Warship.

The Hague, Netherlands, April 14.—The Netherlands government today ordered the warship Kortenaer to proceed from Curacao to Tampico to watch over Dutch interests there.

Carranza and Villa to Meet.

Chihuahua, Mex., April 13, via El Paso, April 14.—Gen. Francisco Villa is expected here tomorrow to confer with Gen. Carranza, if conditions at the front will permit. The understanding that he will be here was made subject to military requirements which might make it unwise for him to leave the troops at this time.

While there is a dearth of news from the field, it is understood that there have been several engagements at San Pedro, Parras and other cities east of Torreon, to which the Federal garrison of the last named city retreated after the battle in an endeavor to join belated reinforcements which failed to arrive in time to assist in the defense of the city.

Mutiny on Guerrerro.

A report from Gen. Obregon at Navajoa, on the west coast, says that a band of Federal soldiers mutinied on the gunboat Guerrerro and escaped in a gasoline launch, which Gen. Obregon expected would arrive shortly at Topolobampo, where the gunboat Tampico lies at anchor. Gen. Obregon reported that he believed that eventually the whole crew of the Guerrerro would mutiny and join the rebels.

The Tampico became a rebel asset in this way some time ago, and if Obregon's prediction is fulfilled, the rebels will have two warships against one, the Morelos of the Federals. In this event the Morelos could be captured, and it is thought by Obregon that combined sea and land attacks by the rebels soon would wrest coast towns from the Federals.

PENNSYLVANIA COAL MINERS ARE VOTING

Will Decide Whether to Accept the New Wage Scale.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 14.—Forty-five thousand miners in the Pittsburg district are idle today, voting on the proposition to approve or disapprove the tentative wage agreement entered into between the district officers and the coal operators. If approved, the wage agreement in force for the last two years will continue for the same period. No time was set today when the vote would be counted and the result known, but it was stated that little work would be done in any of the mines the remainder of the week.

A persistent campaign has been waged against acceptance of the agreement, the convention of "insurgents" last night at Monongahela voting to pay no longer the per capita tax imposed by the international district organizations of the United Mine Workers.

Seek West Virginia Scale.

Charleston, W. Va., April 14.—Demanding that all coal mined shall be paid for on the run of mine basis miners of the Seventeenth district, United Mine Workers, today met the operators here in an effort to work out a wage scale that will prevail through the coming twelve months. They also ask increased compensation for pick and machine mining, an eight-hour day and collection of all dues and assessments by the union through the operating company's offices. The abolition of the company stores and placing the Paint Creek district on the same wage basis as the Kanawha district are other important features of the men's demands.

TRAIN ROBBER SHOT TO DEATH

Man Wanted for Bellingham Crime Believed Killed in South Dakota.

Lemmon, S. D., April 14.—A man believed to be Harry Mathews, the Bellingham, Wash., train bandit, was shot and instantly killed here last night by officers who were attempting to effect his arrest. Before meeting his death the bandit seriously wounded Deputy Sheriff A. A. Axtell of Lemmon.

The man who is supposed to be Mathews, boarded a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul freight train at Harlowton, Mont. He was detected by Conductor Edward Striebel, who attempted to eject him from his train at Bowman, N. D., when the fugitive drew a revolver and attempted to shoot the conductor. The man, with a companion, were locked in a box car, and the officers at Lemmon notified. On its arrival here Deputy Sheriff Axtell and Officer G. W. Schleng opened the car door when they were met by a fusilade of bullets. Axtell was shot in both arms while Schleng escaped death by a bullet which struck him over the heart but was deflected from his body by a package of papers in his coat pocket.

Mathews' companion, who gave his name as Roy S. Smith, claiming Philadelphia as his home, said he was on the train when Mathews boarded it. He said the dead man had but little to say to him before their arrival here.

The Bellingham Crime.

Mathews, for whose arrest and conviction officials of the Great Northern railroad had offered a reward of several thousand dollars, was one of a trio of bandits who shot to death three persons on Great Northern passenger train No. 358, near Bellingham, Wash., Feb. 20. One of the bandits was arrested at Winnipeg three weeks ago, and the other still is at large.

LET DITCH CONTRACT.

Indiana Concern Will Dig Trench in Anoka and Washington Counties.

Stillwater, Minn., April 14.—Arthur A. Caswell, auditor of Anoka county, and N. A. Nelson, auditor of Washington county, opened bids here for the construction of Judicial Ditch No. 3, in Anoka and Washington counties and awarded the contract to Ewing & Brockenbrough of Lafayette, Ind., they being the lowest bidders.

The amount of the contract is $13,040.16, being slightly in excess of the estimates of the engineer.

KILLED NEAR CLOQUET.

Boy Struck Accidentally on Head By His Father's Ax.

Cloquet, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Gustave Bergman, aged 12, who was accidentally killed by his father Thursday, took place yesterday.

The boy died at the Bergman homestead on the reservation, about seven miles from here. His father was in a tree cutting branches and his son was about eighteen feet from the base of the tree picking up brush. Mr. Bergman's ax struck a branch above his head and flew from his hands, striking the boy in the back of the head and killing him instantly. The body was brought to Cloquet and the funeral took place at the Swedish Lutheran church.

Mr. Bergman and family formerly lived in Two Harbors. The boy was the only son in a family of three children.

Declines to Testify.

Mandan, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fearful of giving evidence that might incriminate him, Gustav A. Falk of Glen Ullin refused to testify at the hearing of charges of perjury laid against him on the strength of evidence given in a recent prohibition case. Falk was bound over to the district court for trial. Falk's trouble related to the alleged sale of beer at a German clubroom in Glen Ullen.

Spiegel chairman, Miss Frances Earhart and Mrs. J. E. Samuelson.

Although the Duluth center of the Drama League of America and the new organization will co-operate in furthering interest in the drama, they will divide their work. The Drama league will take as its part during the coming year the bringing to Duluth of well known lecturers on the drama and the new organization will undertake the juvenile work.

The affair is expected to be private, Mr. McAdoo's colleagues in the cabinet being practically the only guests outside of the two families.

During the last few days Washington society has come to accept as settled that the wedding would take place during the first week in May, and also that the invitation list would be small. It is taken for granted that whatever preparations are made for the event will not require the time and busy activity which preceded the Wilson-Sayre wedding last November. FANTASTIC GOWNS AT COSTUME BALL

Cotillon Club Ushers in Post-Lenten Season With Brilliant Dance at Kitchi Gammi Club.

The post-Lenten season was ushered in by a costume ball given by the cotillon club at the Kitchi Gammi club last evening. There was a gorgeous and fantastic assemblage of guests, whose costumes ranged from those of Orientals to Indians.

Several dinner parties preceded the dance, some at the club and others at the homes of the dancers. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Stone entertained an Indian tribe, who later in the evening gave a special dance. The table was appropriately decorated for a meal of the children of the forest. Mr. and Mrs. Seth Marshall entertained twenty-four guests at a candle-light dinner. Killarney roses were used on the table. Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., also entertained at dinner.

Mrs. Whitney Wall struck the keynote of the season by representing an Easter egg. With her gown of robin's egg blue over white she wore a blue wig to match, with a rabbit in the coils of it. Tiny chicks decorated her slippers. Her gown was trimmed with paper eggs of various shades and sizes and she wore a chain, bracelets and ear-rings of candy Easter eggs. Mr. Wall went as a French chef.

Mrs. E. W. MacPherran was "Carmencita" and Mr. MacPherran wore a real Highland costume.

Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., Mrs. Seth Marshall and Miss Sybil Nash of St. Paul were Turkish women. Mrs. Ames' costume was an effective combination of cerise and blue, Mrs. Marshall's was of white satin trimmed with brilliants and Miss Nash's effective gown was completed by a veil of American beauties.

Among the tribe of Indians were Miss Dorothy Dowse, Miss Marie Jeffrey, Miss Berta Schmied, Alfred Hanchett and Stanley Coburn. They gave their war dance and song, led by their chief, Harvey Clapp, who gave the dance of welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer N. Whyte showed what may be expected in the fashions of men and women several years from now.

Other interestingly gowned dancers last evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stearns, Colonial man and woman; Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair, Spanish dancers; Miss Margery Shipherd, Pierrot; Murray Peyton, unique Dutch costume; Mrs. Murray Peyton, Spanish girl; Mrs. Mark Baldwin, Russian dancer; Mark Baldwin, prince; Mrs. Heber Hartley, Spanish girl; Mrs. A. OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Why Anticipate Misery for Others or Ourselves?

A girl friend who has been engaged but a short time, and whose marriage day had not definitely been arranged, surprised me with her confidences.

"I am going to be married at once," she said, "because I fear that another month of the sort of thing I have endured from my friends will set me resolutely against matrimony. You can't imagine the amount of discussion the announcement of my engagement occasioned in my circle of friends.

"When they aren't busy wondering audibly whether I could be happy if such and such a chain of circumstances should arise, they are arguing my chances of happiness under other adverse conditions. I have the faculty of seeing both sides of a question, but in the course of my whole life I could not imagine as many curious, possible and impossible situations over which my future husband and self might come to grief, as my friends in their interest in my affairs have recently disclosed to me.

"They have given me some unhappy moments. Today I had it out with myself and I made up my mind to marry right away and not be frightened or reasoned out of my happiness. At first I thought we had better wait a year or two, just to be sure that we were congenial, but I have changed my mind. I doubt if waiting will improve my chances of happiness. The more I hear about the difficulties encountered by husbands and wives, the more trembilingly I approach my own marriage. I have decided to take the plunge."

Let her marry her intended and take the risk as all who marry must, say I, with a few provisos. If there is anything about her future husband that shakes her confidence in happy marriage, let her take care. Other people's disturbances need not disturb her except she can apply them to her own case. Dwelling upon the possibility of some unpleasant happening in the future without a good reason is to tempt Providence.

Nothing could be accomplished in the world if we all feared the future and allowed other people's idle doubts and fears for us, to shape our ends. I know that matrimony is given a bad name by many in its toils. But why anticipate misery for others or ourselves in any state of life? Why not let those why are happily married speak even more loudly to us than the unhappy? And why not pattern by the former?

AMUNDSEN NEEDS $200,000 FOR TRIP.

Washington, April 14.—Private reports from Christiania were received here last night that Capt. Raold Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, must have $200,000 before he can equip his proposed Polar expedition. Explorers and scientists here expressed the belief that it would be practically impossible to raise the required sum.

The reports from Christiania said that Amundsen's ship, the Fram, after completing repairs at Montevideo, Uruguay, would sail for Norway, the plan being for her to leave there and pass through the Panama canal to the Pacific coast early in 1915, provided that $200,000 can be raised before that time.

The National Geographic society here recently decided to appropriate $20,000 for the Amundsen expedition. According to announced plans, the expedition is scheduled to leave the Pacific coast next year, to explore the Polar basin.

Summery Furniture
This Year It Is French Willow

THE PROCESS of manufacture of this furniture from the growth of the willow in delightful French Provinces to the completed Chair, Couch or Table is intensely interesting. Aside from its intrinsic worth, in comfort, durability and beauty it affords pleasing contrast with the more formal types of furniture. Unfortunately our illustrations can convey only a slight conception of the soft sheen of the natural willow or the wonderful variations of tone it shows when colored.

Wherein Willow Furniture is appropriately used in nearly every room in the house, it is especially adapted for sleeping rooms and sun parlors, as well as the verandas. Fitted with cushions in artistic cretonnes or appropriate fabrics, the effect is indeed beautiful.

You can gain a most pleasing impression of Willow Furniture from our show windows this week.

MAKES CHANGES TO AID OFFICE FORCE

County School Superintendent Makes Better Provisions for Staff.

Extensive changes are being made in the office of the county superintendent of schools to accommodate the increased office staff necessitated by the increase in work. Several desks have been added and a counter with a liberal space for store purposes.

L. A. Ink, who has gone over from the position of assistant superintendent to that of principal of the unorganized schools, as well as Mrs. M. B. Holmes, supervisor of unorganized schools, and others, will have their offices with the county superintendent. The assistant superintendent, H. B. Hursh, is already at work here and will occupy a desk at the superintendent's office.

* * *

Annual report blanks and inventory blanks have been sent out from the office of the county superintendent of schools and are in the hands of the rural school teachers. Schools having an eight-months' school year will close on April 24.

St. Louis county leads all other counties of the state in the number of schools obtaining state aid and has the largest percentage of schools receiving state aid.

NEGRO IS SAVED BY SHERIFF'S WIFE

Foils Masked and Armed Mob at Canon City, Col.

Canon City, Colo., April 14.—Masked and armed, a mob numbering about fifty, said to have been citizens of Florence, reached here in automobiles early today, seized Sheriff Newcomb, and with axes and ropes marched on the county jail with the avowed intention of lynching Charles Ragland, a negro under arrest, charged with the murder of Joseph Petty, a Florence merchant.

While the mob was battering at the doors of the jail, Mrs. Newcomb, the sheriff's wife, who had hidden the keys to the jail, turned in a general fire alarm and telephoned to Warden Tynan at the state prison. Members of the fire department and half a dozen prison guards armed with sawed-off shotguns were soon on the scene.

Several shots were fired, but so far as known no one was injured. After some display of resistance the members of the mob re-entered their automobiles and drove away.

An investigation has been started by county authorities.

NO ACTION YET IN DYNAMITE CASES.

Chicago, April 14.—No action was taken in the United States circuit court of appeals in the cases of the twenty-four labor leaders who were convicted in Indianapolis of conspiracy to transport dynamite.

Six petitions for a rehearing are on file. The court probably will rule on the petitions before the close of the April term.

SERIOUS REVOLT IN SOUTHERN CHINA

Troops Mutiny and Join Forces With "White Wolf."

London, April 14.—A formidable revolutionary movement has been launched in Southern China, according to a dispatch from Shanghai today. The regular troops at Sianfu, capital of Shen Si province, are said to have mutinied and are believed to be in league with the notorious brigand, "White Wolf." Indications of trouble are reported also from Canton and Wu Chang. Six provinces are said to be affected.

Huang Hsiang, who was a candidate for the presidency against Yuan Shi Kai, and Gen. Chen Chi Mei, former commander of the Southern rebels, are declared to be the leaders of the revolution.

A QUEER CAMPAIGN ARGUMENT.

In Governor Eberhart's campaign announcement he places a good deal of stress on some figures showing that all but a few counties get back from the state in school and road aid more than they pay in state taxes.

Standing where it does, this statement plainly is some sort of a bid for votes.

Of course the governor has utterly nothing to do with the arrangement to which he calls attention, and deserves neither praise nor blame for it. He does not go into St. Louis, Ramsey and Hennepin counties and take large sums of money and distribute them among the other counties. It is done in the ordinary processes of state government as prescribed by law.

But even if this were a private arrangement made by Governor Eberhart, where does the campaign material come in?

The only possible political deduction to be made from it is that it makes no difference how high taxes are, how grossly unfair the tax burden of the state is, how absurd the state's extravagance, so long as most of the counties get some of the loot cut up among them at the expense of the more populous counties.

What kind of an argument is that? What kind of an appeal does it make to the minds of reasoning voters? What do such voters think of a man who would make such an argument?

It does not reduce the importance of economical and efficient state government. If economy were exercised, and a dollar's worth of results insisted upon for every dollar paid in taxes, still these counties would get back from the state more than they pay to it, but also THEY WOULD PAY LESS THAN THEY DO NOW—the taxes of every citizen of every county would be reduced.

If that is the governor's answer to the charge of extravagance and inefficiency which the figures make against the state government, it is puerile and absurd.

If it is a mere attempt to profit personally by the fact that the people of St. Louis, Ramsey and Hennepin counties have to pay a part of the taxes of the people of other counties, then it is an ugly piece of demagogism.

In any event, it is not a thing that can possibly help the man that uses it in the mind of any reasoning voter, whether he lives in a large county or a small one, and whether his county pays the state more than it gets back or less. In either case, his own taxes are too high, and his own greatest personal need is a state administration that will REDUCE them and not merely talk through idle years about it.

John Lind is back in Washington, and all the newspaper men are racing to see who won't be assigned to interview him.

THE END OF THE GUNMEN.

Gyp the Blood, Whitey Lewis, Lefty Louie and Dago Frank died yesterday in Ossining for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Very likely they deserved to die—if the state is to be allowed to kill. If they did not kill Rosenthal doubtless they had killed others or would if they had lived. That was their business. They were "gun men"—and the function of gunmen is to kill.

Yet it is a little too much as though the state had solemnly condemned to destruction the guns with which the job was done. Hardly less than the firearms, these four boys were merely the tools with which somebody did a nasty job. To have the instruments die, and the real culprits live, isn't comfortable.

It isn't the "System," though, or the right or wrong of capital punishment, or even the wrong of letting the "higher up" escape that strikes us in this case. It is this: How much guiltier than these boys is the society that leaves fertile the breeding places of such as they? Reared in a slum, born and bred in haunts of crime, breathing their lives long the atmosphere of evil in a civilization whose heroes are daring thieves and murderers, for what other end than this were these young lives shaped?

"Keep away from bad company," is the highly moral message the doomed boys left to their companions of the East Side; yet worse company than they themselves it would be hard to imagine. New York sowed slums, and it reaps gunmen. It is as logical as that to sow corn is to reap corn. The thought that rises above the many thoughts this striking incident strikes out of the mind is that these keen, alert, nimble-minded lads might, if they had been born otherwhere, have been very valuable citizens.

Somehow this time of the year brings up memories of the Titanic.

SENATOR SAGENG.

Senator Sageng has again exhibited his keen vision and sound public spirit by resisting the importunities of the Bull Moosers, who thought to make a showing for themselves at the November election by getting him to be their candidate for governor.

Very wisely, we think, he has declined the empty honor, and will seek re-election to the state senate.

There is little question that in the campaign preceding the November election the fight will be between Winfield Scott Hammond and Adolph O. Eberhart. Between these men the issue will be clearly drawn—progress and a business-like administration of state business against reaction, ring rule and much prating of economy coupled with a riot of extravagance and misgovernment.

Had Senator Sageng entered this field he would have won many votes. He is too appealing a figure, with his rugged integrity, his sound statesmanship and his instinct for the right, not to win many votes, even though we think he does over-emphasize sumptuary legislation. But he would not have been elected, and every vote he gained would simply have helped to divide the forces opposed to the present system of misgovernment, and increased the dismal probability of the re-election of Eberhart and the return to power of his forces of machine politics, misrule and extravagance.

Senator Sageng will keep. All that The Herald has said in praise of him is true, and the state needs him. It is Ottertail county's duty to the state to return him to the state senate for another four years of splendid service to the people and to every cause of righteousness and justice.

It's the open season for umps.

THE END OF THE COPPER STRIKE.

The miners in the Copper country have voted, rather overwhelmingly, to call off the strike that has been in progress there for months.

That's splendid news.

It has been a disastrous affair. It has cost the company, the workers and the community a great deal of money. It has caused much bitter feeling that we could have done better without.

There are some gains to the men, and we are very glad of that. We guess they are entitled to all they got.

Yet the strike does not seem to have settled much of anything. Strikes, like wars, often don't, and it is a pity that they are sometimes necessary in our incomplete and still rather rudimentary system of relations between workers and their employers.

It isn't a time for assigning blame or analyzing motives. Rejoicing that the long, tense, bitter and costly struggle is over is emotion enough for the present. The quicker the copper companies and the men get back to working harmoniously and profitably again the better it will be all around.

Congratulations to the Copper country on the fact that the war is over, and that the flow of pay envelopes is to resume its accustomed regularity. That section has had enough trouble for awhile, and we hope it will never need to have any more.

At least Huerta didn't give up Mexico during Lent.

A HERALD OF THE LEUCOCYTES.

The leucocytes are the white corpuscles of the blood. They are the body's army of defense. They can move with great rapidity, and they flock valiantly to every place of danger to the body. They destroy the wasting tissue of disease, and they fight and destroy the germs of disease.

People used to think of them as mere humble scavengers of the human system. Now people know them to be something more splendid than that. They are the sentinels of health, the army of defense against disease.

When these soldiers of human health are many and vigorous and nimble, the insidious attacks of disease germs are in vain. The entrance of such enemies into the body by any route is the signal for a ferocious attack. The leucocyte soldiers gather from far and wide, rushing in response to some mysterious message, and attack the enemy tooth and nail. In a healthy body almost invariably the white corpuscles win.

But when the white corpuscles are fewer than they should be, or less nimble and weaker, then the gates of defense are down. We say that the body shows feebler resistance to disease; but the trouble is that the leucocyte army of defense is crippled.

And when that happens it's our fault. We have been neglecting our bodies. We have eaten too much and exercised too little. We have got into bad eating or drinking habits—our way of life has gone wrong. We have been guilty of the folly of deliberately debauching our army of defense.

Here's a test, Mr. Business Man. After your bath lie flat on your back and let the water run out of the tub. Then watch which is left high and dry first—your chest or your "stomach." If it is the latter, you are not dealing fairly by your system, and that's dangerous to the leucocyte army of defense. That's one test. There are others; most of them more dangerous—such as submitting to battles between invading disease germs and a weakened army of white corpuscles.

Now you can build up this army of defense, or you can let it degenerate. To build it up and keep it vigorous and nimble is not only to be healthy but EFFICIENT. To let it run down is to invite ill health, disease, and mental and physical INEFFICIENCY. You build up by sound living habits, exercise and fresh air. You run down by bad living habits and lack of exercise and fresh air.

The choice is yours.

This message of the leucocytes and their meaning is one of the many valuable messages that have been brought to Duluth by Dr. Charles E. Barker, who is here for a week at the instance of the Y. M. C. A., who has been physical director for some of the country's biggest men, and whose wise advice will be worth the while of any man who, in this day when efficiency is the open sesame to success in every field, wishes to know how he can best reach and maintain his own highest personal efficiency.

A Milwaukee man choked to death on a piece of apple peeling. Which goes against the old theory that the only dangerous thing you can get from an apple is hard cider.

Scrubwomen.

Katherine Anthony in The Survey: The appearance of charwomen on their knees scrubbing an office floor, a public corridor, or the lobby of a theater is not one which inspires respect in the ordinary passerby. The work of public cleaning bears, in addition to the ancient stigma attached to menial work, the ignominy of being done in public places. The disheveled working clothes and the humble posture of the scrubbers seem to deprive them of any measure of human dignity.

In the majority of public buildings the scrubbing is done in the most primitive fashion, for as long as the women's labor is as cheap as it is, there is little incentive for employers to adopt improved methods of work. There is also a general belief that women do this sort of work, more thoroughly than men—a fact which has served to prolong their tenure. Morover, the scrubbing machines which have been tried so far have not been satisfactory. The superintendent of one building experimented with one in the large ground floor thoroughfare, but gave it up and returned to primitive hand-and-knee scrubbers.

The dangers to health from constantly breathing in the germ-laden dust of great assemblage places need scarcely be mentioned. The public cleaning woman is the first and chief victim of the disgusting habit of spitting. Decent women were compelled to scrub floors unspeakably defiled by spitting, a condition as dangerous as it was revolting. One woman was said to have acquired tuberculosis in her finger from scrubbing the floor of an orchestra. It is true that not all cleaning jobs were equally bad, but the worst involved hardships which were an offense against humanity and bore no relation to the numbers of women engaged.

But the ability to make the best of conditions which we can't remedy belongs to these women as well as to others more fortunate than they. Hear Mrs. Clinton, as she walks to the theater at 5 o'clock on a snowy winter afternoon. "I think I'm going to be able to keep this job," she says, "because six women have tried it before me and all of them gave it up. But I'm a steady worker, and that's what people want in New York."

The Servant.

He who will serve is a servant,
Yea a servant of high degree,
For he stands by highest or lowliest
With eyes clear-visioned to see.

He who will serve is a brother,
In the brotherhood, warm and brave,
That is broad as the race and as tender
As the Brother who came to save.

He who will serve is a lover;
All service were else in vain.
From a heart that makes all the world sweeter,
He labors more lovers to gain.

He who will serve is a teacher;
For many shall learn at his feet
The art of all arts the noblest,
Of turning life's bitter to sweet,—

The truth of all truths the deepest,
Whose knowing must make men free,—
The skill of all skills the finest,
Of training to do and to be.

He who will serve shall be master,
Ruling and serving is one,
Till multitudes league with the leader
And the undone work can be done.
—Samuel T. Kidder in The Survey.

Impromptu Gush of Sympathy.

Judge: "Sometimes," reflected the elderly dame, "a man weeps at the wedding of a daughter, because he suddenly realizes what a mean husband he has been to his own wife and is overcome when he thinks of what may be ahead of the girl."

Politics and the Currency

Editorial in the Kansas City Star.

"We know whatever decision we make," Secretary McAdoo said, when he was in Kansas City, "the disappointed cities will be ready to lynch us." The storm of angry protest now arising from the cities that wanted Federal reserve banks and did not get them shows he was right.

It was a tremendously hard job that fell to Secretary McAdoo, Secretary Houston and Comptroller Williams as the committee to outline the districts and locate the banks. The committee applied itself to the task conscientiously and thoroughly. It made a tour of the country and listened to the claims presented by the various cities. It studied the briefs which they filed.

The decision was finally made with scrupulous regard for the facts of trade and commerce.

It was natural that the cry of "politics" should be raised. But on this subject the people of Kansas City can speak from personal knowledge. If the committee had been influenced by political considerations there would have been no bank in Kansas City! From the political standpoint one bank from a state would have been sufficient. Missouri would have been "taken care of" by St. Louis.

It would have been natural for the committee to turn to Denver, whose geographical location, to people unfamiliar with Western conditions, would have seemed ideal. Moreover, Colorado is represented by two Democratic senators who were of material help to the president in his legislation.

But, of course, financial and trade conditions did not warrant establishing a bank at Denver. The committee chose Kansas City because these conditions pointed inevitably toward Kansas City. In making this choice it knew it was throwing away an opportunity to make political capital. But this knowledge did not swerve it from its duty.

The committee's action in the case of Kansas City is a guarantee that all its work was conducted on the same high plane. A less conscientious board might have yielded to politics. The country was fortunate in having the services of men of the quality of McAdoo, Houston and Williams in making a series of decisions of so much importance for the future commercial progress of the nation.

Homes for Workers

Albion Fellows Bacon in the Survey: The outrage of our American cities is the way we bid for home-seekers, when we have no homes to offer them, after we lure them to come. Our factories scour the country for workers, bring them in, and turn them loose, to find shelter wherever they can. Our business organizations offer bonuses for new factories, bidding for these which bring in the largest number of families. "Another factory! 100 families! More prosperity!" they announce, in big headlines.

One of the saddest sights of the slums is to see the thrifty wife of the working man, with her rosy brood of children, used to country air and sunshine, used to space, privacy, good surroundings, cleanliness, quiet, shut up amid the noise and dirt and confusion, in the gloom of the slum. That is an unusual family that can maintain the sanctity of its home life, in the tenements.

The brave fight may be made if the father and mother are spared, to hold control, and provide the bread. But how many working men in our cities, the records show, fall a prey to tuberculosis, typhoid, pneumonia and other "house diseases!" How many mothers are beckoned from their little families by the same ghastly finger! Any one who will search the records will find a startling number of dependent families become so on account of death or prolonged illness of the bread-winner.

And the children?

The ranks of the dependent and delinquent are recruited—in what percentage we ought to know, but any percentage is too large—from the families of the working man that are brought into our cities and dumped into our dilapidated old death traps.

And so I say that the responsibility is upon those who import workingmen to see that there are decent homes for them when they come, and not to set snares to destroy them and their children.

To a "Barebacked" Photograph.

Oh, lady of the shoulder
So exquisitely shaped,
Than sportive dryad's colder,
And less completely draped,
Though never budding roses
Looked so demure and meek,
Are not these barebacked poses
A sign of barefaced cheek?

What next will be the fashion?
Perhaps you'll soon be "took"
With nothing but a sash on,
Secured by eye and hook.
You never posed before so—
Unclad from neck to waist—
We must admire your torso,
But can't admire your taste!

We might have thought you shameless,
And bold as brass, perchance;
And yet how sweet and blameless
Your modest backward glance!
Whatever mad obsession
Has moved you to be "snapped,"
We're charmed with your expression,
For that, at least, is "rapt."
—London Opinion.

Wilson's Meekness.

Life: "The spirit of humanity, combined with an almost inflexible will power and superior mental faculties, accounts partly for the president's success in driving congress into doing what he wants."—The Sun.

Woodrow has the quality known as meekness. His possession of it constitutes perhaps the greatest advantage of equipment that he has over Theodore. Theodore not only did not have it, but never seemed to have any conception of it. It is one of the very great qualities that makes possible achievements which could not be accomplished without it. There is no mistake in the beatitude which says that the meek shall inherit the earth. Moses, that great leader (of whom as yet no statue stands on Manhattan island, but should at once), was called the meekest man. It was in keeping with the rest of him. The meek men do not stand in their own light, do not trip over their own personality. Lincoln had meekness illuminated by humor. Our Father George had it, qualified by a liability to sudden use of strong language. It is one of the great intelligent qualities that enable men to be used for the accomplishment of great ends.

The Supreme Test.

Have you the right optimism?
Can you stand the test of it?
When you get the worst of it?
Can you make the best of it?
—Houston Post.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Bryan has never yet dictated a letter or speech while riding horseback. But that is one of the comparatively few places where he makes no effort to convey his thoughts to a stenographer. He thinks nothing of dictating while walking casually along the street.

Three or four mornings a week, if one were noticing, one might see the secretary of state leave his home accompanied by a confidential secretary who has gone there for the purpose of walking down to the state department with Mr. Bryan. As they walk along, Mr. Bryan dictates and the secretary jots it down in a notebook so small that it is almost hid from view by the man's hand.

Unless one were paying close heed, one would never know there was any dictation going on at all. They seem to be merely conversing.

One morning recently Mr. Bryan and one of his secretaries might have been seen to huddle into a little niche in the wall near one of the entrances of the state department, and for some time stood there while Mr. Bryan dictated.

"If we go up to the office," smilingly explained Mr. Bryan, "there will be such a crowd there that it may be hours before we can get these letters disposed of."

Gen. Isaac R. Sherwood of Toledo, Ohio, one of the few remaining Civil war veterans in congress, has a passion for high-priced horses. He usually has a team of spirited, whimsical-looking animals here in Washington, and he is generous about asking other congressmen to go driving with him, but they seldom go because the horses look as if they might take fright at the Washington monument any minute, without notice, and try to climb a tree. Gen. Sherwood, however, is not afraid of them—even if he is 78 years old.

The only horse that ever gave the general a real fright was a settled little driving horse known as "Old Roy."

One day while driving "Old Roy" about the streets of Toledo, Gen. Sherwood stopped at a livery stable to engage the proprietor in conversation and run a few errands in the neighborhood. He drove Roy right in and tied him carefully to a stout beam, never noticing that it was one of the corner uprights of the carriage elevator.

As the general stood chatting with the liveryman, a bright young chap who was working his way through Yale by serving time in the livery stable summers, approached the elevator shaft on the second floor. Not knowing anything about Roy being hitched below, he began to pull the cable.

Gen. Sherwood, hearing a commotion, glanced about to see Old Roy standing up on his hind legs and still going up.

"No great harm was done," says the general, "but it gave me an awful shock. Imagine how you yourself would feel if you had a horse named Roy, noted for being quiet and self-contained, and you suddenly chanced to see it standing right up on its hind legs like a horse in a circus."

Byron R. Newton, assistant secretary of the treasury, is not given to superstitutions—except about one thing. When he was helping William G. McAdoo look after the Wilson campaign at Sea Girt, several persons down around Staunton, Va., sent Mr. Wilson lucky stones that grow in a lucky-stone mine down that way. The stones come right out of the ground in the form of a perfect cross. All one has to do is rub the hands over a stone like that, then carry the stone about in the pocket, and one will have all kinds of good luck. As there were more of the stones sent in than Mr. Wilson needed for his own personal use, Newton held out one for himself. And ever since then his health has improved, his frame of mind and his whole outlook on life have been better than ever before. It may not have been the lucky stone at all, but Newton says he would not take a chance on parting with it—not for anything.

Some weeks ago Vice President Marshall made the remark that the greatest need of this country is a good 5-cent cigar. The remark was printed in the newspapers and manufacturers of 5-cent cigars began to bombard the vice president with sample boxes of their wares. Marshall has now tried a great many more brands of 5-cent cigars than he had a month or two ago, but he now issues this statement:

"The country's greatest need still exists."

Secretary of War Garrison was visiting the Army and Navy club in Washington one evening when an army officer nudged him, pointed out a large, gray-eyebrowed man and said:

"See that fellow yonder? That's Gen. Soandso, the killjoy of the army. What do you suppose that man wanted to do one night?"

"Give it up," answered Garrison.

"What, pray, did he want to do?"

"Why," the man told Garrison, "one night when the president was entertaining the members of the supreme court at the White House, the general yonder wanted to go over there with a big army bugle and blow the recall."

The Passing of "Rube" Waddell.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Of all great games baseball is the greatest. Of all things in baseball pitching is the greatest. Of all great pitchers Waddell was the greatest.

George Edward Waddell was for a few brief years the idol of frenzied worshippers. As a baseball "god" he merited their homage. He stood alone, master of the mightiest batsmen, the next thing to omnipotence on the twirler's mound.

And all his rich possessions he threw away. The whip of steel men called his arm, the clear head which trapped his opponents at play, his every cause and secret of success; his health, his prestige, his income—all these things "Rube" Waddell gave up because he wanted something else more. The other thing he wanted was dissipation. It is written in the unalterable law of life that no man shall for long be both dissolute and successful. Waddell chose to be—not successful.

On Wednesday this supreme baseball pitcher—for a fleeting spell—died in Texas. He had gone there to retard the ravages of tuberculosis. It was too late. It had been too late ever since that hour some years ago when the passion for unwholesome living definitely conquered Waddell's store of common sense.

The professional rise, decline and fall of "Rube" Waddell should furnish an impressive warning to millions of boys and young men in America. The love of athletics and the temptation to live loosely are twin characteristics of youth. Waddell tried to combine the two. He failed. Others who tried it failed. All who may try it in future will fail.

Wanted—A RealMan for State Executive

Views of the state press on a much needed change.

A Strong Indorsement.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: The nomination of Congressman Hammond for governor by the Democrats indicates both shrewdness and patriotism on their part, and a loyalty to Minnesota on Mr. Hammond's part that is worthy of reward. He is a strong man, a good man, a man of ideals and principle. In congress, with 500 confreres, he has made his mark as one of the first half dozen or so in ability. He has a record there to be proud of, and for which the Democrats of this state will need to make no apologies. A change from a weak-kneed opportunist like Eberhart to a man of principle and force like Hammond will be a great and splendid thing for the state.

Acceptable to All Progressives.

Albert Lea Standard: Not only every Democrat but every voter in the state of progressive ideals has a right to feel elated over the action of the Democratic state conference in indorsing Congressman W. S. Hammond of the Second district for the Democratic nomination for governor. This should result not only in his nomination at the primaries but also in his election at the polls in November. His record is a sufficient platform in itself. A man of great ability, of clean private and public life, an eloquent and pleasing speaker, with a long and notable experience in congress as a progressive Democrat and an upholder of President Wilson in all his policies, he will command the enthusiastic support of the thousands of progressive voters in every party. He stands head and shoulders above every other candidate now in the field.

Strong in Every Way.

Roseau Times (Rep.): Congressman W. S. Hammond of St. James was named by the Democratic conference convention at St. Paul to head the Democratic ticket as a candidate for governor. Congressman Hammond is a strong man in every way and will make a good impression with the people.

Best Possible Timber.

Red Wing Eagle: Congressman Hammond is of course the strongest candidate the Democrats could name, and the party is to be congratulated for having secured his consent to make the run, provided it does not thereby lose both the governorship and a Democratic congressman. It is too early, however, to predict results. Only one thing is sure, namely that in Mr. Hammond is presented the very best gubernatorial candidate that any party could possibly offer.

They Are—Doing Each Other.

Detroit Record (Rep.): That Hammond will be a formidable candidate no one will deny and, if the Republicans desire to retain control of Minnesota affairs they will need to be up and doing.

But Hammond Passes Muster.

Cokato Enterprise: The Democratic conference at Minneapolis, though not so widely heralded as that of the anti-machine Republicans, did just as good work in naming W. S. Hammond for governor instead of Lawler, who is said to be under brewery control. No party can afford to be tied up to an unworthy candidate for such an important office, so congratulations are in order.

Hope Hangs on Hammond.

Heron Lake News (Rep.): The Democratic convention at St. Paul nominated Congressman Hammond for governor, and the nominee accepts the honor, and will make the race. Mr. Hammond is no doubt the strongest man in the Minnesota Democracy, and if he cannot wrest the office from Governor Eberhart, there is no use of anyone else trying. The fight in the election will be interesting, as both Hammond and Eberhart are whales in the political sea, and there will be great splashing. There are some other candidates, but the real fight will be between Hammond and Eberhart.

A Two-Story Editorial

San Francisco Bulletin: (Note—This is a two-story editorial. The first portion of it is adapted for use by cave-dwelling, early eocene newspapers which are opposed to the coddling of criminals by sickly sentimentalists. It may be used in any way desired. The second part is for human beings.)

Part 1. The best argument against the soft-hearted and soft-headed school of reformers who believe that lions can be turned into lambs and desperadoes into good citizens by moral suasion is the result of their own experience. Give them rope enough and these quixotic dreamers sooner or later hang themselves.

This was the experience of a chuckle-brained Illinois warden, whose faith in humanity led him to allow two precious rascals who were serving life sentences for murder to drive the prison automobiles. It was a good job—a lot better than they could have had outside the prison. They were placed on their honor not to escape, and this warden was one of those infatuated people who believe that a prisoner's "honor" is a sufficient substitute for bolts and bars.

One morning he woke up and found the birds had flown, automobile, honor and all. He is a sadder and a wiser warden now, and it is a safe bet that hereafter he will put his trust in something more solid than a convicted felon's ideas of "honor."

Part 2. Two days later the "honor men" returned, tired, dirty, but not unhappy. Why did they come back? "We just had our fling," explained one; "that's all. It would have been easy for us to forget to come back. But the warden had been good to us, and it would have put him in bad. Besides, we knew it would end the 'honor system.'"

The only answer to this is that the sickish sentimentality and the mawkish humanity of the warden of Joliet has corrupted the prisoners, too, and so spoiled a good argument for the ball and chain.

Her Chickens Were Not Menials.

London Globe: A rich city man recenty bought himself a country house of which his wife was snobbishly proud.

After showing some acquaintances all over the house (and telling them the prices of the pictures and furniture), she took them into the grounds, where her possessions included a chicken run populated by half a hundred white Orpingtons.

"I suppose you get lots of eggs from your chickens?" one of her friends suggested.

"I don't think so!" was the reply.

"But don't your hens lay eggs?"

"Of course they can," was the haughty reply, "but considering our position they don't have to."

Mr. Wilson Asks a Question.

Commerce and Finance: A story is told of a gentleman who recently called upon the president. In answer to an inquiry as to conditions in his section he replied: "Mr. President, if you want to know the truth, there is no business."

"That's not my question," said Mr. Wilson, "I want to know whether your part of the country is becoming a better place to live in?" We do not vouch for the truth of the story, but it emphasizes an undoubted change in American ideals against which there are but few protestants. There is a growing belief that great fortunes are a nuisance to those who have them and menace to those who haven't; that it would be much better for every one if such fortunes didn't exist; that the ambition to be enormously rich is an unworthy one, and that honorable purpose, intelligence and ambition can better employ itself than in the pursuit of money, or at least more money than is required for simple comfort.

Any one who travels this country widely will agree that the degree in which this new philosophy of life is being accepted differs greatly in different localities. In the West and South it is undoubtedly becoming more popular. In the East, where the great spenders of the nation have localized themselves, the power of wealth and the glamor of extravagance is still potent to effect the imagination and arouse the envy of the poor. Perhaps this is one reason why the complaint of hard times is loudest in New York.

Didn't Have To.

Lippincott's Magazine: It had been a "habit" with Algy, who was now a senior, to approach the pater for extra money.

"My father never gave me half as much as I allow you," said the much-imposed upon parent angrily one morning when his son's demands had been particularly excessive.

"Were you satisfied?"

"Certainly I was."

"Then why should he?"

Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. LINES TO "THE TITANIC."

To the Editor of The Herald:

In commemoration of the noble men and women who met their death just two years ago today:

Let me sing a song of valor,
Of it's glorious exhibition
By the heroines and heroes
On the ship, the great Titanic
As she sank into the waters;
Let me sing it to the honor,
To the praise and exaltation
Of the noble hearts that perished,
Perished with the Bride of Ocean,
Those who, lost in depths unfathomed,
Sleep in graves unknown, unnumbered
In the Graveyard of the Ocean—
Those who gave their lives for others.

FRANK LETHERT.

Duluth, April 14.

PREFERS TO RENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I saw in your editorials of Saturday's paper an item on home owning.

But owning a home in Duluth is discouraging.

I have owned one for six years and if I get a chance to get the money first invested I am going to let it go.

First, a man is fleeced by the real estate man and then by the city and business men.

I have lived here six years in a five-room house and with repairs, taxes, insurance and street improvements it has cost me $1,500 to live in my own house.

I could have rented an A-1 heated flat for that time and it would have cost me but about $1,440, in this same locality.

And then I would have saved the money which I spent for coal and wood, which has run up to $375. So by those figures I am $435 loser by having a house of my own and I have my doubts if I could get what I first paid for the house.

I wish to state that if a man owned a whole township in some places in this United States of ours his taxes would not come to an average of $50 for six years.

Where does Duluth spend her money?

For if every one paid as much as I do in accordance with what they own it should be a nice little pile and the city's reports don't show that they are principal owners in a gold mine.

Yours truly,

HJAGER HENDERSON.

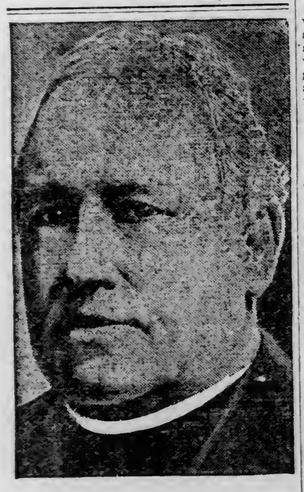
THINKS BRIDGE IS WASTE OF MONEY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have read a great deal in The Herald recently about a "business administration" in state politics and criticism of wasteful expenditure of state taxes.

A few nights ago we read of the county board authorizing the construction of a bridge across the St. Louis river above Fond du Lac, connecting with the mitary road and a comment thereon as to the great benefit it would be to Duluth on account of giving easy access to Carlton county.



If I am rightly informed as to conditions, this is most certainly an uncalled for waste of taxes. The proposed bridge is to cost $25,000, "exclusive of approaches." We now have a bridge across the river this side of Fond du Lac costing $500,000, but because it is "exclusive of an approach" it is useless except to the railroad company. It understand it is necessary to build more than four miles of road to connect the proposed new bridge with the military road and that before this proposed link is completed it will be necessary to spend more than $125,000 on it.

If our county board was so disposed it could secure the same result without any such expense by building an approach to the present bridge, as Douglas county is and has been ready to connect the military road with the Wisconsin end of the present bridge.

Don't let us hear so much about waste by the state but a little more about waste by the county. Our roads are far from good and the money that would be wasted in this scheme would go far to improve them. Let us have a little "economy" at home. Yours for good roads and economy,

A TAXPAYER.

A WORD ABOUT HOBOES

By SAVOYARD

Washington, April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—And it is advertised with flourish of trumpets throughout the land that "General" Jacob S. Coxey is coming to town again and this time with half a million followers. We have a population of 100,000,000, and possibly there are 500,000 hoboes among them if you will count as part and parcel of these the "yeggmen" who are certain to fall into the ranks. Now, I lay this assertion down as fundamental, that nobody is going to enlist in the Coxey "army" who under any conditions imaginable would work with his hands for a living.

Perhaps the best story of a hobo is that of a lusty tramp, filthy and ragged, who was eating into a pie a kind housewife had given him. He had gnawed into it until it was the shape of a crescent, the two horns of which reached his two ears.

"Why don't you go to work?" demanded the woman.

"Madam," he answered, with a courtly bow, "long ago I made a vow to heaven that I'd never do another stroke of work till business made the wage of woman equal to that of man." A gallant fellow!

* * *

These are the chaps Coxey will fetch here. But we have on the city court bench of this town some very competent men. We have over in Virginia a farm. Let 'em march:

"Come as the winds come when forests are rended;
Come as the waves come when navies are stranded."

And I make no doubt it will be so fixed for Coxey's "army" that each shall take a bath over in Occoquan and to his astonishment earn his food for the next two weeks by working for it. That is the only way to deal with a vagrant—with a Coxey veteran.

As for Coxey, I met him once and had a long talk with him, lasting till after midnight. He is not as big a fool as he talks and acts, which is to say what is the fact, that Coxey is not now, never has been, and never will be, a Coxeyite. He is a Phineas T. Barnum-of-a-man with only a small degree of Barnum's genius for notoriety.

Coxey is a fakir. He is impossible. Once he was a valuable aid society—annex of the G. O. P. Let him bring his "army" here in 1914. The "soldiers" will be put to work—the vagrants will find jobs in the city workhouse.

* * *

Whenever you get your consent to contemplate the boundless realm of damphoolism, do not permit yourself to be astonished. Here is a profundity that emanated from the Hon. Humphrey, of the state of Washington, in the national house of representatives the other day:

"Every nation of South America, North America and Europe, under the new tariff law, have increased their trade with us, and our trade with every one of them has decreased."

Now, I am not very strong on grammar, and shall not enter upon a criticism of the foregoing touching the syntax of it, but I want to, and shall, challenge its absurdity as a preachment of economics.

* * *

Whatever does the man mean? This, and only this—that if you buy, you lose and if you sell you gain. He contends that if I buy a hat the merchant of whom I purchased it has "traded" with me but I have not "traded" with him. One day John Dalzell started to proclaim that stupidity, but receded from it, as cat from cold hearth, when challenged for it by John Sharp Williams, I believe it was.

What sort of nation would ours be if we exported to the amount of hundreds of millions every year and imported nothing? That might result, if kept up long enough, in this country's acquiring all the cash in all the world. But that would be no more desirable than if one state of our republic got possession of all the cash in the United States, and the latter supposition would be no more enormous than that one individual should acquire all the money of all that state that had all the cash mankind has accumulated in all the ages.

* * *

Suppose in Barren county, Ky., Farmer Smith had $100 but needed a mule for the plow. His neighbor, Farmer Jones, has a mule that he does not need in the domestic and industrial economy of his farm. That animal is worth $125 to Farmer Smith; it is worth but $75 to Farmer Jones, and so they trade—$100 being the price of the mule. Each has made $25, and that is what all legitimate trade is. But here comes the Hon. Humphrey to say with his absurdity that Farmer Smith is ruined and Farmer Jones enriched; for Farmer Jones has had "trade" and Farmer Smith no "trade." Silly!

What asininity! I have tried to make a concrete case of it, and what difference does it make if Smith and Jones were under different flags? What has a piece of bunting got to do with it? The flag is an ideality, not altogether barren, I grant you.

* * *

Here is the Hon. Humphrey, no doubt an enormously eloquent Dogberry on Decoration day. He gloats over the strength and virility and transcendent shrewdness of business America; but in congress he tells us that no Yankee can buy and sell with a foreigner without getting cheated.

I think that an offensive reflection on the Yankee. Trust him to traffic with any of them and he will fetch back more than he took away or there will be no trade.

Did the Hon. Humphrey ever make a trade with a Yankee?

SAYS ROME IS UP-TO-DATE CITY

Prof. Swift Closes Winter Lecture Course at High School.

Prof. Fletcher H. Swift of the extension department of the University of Minnesota delivered the last of the special winter lectures last evening at the Central high school assembly hall. He gave an interesting talk on "Rome," using a large number of colored lantern slides during the course of the lecture.

In describing Rome, Prof. Fletcher declares it is the most interesting city in the world, regardless of the fact that people in all parts of the world are inclined to believe it to be dilapidated. The lantern slides showed the interior and exterior of many of the large buildings and many of the roads and streets in the Italian capitol.

"American people of today believe that Rome is a dilapidated city of ruins," said Prof Swift, "but on the contrary, it is one of the most modern cities of Europe. An excellent street railway has been built, and the government, at a cost of $30,000,000 has banked the Tiber river.

"Rome is a city of industry. It is a center of science, for there some of the greatest scientists live and have their laboratories. Great strides have been made in the matter of education and Rome is fast becoming one of the foremost educational cities of Europe."

ONLY "MISTER" IN ARMY DROPS DEAD.

Newport, R. I., April 14.—John T. Freeman, said to be the only person in the United States army with the official title of "mister," dropped dead yesterday at Fort Adams, where he was band master of the Eleventh coast artillery corps. Freeman was nearing retirement.

ANSWERS PROBLEM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The answer to the problem in the Open Court is 87½ cents. When he went into the first store he had 87½ cents and the storekeeper gave him 87½ cents, he then had $1.75. He spent a dollar and had 75 cents left. In the second store he was given 75 cents, he then had $1.50; spending a dollar he had 50 cents left. In the third store he received 50 cents and spent a dollar, which was all he had.

Thanking you for the space, I am, yours truly,

MAURICE LABOVITZ.

ARE WORKING ON PHONE AGREEMENT.

Chicago, April 14.—A committee of the Independent Telephone Association of America met here yesterday to consider a form of contract for long distance service over the lines of the American Telephone & Telegraph company. Officials of the Bell system met in a conference of the Independent Telephone association Saturday and submitted the form of "qualified toll service" contract which already had been accepted by the National Independent Telephone association. The form of contract was rejected and a committee appointed to draft an acceptable one on which a report is expected in about ten days.

C. B. Randall of St. Paul is a member of the committee of the Independent association.

COXEY WILL START WITH ABOUT 400 MEN.

Canton, Ohio, April 14.—That between 300 and 400 men will form the second "army of the commonweal" upon its start from Massilion next Thursday morning, April 16, on a march to Washington, is the statement made by "Gen." Jacob S. Coxey, promoter of the overland trip of the unemployed to the national capital.

"Gen." Coxey went to Cleveland yesterday to confer with leaders of the contingent from that city, who are expected to form a junction with Coxey's forces at Beaver Falls, Pa.

"Gen." Coxey predicts that the "army" will number several thousand by the time it reaches Washington.

P. O. WANTS PUBLIC AID

Business Houses Can Help in Sorting and Delivering Mail.

Department at Washington Suggests Arrangements to Expedite Work.

The postoffice department of the government is asking business men throughout the nation to co-operate with the postoffice in expediting the sorting and delivering of mail; and explains that sending large quantities of mail to the postoffice in the evening only serves to congest matters and delay the outgoing mail. Postmaster Cook has received from Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster general, a circular letter in which he is urged to get in touch with officers of the board of trade, Commercial club and other civic bodies in the city with a view to obtaining suggestions from them for the betterment of the service. Mr. Roper makes some potent suggestions himself in the following:

"Special reference should be made to the great and needless burden imposed upon the postal service in the handling of insufficiently and improperly addressed mail, and active co-operation should be solicited in order to insure the placing of correct house and street addresses on all matter deposited in the mails.

How to Help.

"Your principal patrons should be informed that the dispatch of letters, cards and circulars, when mailed in large quantities, will be greatly expedited if such matter is 'faced,' and where the quantity warrants, separated by states, before being deposited in the postoffice.

"Many business men send their mail for the entire day to the postoffice at one time in the evening, thereby causing congestion and consequent delay. The advantages of making deposits of their mail at least three times during the day should be explained fully, and in this connection they should be invited to view with you operations in the division of mails during the evening rush hours.

"Those patrons of your office who mail large quantities of merchandise should be made familiar with the saving in time and labor, and the consequent advance in dispatch and delivery, which would result from the use of precancelled stamps.

"The improved facilities for transacting money order, postal savings and parcel post business should be given publicity and brought to the attention of those patrons who might be benefited by using them. Ordinary, insured and C. O. D. parcels should be rated, the required stamps sold and the packages accepted for mailing at the same window or counter.

"It is believed that once the public sees clearly that the postmaster is earnestly and effectively seeking to serve them they will cease being indifferent and will be willing to co-operate with him by accepting the suggestions that he will make from time to time. Changes in the service recommended by any of the business organizations of your city which you believe worthy of consideration by the department should be made the subject of a brief report."

When You See

the beautiful work of Paragon Typewriter Ribbons and Red Seal Carbon Papers; when you see the strong colors, the clean-cut impressions, clear and sharp, distinct as copper plate; when you see how much work you get out of each ribbon and each carbon sheet:—

Does it ever occur to you that back of these results is a long, long story?

We experimented for years to determine exactly the kind of fabric needed in a typewriter ribbon, and to evolve the formulas which produce the best results in the various colors, both of ribbons and carbon papers. Then take the machinery. The average person would hardly think, in looking at a Paragon Ribbon or a sheet of Red Seal Carbon Paper, that delicate and costly machinery is demanded in its manufacture, and that the evolution of this machinery has required years of study and labor.

This is the story of Paragon Typewriter Ribbons

and

Red Seal Carbon Paper

The results are known. These brands are the recognized leaders and we have told you why they are the leaders. Leadership is never a matter of chance or accident. It is a matter of hard, consistent effort. And it is thus and thus only that Paragon Typewriter Ribbons and Red Seal Carbon Papers have won the leading place.

HOG CHOLERA BILL KILLED BY VETO.

Trenton, N. J., April 14.—The establishment of an experiment station at New Brunswick for the study of hog cholera for which J. D. Rockefeller has given $1,000,000 and James J. Hill $50,000 will be prevented by the action of the governor in vetoing a bill providing for the study of the diseases of cattle in the state.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction. Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, 'stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh, new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and Boyce Drug store and all other druggists in Duluth and vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

The Homecroft Corner

Conducted By C. E. Roe.

Questions sent to Mr. Roe or to The Herald will be answered.

Gardener's Calendar.

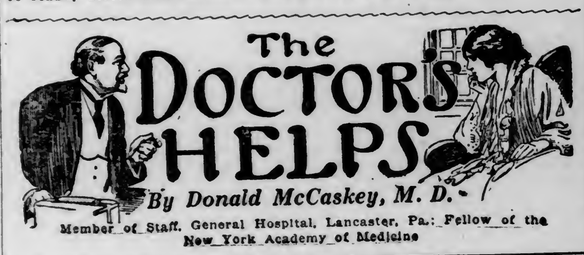
Clean up the back yard.
Cut out old canes from raspberry bushes and burn.
Cut brush for sweet peas and garden peas.
Plan just how and where everything in the garden is to be planted.
Start early cabbage plants.

Every one is longing for the bright, warm days when actual garden work will begin, but there is much of the preparatory work which can be done during the interim. Preparation now will mean time saved and better results for the season.

Ash pans and tin cans should be hauled off and all burnable rubbish destroyed. When this is done, plan every square inch of your garden on paper.

Last year's fruiting canes should be cut out from the raspberry bushes, carried away and burned. Raspberry canes fruit but once. The old canes not only interfere with cultivation and the gathering of fruit, but they sap the vitality from the new wood and serve as a breeding ground for vermin.

Both sweet peas and garden peas thrive better where brush is used for a trellis than they do where wire netting is used to support them. By going to the woods before the leaves start one may select straight, clean brush for this purpose. Good hazel brush and young maples are both admirable. If the ends are carefully pointed with a sharp knife and the brush is then tied in bundles, it can be readily stored until needed in the garden. For sweet peas, brush should be six or seven feet high. The height may be made uniform by trimming the tops of the taller pieces. If pushed in firmly to a depth of six or seven inches and placed close enough to interlace, the brush trellis stands well and does not look untidy. It may be made more secure by driving posts at either end of the row from which a single wire binder may be stretched on both sides of the brush.



Seed for early cabbage plants should be sown now either in the hotbed or in flat boxes in the house. Be sure to give the plants plenty of light and air as soon as they appear above the surface. Cabbage plants do not require much heat. Early Jersey Wakefield and Copenhagen Market are the best varieties to plant. The later varieties of cabbage may be started in the open ground.

Head lettuces for transplanting to the open ground may also be planted at this time. Big Boston and Hansen are both good for this purpose.

Strawberry beds and perennials, which received no added protection in the fall should have a light covering of straw now. It is the alternate freezing and thawing of the ground after the snow has disappeared that kills plants. Do not cover too heavily.

Hotbeds that are already planted should be carefully protected these chilly nights. If seeds for tomato and pepper plants have not already been planted, no time should be lost in getting them in. Nasturtiums for early blooming may be started under glass at this time. They transplant readily and will be considerably ahead of plants started outside.

BURNING UP HER VITALITY

"A lady is very vivacious and energetic among certain people, being full of life. She is, however, lacking in spirit, and must rest a great deal to store up the energy she spends so lavishly when engaged in her social and other duties. Her circulation is very sluggish. Is this a case where extreme fatigue can produce a rapid and fierce burning up of her vitality?"

Yes, it is.

You are on the right track when you ask if vivacity oftentimes results in one's vitality rapidly being burned up. The art of personal poise and quiet balance in manner, from general living, should be cultivated. Many of our most charming hostesses impress some folks by being most engaging and full of life. Yet down at the bottom, after a social function is over and these hostesses get back home to the quiet of their own households, their nerves are utterly exhausted and "drawn." Cultivate a little quiet reserve.

CUT OUT MEAT, EGGS, MILK; KEEP HER OUT OF DOORS.

Mrs. W., from Tennessee, asks for help regarding her little girl, slightly more than 8 years old. She says:

"For more than two years my little girl has had headache nearly all the time. Often it is accompanied with fever so high as to make her occasionally become delirious. She often complains of pain in her stomach, but seldom vomits. She is constipated much of the time. She relishes almost anything in the eating line, but is a rather moderate eater. For the last two months she has abstained entirely from albuminous food, but has gained nothing in weight, neither has her headache disappeared or her constipation been cured. Her teacher says her mind is developing too rapidly and that she has done three years' school work in two years. Her school work and music are quite easy for her, and she is very fond of both. Whether at work or at play, she is ever in motion, and has always got along on but eight or nine hours' sleep. Will lemons be good for her? Her weight is 53 pounds."

Yes, lemons will be all right for this girl. Occasionally, say two or three times a week, give her a glass of lemonade. Cut out from her diet, however, all eggs, meat, milk, cheese and any excess of candy. This little girl should eat only at meal time, and then her diet should consist freely of raw fruit or canned fruit, particularly such things as enrich the blood with chemical salt, so needful to the system. Orange juice, for instance, is very rich in certain fruit acids, likewise lemon juice. Raw bananas, thoroughly scraped on the outside and mashed fine, like mashed potatoes, would be very healthful as well as nourishing. If the bananas are not readily digestible in the raw form, they are most nourishing as well as digestible. Your little girl should be made to eat regularly of peanut butter, seedless raisins and the various wheat preparations. You should have graham bread on the table for her all the time. Occasionally, every two or three days, make a preparation of graham mush for her. Have corn pone two or three times a week for her; likewise cornmeal mush and occasionally cornmeal flapjacks.

You must get her system better nourished with the kind of food necessary to upbuild her strength. The cause of her headache—if there is no organic trouble or any severe eye strain—will be found due most likely to a poisoning of her entire system from much of the food she has eaten, which does not thoroughly digest. A great deal of food which is taken into the stomach of an active child, instead of being thoroughly digested, is only partly so. This then begins to putrefy, and the poisonous products are absorbed by the blood and circulate through the delicate structures of the human body, acting as an irritant and a poison.

Constipation will further this condition. By all means, have your little girl's eyes examined by a competent oculist in your city. Do not go to an optician. If you don't know of a good oculist, write to the secretary or the president of the medical society of your community and ask him to name half a dozen competent oculists who are members of the medical society. By all means, your little girl's eyes should be thoroughly examined and, if necessary, they should be treated with glasses.

My further counsel to you would be to construct a small platform or balcony right outside of your sleeping room window, and have the same properly curtained off to protect against rain, and likewise to give privacy. Have your little girl sleep out on this balcony during the night; have her bundled up warm and cozily, but have her system get the full extent of the cool, pure night air. If inside of one month you do not find her headache is beginning to lessen, if it has not entirely left, there needs to be some further search for a physical cause of her headache. Go consult your physician then and take this article of advice with you.

STATE LAND MAY BE LEASED FOR PASTURE

Today is the last day on which County Auditor Odin Halden may receive bids for the leasing of state swamp and school lands in St. Louis county for grazing and pasturage purposes for the coming year. About forty of last year's leaseholders have made applications for renewals and two or three new bids have been received.

Under the law, state land which has been offered but which has not been sold at the regular sales, may be leased for a period of not more than five years for grazing and pasturage purposes. The annual rental must not be less than 10 cents per acre and at the end of the term the lessee must remove all temporary improvements and fences. The county auditor is authorized by law to execute leases to the highest bidders.

The law states that the rent must be paid annually in advance. In cases of leases longer than one year, whenever any lessee fails to pay his rent before the first Tuesday in April, the auditor is required to terminate the lease and offer the land for rent again.

The auditor retains for the county 10 per cent of the gross amount paid for the rental of the land and remits the balance to the state auditor. All leasss are executed subject to a sale of the land at any time at a regular land sale. A year ago, eighty leases were executed or renewed by the county auditor.

May Yet Approve McNally.

Washington, April 14.—The senate in executive session discussed for several hours a motion to reconsider the vote by which the nomination of James C. The effort will be renewed.

URGE UNION OF ALL RAILWAY EMPLOYES

Officers Report to A. F. of L. Railway Employes' Section.

Kansas City, Mo., April 14.—Officers' reports showing growth and accomplishments of the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor during the last two years were read at today's session of the convention. President A. O. Wharton of St. Louis declared the idea of federating workers into one strong body, such as the Railway Employes' department, was a growing one among trade unionists. He urged delegates to end petty quarrels and join together to advance the common cause of union labor.

Among the resolutions presented to the convention today was one asking that the body get evidence on the condition of workers on the Illinois Central-Harriman lines, where 35,000 shopmen have been on a strike since September, 1911, and present it to the new Federal Industrial relations committee.

OPPOSED TO NEW ROUTE

Residents of Western Suburbs Object to Gogebic Street Subway.

Want Present Road Used—Give Reason to City Council.

The delegation of citizens from the western suburbs which appeared before the city council yesterday afternoon unanimously favored the construction of a subway under the Northern Pacific tracks at Smithville where the present road intersects the right-of-way.

Various speakers declared that this would be more desirable in every way than the Gogebic street route. They asserted that it would be more direct; that the curves of the other would be eliminated; that it would better meet the needs of the future, and that it would eliminate danger, in that traffic would continue to follow the present road with its deadly grade crossing, even through the subway were built at Gogebic street, as it would be shorter and more accessible.

Charles Kauppi, county commissioner, and David Sang, representing the West Duluth Commercial club, asserted that the duty of the council is not to figure ways to save money for the Northern Pacific, but to select the route which will serve the best interests of the city, and provide for the safety and convenience of the greatest number of people.

Mr. Sang said that under the decision of the United States supreme court in the Lake avenue viaduct case, in which the city was represented by Judge Bert Fesler, then city attorney, the Northern Pacific must bear the total cost of the subway and the approaches. "Under that decision it seems to me that you can eliminate the question of cost to the city," he continued, "and consider which will be the better route. I believe that a subway on the present road should be selected, all arguments appearing to be in its favor."

Favors Present Route.

"Let's keep what we have," said Mr. Kauppi. "We know what we have if we keep on the present route and that the cost will largely have to be borne by the Northern Pacific. So why should another be selected, where uncertainty exists and the city is liable to be obliged to go to considerable expense?"

John H. Brigham asserted that the present road should be followed, as the other would be longer and broken with many sharp turns. He added that enough curves exist at present without putting in more.

Walter L. Dash held that by following the present road all danger will be eliminated, which would not be the case with the Gogebic street route, and that it would better meet the needs of the future. The same view was taken by L. R. Taylor.

Others suggested that the subway might be built at Gogebic street, provided the N. P. would dedicate part of its right-of-way and enough of the rear end of the abutting lots could be secured to provide a road for team traffic as well as a street car right-of-way. This was favored as a substitute in case the other should fall through.

Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, and City Engineer John Wilson made general statements of the situation and answered questions relative to the two routes. The engineer's estimate of the cost of the Gogebic street subway and approaches was about $20,000 as compared with $29,000 for the other. Gogebic street would have a short approach, while that of the other would be 800 to 900 feet long. The latter would also necessitate the securing of adjoining lots as the top of the cut would be over 120 feet in width, or about twice the width of the present right-of-way. Property would also have to be secured for the Gogebic street route. The maximum grade would be 5 per cent for either, but the Gogebic street grade would be considerably shorter than the other.

It's Easy to Peel Off All Your Freckles

The contrast between the freckles and the clear skin usually is so great that no bleach can be more than partially successful in obliterating the disfigurements. Ordinary mercolized wax is far better; it literally peels off the freckles. Get an ounce of it at the nearest drug store and tonight spread on enough to completely cover your face; remove in the morning with warm water. Repeat daily until every freckle has disappeared.

Rough, blotchy, pimpled skin, also common at this season, may be entirely gotten rid of by this same method, without discomfort or inconvenience. The effort is decidedly worth while, the new complexion obtained being so clear, smooth and youthful.

If bothered with wrinkles, bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. This is the most effective and quickest-acting wrinkle treatment known.—Advertisement.

LABOR PRESS MEN MEET IN ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Mo., April 14.—Organized labor propagandists from all parts of the United States and Canada began to arrive in St. Louis this morning to attend the annual meeting of the International Labor Press association, which was opened here today. About 300 delegates are expected.

One hundred and seventy-five newspapers devoted to the interests of labor in the United States and twelve in Canada are represented in the association. In addition to these, there are 112 official monthly periodicals issued by the various international unions. Charles Fear of Joplin, Mo., is president of the organization. It became evident at the first meeting that Chicago, Cincinnati and Springfield, Ill., are seeking the next annual meeting.

"SNAPS" HIS CHUM IN FATAL FALL.

Chicago, April 14.—Climbing on a trestle 135 feet high to have his picture taken, Bernard Walenga, 17 years old, touched a live wire and was electrocuted. Walter Bagack, his chum, waiting below with a camera, pressed the bulb when he saw Walenga fall, and obtained a photograph showing the body in mid-air. The accident occurred at One Hundred Twenty-sixth street and the Calumet river.

How to Remove Hairs from Chin, Lip or Cheek

(Beauty Culture)

It is an easy matter to banish every trace of objectionable hair and leave the skin soft and smooth and free from blemish. Just get a small, original package of powdered delatone and with water mix enough paste to cover the hairy surface. Let this remain on the skin for 2 or 3 minutes, then remove, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. No failure will result from this treatment, but be certain it is delatone you get.—Advertisement.

CITY MAY HAVE TO PAY PRETTY VAUDEVILLE DANGER $5,000 DAMAGES

FLORENCE M. WATSON.

Because she may be obliged to go through life as a helpless paralytic, Florence M. Watson, a pretty, dark-eyed little dancer of 17 years, has been awarded $5,000 damages from the city of Duluth by a district court jury which has held the municipality liable for the accident which left her a cripple.

While Florence and her 14-year-old sister, May, were in Duluth last summer to fill an engagement at the Happy Hour theater, Florence had the misfortune to step off a sidewalk on the lower side of West Fourth street between Lake and First avenues west. The sidewalk at this point is elevated several inches above the abutting property and is unprotected by a rail.

The accident occurred during the evening while Mrs. Mary Watson, mother of the girls, was escorting them along the street. Florence, the older of the two, slipped from her mother's arm and fell on her back. At first her injuries were believed to be of a slight nature. Doctors later pronounced her suffering from spinal trouble and paralysis. Since the day of the accident, Aug. 17, 1913, the child has been cared for at the Frederick hotel. Her mother and sister are with her.

Had Dancing Act.

Florence and her sister at the time of the accident were appearing at the local theater in a singing and dancing act. Both are talented young singers and dancers and their appearance here was during their second season on the stage. Until Florence's condition improves, the mother will remain here with her.

Up to four years ago the Watsons lived in Philadelphia. The two sisters appeared in a number of amateur theatrical performances in that city and received their training for professional work there. In 1910, their father, who was suffering from a nervous breakdown, moved West and settled on a ranch at Ballantine, Mont. Shortly afterward the girls were offered a vaudeville engagement, which their mother allowed them to accept after a flattering salary was held out for an inducement. Mrs. Watson accompanied the girls on their tour.

Since Florence received her injuries she has been constantly confined to her cot. During the trial of the case she was brought into the court room to testify on two occasions. The little girl nervously twitched at her bed clothes and at the diamond ring which she wore on her finger while she was telling what she remembered of the accident.

She told the jury that she spent her spare moments in drawing sketches and that until she got well enough to get back onto the stage she expected to devote her time to art. The girl's true condition has been carefully withheld from her in order to preserve her cheerfulness of mind. Since the girl's illness, Mrs. Watson, the mother, has been working as a dressmaker to support herself and the two girls.

Kenney & Kenney appeared at the trial of the case as attorneys for the little girl and Harvey Clapp and William Harrison represented the city's interest in the case. It is understood that the city will appeal the case on the theory that no liability attaches to the municipality for the accident.

ITALY FACES RAIL CRISIS

Soldiers and Sailors May Be Called on to Run Trains.

Men Demand Minimum of 60 Cents a Day—Other Demands.

Rome, April 14.—The question of a strike of the railway men throughout Italy still hangs in the balance, but the government, to be ready for any eventuality, has already occupied certain stations with detachments of troops.

Arrangements have been made to replace with bluejackets the sailors on the postal steamers plying between the continent and the islands, while the engineers and stokers of the warships will, if necessary, assist the military engineers to carry on the train service.

In several cases damage has been done to the engines, and those responsible have been dismissed. The leaders of the railway men have been holding secret meetings. It is thought by some that the strike may be suddenly proclaimed.

Have 115,000 Employes.

The operating forces of the Italian state railway number about 115,000 individuals. They are joined in a league which has been pressing for increases of wages and diminution of hours of work.

The men's chief demand is for a minimum wage of 60 cents a day. Some get only 34 cents a day. Twenty cents extra per night for night work is demanded. Engine drivers and firemen want to work not more than ten hours by day and eight by night out of the twenty-four when working slow trains, and ask that their hours be diminished as the speed augments until they are reduced to a minimum of five hours daily, and all men to have a thirty-four hours' rest weekly in the town where they reside.

Hours for Officials.

Traveling officials, according to the demands, are not to work more than twelve hours, with a thirty-four-hour rest weekly, while station agents are not to work more than ten hours or less than eight, with one hour for luncheon, the maximum of night work to be twenty nights a month and men to have a thirty-six hours' rest a week.

The guardians at the flag stations and the grade crossings women are to work ten hours a day, with one day of rest a week, the latter having no night hours and no work when maternal duties interfere.

Set Limit on Pensions.

Pensions are demanded for all employes who are obliged to leave the service through infirmity caused by their service. A minimum pension of $100 yearly is asked. There are some employes who, after thirty years' service, only receive $80 pension a year.

The government asserts that these claims cannot possibly be accepted, as they would involve a yearly expenditure of over $20,000,000, which the budget of the country cannot stand.

In 1885, when the economy and financial condition of the kingdom was very precarious, the government ceded the control of the railways to three private companies for a period of twenty years. This freed the government from the large expense connected with the working of the lines, and insured a participation in the profits, which in 1905, when the railways were taken over again by the state, had reached $17,000,000 yearly.

Had Big Expense.

The private companies, however, had managed the railways almost exclusively as a speculation, so that their system was a failure from a permanent point of view. When the government took back the 10,000 miles of railways, heavy expenditure was necessary for the purchase of rolling stock, for the laying of double tracks, for the enlargement and rebuilding of stations and for increases in wages, salaries and pensions. All this brought about an improvement in the service, but also a decrease of profits, so that the railways now bring in a net profit of about $7,000,000 a year—an insignificant sum considering that they represent a capital of $5,000,000,000.

Are Profit Sharing.

Since the government took over the railways $13,600,000 has been spent in raising the economic condition of the employes, who also are entitled to participation ranging from one-tenth to one-fifth of 1 per cent in the net profits. By the law of 1911 the employes are allowed to choose representatives who meet and discuss with the director general of railways all questions connected with their material, professional and collective interests. These meetings are popularly given the name of the "railway parliament."

The grave faults of the present situation are said to come from the bureaucratic organization of the railways and the too numerous personnel.

AAD PATROL HAS STARTED A BAND

Drum and Bugle Corps Formed as Nucleus of Larger Organization—Practicing for Coming Ceremonial and for Pilgrimage to Atlanta, Ga.

Aad temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, has a drum and bugle corps at last. This, it is announced, is the nucleus of the long-looked-for Shrine band. The corps was recently organized from the membership of the patrol of the temple, and its members are working hard.

The personnel follows: Bass drum, Charles T. McKenney; snare drums, Nobles Hamm, Pond, MacInnis and Farrell; bugles, Nobles Helmer, Berger, C. J. Stewart and Saari.

Frank Hamm and Charles Helmer are to blame for it. They have taken up what looked like an impossible project and have formed the corps, which everybody said could not be done. But if certain members of the corps are arraigned before Judge of Probate Gilpin before long and sent to Fergus Falls or put under some sort of restraint, Hamm and Helmer will have to answer for it. These snare drummers are going about their places of business with the drum sticks in their hip pockets, and every little while they will pull them out and begin practicing on a table, counter or anything else they can find that will cause the sticks to rebound. The general impression of those who have to live and work with them is that they are all to the bad now and that something should be done with them at once. The buglers have it a little better for they are veterans at tooting. The snare drummers, however, are novices and hold nightly sessions at the armory under the tutelage of Louis Weissmiller, who does the trap drum stunt in the Lyceum orchestra.

Taken by and large it is some corps and will be worth looking at on the street. They will startle Atlanta, Ga., at the meeting of the imperial council next month.

SLEIGH OVERTURNED.

Driver Blames City and Asks $5,400 Damages for Injuries.

While William M. Casey, driver for the Duluth Van & Storage company, was ascending First avenue east between Eighth and Ninth streets one day in January, 1913, the pair of sleighs on which he was riding struck a ridge in the road and overturned. A load of coal in the sleigh was dumped out and Casey was pinned underneath.

For the injuries he claims to have sustained in the accident, Casey wants the city to pay him $5,400. He alleges that his right leg and right side were badly injured and that he sustained internal injuries. The accident occurred on Jan. 10, 1913. Casey claims that the city was negligent in permitting the street to be in the condition he claims it was.

Trial of the action was started yesterday afternoon in Judge Bert Fesler's division of the district court.

SIX INDICTED FOR ATTACK ON SPURGEON

Des Moines Man Tells His Own Story to Grand Jury.

Denver, Colo., April 14.—Six men were indicted by the grand jury in the district court yesterday on charges of kidnaping growing out of the pedortation on April 5 of Rev. Otis L. Spurgeon of Des Moines. The indicted men, all of whom are under arrest, are Jeremiah Cronin, Frank Soran, William Dolan, Frank Nugent, Barney Sylvester and Timothy Callahan.

The grand jury in its report criticized the Denver police department for not giving the minister better protection.

Mr. Spurgeon was taken from his hotel at night, carried some distance from the city, severely beaten and then released. For several days his condition was critical. Yesterday he appeared before the grand jury and told his story of the attack.

The Des Moines minister came to Denver on a lecture tour, with the avowed purpose of attacking the Catholic clergy, which he accused of immorality.

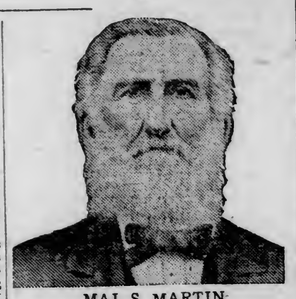
Good Cheer Aids Digestion of Food

Dyspeptics Can Make the Rest of the Family Happy by Using a Laxative-tonic



The temper of the family and the good cheer around the table depend so much on the good digestion of each individual present that the experiences of some former dyspeptics who overcame their trouble should be of interest to those now suffering in this way.

The best advice one can give—but it is advice that is seldom heeded—is to eat slowly and masticate each mouthful carefully. However, if slow eating and careful mastication fail the next aid is one close to nature, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This remedy is an excellent digestant, and in addition to helping in the digestion of the food, acts gently on the liver and bowels, ridding them of the accumulation of waste that should long ago have been passed off. It is safe, reliable, pleasant-tasting, and results are guaranteed.

Maj. S. Martin, of Joplin, Mo., now 77, thinks Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has helped him to a longer and happier life. He has not felt so good in years as he has since taking this excellent medicine, and in spite of his 77 years he says he feels like a boy.

It is the ideal remedy for indigestion, no matter how severe; constipation, no matter how chronic, biliousness, headaches, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances.

You can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by heads of families already familiar with its merits. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

When you use Syrup Pepsin you will see the fallacy of chewing mints and tablets or of taking cathartics, salts, pills and similar drastic medicines. Unlike these, Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect, and by automatically training the stomach and bowel muscles to do their work, soon restores these organs to normal.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

HILL OPTIMISTIC ABOUT NORTHWEST

Empire Builder Says Outlook Here Is Best in Country.

James J. Hill is optimistic regarding the business outlook over the territory served by the Great Northern railroad.

In the course of a recent interview in New York he said:

"I feel very comfortable over the general situation in the Northwest, which is as prosperous, if not more so, than any other section of the country. At present business is quiet, but good. There is a larger acreage ready for the spring planting, and with a normal season crop conditions will be entirely favorable." Mr. Hill said that earnings of the Great Northern showed signs of picking up. The decrease in gross revenues in March was much smaller than the falling off in February.

Mr. Hill thinks that the recent reductions in freight rates in the Canadian West just ordered by the Dominion railroad board will not have any adverse effect upon the earnings of the Great Northern. "Insofar as I can see there will not be the difference of a copper cent," he said. "Through shipments, as for example, from Chicago to Vancouver, should not be affected, because the adjustment has principally to do with rates between intermediate points in Western Canada. The reductions will bring the Canadian rates down to a closer approximation of rates for corresponding distances on the American roads in the Northwest."

Varicose Veins Cured

CONFINED TO HIS HOME FOR WEEKS

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits brought on Varicose veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up. My family physician told me an operation was the only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several doctors, but soon found out that all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He told me to go to the Progressive Medical Doctors at No. 1 West Superior street. He had been cured himself by them and he knew they were square, and knew men's diseases better than other doctors. They applied their Nature Method and at first my progress was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."—H. H.

PARENTS ARE INTERESTED

Thirty Have Written Principal Young on Cap and Gown Question.

Principal Withholds Decision—Cost of a Graduation Wardrobe.

The substitution of the cap and gown for the graduation suit and gown, as suggested by Principal Leonard Young of the Central high school in a letter written to the parents of all seniors, is creating great interest among the parents, students and public. Although the letters were written to the parents only last Thursday, thirty answers have already been received by Mr. Young and every mail is bringing in more. He expects replies from practically all of the parents of the 200 seniors.

When asked for the consensus of opinion of the parents who had already answered his letters, Mr. Young said: "I do not consider thirty letters sufficient to base a conclusion on, and for that reason I prefer to wait until all the parents have had an opportunity to answer. The letters are coming in steadily and in a few days, we shall have a sufficient number to base a conclusion on.

"I am not taking one side or the other on the matter, but have simply asked the parents to give their opinion. When we find out what the majority prefers, I have no doubt that the remainder will readily consent to that form of dress."

The expense of graduation gowns and other clothes has long been a matter of serious concern to educators and parents, and the high cost of living has made the problem more acute recently. Following a long struggle on the part of many parents to put their children through the high school, the expenses of graduation are an added hardship to those who are not well-to-do.

Cost of Wardrobe.

In estimating the cost of a graduation wardrobe Mr. Young said that it differed widely in various cases. A boy he said might spend anywhere from $10 or less for a serge suit to $35 or $40 for a "tailor-made." Added to this are incidentals such as hats, gloves, shoes and other furnishings, which might bring the total up to $50. Some of girls make their own clothes and purchase inexpensive material so that the total outlay of money would not be more than $7 or $8 for a gown while others would purchase expensive material at a cost of probably more than $40 in addition to incidentals. These might be estimated at about the same cost as those for a boy, which would make a total of more than $50.

The cap and gown, he said, are very inexpensive. The rental for one day is but $1.50 and from two to six days but $2. The cost of a cap and gown, if purchased, varies from $5 to $15. Mr. Young's letter to parents follows:

Letter to Parents.

"To the Parents of the Seniors:

"Now that the Easter vacation is over, we are beginning to plan for the close of the school year and for the exercises of the commencement week and of graduation. It is the wish of those in charge of these exercises that they be made simple and dignified, impressive, and democratic to the extent that they are in the least possible degree a burden to any one taking part in them.

"To encourage the simplicity of the high school commencement, to maintain its dignity, and to reduce the large expense often incurred, many prominent school authorities throughout the United States have encouraged, and in many cases made it an official regulation, that the members of the graduating class wear the cap and gown of the high school design for all of the exercises of the commencement week. In many of the high schools of the larger and more important cities of the West as well as in the East it has become the custom of the graduating classes to wear the cap and gown as a matter of their own wish and preference entirely, without any requirement or regulation on the part of the authorities. It is to this point that I wish to call your attention as a parent of one of our seniors, and to explain the manner (almost without exception) in which this is carried out in those schools in which it has become the custom.

"More than 95 per cent of the members of the graduating classes rent their caps and gowns for the occasion. They do this because it is entirely without any trouble or worry on their part or of their parents in the matter of preparation. Several large firms in the East and in the West have organized a special department of their business to meet this particular demand. They are in position to furnish each graduate with a cap and gown of the correct design and of appropriate material (wool for gown, broadcloth for cap), according to the measure for that person. These are packed and shipped in separate boxes with the name of the particular pupil for whom it is intended. The rent charged by these firms (both Eastern and Western) is $1.50 for one day and $2 for two to six days. No charge is made for the time in transit.

"Of the remaining members of the classes, some prefer to buy the cap and gown of the firm supplying those which are rented. To meet this small demand these firms make to order of the materials desired and according to the measure submitted. The prices for these vary from about $5 to about $15.

"Now and then some member of the class prefers to buy the materials and to make them up in the home or to have them made locally. No estimate of the cost can be made in these cases, owing to the differences in material and in the cost of making.

"In taking up this matter with the members of the present senior class, I am anxious to learn the opinions of the parents represented. It is to lighten their burdens, if possible, that I am making these suggestions, and I shall be very glad to do anything I can to assist if they are favorably inclined toward this plan which is already a very successful custom in many of the schools of the country. I am sending you an addressed postal card and am asking that you mail your reply to me by the middle or latter part of next week. Please mail your reply rather than telephoning it in, as I can then file them without making any further note as they come in.

"I shall have sample caps and gowns at the high school the first part of next week for the inspection of the members of the senior class and of any of the parents who may be interested. Very respectfully,

"LEONARD YOUNG."

BOYS' EXPOSITION WILL BE SURPRISE

Plans for the fifth Duluth Boys' exposition are progressing rapidly. The big event will take place on Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9. It is open to every boy in Duluth under 20 years of age.

Secretaries McLeod and Batchelor have been visiting the schools of the city, giving the boys the necessary information. Each school is electing two boys to represent it on the executive committee. This committee will be entertained at dinner at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening at 6:15. Officers will be elected and other important business in connection with the exposition will be discussed.

From the reports that are coming in hundreds of boys throughout the city are busy preparing their exhibits. The exposition is expected to be a revelation to the public, as it will show the quality and variety of things that boys can do and are interested in. Boys who do not go to school may get entry blanks and full information at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. or from any member of the committee.

CORRECT DATES FOR MILITIA INSPECTION.

A mistake in announcing the time for inspection of the various companies of the Duluth battalion, Minnesota National Guard, has confused the members of Company E. It was previously announced that Company E would be inspected on Thursday night. That is incorrect.

Company E will be inspected tomorrow night, together with Company C, Company A being inspected tonight, and the Third Regiment band having been inspected yesterday afternoon.

Capt. Oscar McGee of the Fifth cavalry is the inspecting officer.

"NO DEFEAT," SAYS MOYER

Western Federation President Talks of the Michigan Strike.

Says Surrender Was to Necessity, Not to Operators.

Denver, Colo., April 14.—That "the Western Federation of Miners refuses to recognize defeat" in ending the Michigan copper strike; that they capitulated "not to the mining companies, but to a near future that promised nothing but hunger and privation;" that they expect to continue their "onward march to the goal of economic liberty," are the features of a statement issued by Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners. The statement was made upon receipt of official notification from district officials that the mine strikers yesterday voted to call off the strike.

Moyer's statement opens with a brief history of the struggle which began last July, after the miners had exhausted every effort "to secure a conference with the mine managers to discuss the following questions: An eight-hour workday, a minimum wage scale of $3 for underground workers; that two men be employed on machine drills instead of one, and recognition of their union."

"Knew Demands Were Just."

Moyer stated that notwithstanding "the financial standing of the Western Federation of Miners at that time made it impossible for us to assume the responsibility of such a strike, yet, knowing their demands were just, our Federation came to their support."

The statement recites in detail incidents of the strike, the calling out of the militia, efforts to secure arbitration by a board named by Governor Ferris and President Wilson, and the congressional inquiry. Regarding the sudden decision to end the strike the statement continues:

"We want the public to know that during no time during the life of the strike did they (the miners) feel more confident of victory than on the day that they cast their votes declaring the same at an end."

Moyer's statement is addressed "To the public, that there may be no misunderstanding of the position of the Western Federation of Miners."

Accuses Governor Ferris.

After reciting the four demands and the federation's action in supporting the strikers, it details incidents as "told through the press," charging that the governor of Michigan, aided the "powerful" copper interests in driving "underpaid and overworked laborers back into the mines," it declares that gunmen were used to institute a "reign of terror, clubbing and shooting workmen whose only crime was their refusal to continue work under unbearable conditions."

It is maintained that federation representatives made every effort to "bring an honorable adjustment," going so far as to waive "all their rights and abide by the finding of a board of arbitration selected by the governor and president."

The Citizens' Alliance is charged with having deported citizens of other states, "stopping a little less than murder."

Christmas Eve Disaster.

It refers to the Italian hall disaster on Christmas eve, "where seventy-four innocent victims of the Boston copper barons lost their lives."

It recites the hardships of the strikers during the northern winter, and says notwithstanding efforts "of unscrupulous agents of mining companies" to induce idle men to enter the field as strikebreakers, April 1 found thousands of men still necessary to organize the normal and working force, and continues:

"It also found striking miners facing the ultimatum of the mining companies that on May 1 general evictions from company houses would take place." This condition, coupled with the necessity of the reduction "of the already small enough relief" caused the executive board to submit the question of ending the strike to a referendum vote.

The statement declares that 20,000 men in copper mines, mills and smelters will benefit by the eight-hour day established by the companies, the increase in wages and with a day each week for presenting grievances.

"Not Defeated."

"The Western Federation of Miners," continues the statement, "refuses to recognize defeat in the ending of this strike. Necessity only has caused them to halt for a moment in their onward march toward the goal of economic liberty."

The statement closes with an expression of appreciation of the support accorded the copper strikers by organized labor throughout the country.

REGULAR SCHEDULE AT BOYS' DEPARTMENT

The regular schedule of events at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. went into effect yesterday after having been suspended for a week in order to run off the special Easter program.

Tonight Dr. C. E. Barker of Washington, D. C., will address the High School Bible Study club at dinner at 6:15. Dr. Barker was formerly physical adviser for President Taft and has a message that the club will be glad to hear. At 8 o'clock tonight the cabinet of the boys' department will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. C. A. Congdon. The cabinet will transact important business in connection with the spring and summer work of the club.

SIX WOMEN SEEK HUSBAND AT EMPRESS

Candidates for Matrimony Present Their Claims From Stage and Audience Does Choosing.

Duluth is having a unique opportunity at the Empress theater this week, to select a wife for a man eager for the wedded state.

Theater-goers at the local playhouse are selecting this man's wife from among six women, who have applied in answer to the request made last week by Olaf Larson of Holland, Mich., who wrote Mayor Prince in his search for a helpmate.

This novel entertainment comes at the end of each performance this week.

Following the performance of "The Parisian Revnue," James Allen announced that six aspirants for Olaf Larson's hand would present their claims. The curtain rose and there in the center of the stage sat Olaf himself—not bad looking at all—with three women at each side of him.

Present Claims.

The women began presenting their claims and explaining their right to the vote of the audience. The women are numbered, as are the small ballots passed out to the patrons entering the theater, and the entire affair is conducted like an election. No. 1 stepped forward and declared she would do all in her power to make Olaf Larson a happy married man. No. 2 promised to love him and never flirt with another man, while No. 3 declared she could operate Larson's boarding house at Holland, Mich., and thus relieve him of all his work. No. 4 said she knew she was not a model for Gibson's pictures, but that she would make a good wife, she was positive. No. 5, a large buxom maid, wanted to get married, she said, and asked the help of all Duluth. She promises to be in on the finish when the vote is counted Saturday.

But No. 6 said she was willing to get married, but declared she would not work; only play and sing for Olaf. Their married life would indeed be happy, she said, for did not Olaf say that he had enough money and therefore she has come to the conclusion he does not want a drudge.

Olaf just sat and smiled through it all.

It may be that Manager Abrahamson will arrange for the wedding to take place on the Empress stage some time next week.

FALLS UNDER HICKEN AX

Timlin Fails to Get Renewal of License Despite Attorney's Plea.

Request of C. J. Petruschke to Transfer Saloon Is Laid Over.

West Duluth saloons furnished the pyrotechnical "piece de resistance" at the regular meeting of the city council yesterday afternoon.

The application of M. R. Timlin for a renewal of his license at 306 Central avenue was refused despite a fervent plea by Attorney A. E. McManus that it be granted, while the request of Charles J. Petruschke that he be allowed to transfer a saloon from the Grand hotel at 5217 Ramsey street to 5607 Ramsey street and that of J. E. Bietala that he be permitted to transfer his license from 103½ East Superior street to 410 Central avenue, were laid over for action until next Monday afternoon.

Oppose Opening of Bar.

A petition containing more than 200 names was filed against allowing Petruschke to open a bar at 5607 Ramsey street, where he proposes to occupy the Ramsey street end of the store of the Foubister Grocery company. Next Monday's meeting will probably see a supplementary and perhaps greater petition against it, and a large delegation of residents who will verbally oppose the transfer. Some months ago a saloon was prevented from being established at the corner of Fifty-seventh avenues west and Grand avenue, substantially the same location. The two are scarcely half a block apart, being little more than across the street from one another. Practically the only difference is that one fronts on Grand avenue and the other on Ramsey street. Both are passed by the same people and the arguments applying to one apply with equal force to the other. For that reason the residents in that vicinity are confident that they will again be successful in their opposition. Rev. W. H. Farrell, pastor of the Asbury M. E. church, explained that many of those objecting to the transfer thought that the council meeting would be held at night instead of the afternoon and were absent on that account. David Sang asserted that he voiced the sentiment of the people in that neighborhood when he said that it was not felt that a petition or active opposition would be necessary as the council had already refused to allow a saloon to locate at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Grand avenue.

A smaller petition was presented against the Bietala transfer at 410 Central avenue. It was signed largely by business and professional men in that locality. They represented that West Duluth already has enough saloons, particularly in the half block in which Bietala would move.

McManus Pleads Timlin's Case.

Attorney McManus presented several petitions and read a number of letters from West Duluthians, favoring a renewal of Timlin's license. He also submitted Timlin's sworn affidavit that he has been a resident of West Duluth since January, 1913, or several months more than a year.

The attorney asserted that Timlin has been running a decent saloon, transforming it from a dive and a brothel into a respectable place. He said that if the council wants to reduce the number of groggeries, it should start with some of the disreputable saloons that are a disgrace to the city, and allow the good ones to continue. He declared that some of the unsavory bars are within two blocks of Third avenue west.

Commissioner Hicken stated that the thorough investigation which had been made convinced him that Timlin is a resident of Superior, and that he did not visit the saloon much more than once a week. He detailed the manner in which Timlin and his agents had spirited a witness out of the state at the time his bartender was arrested for selling to a minor. He read a statement signed by the boy in which he detailed how he had been hurried to the Timlin saloon in an automobile and hurried from one town to another to prevent the local police officials from producing him in court to testify. The commissioner admitted that the bartender had pleaded guilty, but said that he did not want to see men who resorted to such tactics in the saloon business in Duluth.

When he called for the question the application was denied by a unanimous vote of the commission.

BOAT OWNERS GROWING EAGER

Members of the Western Boat club are beginning to plan for the opening of navigation. Rivalry exists between the members, as to which will be able to launch his boat first and make the first trip up the river to Fond du Lac.

During the last week several boat owners have spent all of their spare time at the boat houses at the foot of Sixty-third avenue. Many of the boats are now ready to drop into the water the moment that the ice goes out. The ice has become honeycombed.

A part of the channel in the vicinity of Zenith Island is now open. The open stretch is within a half mile of the Sixty-third avenue bayou. Among those who are planning on being the first out are Melvin and Goodwin Olson, Ernest Larson, F. H. Wade, Emil Swanstrom, Fred Holmberg, Ed. Robinson, C. C. Salter, Capt. A. H. Curo, C. J. Dahl, M. H. Murray and A. E. Swanson.

A meeting of the club members will take place before the end of the month. Plans will then be made for the erection of a clubhouse somewhere on the bay front nearest to the end of the street car lines. This plan was broached at the organization of the club last summer and will probably be carried out this year.

ATHLETE DIES.

David Peterson, Baseball Pitcher, Passes Away at Oshkosh.

David Peterson, pitcher for the Fitwell juniors baseball team last summer died last Wednesday at Oshkosh, Wis., according to advices received in West Duluth yesterday. The young man was well known in this end of the city, having lived here for several years. WILL ASK ROAD TO BUILD SUBWAYS

Railroad Crossings in West Duluth Said to Be Dangerous.

The Canadian Northern railroad will be asked to immediately construct subways under its tracks on Sixtieth and Sixty-first avenues west. An examination of the crossings was made yesterday by officials of the department of public works, and the matter will be taken up with the railroad officials at once.

These two crossings are used by about 250 children four times a day in going to and from the Longfellow school. The trains passing the point make the crossings very dangerous for foot traffic, according to statements made by residents.

At present at Sixtieth avenue it is necessary for the people crossing the tracks to climb a twelve-step stairway on either side of the track. At Sixty-first avenue the grade is lower being only about three feet above the sidewalk level.

The railroad will also be asked to make provisions for draining off water from above the railroad. A sewer will be run from Sixtieth avenue to Keene's creek which will, it is expected, take care of this.

MORE LIGHTS FOR SUBURB OF GARY

The complaints of Gary residents regarding street lighting have received recognition from the city council.

At the regular meeting yesterday afternoon the commissioners ordered the installation of eight bunches of incandescents. The number is not great but an effort has been made to distribute them at the points where the best results will be obtained.

Last week Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the utilities division, which includes street lighting, investigated the situation at the steel plant suburb and no argument was necessary to satisfy him that the suburb needed more light. But because the light fund is limited he could not go as far as he would have wished. He hopes, however, that more funds will be available later.

Lights were ordered installed at the following locations: Ninety-sixth avenue west and McGonagle street; One Hundred and Third avenue west and McGonagle street; Ninety-ninth avenue west and Dickson street; One Hundred and Third avenue west and Dickson street; Commonwealth avenue and Reis street; Ninety-seventh, Ninety-eighth and Ninety-ninth avenues west and Crestline court.

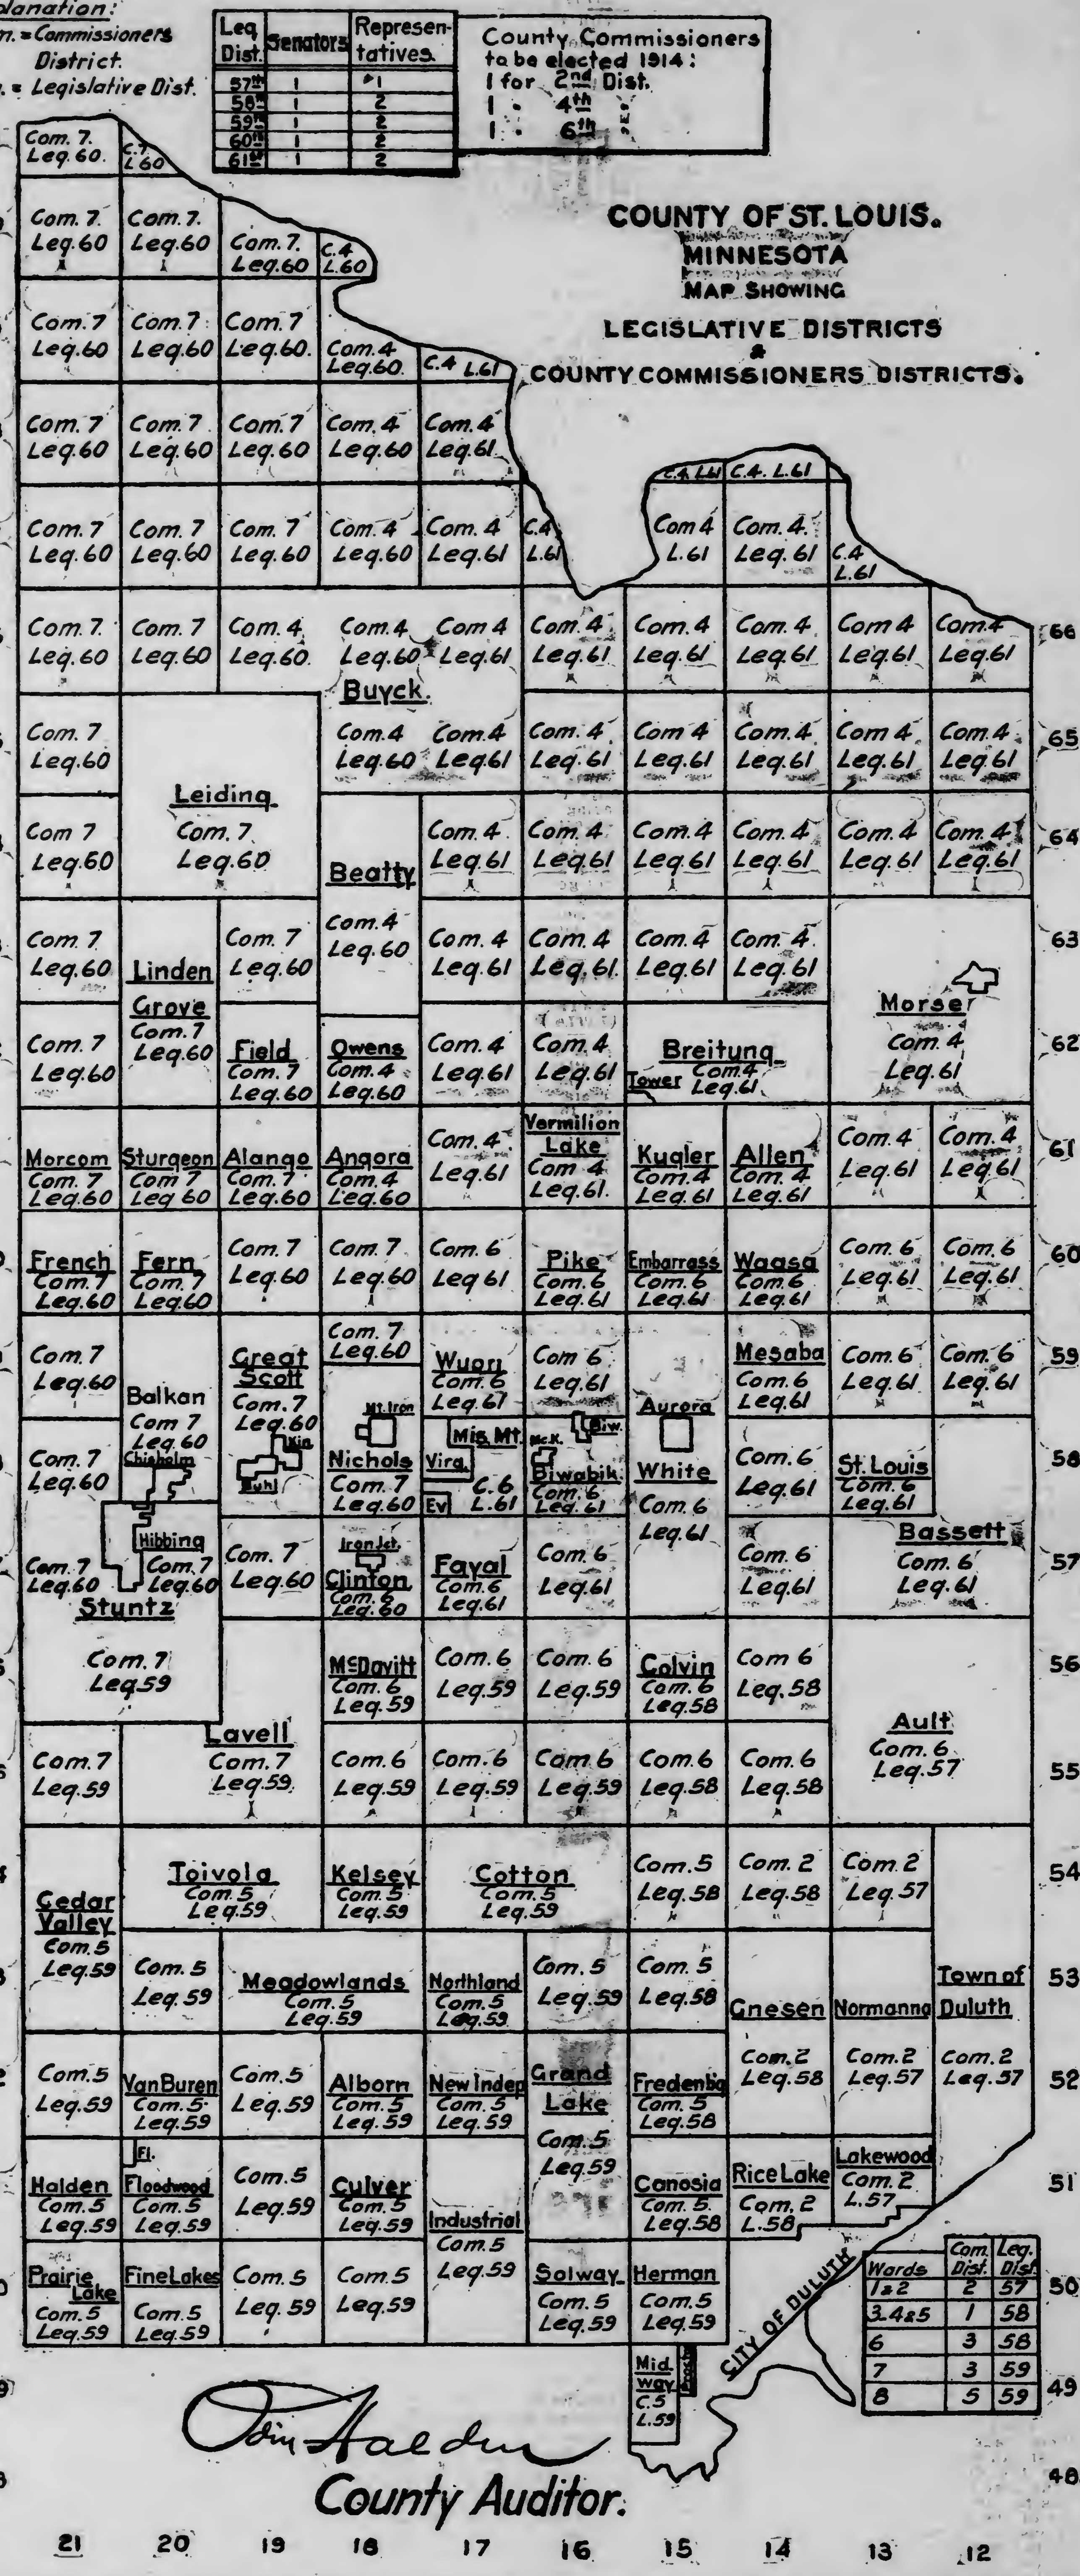
INSPECTING WORK FARM

County and city officials are today inspecting the joint county and city work farm, which was established a few months ago six miles west of the city on the Pike Lake road.



The party, which is in charge of Arthur H. Crassweller, president of the board of work farm commissioners, left the city at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Teams from the work farm transported the officials from the end of the Duluth Heights car line to the new correctional institution.

The morning was spent in looking over the farm and in observing the prisoners at their daily routine. All took dinner at the farm.

The party consisted of the members of the work farm board, who are President A. H. Crassweller, Bishop James McGolrick and Thomas Olafson of Duluth, and F. B. Myers of Biwabik, and Mayor W. I. Prince, City Commissioners W. A. Hicken and R. Murchison, County Auditor Odin Halden, Chief of Police Troyer, Police Lieut. Wilcox, C. E. Adams, special counsel for the county board, District Judge W. A. Cant, Municipal Judge Frank H. Cutting, Farm Supt. Fred Ward, City Clerk C. S. Palmer, David Sang, C. S. Mitchell, Stillman H. LEGISLATIVE AND COMMISSIONERS' DISTRICTS IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

County Auditor Halden has prepared the following valuable map which shows at a glance the townships, villages and cities in the legislative and county commissioners' districts in St. Louis county:

TRIED TO CONCEAL HIS IDENTITY

Man Who Died at St. Mary's Hospital Gave Wrong Name.

Although he gave his name as William West when he was brought to St. Mary's hospital last Friday and that of Al West as the name of his brother living in Woodruff, Wis., all efforts to locate the latter have failed, and from letters found in the effects of the man, who died yesterday afternoon, it is believed that his correct name is Russell Yowell.

Last evening the body of West or Yowell was brought to the Grady & Horgan undertaking rooms and a telegram sent by Vincent Grady to Woodruff failed to reach Al West. Upon searching the effects of West, it was found that several letters were addressed to Russell Yowell, among which were two that had been written by William Yowell of Copper City, Mich.

This morning Mr. Grady wired Yowell at Copper City and he received a reply asking for more information regarding the dead man. It is believed that the identity of West will be learned during the day and that the mystery will be cleared.

West worked for the St. Louis River & Mercantile company at Cloquet for the last three years and he came to Duluth last Thursday. He was taken ill Friday and was shortly after removed to St. Mary's hospital.

HEINO CASE RESUMED.

Evidence Given in the Divorce Action Is Repeated.

The taking of evidence in the case of the state against John R. Heino, who is charged with having committed adultery with Olga Gran, wife of Victor H. Gran, was resumed today.

The testimony taken today was practically a duplicate of what was given at the divorce case of Gran against his wife. Gran went on the stand yesterday and was called again today. Several other witnesses will probably be called this afternoon. It is expected that the case will take up most of the week.

OFFICIAL OF INDIAN BUREAU IS SUICIDE.

Washington, April 14.—E. P. Holcombe, chief supervisor of the Indian bureau, shot and killed himself in a room of a downtown hotel here late yesterday.

Holcombe's associates believe he was led to take his life through despondency over his physical condition, of which he had complained recently.

Officials of the interior department, with whom Holcombe has been associated for twenty years, said the affairs of his office were in perfect shape.

Among the papers which littered the room when the police entered, following the pistol shot, was a letter requesting the authorities to inform his wife and children at Denver, Colo., of his act.

The official was 50 years old and was said to be a native of Virginia. He had no relatives in Washington so far as is known.

TWINS ARE DYING HARD

Defeated Cities in Rate Case Do Not Love Duluth.

Say in Petition This Port Has No Natural Advantages.

St. Paul has just learned that there will be a rehearing of the lake and rail rate case of the Duluth Commercial club against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company next week before the interstate commerce commission's representative at St. Paul, as a result of a petition of the St. Paul Association of Commerce and the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association. A dispatch from St. Paul says that it will be shown that "the effect of the rate adjustment ordered by the commission would be disastrous in its consequences to the entire Northwest. They expect to show that the Twin Cities are not dependent on the route through Duluth, and that the cities now have routes by way of Lake Michigan ports with an aggregate distance less than by way of Duluth. The total haul from New York to the Twin Cities through Duluth is 1,534 miles, while by way of Gladstone, Mich., the distance is 1,446 miles. It will be shown that Duluth does not have the advantage of these alternative routes, and therefore no competitive transportation conditions such as obtain in the Twin Cities."

Concerning these contentions, G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, says that they are the very contentions made in the original case, and which the interstate commerce commission turned down.

"The Twin Cities," said Mr. Hall, "evidently consider themselves the entire Northwest. Of course that, on the face of it, is foolish and was so regarded by the interstate commerce commission. The Twin Cities assert in their petition that the 'natural ad- of money by the Federal government, taken for granted by the interstate commerce commission are not natural advantages for the reason that the harbor here had to be dredged. One might as well say that a woman is not naturally beautiful because she has to comb her hair. The contention will never hold water. There is absolutely nothing new in their contentions or in connection with the matter."

The dispatch goes on to say:

"Duluth claims that the lake-and-rail rate to the Twin Cities is too low and places Duluth at a disadvantage. The commission found the rate to Duluth should be the same as to Chicago, leaving the lake-and-rail rate to the Twin Cities 6 cents above the Duluth rate. The new rates were suspended pending the rehearing.

"The intervenors in their petition for a rehearing said they expect to show the interstate commerce commission that it erred in finding that the 'natural advantages' of Duluth entitled it to the proposed rate adjustment; that the so-called 'natural advantages' of Duluth do not exist in fact, and that whatever advantage Duluth possesses is due to the expenditure of vast sums vantages' of Duluth mentioned y us and not for the benefit of Duluth but for the benefit of the people of the Northwest, including the Twin Cities."

Koehler of Coast Artillery Guilty of Immoral Conduct.

Washington, April 14.—Maj. Benjamin M. Koehler of the coast artillery, tried by general court-martial last month at Fort Terry, N. Y., was found guilty of immoral conduct and sentenced to dismissal from the army.

This announcement was made today by Secretary Garrison, who said the case had not yet been acted upon by war department officials. It is subject to review by Judge Advocate Gen. Crowder and the chief of staff of the army, as well as Secretary Garrison, before it goes to President Wilson, who has final jurisdiction.

WITNESS WILL FACE CONTEMPT CHARGE.

Because he failed to appear in court yesterday afternoon when the trial of John Duffy, charged with petit larceny, was called, Charles Gustafson, 38 years old, was taken into custody last night on a charge of contempt of court. Gustafson pleaded guilty in police court this morning and the court continued sentence until this afternoon.

Duffy was arrested Sunday on the complaint of Gustafson, who claimed that the former stole his $20 watch. Duffy pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday morning and his trial was set for 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when Gustafson failed to appear in court and the case was then continued until this afternoon and a bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Gustafson.

PROMOTER Mike Collins of the new Hudson Athletic club wired this column yesterday that the seats reserved for the Duluth followers of the boxing game for the Wolgast-Tillman battle on April 23 will arrive today and will be placed on sale at Blackwood's.

No boxing bout in recent months has attracted the interest that seems to be centered in the coming tilt. Wolgast has a nation-wide name in the boxing game, as he has figured in the largest bouts staged in this country since the passing of the man he defeated for the title—Battling Nelson.

Tillman is a youngster and is therefore a speculation in the coming encounter. John Tecumseth has done all that has been asked of him. Whether he has been overmatched in the coming fracas, is just that matter of speculation that is causing so great an amount of interest to creep into the dope.

Some are of the positive opinion that Tillman will be stretched out in a horizontal position before the final round has been marked off; and others are possessed of the belief that the slender Minneapolitan is clever and shifty enough to evade the Dutchman and stick the ten rounds.

From Minneapolis comes the statement that Tillman will not enter the setto merely to remain the ten rounds, but will go after the Dutchman from the Michigan country and attempt to assume the aggressive.

This sounds like wind, nothing more or less, and considering that it emanates from one who has more or less interest in Tillman, may be cast aside as unworthy of consideration. If Tillman sticks the ten rounds he will have won a moral victory—and that is what he is looking for.

The Changeable Rivers.

POKING the news nose into mythology we run across one of the more versatile fighters in the world of sports. Lots of us have considered that this title belonged to Battling Levinsky, who fights 'em, big and small, every night in the week—but the palm must be handed over to the Achelous one. List:

Achelous met Hercules one beautiful afternoon. The two were strong for Dejanira, who from the general description, was the Lilly Langtry of her time. She was some dame to look at. Both Achelous and strong-armed Herk were keeping company with the maiden of the delicious orbs, and it came to a show down.

It seems that the Achelous one was there with the lip salve—eloquent words and rounded sentences rolled from his facile tongue. Most of you know that Hercules was the Jim Jeffries and Frank Gotch of his day.

They met and Hercules got Achelous to the mat and had his left arm in a hammerlock, when Achelous changed to a snake and started hissing at Herk.

Nothing daunted the champion heavyweight of mythology made a leap and twisted the serpent neck of Achelous in his durable dukes. Here is where the versatility and ring generalship of Achelous is shown. Right away he shifted his position and changed to a bull and started to give Herk the hook.

But Hercules was strong on the bigga de muss, and seizing his bull-like opponent by the horns, tore one off and won the battle and supposedly the swell dame with the flowing robes.

All of this is somewhat reminiscent of the different attitudes assumed by Joe Rivers.

First he appealed to the followers of the game as the greatest novice in the world. Next as the coming champion. Next we heard Rivers acclaimed by the industrious southern California press agents as the rightful holder of the title. Since the licking at the hands of Freddy Welsh the fistic appeal of Jose Rivers is made on the plea of the chance of a comeback.

Someone should tear one of the horns off the Rivers one—the world can't be asked to contribute to the affluence of a prize fighter who is too indolent to train.

Closely Connected Incidents.

WHILE the members of the Chicago Cubs were at Columbus, Ohio, they went out and visited the state prison at the invitation of the warden. While the members of the same team were in Dayton, Ohio, they went and inspected the cash registers at the National plant.

We might add, not in the way of irony, but simply by way of comment, that some people visit state prisons after inspecting cash registers.

But then that is another story, as Kipling was so fond of saying at fifty cents a word.

The Waving Currency.

LUCIFER, the majestic and sombre Prince of Darkness, had some fall if some of the biographers are correct. The fall of Lucifer was merely mentioned to form an introduction to the fall of some of the players who were tempted by the wicked and perfidious agents of the Federal league.

George Stovall of the Kansas City Federals, as you wot, came into the room of Earl Hamilton, the pitcher of the Browns, the whilom pitcher, we should say, and laid four $1,000 bills, green, luscious and immensely and intensely inviting to the eye and hand, upon the table.

It was early in the morning, when one's determination is at the lowest tide—recall the many resolutions to take cold baths?—and all this money was flashed before poor Hamilton.

The player hesitated, even in the face of all that money. Then the carelesss and wicked Stovall, nonchalantly, as if money was the last and the least consideration in all the world, pulled from a capacious wallet one more $1,000 bill, and laid it upon the four recumbent ones.

P. S. You have read of the Feds signing Hamilton.

Kindly Name the Winner.

GARRY HERRMANN awakens from the sleep between meetings of the national commissioners, and declares that the decision in the Killifer case was a glorious and unmitigated victory for organized baseball, or words to that effect.

President Gilmore of the Feds declares that he is eminently satisfied, and to be eminently satisfied one has to be some satisfied.

As Red Killifer seems to be likewise satisfied after jumping blithely back and forth several times, it is indeed difficult to determine who has the best of the decision.

One Great Fighter, He Was.

WORD is passed along the pugilistic line that Owen Moran is slowly succumbing to the ravages of the white plague.

This lad was one of the greatest of the little men produced within the last decade. A featherweight in reality, the Briton fought men of both the featherweight and lightweight classes. After his defeat of Nelson, Moran started to box daily with John Barleycorn. The old boy feinted the little Britisher into knots and then slammed the kayo over. Cigarettes swung a towel in J. Barleycorn's corner. It was a hard combination for Owen to beat, as many of the fighters of prominence have discovered.

THE GREAT QUESTION— CAN CONNIE MACK REPEAT?

CONNIE MACK.

TOMMY GIBBONS TO MEET GREEK KNOCKOUT BROWN

Next Tuesday evening, one week from today Mike Gibbons and Manager Eddie Reddy will lug Tommy Gibbons up here for his battle with Chicago Knockout Brown, the Greek piece of fighting flesh who works nicely at 160 pounds.

The contest at the Arena—under new management—will mark the debut of Tommy Gibbons in this section of the country and will also mark the first appearance of the Greek battler from the environs of O'Connell's Chicago pugilistic hangout.

In his two contests at Hudson Tommy has made a stronger hit with the fightfans than the Peerless Mike, for the simple and very direct reason that Tom goes in and fights from the start.

Tom is not as fast as Mike—and who is?—and he has not the knowledge of the boxing game that is the possession of the wonderful Michael, but he is one of the coming middleweights of the country and ranks today with the very best boys of that division.

Knockout Brown is really one of the toughest of the 160 pounders in the country. Somewhat shy on the fine points of the boxing game, the Greek possesses tlie wallop and is immune, it seems from the hardest punches that his adversaries have been able to land on him.

A Corking Card.

In addition to the meeting between Gibbons and Brown, Johnny Salvator and Dug Moen will come together in the semi-windup. Most of the fans in this section of the country are intimately acquainted with the record of the St. Paul Dutchman. Johnny has fought at the Head of the Lakes and on the range and is classed as one of the toughest heavy lightweights in the Northwest.

Little is known of Moen in these parts, but the boy is said to be both tough and fairly clever and comes with the firm conviction that he can beat the St. Paul German.

Jack Burke, the little Cockney who started against Doyle at the recent Twin Ports Athletic show, will appear on the card against an opponent to be announced later.

The little Burke one has the cleverness that most of the small men sent over here by England possess and which most of the big men do not. Against a man of his own weight the wee Cockney should put up a real fight, for he has a lot of boxing stuff and also shows aggressiveness in the short spell he went with Jack Doyle.

Kid Paul, one of the best known box fighters in this section of the country, will go on against Battling Olson. Despite the fact that the kid claims he is not getting the publicity his ring labors entitle him to, he is getting work—excuse us, engagements—and that is what really counts in the end.

Lamping the card of the Arena club from curtain-raiser to the main go of the evening it looks like one of the most attractive that has been put on across the bay since the Hedding law went into effect.

BAKER SUES WINDY FEDS

Asks Federal Court for Injunction and Sues for Heavy Damages.

Catcher Killifer Expelled By Baseball Players' Fraternity for Jumping.

Chicago, April 14.—The Philadelphia National league baseball club filed two suits here yesterday in the United States district court against the officials of the Chicago Federal league club. The suits ask for $25,000 damages and for an injunction restraining the Federal league from interfering with the Philadelphia club players. The first suit named Charles Weeghman, William M. Walker, James A. Gilmore, Joseph Tinker, Robert B. Ward and Walter F. Ward, the two latter of New York, as defendants.

It asked for an injunction, restraining the defendants from alleged attempts to disrupt the Philadelphia National league team by hiring away from it Players Seaton, Brennan, Killifer, Doolan and Knabe. The suit prayed that the Federal leaguers be restrained from attempting to get these players or from other alleged attempts to interfere with the business of the Philadelphia Nationals.

Only the praecipe was filed in the damage suit. It asked for $25,000 damages from the same defendants.

Summons were issued for each of the defendants named and were placed in the hands of marshals who expected to serve them on all the defendants in this jurisdiction today.

The petition for a restraining order recites alleged ills that have been suffered by the Philadelphia club because of the activities of the Federal league, asserting that the new league "well knowning of the existence of contracts between the complainant and each of the ball players, conspired to induce these ball players to leave complainant's service. In furtherance of the conspiracy, the defendants offered the large pecuniary reward to the players and succeeded in inducing Seaton, Knabe, Doolan and Brennan to withdraw from the complainant's service and join the defendants' service. At the same time, Seaton and Doolan had agreed with the complainant on the amount of salary for 1914."

The petition for restraint was signed by William F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia club. It is said that Federal Judge Landis will hear arguments on the petition.

New York, April 14.—William M. Killifer, Jr., catcher of the Philadelphia National league club, was expelled from the membership of the Baseball Players' fraternity yesterday "for contract jumping." This action the fraternity took in conformity with a resolution adopted at its annual meeting last October prohibiting breaches of contract. Fultz's statement reads:

"While the fraternity wishes to go on record as being absolutely opposed to this practice, and while it wishes to rebuke Killifer for his action, it does not feel that he is half as much to blame as the older and more experienced men who held out the lure and induced him to violate his agreement. If baseball magnates, both organized and otherwise, desire the public to continue to believe in the honesty of the game, they should put an end to such practices instead of upholding one another in these cut-throat tactics.

"At the present time the fraternity seems to be the only faction in baseball which believes in the integrity of the contract. We are urging players to stand by their agreements, first because they ought to, and second, because if they do not and the magnates should decide to bring actions for damages, jumping players might suffer financial losses far in excess of the inducement which led to the breach of contract. We shall, therefore, as long as the magnates in organized baseball live up to the Cincinnati agreement, continue to exert every effort to protect them in their contractual rights."

EASY FOR WILLARD: SMITH BEATS BRADLEY

Buffalo, N. Y., April 14.—Jess Willard of Kansas knocked out Dan Daly of Newcastle, Pa., in the ninth round of a ten-round match here last night. With the exception of one round, Willard showed to advantage throughout.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 14.—Cal Delaney of Cleveland and Ritchie Mitchell of Milwaukee, featherweights, fought a ten-round bout here last night to a draw. The fight was featureless and rather slow, with the exception of the closing rounds.

Sydney, N. S. W., April 14.—Jeff Smith, the American pugilist, easily outpointed Pat Bradley of Australia at the stadium yesterday. Bradley was so badly punished that the police stopped the bout in the sixteenth round.

WILL PREVENT GAMBLING

St. Louis American League Grounds Will Bar Them.

St. Louis, Mo., April 14.—The operations of bookmakers and other gamblers in the American league baseball park here will be strictly prohibited this year, according to an announcement made by Robert Lee Hedges, president of the local club.

During the spring city series between the St. Louis Americans and St. Louis Nationals, the gamblers again began to congregate in the grandstand and to reacquaint themselves with the "fans" with the view of resuming operations.

Hedges has asked the police department to help him suppress the gamblers. Signs barring the practice will be placed throughout the park.

TOURNEY ON AT Y. M. C. A.

The new ball has been officially adopted for these games. This is the same make of ball that is used by the St. Paul players and is also the make of ball that is to be used in the games between Duluth and St. Paul, which will be played on the local courts, May 1.

NEW BOWLING RECORD.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 14.—The Genesee team, Rochester, last night established a new world's tournament mark for five-men teams at the National Bowling association by rolling an aggregate of 3,035, 38 pins over the former record made by the Grand Centrals, Rochester, at Patterson, two years ago. Capt. Sutton was high man of the quintet, with 642, an average of 214.

The Weiderman-Brew team, Cleveland, rolled into second place with 2,816; the first Casino, Harrisburg, fifth, with 2,606, and second Casino, Harrisburg, ninth, with 2,541.

"PLAY BALL," THE DAY'S SLOGAN IN UNITED STATES

All Big League Baseball Teams Begin Season of 1914.

World's Champion Club Faces New York Highlanders in Gotham.

Giants to Meet Phillies on the Quaker City Grounds.

New York, April 14.—New York baseball fans divided their patronage today between the Polo grounds where the local American league opened with Philadelphia, and Ebbets' field, where the Brooklyn Nationals faced Boston. The day opened clear and warm and the pilgrimage for the opening of the season began early.

President Ebbets captured John K. Tener, president of the National league, for his opening attraction and the governor consented to toss the first ball into play. Lieutenant Governor Robert Wagner officiated in similar fashion for the American leaguers at the Polo grounds.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 14.—Baseball fans were happy today when they took their first look at the weather conditions. There was nothing on the horizon or in the weather man's predictions to cause any alarm as the weather was clear and everything augured well for the opening of the National league season in this city. The New York Giants, winners of last year's pennant, were the opponents of the Phillies, runners-up in the last campaign.

The home club planned the usual gay opening. Mayor Blankenburg put aside official duties in order to carry out the time-honored custom of throwing out the first ball.

Both teams were on hand early, spick and span in new uniforms and with several new faces in the line-up. Bescher, formerly of Cincinnati, was on the score card to play center field for New York, and Stock, a newcomer in regular company, was down to play third. For the Phillies, Bobby Byrne was picked to play second and H. Murphy shortstop.

Alexander was picked to play for Philadelphia and Marquard or Mathewson for New York.

Detroit vs. St. Louis.

Detroit, Mich., April 14.—The remodeled Detroit Tigers, faced St. Louis today in the opening game of the American league season with a lineup which contained only three men playing the positions they occupied in last season's initial contest. Stanage behind the bat; Buss at short, and Crawford in right field were unchanged. Cobb in center field today, was a holdout a year ago; Moriarity, who started his 1913 career in left field, returned to his regular position, third base.

Manager Rickey of St. Louis, decided to inaugurate the season with a team composed almost entirely of veterans, but he selected Leary for first base and Bisland for shortstop. These youngsters made a splendid impression on the training trip and the leaders of the Browns expected them to vindicate his judgment.

The choice for pitcher was the greatest problem which confronted Jennings and Rickey. The Detroit manager named Jean Dubuc, dean of his hurling corps, although Dubuc was exceptionally wild in the last practice game he pitched. Rickey originally intended to use Hamilton, but the southpaw jumped to the Federal league last week. Therefore the pitching task was assigned to Wellman. The weather was warm and clear.

Senators vs. Red Sox.

Boston, Mass., April 14.—Clear skies, with a temperature more suitable for football than for baseball, marked the opening game of the American league season here today, with the Red Sox lined up against Washington. Walter Johnson was Washington's choice for the box and Ray Collins was the Boston selection. The crowd had an especially warm welcome for Speaker, the high-salaried center fielder.

Pittsburg at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., April 14.—Baseball enthusiasts here were counting on today's opening game between the Pittsburg and St. Louis Nationals to demonstrate which team profited most by the trading of players last year. Cloudy skies promised cool weather during the game, but no rain was predicted by the weather observer.

The St. Louis team that opened the season today was composed almost entirely of the players who won the city championship in the spring series with the St. Louis Americans.

Cubs vs. Reds.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 14.—Attended by the governor of the state, James M. Cox, and by the mayor of Cincinnati, Frederick Spiegel, the National league season was opened here today by the Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds. Governor Cox pitched the first ball. Both Manager O'Day of the Chicago team and Manager Herzog of the locals reported their players in good condition. Neither would give out his pitching selection before the game, but O'Day said Cheney would probably be his choice, while Herzog said he would decide on either the Indian, Johnson or Benton. The day opened cloudy and cool.

waukee at the opening at home game today. The weather early was clear. In the absence of Mayor G. A. Eading it was expected Cornilius Corcoran, president of the common council would pitch the first ball. A brass band was prepared to furnish music during intermissions.

Harry Clark, manager of the home team, reported his squad in fairly good condition despite the handicap of bad weather during the season of practice and Manager Friel of the St. Paul aggregation said his players were anxiously waiting the umpire's call to "Play ball!" The probable batteries: For Milwaukee—Hovlik or Slapnicka and Hughes. For St Paul—Karger and James.

Kaws Play Millers.

Kansas City, Mo., April 14.—Favorable weather conditions existed today for the opening of the American Association baseball season. Kansas City and Minneapolis are the opposing teams. Before the game the players rode through the business section in motor cars and Mayor Henry L. Jost threw the first ball. Manager Armour announced either "Cy" Morgan or Allison would pitch for Kansas City, while Manager Cantillon chose Lake and Smith for his battery pair.

Colonels and Senators.

Louisville, Ky., April 14.—The largest crowd that ever witnessed an opening game of the baseball season here is expected this afternoon when the Louisville Colonels and the Columbus Senators of the American Association battle in the initial contest of the 1914 season. A large number of business concerns of the city have reserved seats for their employes at the game and a half-holiday will be declared by many firms in honor of the occasion. Mayor John H. Buschemeyer will toss the first ball to a Columbus batter. Manager Hayden announced that Toney and Severeid will be the battery for the Colonels and Cook and Smith are slated to start as the battery for Columbus. The weather bureau promised clear skies and rising temperature.

Indianapolis and Cleveland.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 14.—Mayor Joseph E. Bell will pitch the first ball when the Indianapolis and Cleveland American association teams start the opening game of the season here this afternoon. The weather forecaster had predicted that the day would be clear and warm.

Benn, Baskette or George will pitch for Cleveland and Roth or Devoght will catch. Willis, Schardt or Laroy and Livingston will be the Indianapolis battery.

Southern League.

Atlanta, Ga., April 14.—Rain early today fell on the four cities where opening games of the Southern baseball association were on the schedule. Forecasts, however, were for clear and warm weather in the afternoon and baseball enthusiasts hoped sun and wind would render possible the opening program, which included Mobile at Birmingham; Memphis at Chattanooga; New Orleans at Montgomery, and Nashville at Atlanta.

TWO FAST TEAMS ENTER THE FIELD

Under the managerial guidance of Max Klein, the Moose team will try for the highest honors among the semi-professional baseball teams of the Northwest during the season about to open.

With Ed Hanson and several other pitchers that Klein is angling for, and Tommy Robinson, Phil Cyr and Ed Conners behind the bat, the battery positions of the Moose aggregation will be very well taken care of.

John Michelek and Walter Blaski will try out for first base. Pete Shalfoe will be stationad on second and Dennis Meely at third. Vic Olson will hold down the short stop position. In the outfield will be George Claskey, George Lawin and Dan McKenzie, three of the niftiest fly-chasers in this section of the country, according to the optimistic statement of Manager Klein.

International Falls is the team that the Moose men want to meet first of all, and then all of the teams of the Northwest will be played as rapidly as games can be scheduled.

Another Team Comes In.

The Fairmont baseball team of last season held a meeting last evening and reorganized for the season under the name of the Sorenson Shoe team. Last season under the name of the Fairmonts the team won 32 games out of 37. Frank Johnson will act as captain of the team and Pearley Greene as manager.

F. Johnson and M. Smith will work behind the bat, and Art Greene and Houston will be in the box. H. Johnson will be at second base, R. Johnson at third, and F. Lind on first base. A. Frank, Moberg, P. Johnson and J. Greene will joyously cavort in the outfield.

BOWLERS IN CLOSE RACE

Teams Are Bunched in Major and Duluth-Superior Leagues.

Post Season Game May Be Necessary in Latter Circuit.

There are but two remaining games in the Duluth-Superior bowling league. On Friday evening the Adams and Derbys will meet on the Grand alleys, and a week from the coming Friday the Deckers and Derbys will meet.

It is believed that these two games will decide the pennant winner of the league, though it may result in one more game being necessary to decide the winner of the season.

The season in the Major league will terminate two weeks from this evening. The race in this and the Duluth-Superior league has been close all the season and the result has been some of the best bowling that Duluth has ever had.

DOG RACE STALLED BY BAD BLIZZARD

Precludes All Chance of Lowering Record Made Four Years Ago.

Nome, Alaska, April 14.—The start of the all-Alaska sweepstakes dog race, 412 miles over the wind-swept snow trail from Nome to Candle and return yesterday was witnessed by all the inhabitants of Nome. A blizzard was in progress and light snow fell. Four teams started.

At 8 o'clock last night, Allen, Johnson and Ayer were reported storm bound at Timber, 64 miles from Nome. They had already lost five hours and it is uncertain when they will be able to set out again on the trail toward Candle, 206 miles from Nome. Seppala has not been reported since leaving Solomon, but probably has sought shelter from the blizzard at some roadhouse between there and Timber.

The delay caused by the storm precludes any possibility of lowering the record set by Johnson's Siberian wolves in 1910, when he covered the 412-mile course in 74 hours 14 minutes and 20 seconds.

HOST SEES FIRST FEDERAL GAME

Jack Quinn Pitches Great Ball for Baltimore Against Buffalo.

Baltimore, Md., April 14.—Not since the Baltimore Orioles captured three National league pennants has such a crowd witnessed a game of baseball in this city as yesterday, saw the Baltimore club of the Federal league defeat Buffalo by a score of 3 to 2.

When the gates were opened at 11 o'clock, four hours before the game began, 5,000 persons were waiting, and it is estimated that more than 25,000 were within the enclosure when Mayor Preston threw the ball onto the diamond.

Jack Quinn pitched consistent ball for the locals and with perfect support probably would have shut out the visitors. President Gilmore of the Federal league saw the game.

PLACES HIS UMPIRES.

Chivington Announces Indicator Men for Opening Games.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 14.—Thomas M. Chivington, president of the American association, last night announced the assignments of umpires for the opening games of the season today. Johnstone and Irwin will officiate in Indianapolis; Owens and Connolly in Kansas City; Westervelt and O'Brien at Milwaukee and Murray and Johnson at Louisville.

The school of instruction which President Chivington held here for the umpires for three days, was ended yesterday afternoon and the men departed for the cities where they will begin their season's work.

Mr. Chivington went to Kansas City to attend the first game there.

MEASLES THREATEN CLARK GRIFFITH'S MEN

Boston, Mass., April 14.—Discovery that one of the newspaper correspondents accompanying the Washington American baseball team was suffering from the German measles caused Manager Clark Griffith considerable worry last night. Many of his players have been exposed. The team opens the season with the Red Sox here today.

Montreal, Que., April 14.—Pitcher Del Mason, one of the leading holdouts of the Montreal International league club, has accepted terms. Manager Bransfield has instructed him to report at New York on April 20, the day previous to the opening of the international season.

Detroit, Mich., April 14.—Pitcher Wallace L. Schultz of the Detroit Americans was released yesterday to the Providence club of the International league.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 14.—Denny Sullivan, outfielder, who formerly played with the Kansas City and Indianapolis American association baseball clubs, was signed by the St. Joseph Western league team yesterday, according to an announcement by the owner of the team. Sullivan did not play last season, and until recently was engaged in business at Frankfort, S. D.

HEADING OFF BOOKIES AT TULSA RACE TRACK.

Tulsa, Okla., April 14.—On the application of Pat Malloy, county attorney, District Judge L. M. Poe last night issued a temporary order directing that "book-makers" be required to cease operations at the track of the Tulsa Jockey club, which yesterday began its spring racing meet here.

The restraining order directed against the club officials will remain in force until Saturday when arguments will be heard and the injunction either made permanent or dissolved. The meeting will end April 30.

No attempt was made during the day to interfere with the operations of bookmakers. Frank M. Canton, adjutant general, is in Tulsa with instructions from Governor Lee Cruce, it is said, to call out the militia, if necessary to prevent violations of the state anti-betting laws.

Neither the adjutant general nor Assistant Attorney General Smith, who also is in Tulsa, would make any statement.

Rebel Oakes Is Captain.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 14.—Enis T. "Rebel" Oakes, former National league player, yesterday was appointed captain of the local team of the Federal league. Oakes plays centerfield for the Federals.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore, stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste, as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

CONFESSION BY CIROFICI

Gunman's Statement Made to Warden Just Before Execution.

Clancy Says He Hopes Death Penalty May Be Abolished.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—Shortly before "Dago Frank" Cirofici went to the death chair in Sing Sing prison early yesterday, he told Warden Clancy that "Gyp the Blood" Harowitz, "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg and Harry Vallon, an informer, fired the shots that killed Herman Rosenthal, for which crime the four gunmen paid their lives.

"So far as I know Becker had nothing to do with this case," the gunman also declared. "It was a gamblers' fight."

Cirofici averred that he was five miles away at the time the crime was committed, and that "Whitey Lewis" Seidenshner, although present at the scene of the shooting, did not fire any of the shots. Cirofici made no attempt, however, to deny that he was included in the original plot to slay Rosenthal, even admitting that two nights before the gambler was slain he went with other gangsters to look for their intended victim. They were frightened away from Rosenthal on that occasion by men they thought were detectives.

Was in Murder Car.

The condemned man also admitted that early on the night of the actual killing he was in the gray "murder car" with the gunmen, but he insisted that he left them before they shot the gambler. He did not explain precisely why he left the other gunmen just prior to the shooting, but two reasons are advanced. One is that he became frightened, and the other that he deserted in order to bail out his sweetheart, Jean Gordon, who had been arrested.

The statement, which was made verbally in the principal keeper's office, about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, was the result of insistent pleas on the part of Cirofici's mother and his sister for the truth. They had been here and made an unsuccessful appeal to the governor to save the prisoner's life. Returning to the prison near dawn, they were met by the warden and taken to the office, where they met Cirofici.

Told the Governor.

Mr. Clancy came to Albany yesterday and told his story to Superintendent John B. Riley of the state prison department and Governor Glynn.

At no time, according to the warden, did any of the gunmen except Cirofici insist that they were innocent of killing Rosenthal. "Whitey Lewis" always declared that he did not fire a shot and it is the warden's opinion that his dying words were: "I didn't shoot at Rosenthal."

Mr. Clancy said that "Dago Frank" and "Whitey Lewis" always believed that they were not as guilty of slaying Rosenthal as were the men who fired the shots.

Incidentally, while Mr. Clancy was sitting in Mr. Riley's office last night, the superintendent expressed the hope that no other man ever would pay the penalty of death in the electric chair in this state.

"I hope," he said, "to see the next legislature pass a law permitting juries to fix life penalty, and that this reform will succeed in doing away with capital punishment."

Warden Clancy denied reports that he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown owing to his experience with the gunmen.

Governor Glynn was greatly interested in the report of the warden, but he declined to make any comment.

No Effect on Becker.

Both Mr. Riley and Mr. Clancy expressed the opinion that nothing contained in Cirofici's statement would have any effect on the second trial of Former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker. Mr. Clancy said that the statement was made only after relatives of the condemned man had pleaded for the truth. The warden added that he had no desire to make the statement a legal record, and therefore did not take "Dago Frank's" words down in writing and had not placed him under oath.

JUMPS FROM TRAIN WITH OREGON BOOT

Prisoner Clambers From Upper Berth Without Waking Guard.

Rockford, Ill., April 14.—While Thomas Kinnane, deputy warden of Leavenworth prison, slept in a berth beneath him, Carl Miller, also known, it is said, as August Brinkman, serving a ten-year sentence for forgery, crawled from his berth and leaped from a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train early yesterday, and escaped. Kinnane discovered his prisoner's absence when he awoke at Davis Junction, near here.

Miller, who wore a 20-pound Oregon boot, was being taken to Madison, Wis., to be resentenced. It was said there was a flaw in his former sentence.

"FRESNO DAN" GETS NOTHING AFTER ALL.

Boston, Mass., April 14.—Daniel Blake Russell ("Fresno Dan"), whose birthright has been the object of prolonged litigation, was practically cut off by the will of his father, Daniel Russell of Melrose, according to a ruling by the superior court. Judge Hammond interpreted the will of the elder Russell as creating no trust in favor of his son, who was missing for many years, but left disposition of the estate to the direction of William C. Russell, the oldest son.

"Dakota Dan," the first of two claimants for recognition as the long lost son, battled unsuccessfully through the courts for several years in an effort to obtain that portion of the estate which it had been thought was left to Daniel Blake Russell.

"GREAT BLUFFERS," SAYS BILLARD.

Meriden, Conn., April 14.—John L. Billard of Meriden commented briefly on the announced intention of the interstate commerce commission to bring mandamus proceedings to compel witnesses to testify at its investigation of the relations between John L. Billard company and the New Haven railroad.

"They're great bluffers," he said.

Mr. Billard refused to amplify his statement.

Goes to Havre, Mont.

ESTATE LEFT WITHOUT HEIR

An estate of $3,400 awaits the unknown heirs of Hans Larson, coal dock foreman, who, during a period of despondency a month ago, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid at a local hospital where he had been taken after he had made an unsuccessful attempt to end his life by slashing his throat.

Although Larson, who was about 40 years of age at the time of his death, had lived in Duluth for about twenty-six years, no one has been able to throw any light upon his past life, and the authorities have been unable to locate any relatives, if any there be.

Undertaker Asks Settlement.

In probate court yesterday afternoon, William W. Crawford, undertaker, petitioned for letters of administration on Larson's estate. The undertaker petitioned as a creditor having a claim of $170.25 for funeral expenses against the estate.

The petition for administration states that Larson at the time of his death left $3,400 cash. So far as can be ascertained he left no will nor no relatives who might claim his estate.

Larson was employed for a number of years as foreman of the Boston Coal dock. On March 7 last he attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a pocket knife and at that time was taken from his room, 3904 West Third street, to St. Luke's hospital. On March 12, he drank the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid which he had taken from the surgical closet. Death followed thirty minutes later.

If no one claims the estate as an heir, it will revert to the state.

* * *

A lot in West Duluth valued at $1,000 comprises the estate left by Mrs. Mary E. Lockhart, who died, aged 32, at her home in this city recently. G. Omer Lockhart, her husband, yesterday petitioned the probate court for administration. Lockhart and a family of five daughters and two sons who will share in the estate reside at 717 West Second street.

ROOSEVELT MAY HURRY BACK HOME.

New York, April 14.—An earlier return of Col. Theodore Roosevelt to this city than was anticipated is foreshadowed in messages received here from Brazil. According to information given out at Progressive state headquarters, Mr. Roosevelt will arrive in New York during the third week in May. His projected journey to Spain before returning home, in order to be present at the wedding of Kermit Roosevelt, his son, and Miss Belle Willard, may not be undertaken, it was said.

The change in the plans of Col. Roosevelt was ascribed by party workers to his interest in the fortunes of the party.

SUES FOR COMMISSION.

Victor Carlson Asks $1,000 for Negotiating Big Land Deal.

Suit for $1,000 commission on a land deal was started in district court yesterday by Victor Carlson against the Red Cliff Lumber company. Carlson alleges that although he negotiated the sale of 1,840 acres from the Red Cliff Lumber company to the Johnson-Wentworth Lumber company several months ago netting the seller, $22,500, he has received nothing for his services. Carlson is suing for the reasonable value of his services and not on a contract for a specific amount.

COMMISSION FORM WILL BE DISCUSSED.

Crookston, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the Commercial club to be held Tuesday evening, Mayor J. P. Seberger of St. Cloud has been engaged to deliver an address on the commission form of government.

The subject is of interest to Crookston people at this time, as consideration is being given to the advisability of adopting commission government in some form for this city.

"Trying to Get Him to Save"

THERE is a volume of sentiment back of those six simple words, if one but stop to consider. The mother, who can picture the future of her boy, is "trying to get him to save." We open accounts almost daily for the boy of today who will be the man of tomorrow. A wife starts an account for her husband. She is "trying to get him to save." She has a vision of the coming years when the accumulation of the earning days will mean rest, contentment, happiness. Perhaps it is a vision of a little farm or a snug home. Saving will make it real. We are trying to get YOU to save, because we see the actual results of saving in the lives of others.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

JAMESTOWN TO BE HOST

North Dakota Sunday School Association Meets There in June.

Expected to Be Largest Gathering Ever Held in State.

Jamestown, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual convention of the North Dakota Sunday School association will be held here June 2, 3 and 4, and is expected to be the biggest ever held in the state.

Four special trains will bring delegates to the convention, one from Grand Forks, carrying the northeastern delegates; another from Fargo, a third from Leeds and the fourth from Bismarck, to accommodate the southwestern section of the state.

Three Sectional Rallies.

Three big sectional rallies also will be held just previous to the general gathering in Jamestown, at Minot, Leeds and Grand Forks, and delegates from the districts centering at those points will participate.

In Minot, Leeds and Grand Forks special plans will be laid for the entertainment of the touring delegates.

President A. L. Bishop of the association is in charge of the arrangements for the several preliminary rallies, and he will place well-known speakers at each of them.

FARMERS ARE BUSY IN NORTH DAKOTA

Dragging and Seeding Operations Have Already Begun.

Fargo, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many farmers are working in the fields of North Dakota. The large amount of plowing done last fall, followed by heavy precipitation before winter came placed the soil in fine shape. The season is somewhat later than usual, but the arrival of good weather and the proper soil conditions will probably result in the crops being as far advanced May 15 as in former years. Everywhere the drags are being operated and in some sections seeders are at work.

Seeding Going On.

Thousands of acres will be seeded to wheat during the week. The farmers are more optimistic than in many seasons and have their preliminary work so well along little time will be lost in getting the crop into the ground. There will be less danger of poor stands and seed rotting in the ground than in years where the seeding is early and then followed by adverse weather conditions and continued cold.

FIVE CANDIDATES FOR SENATORSHIP

Three Republicans and Two Democrats After North Dakota Job.

Fargo, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement of the candidacy of President Worst of the North Dakota Agricultural college for the United States senate makes a three-cornered race for the Republican nomination. With Jones and Purcell seeking the Democratic nomination there are now five active candidates in the field and a Bull Mooser will probably soon announce his candidacy.

Senator Gronna who seeks renomination will be here next week to look after his fences. Attorney General Miller has been in the field some time and is making speeches in the upper part of the valley.

President Worst makes no wild claims as to his nomination or election, but says he has had so many assurances of support he feels confident of a fair chance for securing the position.

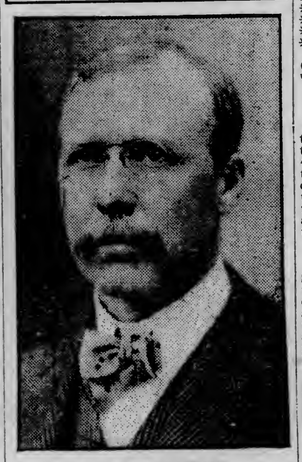
ARE RAISING CATTLE.

More Livestock Than Ever Belong to North Dakotans.

Fargo, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are more cattle in North Dakota than in the old ranching days, to say nothing of the thousands of hogs that are being raised in the state. At least that is the claim of those who are in touch with the livestock situation in the state.

Indicative of the conditions and also of the changing methods in North Dakota is the demand for stock yards and loading chutes for livestock. The railroads readily grant the demand as soon as convinced of its necessity as they believe it means increased prosperity and more continuous freight.

The increasing number of stock is due to the efforts of the agricultural college and the Better Farming association to get the people to abandon exclusive wheat crops and rotate and diversify.



CORN RAISING POPULAR.

Boys and Girls of McKenzie County, N. D., to Enter Contest.

Alexander, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Securing a few kernels of corn from the North Dakota Agricultural college through the county superintendent of schools, Lloyd Gravoos, a local boy, planted a field last spring and won first honors in the state show in Fargo, receiving $15 in cash for one and $10 in cash for the other. He got also experience in judging corn that will enable him to make better selections in the future and he will again enter the contest.

His successes have inspired many boys and girls of the county to enter the contests and a large number of adults have been convinced by the youthful grain grower that as fine corn can be produced in McKenzie county as anywhere in North Dakota.

ADS MUST TELL TRUTH

Advertising Expert Gives Good Advice to Business Men.

Sam Dobbs Says Public Confidence Is Best of Assets.

Advertising men of Duluth and many business men not directly in the advertising field heard an interesting and instructive talk on advertising at the Duluth Commercial club at noon today.

Sam Dobbs, sales manager of the Coco Cola company and former president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, was the speaker. His address was short, but was filled with meat, and received an appreciative hearing.

"If I had a man working for me and he didn't believe down in his heart that we had the best managed concern on earth, that our product was the best of its kind, and that it was the best business in the world for him to be in, I would ask for his resignation, for I'd get him finally," Mr. Dobbs said. "Enthusiasm is the big factor in advertising, in salesmanship and in life generally. In any of you people have been cold-blooded in your business, go back to your office and determine that you will not only learn all there is to be learned about your subject, but that you will put your heart and soul in your work."

Mr. Dobbs declared the three elements of successful advertising to be attractiveness, good subject matter and the telling of the truth in such a way that it will be believed by the public. Public confidence he declared to be the best asset any business house could have.

"Take the mirror down from the back of your roll top desk," he said. "Quit advertising to yourself, or to your boss. Remember that you are advertising to sell goods and that the people who are to buy your goods must be reached by your advertising. I don't care how sincerely you believe in the truth of your own statements; if you don't make the public believe them your efforts are useless."

Mr. Dobbs spoke of the Associated Advertising clubs as a great force which in five years has revolutionized the advertising business and has made itself felt in the commercial world generally. Clean newspapers, clean billboards and a higher appreciation of the advertising business among advertising men themselves as well as the general public are some of the results of its work, he said.

Mr. Dobbs was in Duluth only a few hours today. He was taken for a drive around the city as the guest of Duluth advertising men.

BECKER'S LAWYER DROPS FROM CASE

Shay Lays His Action to Policy of Client's Brother.

New York, April 14.—District Attorney Whitman issued a statement today declaring he believed the confession made by "Dago Frank" Cirofici before he went to the chair would aid, rather than hinder, the prosecution in the case of Former Lieut. Charles Becker.

Becker's attorney, Joseph A. Shay, formally resigned as trial counsel, saying he did so because Detective Lieut. John Becker, the prisoner's brother had insisted on listening to the stories of "an assortment of petty crooks" who wanted to sell legal information.

The bodies of the four gunmen electrocuted in Sing Sing prison were brought back here late yesterday. Emotional thousands from the East Side followed that of "Whitey Lewis" on its way to the grave. At the home of a Harlem church warden where the body of "Gyp the Blood" was taken, the police reserves were called out to prevent curious hundreds from entering.

The police estimated that 10,000 persons viewed the body of "Dago Frank" Cirofici at the undertaker's.

ON THE IRON RANGES

PREFER SPENDING MONEY FOR ROADS

Hibbing Commercial Club Not Enthusiastic Over Frisco Fair.

Hibbing, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the Hibbing Commercial club will probably refuse to indorse the plan advanced by the State Federation of Commercial clubs for the construction of a Minnesota building at the Panama-Pacific exposition is the opinion of local members, who were informed that the matter would be discussed Wednesday evening.

The state federation asks that the clubs of the state guarantee $60,000 with the understanding that the legislature would take action for the payment at their next session. It was their idea that each club in the state guarantee a proportionate amount.

"I do not favor the plan of having a building at the exposition," said a member, "and if I did I would not favor the method of raising the money. I personally think that the money should be used for better roads in the state rather than providing a resting place for the few people who go from the state to San Francisco. The class of people who will visit the big show are not the kind who change locations or who would make good settlers. Trips by our exhibition car and efficient work on the part of the emigration bureau will bring better returns."

STAR BOARDER IS GONE, ALSO MONEY

Virginia Boarding House Keeper Claims to Have Been Robbed.

Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police of the range towns are combing the saloons and lodging houses for Dan Majetich, who is alleged to have stolen two checks for $120 from Jaka Daskovich, a local boardinghouse keeper. It is reported that the missing man was a "star boarder" and that the woman being suspicious of banks kept the checks she received from board rather than put them into a bank. The checks were issued by the Oliver Iron Mining company in payment of wages and payment will be stopped on them. Meanwhile local and range police will endeavor to capture the alleged thief.

VIRGINIA MINES ARE NOW SHIPPING

Commodore Mine Has Already Sent Some Ore to Duluth Docks.

Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ore shipments from this district have already begun. The Commodore, an open pit mine yesterday sent fifty-nine cars to the Missabe docks at Duluth. The Miller mine will begin regular shipments to Two Harbors next Saturday when the shipping season formally opens over the Iron Range.

There are general activities among mines here especially the independents. Butler Bros. have stopped stripping operations at the Sliver mine of the M. A. Hanna company. The latter has a lot of new engines, shovels and other equipment on the ground and will begin working this property forthwith.

VIRGINIA JOBS MAY BE FILLED

Expected That Council Will Get Together on Unfilled Positions.

Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia council is expected at its meeting tonight to break the deadlock that at the last meeting prevented filling the positions of assessor, street commissioner and health officer. When the aldermen tried before to agree upon these jobs they found themselves hopelessly deadlocked and the matter went over until tonight. It is reported an agreement will be reached and harmony will mark the proceedings.

Former Auroralte Candidate.

J. H. Simons, formerly superintendent of the Aurora water and light plant, who is now a resident of this city, has entered the race for the street commissionership. He interviewed many of the aldermen, following Tuesday's meeting. His strength is not known.

Mr. Sognalla will appear through his attorney, Robert Stratton, in answer to the charges that have been made and the evidence collected by the probation officer will be submitted.

The New Baby is World's Wonder

Every tiny infant makes life's perspective wider and brighter. And whatever there is to enhance its arrival and to ease and comfort the expectant mother should be given attention. Among the real helpful things is an external abdominal application known as "Mother's Friend." It is so well thought of by women that most drug stores throughout the United States carry "Mother's Friend" as one of their staple and reliable remedies. It is applied to the abdominal muscles to relieve the strain on ligaments and tendons.

In a little book are described more fully the many reasons why "Mother's Friend" has been a friend indeed to women for more than two generations. This book was prepared not only to aid the inexperienced but to enable so many women to have at hand the timely hints, suggestions and helps in concise and neatly printed form for ready reference. It should be in all homes. "Mother's Friend" may be had of almost any druggist but if you fail to find it write us direct and also write for book to Bradfield Regulator Co., 303 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Georgia.

TWO HARBORS TO BUY AUTO TRUCK

Council Considering Offers of Several Duluth Concerns.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the city council were interviewed last night by representatives of several Duluth automobile dealers, as the city will purchase a new truck to aid in the street grading this summer. Work will be started on Seventh avenue as soon as the weather permits and a large amount of gravel and crushed rock must be hauled. It is believed that an automobile truck will pay for itself in a short time. No definite action was taken last night but the various machines were discussed, and as soon as the three weeks required for advertising has expired the council will be ready to make their purchase.

The city clerk was authorized to order a car of lime to aid in the spring cleaning and disinfecting. As soon as this arrives the street commissioner will spread it through the alleys, with the idea of destroying all germs that inhabit these regions.

The report of the secretary showed that nearly $5,000 had been taken in during the year and that there was a balance of $155 in the treasury but that outsanding debts on the building amounted to $2,400. It is believed that the dues and membership fees next year will take care of this amount.

Matches similar to those conducted this year will be continued next season when it is expected that even greater enthusiasm will be aroused.

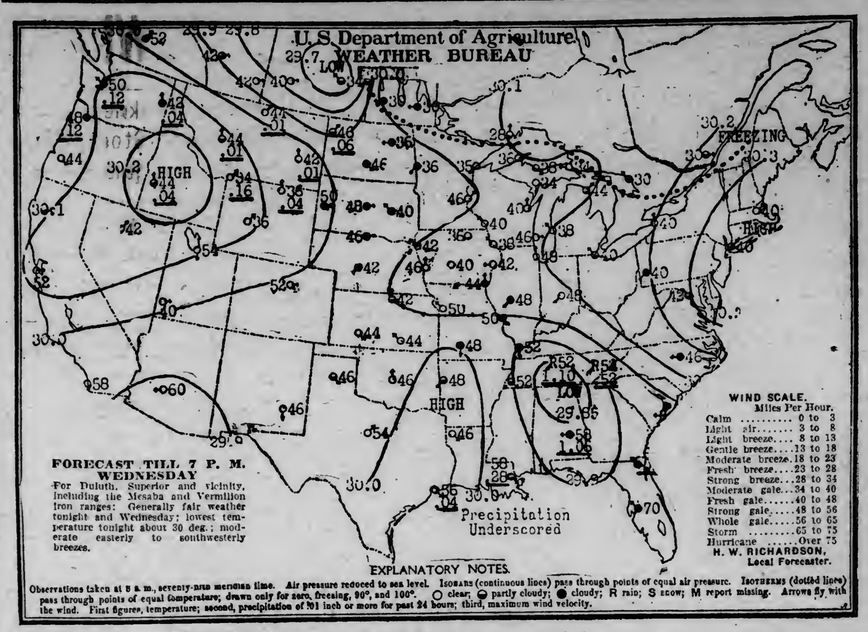
PAINFUL ERUPTION ON ARM AND HANDS

Could Not Stand Any Clothing on Arm. Itching Intense. Scratching Made Spots Larger. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.



Box 85, Fulton, Ill.—"My trouble began with just a little red spot on my arm and they gradually increased until they had formed a ring about three inches in diameter. Then they spread to different parts of my arm and hands. I could not stand any clothing whatever on the arm, it seemed to irritate it so. The itching was so intense that I scratched and made the spots larger and more sore. I could not stand to put my hands in water very much. It gradually grew worse. It was very painful and the itching was terrible. It also disfigured the arm for the time being.

"Then I began using different remedies without getting any relief. Seeing the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper I thought I would try them. After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for two weeks I noticed a slight improvement. I used one box of Cuticura Ointment and three cakes of Cuticura Soap and in three months I was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. M. Hansen, Sept. 19, 1913.

NEW GRAND FORKS MILL.

Diamond Mill Is to Be Replaced By New Structure.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Russell-Miller Milling company of Minneapolis will replace its present flouring mill here, the Diamond mill, with a complete new structure, five stories and basement, on the site of the present frame structure.

Work on the new mill will be commenced as soon as the present structure can be razed.

The new mill will afford the company 2,880 additional square feet of floor space, and will make the mill one of the biggest in North Dakota. It will have a daily capacity of 800 barrels.

The Diamond mill is one of the oldest milling properties in the state owned by the Russell-Miller company. The present mill was constructed about twenty years ago, and is out of date. The new mill will be modern in every respect, with a thorough equipment of new machinery.

LARGE MAJORITY IS FOR ENDING STRIKE

Referendum Figures on Calling Off Copper Country Trouble Given Out.

Calumet, Mich., April 14.—Secretary Hietela of the district board of the Western Federation of Miners who voted Sunday to call off the strike which has been on here since last July and involved about 13,000 men announces the separate vote of the local unions would not be made public, the public being given only the total vote. He says: "The total vote cast in favor of calling off the strike throughout the district was 3,104; total vote cast in favor of continuing the strike, 1,636; total vote, 4,740."

Managers of the mines announce that they will re-employ all men who have not been guilty of violence as soon as they give up their membership in the Western Federation of Miners and places can be found for them. The present working forces are nearly equal numerically, mine managers say, to what they were before the strike. At the time the strike began there was a shortage of miners, and it is said that most of the strikers will be employed as rapidly as they renounce the union and underground working conditions permit.

Claim They Won Something.

In ordering the referendum vote last week, officers of the Western Federation of Miners informed the members that since the strike had been declared, the mine owners had changed working conditions and wages so that they substantially met the demands of the strikers. The strike had been continued for some time in an effort to make the mine owners recede from their determination not to employ any member of the federation. As the mine owners persisted in their stand on recognition of the union, it was finally decided to leave to the strikers the decision as to whether the contest should be continued.

TO HAVE BULL MOOSE TICKET

Halbert to Call Conference of the Minnesota Progressives.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—H. T. Halbert, Progressive state chairman, was disappointed in Senator Sageng's statement yesterday, declining to become the Bull Moose candidate for governor. "Senator Sageng has been seriously considered for the Progressive nomination for governor; his statement speaks for itself," is all he would say at first.

Later he said a conference of state Progressives will be called in a few days to put in a state ticket for all state offices and candidates for congress in all the districts, in accordance with the resolutions adopted at the state conference held in St. Paul on Feb. 14.

A NURSE TAKES DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Euphemia, Ohio.—"Because of total ignorance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suffered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.

"I went to Kansas to live with my sister and while there a doctor told me of the Pinkham remedies but I did not use them then as my faith in patent medicines was limited. After my sister died I came home to Ohio to live and that has been my home for the last 18 years.

"The Change of Life came when I was 47 years old and about this time I saw my physical condition plainly described in one of your advertisements. Then I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot tell you or any one the relief it gave me in the first three months. It put me right where I need not lay off every month and during the last 18 years I have not paid out two dollars to a doctor, and have been blest with excellent health for a woman of my age and I can thank Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it.

"Since the Change of Life is over I have been a maternity nurse and being wholly self-supporting I cannot over estimate the value of good health. I have now earned a comfortable little home just by sewing and nursing. I have recommended the Compound to many with good results, as it is excellent to take before and after childbirth."—Miss Evelyn Adelia Stewart, Euphemia, Ohio.

SAYS SULLIVAN SOUGHT MONEY

Grand Forks Bailiff Alleged to Have Solicited Funds.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Evidence tending to show that J. A. Sullivan, the bailiff in the McClain Cooper murder trial, out of which have grown charges of bribery, solicited money during the trial, was given in the preliminary examination of J. C. Mahon.

A. F. Turner of Grand Forks, Dan McLaren of McCanna and William McManus, also of McCanna, testified Sullivan had approached them with requests for money. One witness also testified that he saw Sullivan attempt to obtain money from Mahon, but that he failed.

It is probable that Mr. Mahon's hearing will be concluded late today or tomorrow.

Newman Winslow, a juror in the case, testified that he had received no offer of money during the trial and denied that there was drinking during the trial.

SHELL BURSTS IN THE U. S. ARSENAL

One Killed, Five Hurt and 1,200 Women Panic-Stricken.

COMMERCIAL CLUB OF CLOQUET GROWS

Membership Campaign Has Added New Members to Body.

Cloquet, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club met Monday night. The final report of the captains of the membership contest was given, Victor Ewenson's contingent securing forty-three members and R. F. Cochrane's side nine, an increase in the membership of forty-two. A banquet at the expense of the Commercial club will be given instead of one at the expense of the losing side as originally planned.

Mr. McGivalry, assessor, explained the method of assessing which will be employed in Cloquet, after which the matter was discussed and a vote carried that the city council be commended upon its action in adopting the system. The same card system which is used in Duluth will be employed, in a slightly modified form.

The United States Indian hospital which will be built either at Cloquet or Sawyer was discussed and plans were made to secure its establishment at Cloquet. A petition of the Indians on the reservation was proposed.

Invite All Candidates.

Mr. Boyle, candidate for congress from this district, was extended an invitation to talk before the club at its next meeting on a non-political subject. In order to avoid being partial to any one candidate or party, a general invitation will be extended to all candidates for office who wish to talk on non-political subjects before the club.

The White Way committee failed to make its report.

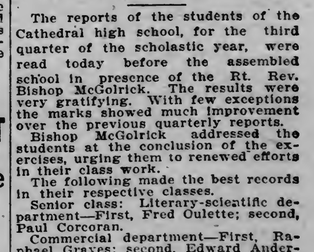
POISONS THAT IRRITATE

When the delicate machinery of the body is not working harmoniously, poisons are retained that should be expelled. These may accumulate in the tissues and cause irritation. Should the irritation affect joints or muscles you have rheumatism; if a nerve becomes inflamed you have neuralgia.

But if the system is kept toned up with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and no body poisons are retained, foods that once distressed you will be harmless, exposure will bring no rheumatism and neuralgia and even germ diseases need hardly be dreaded.

The lowering of the tone of the system which results from thin blood is easy to recognize. Weakness is always present, a tendency to perspire and fatigue easily, ringing in the ears, black spots passing before the eyes, weak back, dizziness, wakefulness and unrefreshing sleep. These conditions Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will correct.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. In this way the general health is improved, the appetite increases, and new ambition and energy is developed.



These pills are sold by all druggists. Send to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for free book "Building Up the Blood."

KILLS HIS OWN BROTHER.

Tragedy Follows First Meeting in Seven Years in Copper Country.

Houghton, Mich., April 14.—Victor Maki, 30 years old, met his brother, John, 23 years old, at Painesdale yesterday after a separation of seven years, and instead of fraternal greetings, they quarreled and Victor shot John to death. John upbraided Victor for intemperance and the elder brother fired a shot through the ceiling, saying: "The same to you, if you don't shut up."

John bared his breast, according to witnesses and exclaimed "go ahead." Victor shot the younger brother in the heart.

MARKET HAS AN ADVANCE

Wheat Sells Higher on Light Receipts and Good Cash Demand.

Flaxseed Has a Fair Upturn With Liberal Bidding By Operators.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 14.—The market was strong at the close. May wheat closed ⅝c up and July ½c up. May durum closed ⅛c off and July ⅛c off.

May oats closed a cent up for cash at 35¼c and unchanged for to arrive at 34¼c. Rye closed unchanged at 54½@56½c for the best grades. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 34⅞c and July at 35⅞c.

Puts on Minneapolis, May wheat closed at 88c bid and calls at 88¾@88⅞c.

While the wheat market was quiet and featureless today, prices ruled on a fractionally higher range up to the closing hour. For that condition, the light Northwest receipts and a fair cash demand, was responsible.

The domestic situation was regarded as distinctly bearish by operators. Advices from over the winter wheat territory were to the effect that the condition of the crop is unimpaired through the Southwest. Experts reported the plant to be in splendid condition throughout Kansas, and that while green bugs are to be seen, they are too few to do any damage.

Seeding operations were advised to have begun in some sections of the Canadian Northwest and it is expected they will be general within a week. Eastern inquiry was reported by Duluth operators to be slightly better, and predictions are made that the market on spring will firm up shortly irrespective of conditions in the Southwest, as it is believed that remaining stocks will be wanted both for milling requirements and for export.

Bradstreet's world's visible report showed a decrease of 3,250,000 bu in wheat supplies in the week, but the European visible increased 1,344,000 bu bringing it up to 86,348,000 bu.

Liverpool closed ¼@½d lower being affected by the American markets and freer offers from Russia.

Primary receipts were light today, being 170,000 bu below last year. For that the large decrease at Minneapolis was responsible, receipts there coming to only 73 cars against 338 last year. Inspections at Duluth amounted to one car less than a year ago at 39 cars, and there were just 50 cars of all grains on the tracks for the day.

A feature was in the liberal arrivals of bonded grain here 83 cars coming down of which 52 cars were wheat and 20 flaxseed. The bulk of the wheat is consigned to McCabe Bros., and represents stocks that have been in store at the Great Northern elevators in the Canadian West.

May wheat opened ⅛c up at 89⅝c, and gained ⅛c more up to the final hour. The July option opened ⅛c up at 90½c, and it also advanced a shade. Business was only nominal in durum and both options weakneed fractionally, from the opening with May quoted at 86½c and July at 87⅞c.

Flax Sells Higher.

Flaxseed held strong from the opening, with fair bidding in evidence, while offerings were light. Trading was confined to small lots during the session. Final prices showed advances of ⅝@1c, with the market strong at the close.

The foreign markets were irregular. Buenos Aires closed ⅝c up, but Antwerp was 3¼c off from last Thursday and London ¾c off.

May flax opened ¼c up at $1.55 and closed ⅝c up at $1.55⅝. The July option opened unchanged at $1.56⅝ and closed 1c higher at $1.57⅞ asked, and September opened ¼c up at $1.57 and closed ¾c up at $1.57¾ bid.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.35¾ and July at $1.38¾ bid.

The Minneapolis cash market was firmer, with good demand, but the mills did not want to force premiums on the light receipts. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at from 1½c to 3½c over May, and velvet chaff at from 1½c to 2c over May. Flour sales were moderate, but the mills have a fair amount of new business on their books accumulated in the last two weeks. Shipping directions are slow at the moment. Mill feed prices are showing a declining tendency. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from 89¼@91¼c and No. 2 northern at from 86¾@88¾c.

* * *

The Iowa crop report as received by Baker says: "Owing to wet weather, April farm work has been delayed. There are some fields in the extreme south counties where winter wheat appears to be spotted, and Hessian fly is reported to have caused 8 to 10 per cent damage to the crop in Scott county. The condition for the state as a whole is at least 5 per cent better than last year."

* * *

Broomhall cables from Liverpool: "Wheat opened with pressure of realizing on larger world's shipments than expected and a quiet demand for cash and export. European crop prospects are favorable and Russian offers larger, while American winter offers are increasing. At 1:30 p. m. prices were ¼@⅜d lower than Thursday, with the market dull.

"Corn opened ⅛d lower in sympathy with America, but later steadied with a private report of heavy Plate sales to America. At 1:30 p. m. the undertone was steady, ⅛d lower."

* * *

European wheat visible is 86,348,000 bu, against 85,040,000 bu last week, increase 1,344,000 bu.

* * *

The European weather is generally favorable except in France and Germany, where some complaints are heard regarding cool and wet conditions.

* * *

Parker Paine had the following comment from Chicago: "There is just enough bearish feeling in the local wheat trade, helped by the heaviness in corn, to lead short sellers into trouble. The weather is fine all over the West and Southwest. This will encourage the professional bears a little. Back of the selling is the scenery of the growing crop which the trade well knows may prove deceptive inside of 30 days. The first real damage report from the growing crop will find the trade and the country in a position to buy these new crop months."

* * *

The Winnipeg Free Press has the following: "If the present weather continues, the middle of the week will see seeding general in the Moosejaw district, and the end of the week should see the greater portion of the wheat sown. Present indications are that the spring wheat will be in the ground four or five days earlier than last year. The farmers report that the present weather conditions are all that can be desired, and that there is sufficient moisture in this district.

"The first seeding on the Portage Plains, if not in Manitoba, was started on Thursday last on the farm of Thomas S. Kitson, west of MacDonald, when he started putting in wheat. Mr. Kitson states that the land is fast drying up, and he does not think it will be long before seeding will be general. This morning he started harrowing. It is safe to say that in a few days all of the farmers will be on the land."

* * *

Fears are entertained by Chicago operators that there may be some manipulation in May wheat contracts as in past years, though at the present there are no indications of a heavy concentration of holdings. Elevator interests there have been free sellers of May and buyers of July wheat of late at 3¾c to 4c discount. Milling demand for winter wheat is said to be small as most of the interior mills are getting enough wheat at home to cover their requirements.

* * *

Members of the Chicago board of trade yesterday voted to amend rules affecting the delivery of corn to conform to government rules which will become effective July 1.

By the change No. 1 and No. 2 white or yellow corn will be delivered at ½c over contract price, No. 1 and No. 2 mixed corn at contract price, No. 3 white or yellow at 2c under contract price, No. 3 mixed at 2½c under contract price, No. 4 white or yellow at 4½c under contract price, and No. 4 mixed at 5c under contract price.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Stronger on Light Receipts and Cable Reports.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 14.—Light receipts and stronger Liverpool reports than had been anticipated helped to strengthen the wheat market at the opening here today. While the options opened fractionally over yesterday's close the range was narrow during the forenoon. There was a heavier premium on the better grades of cash wheat.

Wheat—May opened 87¾c; high, 99⅜c; low, 87½c; closed, 88⅜c bid. July opened 89⅛c; high, 89⅝@89¾c; low, 88⅞@89c; closed, 89⅝@89¾c asked.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Rallies on Falling Receipts After Opening Weak.

Chicago, April 14.—Wheat today after opening weak, rallied on account of a decided falling off in receipts Northwest. The setback at the outset was in sympathy with lower cables. Foreign crop reports were generally favorable. Prices here started ¼@⅜c lower to a shade advance, but reacted to last night's level or well above.

A big decrease in the world's available supply led to considerable covering by shorts. Congestion in May wheat became acute. The close was strong, ⅜@⅞c net higher.

Better demand from interior points by consumers overcame the sagging tendency of corn. Lightness of receipts formed an element of strength. The market which opened ¼c off to ⅛c up, soon recovered, and in some cases showed a material advance.

Later the market suffered at times from heavy liquidation. The close was strong at the same as last night to ½@⅝c higher.

Liquidating sales kept oats more depressed than other grain. Traders were influenced largely by the improved conditions for seeding.

Provisions held steady with hogs. Business, however, was slow.

MOVEMENT DOWNWARD

Acute Weakness of Few Leading Stocks Cause of Liquidation.

Prices Rally One Point Near Close But Rise Not Held.

New York, April 14.—A decisive downward movement in stocks occurred today. Acute weakness of a few leading issues led to liquidation, and short selling elsewhere until the whole list became unsettled.

Houses with Washington connections received reports regarding the possibility of a serious crisis which were circulated through the street, and gave the bears a plausible reason for putting out stock on a larger scale than at any other time recently.

The rise in American stocks in London strengthened the home market at the opening, but this slight advantage was quickly lost. The decline continued without interruption through the morning and by noon a large number of stocks were 1 to 3 points lower.

Bonds were easy.

Heavy selling of Steel was resumed when trading began today and it sagged fractionally to 59. Transactions elsewhere were not large. Price changes were small and irregular, with a firmer tendency after the first few minutes.

Professional traders began to sell again after prices had improved slightly and by the end of the hour various issues were ruling a point or so under yesterday's close. Steel fell to 58½.

The downward movement halted while the market digested the effect of the Union Pacific dividend announcement. Heavy plunging on the short side in Steel later drove it down to 57⅞ and the general decline was resumed.

High priced stocks such as Union Pacific and Reading were foremost in the afternoon decline. Steel was unloaded in blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares.

The market closed heavy. Supporting orders were distributed on the announcement that the Atlantic fleet had been ordered to Tampico and prices rallied one point. Recoveries, however, were not fully held.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR A STRONG FEATURE

Good Showing Is Forecasted in Company's Next Annual Report.

With few exceptions mining stocks were weak at Boston today under the influence of the break on Wall Street. Liquidation was reported in some quarters, while buying power was limited.

Butte & Superior was exceptionally strong on the prediction that a profit of $600,000 will be shown in the company's forthcoming annual report. On the present basis of production, profits are said to be running about $100,000 monthly. The stock closed 63 cents up at $34.50. Alaska Gold was also strong, closing 50 cents up at $24. Liquidation in Granby continued, the issue closing $1 off at $84. Calumet & Arizona closed 25 cents off at $67; Franklin a shade off at $5.75; Greene-Cananea 25 cents off at $36.50; North Butte 25 cents off at $26.50, and Amalgamated Copper $1.38 down at $73.62.

Keating was the feature in the Duluth curb list. Good inquiry for the stock turned up from the West and several blocks changed hands at from $1.50 to $1.75. Alex. Scott sold at $5; Calumet & Corbin at 29 cents; Cliff at 45 cents, and Florence at 10 cents.

* * *

According to a wire received by Gay & Sturgis from New York: "Sales of first-hand electrolytic copper were made for European account today at slightly better than 14⅝c, although most of the big agencies abroad continued to ask 14¾c."

* * *

Advices from Boston today said: "Assays of ore from the vein recently encountered by Arizona Commercial on the thirteenth level shows 5.75 per cent copper. The vein was cut directly underneath the best ore on the twelfth level and is solid sulphide as good as that encountered on the upper level. The entire face of the cross-cut is in ore, and indications are that there is a good stopping width."

PAINTERS' STRIKE PARTLY SETTLED

Employes of Five of the Contractors Return to Work.

The strike of the painters, paper-hangers and interior decorators' union came partly to a close today when the strikers formerly employed by five of the contractors, returned to work. As each side maintains that no concessions have been made, it is difficult to ascertain the facts. The other contractors and their employes are still at outs.

"The situation has changed but little except that five contractors have taken back their men," said John A. Hogan of the Master Painters' association today. "I do not know what the terms of settlement were as each side maintains that no concessions have been made."

There will be a meeting of the master painters tonight at the office of the Builders' Exchange in the Lyceum building.

New Mining Sensation
ON THE
Cuyuna Iron Range
The iron property of Ver-Mes-Cuyuna Mining & Development company is situated in the very heart of the Cuyuna iron range. A year's drilling has proved up a large body of ore. The over-burden is the lightest yet encountered on the range. Mining will be cheap. The location is ideal and there are no transportation problems.
Results already secured at this mine fully warrant and demand further development work. To strengthen the company's treasury for that purpose, 25,000 shares of stock are offered for subscription at par, $1.00 a share.
This is the first stock offered the public since the company's organization was completed. It is a rare chance. Investigation is invited. Get some of this offering before it is all taken. Prospectus and any information desired on request.
